In the same case, the Court may, by order in the suit in which the decree has been made and not complied with, rescind the contract, either so far as regards the party in default, or altogether, as the justice of the case may require.

Rescission for mistake.

36. Rescission of a contract in writing[1] cannot be adjudged for mere mistake, unless the party against whom it is adjudged can be restored to substantially the same position as if the contract had not been made.

The word 'contract' in Ss. 35 and 38 is used in the sense of both executed and executory contracts i.e., transfers and promises. 40 M. 308=31 M. L.J. 575 (F.B.). Every sale-deed does constitute a contract. Where a contract is voidable or terminable by the plaintiff or where it becomes unlawful for causes not apparent on its face, and the defendant is more to blame than the plaintiff, it can be rescinded under S. 35. 27 A.L. C. 27=50 C. 639. Decree for specific performance—Delay in paying decree amount—Rescission, 47 B. 589=1923 B. 211. The delay of nearly five years prior to a suit for rescission of contract on the grounds of the defects in the title of plaintiff's vendors and onerous covenants is highly prejudicial to the defendants-vendors especially when the plaintiff was previously seeking to enforce the contract against his vendees notwithstanding the defects. 1930 S. 66. A decree for specific performance directed the payment by the plaintiff of the purchase-money into Court within three weeks. The plaintiff committed default and applied for extension of time after the expiry of the time allowed by the decree. Held the Court had the power to enlarge the time; and the power can be exercised on sufficient cause shown even if the application is made after the date fixed by the decree. 128 I.C. 875=3 L.W. 347. The words "in the same case" in the last sentence of S. 35. refer to cl. (c). 59 M.L.J. 351; 19 S.L.R. 281. Where the defendant, by taking advantage of the fiduciary position he occupied towards the plaintiff, got a contract in his favour and possessession of the property in pursuance thereof, he is bound when the contract, is set aside at the instance of the plaintiff, to account for mesne profits not merely from the date when the contract was avoided but from the date he got possession. 59 I.A. 147=7 luck. 64=62 M.L,J. 451 (P.C.).

Sec. 35 (c): SCOPE.—The right of rescission recognised in S. 35 (c) is not confined to a vendor, whether plaintiff or defendant, but is equally open to a purchaser, whether he appears in the action as plaintiff or defendant. 1933 M. 386=64 M.L.J. 536=56 M. 796.

Sec. 36.—S. 36 applies only to suits for rescission of contracts and not to a suit for refund of money advanced under a contract discovered subscquently to be void. 21 C.W.N. 404=39 I.C. 78. Where the plaintiff agreed to sell to the defendant land which was described as Government lease-hold tenure in perpetuity renewable at the expiration of every fifty years, the same having been renewed about a year ago, but it was on investigation found to be newly assessed land, held, the defendant was entitled to rescind the contract. 33 Bom.L.R. 1377.

37. A plaintiff instituting a suit for the specific performance of a contract in writing may pray in the alternative that, if the contract cannot be specifically enforced, it may be rescinded and delivered up to be cancelled; and the Court, if it refuses to enforce the contract specifically, may direct it to be rescinded and delivered up accordingly.

Alternative prayer for rescission in suit for specific performance.

38. On adjudging the rescission of a contract, the Court may require the party to whom such relief is granted to make any compensation to the other which justice may require.

Court may require party rescinding to do equity.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

39. Any person against whom a written instrument is void or voidable, who has reasonable apprehension that such instrument, if left outstanding, may cause him serious injury, may sue to have it adjudged void or voidable; and the Court may, in its discretion, so adjudge it and order it to be delivered up and cancelled.

When cancellation may be ordered.

If the instrument has been registered under the Indian Registration Act, the Court shall also send a copy of its decree to the officer in whose office the instrument has been so registered; and such officer shall note on the copy of the instrument contained in his books the fact of its cancellation.

NOTE.

S. 38—COMPLETED CONVEYANCE—RESCISSION OF. Rescission can be allowed not only of a contract of sale but also of a completed conveyance. A,I.R. 1942 Sind 81.

RESCISSION OF CONTRACT—CONDITION AS TO REPAYMENT OF BENEFIT—SCOPE AND EFFECT OF. Where a contract is voidable on account of its having been induced to be entered into by fraud or misrepresentation and the person at whose option it is voidable has received benefit under the contract, it is not avoided by return of the benefit so received but by the exercise of the option of the aggrieved party to rescind the contract. He has to make the payment because the contract is voided; the contract is not voided on condition of his making such payment. The Court in passing a decree in a suit by the aggrieved party for rescission of the contract cannot limit the right of the aggrieved pary to rescind the contract. But it could enable the other party to recover his money by execution of the very decree rather than by being compelled to bring a suit for its recovery; and in making such a direction for the repayment of the benefit obtained under the contract, the Court could specify a time before the expiration of which the other party could not proceed to execute the decree. Where in such a suit by the aggrieved party the Court passes a decree declaring the contract to be void and ordering it to be set aside subject to the aggrieved party paying to the other party the amount (benefit) received under the contract within a certain time, this does not indicate that it is the intention of the Court that the suit should stand dismissed if he fails to make the required payment within the specified time. But it can only mean that by virtue of the aggrieved person's success in his suit he is bound to pay to the other party the sum of money within the period of grace allowed, with the consequence that on his failure to make this payment, not that his suit shall fail altogether but that the other party can proceed to execute the decree against him for recovering the amount. 179 I.C. 206=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 408. See also 1939 Mad. 106=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 195.

Secs. 38 and 41.—The provisions of S. 38 can be invoked where a transaction is sought to be set aside on the ground of undue influence as it is only a species of fraud in equity. 33 I.C. 576=18 Bom.L.R. 27. Minor repudiating transaction has a duty to restore benefit received by him. 109 P.R. 1915=29 I.C. 804. See also 141 I.C. 152=1933 A. 372; 1933 A. 371; 68 I.C. 15=2 L.L.J. 184; 32 I.C. 804; 19 I.C. 755; 53 I.C. 65=15 N.L.R. 149; 53 I.C. 14=26 M.L.T. 245. Vendor being lunatic—Purchaser, rights of, to refund of consideration money paid—Equitable relief. 32 I.C. 804.

Sec. 39: SCOPE OF SECTION.—See 39 I.C. 912=125 P.R. 1917; 109 I.C. 408. The relief as to cancellation of an instrument is founded upon the administration of the protective justice for fear that the instrument may be vexatiously or injuriously used by the defendant against the plaintiff when the evidence to impeach it may be lost or that it may throw a cloud or suspicion over his title or of interest. S. 39 is based on this principle and before relief under that section can be granted three conditions have to be fulfilled. (1) the written instrument in question is either void or voidable as against the plaintiff; (2) the plaintiff may reasonably apprehend serious injury from the instrument being left outstanding; and (3) in view of all the circumstances of the case the Court considers it reasonable and proper to administer the protective and preventive justice asked for. The relief which the Court can grant is of a limited character, viz., (1) adjudging that the instrument is void or voidable, and (2) ordering it to be delivered up and cancelled. Mere speculation as to unknown and vague complications arising in the future can hardly be a ground for taking action under S. 39. 39 Bom.L.R. 1072=A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 37. See also 1940 Pat. 133.

Under S. 39, it is not necessary that a plaintiff seeking cancellation of a document should have been a party to it. 1938 A. M,L.J. 54. See also 28 I.C. 138 (as to what interest is sufficient to give right to bring a suit for cancellation). Void document—Need not be cancelled. 37 C.L.J. 499=1923 C. 362. Non-payment of and inadequacy of consideration are not sufficient to justify the cancellation of a deed of sale. 13 M. L.T. 521=19 I.C. 746. See also 31 I.C. 77; 42 M. 20=35 M.L.J. 740. The cancellation of an instrument is not compulsory in a suit for possession of property conveyed by the instrument. 170 P.W.R. 1911=12 I.C. 140. Certain cases falling under S. 39 are simply declaratory suits, while others are declaratory suits in which consequential relief is claimed. Where the suit was for declaration and for having a document cancelled, held, that consequential relief was prayed for and that Court-fee was payable on that basis. 6 O.W.N. 885=1929 O. 491.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—A suit for declaring an endorsement on a mortgage deed to be a forgery, being in fact a suit for its cancellation, is one of the kind under S. 39. 39 A. 103= 37 I.C. 80. A person suing for recovery of property which he has transferred to another under a deed of exchange which is not binding on him need not have the deed cancelled. 33 I.C. 441=17 Bom.L.R. 1137 (Note). A person sued another for cancellation of an instrument which was alleged to be a forged document. The instrument purported to transfer lands of the plaintiff to the defendant. Before the suit the plaintiff had transferred his interests in the land to a third person. It was contended that the plaintiff's suit was not maintainable under such circumstances, because he had no interest left in the property. Held, that a man who has parted with the property in respect of which a void or voidable instrument exists can sue to get the instrument cancelled, the test for the maintainability of the suit being reasonable apprehension of serious injury. 41 C.W.N. 312=1936 C. 714. A plaintiff seeking to avoid the statute of limitation on the ground of fraud must, besides setting forth the facts constituting the fraud, state the time when it was discovered. 35 I.C. 284=20 C. W.N. 638. Where nothing had been done to carry the fraud into effect at the time a suit for cancellation of a fraudulent transfer was brought, the plaintiff is not debarred from asking for the relief he claims. 53 I.C. 454= 126 P.R. 1919. A party to a contract can rescind it if it has been based on misrepresentation. 24 I.C. 193=42 C. 28. Declaratory decree—Principle to be followed—Cancellation of instrument. 14 I.C. 81. Declaratory suit by person out of possession—Maintainability of. See 109 I.C. 408.

COURT-FEE.—See 39 C.W.N. 250.

Secs. 39 and 42.—Suit for declaration that the plaintiff was not liable to pay any sums on the basis of entries in the defendant's book is not maintainable without seeking consequential relief. 1923 L. 491. Under S. 39 a plaintiff may bring a suit for a declaration that a document is void, without seeking its cancellation, and if he does so, it is open to the Court, though there is no prayer for it, to order the document to be delivered up and cancelled. Under the wording of the section the Court may order cancellation, though there is no specific prayer for it. 1939 P.W. N. 843=A.I.R. 194. Pat. 133. Suit for declaration—No further relief asked—Effect. 10 I. C. 1000=8 A.L.J. 462. A person who alleges a property to be waqf, for the sale of which a decree is passed, need not get it set aside if he is no party to it, but may ask for a declaration that it should not affect the property, 18 P.R. 1913=19 I. C. 219. Mortgage—Non-payment of consideration—Effect—Remedy of mortgagor. 42 M. 20=35 M.L.J. 740. Absence of title of mortgagor discoverd after mortgagee's obtaining possession will not entitle mortgagee to decree for cancellation during continuance of mortgage. 80 I. C. 62=1925 O. 273. Under S. 41, Court can call upon the minor to refund the consideration he has received before his prayer for cancellation of sale is granted. 43 I. C. 908=7 L. W. 124. For a suit to cancel a registered instrument, which cannot take effect till after it is registered, limitation commences from date of registration and not from date of execution. 39 I.C. 456=4 O.L.J. 108.

What instruments may be partially cancelled.

40. Where an instrument is evidence of different rights or different obligations, the Court may, in a proper case, cancel it in part and allow it to stand for the residue.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B, who endorses it to C, by whom it appears to be endorsed to D, who endorses it to E. C's endorsement is forged. C is entitled to have such endorsement cancelled, leaving the bill to stand in other respects.

Power to require party for whom instrument is cancelled to make compensation.

41. On adjudging the cancellation of an instrument, the Court may require the party to whom such relief is granted to make any compensation to the other which justice may require.

NOTES.

Sec. 40.—Applicability—Declaration that deed is not operative against plaintiff so far as it purported to transfer right of absolute ownership in land—Suit for. See 116 I.C. 284.

Sec. 41.—[See also notes under S. 39] S. 41 is not limited in its operation to void instruments, but applies to both void and voidable instruments. A Court setting aside an alienation made by a minor at his instance has power under S. 41 to order a refund of the consideration received by him as a condition to his recovering possession of the alienated property. Where the alienee has chosen to advance the money to the minor with knowledge of the minority, it would not be proper to order a refund. But where an innocent purchaser or alienee has advanced money to the minor without any knowledge of the minority, an order for refund can properly be made against the minor, even though there has been no misrepresentation on the part of the minor as to his age. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 203=48 L.W. 604=A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 106=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 195. See also 1938 Rang 408; 1937 Oudh. 521. Where a minor who had fraudulently misrepresented his age seeks to set aside the transaction on the ground of his minority, S. 41 gives the Court power to direct refund of consideration received by the minor as a condition for the cancellation of the deed. 54 M. 112=1930 M. 945=60 M.L.J. 117; 141 I. C. 152=1933 A. 372. See also 61 C. 1075; 1933 A. 371. It may in addition make him restore any other benefit which he has derived therefrom. This power is not confined to cases in which the minor holds the property or the goods to be restored. The discretion of the Court under S. 41 must be exercised in every case according to the circumstances of that case. Where a minor, representing himself to be a major, obtained money by executing a mortgage, and there is no evidence that the money so obtained was spent on illegitimate or immoral objects, justice requires that the Court, on cancelling the mortgage, should direct the minor to refund the principal of the mortgage-money to the mortgagee. As the liability of the minor under S. 41 arises not ex contractu but on equitable considerations, the mortgagee could not claim interest on the loan because the liability to pay interest would arise on one of the stipulations of the contract. 165 I. C. 523=1936 O.W.N. 1167=1937 O. 170. See also 1939 Rang. L. R. 543=1939 Rang. 599; 161 I. C. 522=43 L. W. 589=1936 M. 140. (Mesne profits may also be allowed). Whether under S. 41, Specific Relief Act or S. 65 of the Contract Act, compensation can legally be given when an agreement entered into by a minor is found to be void. It cannot, however, be held that in every case where a sale-deed or mortgage-deed is set aside on the ground of the minority of the executant, compensation should be given to the vendee or mortgagee. Where there was no fraud or misrepresentation on the part of the minor, the Court will not exercise its discretion in favour of the vendee or mortgagee. 1937 O.W.N. 1012 =A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 521. See also (1939) 2 M. L. J. 195. No compensation can be allowed on cancellation of a contract which is without consideration. 171 I.C. 96=1937 O.W.N. 1034 =A.I.R. 1938 Oudh 14. Where an alienation by a Mahomedan mother is set aside, the Court may, having regard to the fact that the price was devoted to pay off debts binding on the shares of the minor sons impeaching the sale, grant a decree to the sons conditionally on their refunding the consideration. 131 I.C. 153 =1931 M. 468. See also (1939) 2 M.L.J. 463. [In view of these more recent rulings the older cases mentioned below are not to be considered good law.] Section applies to proceeding, in which the plaintiff is seeking the cancellation of an instrument and does not apply to a case where an instrument is void; and therefore a nullity. 55 C. 712=1928 C. 537. A minor who repudiates a sale effected by him on the ground that he was a minor on the date of sale, cannot be compelled to repay the purchase-money, as a contract by minor is void ab initio. A Court of equity cannot say that it is equitable to compel a person to pay any money in respect of a transaction which as against that person the Legislature has declared to be void. 69 I.C. 543=1924 L. 294 [30 C. 539 (P.C.), Foll.] See also 7 L. 35=1926 L. 170; 9 L. 701=30 Punj.L.R. 60; 23 L.W. 521=1926 M. 607. But see cases cited, infra. But there may be cases where the minor who seeks to recover the property sold is bound in equity to refund the purchase-money under S. 41 as a condition precedent to obtaining a decree for possession. 75 I.C. 261=1923 L. 510; 25 O.C. 237=1922 O. 271; 1924 R. 288; 1928 L. 609 (F. B.); 6 Mys.L.J. 196 (F.B.). A minor plaintiff praying for relief must do equity if he seeks equity and and the Court may therefore under S. 41 require him to restore any property in his possession which he had obtain d, by his misrepresentation. Such compensation does not extend

OF DECLARATORY DECREES.

Discretion of Court as to declaration of status or right.

42. Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the Court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and, the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief:

Bar to such declaration.

Provided that no Court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.

Sec. 42: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY. See 38 M. 1162; 28 M. 57; 8 A. 31. Nature of suit contemplated by section. 110 I.C. 386. See also 9 Mys.L.J. 49. The conditions which would justify the Court in granting a declaration under S. 42 are: (1) the plaintiff must be entitled to a legal character after the time of the suit, or (2) to a right to property, (3) the defendant should have denied these, or be interested in denying this character or right, and (4) the plaintiff should not be in a position to ask for relief consequential upon the declaration sought. Even if the plaintiff has had a present existing right, no cause of action accrues to him until there is some infringement or threatened infringement of his right, in other words, a cloud must be cast on his title before he can ask for its removal. He must allege and prove hostility on the part of the defendant, for no Court will remove on merely speculative grounds. 39 Bom.L.R. 1072=1938 Bom. 37. A mere apprehension existing in the mind of the plaintiff does not give him any right to sue under S. 42 of the Act. The fact that the defendants in their written pleas did not concede the plaintiff's alleged legal character also does not have retrospective effect so as to create a cause of action for the suit. 1935 Pesh. 110 (2). Where the suit was in respect of alleged rights arising out of a contract, it cannot form the subject-matter of a declaratory suit. 127 I.C. 330=32 Bom.L.R. 207=1930 B. 331. A mere declaratory decree should not be granted where the grant of the decree would be a useless affair. 87 I.C. 182=1925 A. 745; 50 C.L.J. 257=1929 C. 422; 1933 O. 423; 103 I.C. 313=1927 P. 257. A suit for mere declaration that the plaintiff is the legitimate son of the defendant, is not maintainable when the plaintiff has no present interest in the property of his father and the father can do whatever he likes with the property during his lifetime. The mere fact that the defendant stated that the plaintiff was his illegitimate son gives him no cause of action. But see 1936 L. 135; 1936 L. 858; 38 P.L.R. 455. A suit for a declaration that the defendant would be liable to contribute to the plaintiff all moneys which the plaintiff as the defendant's surety would be liable to pay does not come under S. 42 as it affects only the pecuniary relationship between the parties to the contract. 39 P.L.R. 205=1937 L. 25. Where in a suit for a declaration that a decree based on a solenama was void on the ground of fraud, the Court negativing fraud granted the plaintiff a declaration that the solenama embodying the terms of a lease not being registered was not binding upon him under S. 49 of the Registration Act. Held, that the declaration granted was virtually a statement of the legal consequence of non-registration under S. 49 of the Registration Act of the lease embodied in the compromise decree and that such a declaration was not contemplated by S. 42 of the Specific Relief Act. 44 C.W.N. 1063. The granting of a declaration is discretionary and no Court should grant a declaration which is merely a part settlement of the dispute in question and is obtained solely to give the party getting it a tactful advantage in his future litigation. 175 I.C. 18=1937 Rang. 427. Where a chit holder or subscriber in chit assigns his rights in the chits with the consent of the stake-holder, the assignee is entitled to sue the holder and get a declaration that he is entitled to such of the rights of his assignor, of course subject to the liabilities of his assignor, as had actually accrued on the date of his assignment. S. 42, Specific Relief Act, is no bar to such a declaration. 44 L.W. 704=1936 M. 989. For a suit for declaration there may be repeated causes of action and each new cause would give a fresh right to sue. 119 I.C. 502=1929 A. 331. Declaration against foreign subjects—Maintainability of suit in British India—Discretion of Courts—Mode of exercise. See 30 L.W. 691. Courts have jurisdiction to grant declaratory relief, even where on the pleadings of the defendant, no case for the grant of such relief is made out, if the attitude of the defendant and the evidence put forward by him have the effect of casting a cloud on the defendant's title. In such a case the defendant can be held to be interested in denying the plaintiff's title for purposes of S. 42. 31 Punj.L.R. 578=1930 L. 803. See 39 C. 704; 18 C.W.N. 106; 23 A.L.J. 219; 1940 Pat. 247. A suit under S. 42 can be maintained only when the plaintiff claims to be entitled to any legal character or to any right as to any property which has been denied by the defendants. The jurisdiction to give a declaratory judgment should be exercised sparingly with great care and jealousy and with extreme caution. 32 C.W.N. 1084. A declaratory decree may be given in a suit to contest an unnecessary alienation if the suit is brought honestly on behalf of a minor reversioner to protect his interest. 6 L.L.J. 389=85 I.C. 284; 109 I.C. 585; 1939 A.M.L.J. 162. But it would not be proper to pass such a decree in a case in which the minor is merely a figurehead and the real plaintiff is the alienor himself who has caused the suit to be instituted for the purpose of undoing his own act. 109 I.C. 585. As the Act does not apply to the Sonthal Parganas, there is nothing in the law apart from that Act which would entitle the Court to grant a declaratory decree. 1922 P. 42. A suit for declaration that a certain award is null and void is not covered by S. 42 but is covered by S. 39. 52 I.A. 265=89 I.C. 773=1925 P.C. 216 (P.C.) Courts not to grant negative declarations. See 6 R. 291. For the purpose of deciding whether a suit is for a declaration authorised under S. 42 the substance and not the form must be regarded. Where a plaintiff asserting his mortgage rights in sixteen annas of the properties mortgaged to him asks for a declaration that the defendant has no proprietary right in the same, the suit is in substance for a declaration of his mortgage rights in the property and comes within the purview of S. 42 and is, therefore, maintainable. In seeking for a declaration which negatives the defendant's title to the properties, the plaintiff in substance asserts his own right and seeks for a declaration in respect thereto. 45 C.W.N. 470. See also 1942 O.A. 404 ; 1940 Pat. 502 (Declaration as to contingent rights). Where in a suit a person asks for a declaration that the record-of-rights is wrong and prays that the said record might be corrected, the suit falls under S. 42 of the Specific Relief Act. 42 C.W.N. 96=1937 Cal. 745. A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff's share in a certain tauzi should correspond to a certain proportion of the original estate cannot be held to be obnoxious to S. 42 on the ground that there is no prayer for a cancellation or correction of the entry in Land Registration Register. The Civil Court has no jurisdiction over the Land Registration Department of the Collector at all, though when moved in the right way it would give a declaration regarding the shares of parties or even a declaration that certain entry in the Collector's register is wrong. But the Civil Courts will not direct the entries in the Collector's register to be corrected and a plaintiff is not bound to ask for any declaration other than a declaration as to the extent of his share. 20 P. L.T. 136=1938 P.W.N. 631=1938 Pat. 524. As to applicability of section to arbitration, see 50 C. 1=49 I.A. 366 (P.C.). Where an award of arbitrators has not been filed in Court, it is competent to the plaintiff to institute a suit for a declaration that the award is not binding on him. S. 14 of the Arbitration Act is no bar to the maintainability of the suit. 4 L.L.J. 12 =1922 L. 26 (1). See also 35 P.L.R. 136= 1934 L. 235. Where persons interested are not parties—Suit under the section does not lie. 1923 N. 50. Admission of title by defendant, effect of. See 109 I.C. 522=1928 N. 252. Entries in revenue records as tenants for a long time raise a presumption of correctness which has to be rebutted; but tenants are not entitled to a declaration under S. 42 against their landlords. 4 L.L.J. 207=1922 L. 163. See also 1938 Pesh. 28=176 I.C. 486 (Mutation of name —Correction of record); 1938 A.L.J. 235=1938 All. 242; 42 C.W.N. 96=1937 Cal. 745. S. 42 does not apply to a suit for a declaration that the plaintiff will be entitled to contribution from the defendants if and when the occasion arises. 1 P. 1=3 P.L.T. 793. O. 21, R. 63, C.P. Code, gives a special right of suit to party whose claim is rejected under O. 21, r. 58, and in such a case the proviso to S. 42 does not apply 4 Pat.L.T. 409=1923 P. 556. See also 1942 O. A. 404; 47 L.W. 724=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 803; 1938 Lah. 574=40 P.L.R. 407. Suit to declare that property is judgment-debtor's and attachable and saleable is covered by S. 42. 1938 O.W.N. 599=1938 Oudh 165. Scope—Creditor attaching debtor's property before judgment—Subsequent decree against debtor in suit by another creditar—Attachment of same property in execution of latter decree and sale —Suit by first creditor to declare latter decree fraudulent and collusive and to declare that latter creditor had no right to attach the property—Maintainability—Injunction—Grant of —Conditions. See I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 302=41 Bom.L.R. 384=1939 Bom. 209. It is essential to bear in mind the distinction between a substantive right and right which is conferred by rules of procedure. The right of a judgment-creditor to attach the property of his judgment-debtor is a mere procedural right, conferred by the Code of Civil Procedure. It is not a substantive right as to the property, and therefore cannot give rise to a right of suit under S. 42. Hence a creditor cannot sue under S. 42 for a bare declaration that a transfer has been made by his judgment-debtor fraudulently with intent to defeat or delay his creditors. (7 Rang. 477, Over.) 1940 Rang.L.R. 59=A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 332 (F.B). It is not in the discretion of the Court to declare or refuse to declare a Municipal election invalid. If the case is proved the Court must pass a decree in favour of the person seeking the invalidity of the election. Evidently a suit for the purpose is maintainable. 63 I.C. 6 (P.). As to grant of relief in election cases under this section, see 12 P. 209=1933 P. 155; 37 C.W.N. 122; 115 I.C. 262; 1937 A.L.J. 973=1937 All 585. In a suit to restrain the defendant Association from preventing the plaintiffs who are its members from having access to the proceedings books for the purpose of perusal and inspection and from preventing the plaintiff from making extracts from these books, it is doubtful if any declaration of the right of the plaintiffs to inspect and to take copies could be obtained. A declaration, if at all possible, could only be obtained if a case for a mandatory injunction is established. 42 C.W.N. 161=A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 89.

CONSTRUCTION OF SECTION.—S. 42 prohibits a suit for pure declaration without relief. But it does not compel the plaintiff to sue for all the reliefs that could possibly be granted, nor does it debar him from obtaining a relief which he wants unless at the same time he seeks for a relief which he does not want. 81 I. C. 2=1925 C. 233. A suit was brought for a declaration against the Secretary of State that the declaration made by the Local Government under S. 8, U. P. Court of Wards Act, was ultra vires. The Court of Wards which was in possession of property was not made a party and no claim for possession was made. It was contended by the Secretary of State that the further relief for possession having been omitted, the suit was barred by S. 42. Held, that the suit was not barred as plaintiff was not bound to join the Court of Wards as a party and claim possession. He could bring a suit against the Secretary of State alone for declaration, the only relief which he could claim against Government. 1937 A. 569.

SECTION NOT EXHAUSTIVE.—S. 42 is not exhaustive of the declaratory suits entertainable by Courts. 39 M.L.J. 319=59 I.C. 245 (2); 39 M. 80 (82)=27 M.L.J. 634; 26 I.A. 16=22 M. 270 (282); 43 M. 410; 1933 A. 488=1933 A.L.J. 673 (F.B.), following 22 M. 270 (P.C.) and 35 A. 487 (P.C.). The illustrations to the section no doubt refer to certain well-known classes of suits; but there is no justification for limiting the scope of the section by reference to the illustrations. In dealing with declaratory suits, therefore, the Courts have in recent years laid stress not so much on the question of their maintainability as on that of the propriety and utility of granting relief by way of declaration, 59 M. 1052=43 L.W. 764=1936 M. 605=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 41. Where the plaintiff sued for a declaration that an order passed by the Board of Revenue was without jurisdiction, held, that the suit was maintainable, even though it did not strictly fall under S. 42, because the plaintiff was not suing as a person entitled to any legal character or to any right as to any property. 58 M.L.J. 698. But it has been recently held by the Rangoon High Court that the Courts have no power to grant merely declaratory decree apart from S. 42: 1928 R. 143. British Indian Courts have no general powers to make a declaratory decree outside the limits formulated by S. 42 and the section cannot be utilised with the object of enunciating a truism. 1931 A. 83=53 A. 316.

DISCRETION OF COURT.—It is always in the discretion of the Court to grant or refuse a declaratory decree. 45 A. 311=21 A.L.J. 168 =1923 A. 287. See also 16 Pat.L.T. 236=1935 P. 256; 8 Luck. 477=1933 O. 207; 1933 O. 423. The discretion has to be exercised on certain well-recognized principles and with reference to the varying circumstances of each case. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the circumstances in which the discretion should or should not be exercised. 1934 A. 469; 39 L.W. 510=1934 M. 293; 56 A. 293=1934 A. 176 (declaration with conditions). 1930 L. 728; 1929 P. 433; 1929 O. 292. Where the grant of a declaration would not be effective and would be useless, the Court in its discretion should not make. It is well settled that under S. 42 of the Specific Relief Act a Court would not make a declaration of an abstract right exclusive of practical utility especially when that declaration cannot or may not be productive of any benefit to the party seeking or obtaining the declaration. A declaration that a licence should have been renewed by a Municipality for the year 1936-1937 is perfectly useless when made in 1942 and the Court will therefore refuse to grant it. 21 Pat. 449. To grant a declaratory decree which is nothing more than a stepping stone for further litigation and is of no practical effect is not a proper exercise of the discretion. 20 A.L.J 557=44 A. 622=1922 A. 349. The declaratory relief being in the discretion of the Court, it should not be granted in anticipation of contingency which may not arise. Therefore, a mortgagee, who has not obtained a simple money decree under O. 34, R. 6, C.P. Code, is not entitled to a declaratory relief that a deed of transfer executed by the mortgagor in respect of certain property not mortgaged by him is void being in fraud of creditors including himself. 152 I. C. 360=1934 A. 1064. In a suit in respect of a security bond it is not competent to the plaintiff to claim a declaration that a transfer by the defendant of certain decree not covered by the bond is null and void as against him and that any decree which he might obtain in the present suit would be executable against the said decree. 1942 A. 104=1941 A.W.R. (H.C.) 389. Discretion of Court—Proper persons not parties to a suit in which declaration is sought—Declaration not to be granted. 42 M L.J. 359=1922 M. 97. See also 149 I.C. 93=1934 A. 770. Courts are not ordinarily prepared to grant such relief where it would only be by way of anticipation, or where the main heads of complaint have failed. 78 I.C. 981=1924 N. 387. See also 16 Luck 742. Object of declaration being to affect the decision of Revenue Court in a pending suit—Declaration should be refused—Jurisdiction. 89 I.C. 1013 =23 A.L.J. 941 (F.B.).

EXERCISE OF DISCRETION—DUTY OF COURT —A declaration which would be wholly futile would not be granted. 9 Pat.L.T. 210=106 I. C. 423. Court will not make declaration of an abstract right exclusive of practical utility, especially when that declaration may not be productive of any benefit to the party obtaining the declaration. 103 I.C. 313=1927 P. 286; 1933 Oudh 423 (mere declaration of correctness or otherwise of electoral roll when election is over.) See also 1938 A.M.L.J 33. Where the right claimed has never been denied by the defendant, it is improper to grant a declaration. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 21=71 M.L.J. 611. Though a Court in its discretion can refuse to give a declaratory decree and can also impose certain conditions, yet the discretion should be guided by judicial principles and well-recognized equitable considerations. 1938 A.L.J. 235=A. I.R. 1938 All. 242. In cases, where no temporary injunction maintaining the status quo ante is or can be granted, and the consequential relief in the shape of a mandatory injunction is denied, the Court should be very careful in framing the declaration it makes in favour of the plaintiff. Nothing should be declared which does not strictly speaking come within the scope of the suit, and the effect of which might be to embarrass other parties and complicate other transactions which are not before the Court. 42 C.W.N. 774=67 C.L.J. 143. Suit for declaration of right to appoint a trustee is maintainable. 49 A. 435=1923 A. 257=25 A.L.J. 329. So also suit as to plaintiff's status as adopted son. 1933 N. 292. In matters of municipal election, a mere rate-payer who is not a voter cannot sue. 31 C.W.N. 926=103 I.C. 890=1927 C. 704. A Court must not dismiss a suit filed under S. 42 on the ground that a mere declaration will not suffice without taking evidence and going into the facts. 82 I.C. 851 =1925 C. 470. In a suit for a declaration, the Court ought to be satisfied that the plaintiff has a valid and subsisting interest in the property in respect of which the declaration is asked for. 78 I.C. 467=1924 P. 706. If in the exercise of its discretion a Court of first instance awards a declaratory decree under S. 42, such a decree cannot, no doubt, be reversed in appeal simply because the discretion has been improperly exercised. But this does not mean that even in cases where the discretion has been exercised wholly arbitrarily and in a manner grossly inconsistent with judicial principles the Court of appeal would have no power to interfere. 44 C.W.N. 1063.

CAUSE OF ACTION.—After a cause of action has arisen, if the plaintiff's title is admitted by his opponent in clear terms, the admission operates to keep their right of suit alive and in time, and cannot destroy the same. A cause of action does not disappear by the admission which the plaintiff's opponent makes, while the right of suit continues in existence. 109 I.C. 522= 1928 N. 252. Verbal denial of title, also constitutes cause of action. 1928 N. 16=104 I.C. 803. S. 42 gives a remedy to a person against all persons who not only claim an interest adverse to his own, but against all those who may do so and it is intended that all such claims must once and for all be determined in one suit. 1928 M.W.N. 98=1928 M. 489. Suit against University to declare candidate to have passed in an examination does not lie—Neither declaration nor injunction is open. 23 A.L.J. 219= 47 A. 434. Where a minor induces another to advance money by mortgage of his property, on a fraudulent misrepresentation as to his age, he can sue for a declaration that the mortgage is void provided he returns the exact sum received at the time of contract. 19 A.L.J. 578=62 I.C. 258. Minor —Decree against in respect of property—Gross negligence of guardian—Suit to declare decree void—Maintainability without prayer for possession or injunction. See 40 Bom.L.R. 127. Where a decree is passed for the sale of property alleged to be jointly held by minors and guardian ad litem, the minors, whether or not they have a right to the property, are entitled to a declaration that the decree which has been passed against them is a nullity because guardian ad litem's interest being adverse, they were not properly represented. For the purpose of such a suit, it is immaterial whether or not they have a right to possess the land and consequently it is entirely unnecessary for them to ask the Court to restore them to possession. 180 I.C. 489=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 468. Suit for a declaration to establish plaintiff's right to obtain payment under a cheque or for a declaration that the cheque was endorsed to him for valuable consideration. At first the Bank on which the cheque was drawn was made a party defendant, but the trial Court struck off its name as an unnecessary party. Held, that, after striking off the Bank's name, the suit became one for mere declaration, such a suit was sustainable and so ad valorem Court-fee was not necessary. 119 I. C. 158= 1929 M. 572. Suit for declaration of right of Mahomedans to kill cow—Prayer for injunction against intruding Hindus—Suit is maintainable. 1930 A.L.J. 875=1930 A. 753. Unless it is ascertained or definitely alleged on substantial grounds, that the assets realized or to be realized in execution of decrees of rival decree-holders would be insufficient to discharge in full the claims of all the decree-holders under S. 73, C. P. Code, no decree-holder has a right to maintain a suit to have the decree of his rival declared void on the ground that it was fraudulently obtained and to ask the Court to grant an injunction restraining the defendant from executing his decree against the common judgment-debtor or his property. 1933 N. 214. See also I.L.R. The proviso to S. 42 is no bar to a suit for declaration of title to lands in possession of tenants and lessees. 63 I. C. 685=14 S.L.R. 137. Where notwithstanding a sale by him of his property a plaintiff sues for a mere declaration that he was the owner of the property covered by the sale, such a suit would be maintainable, if the sale was not a real transaction. He need not ask the sale to be set aside, for there is no real sale. The property is where it was. But when once a third party's interest is affected, the transaction becomes something other than unreal and the transaction is not a nullity and has to be set aside. 1941 Nag. 174. Where it is not proved that the plaintiff could have sought any relief other than a mere declaration, his declaratory suit is not barred by S. 42. 1941 O. A. (Supp.) 894=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1101. obtains a promissory note in his name and subsequently sues on the note and gets a decree, a suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is the actual decree-holder and that the person was merely acting as his agent in the case, is competent. Such a suit is not barred by S. 9 or O. 47, C. P. Code. 1931 R. 24. Where the plaintiff has made certain payment which the defendants were liable to pay and brings a suit for re-imbursement and for a declaration of his right to re-imbursement in the future, held, that there was no cause of action for a declaration in respect of a future right of indemnity under S. 42. 26 Bom.L.R. 678=1924 B. 470. Where one of the defendants is in collusion with the plaintiff and the suit against him is brought merely for the purpose of assisting to ground the suit against another defendant and the suit against such other defendant is dismissed, an equitable relief by way of declaration will not be granted to the plaintiff against the colluding defendant. 179 I.C. 956=1939 Sind. 36. Mortgagee to pay off pr or mortgage—No proper attestation—Suit for declaration of charge will lie. 45 B. 597=23 Bom. L.R. 84.

LEGAL CHARACTER AND STATUS.—Per Nasim Ali, J.—The words "legal character" in S. 42 are wide enough to include the status of a person. In order to entitle the plaintiff to bring a suit under this section, it is not necessary that the defendant should actually deny the plaintiff's legal character. If the defendant is interested to deny the plaintiff's legal character, plaintiff may come to Court for a declaration that he or she is entitled to the legal character. 46 C.W.N. 465. A Court will not grant a bare declaratory relief that the plaintiff is the nearest male reversioner during the lifetime of the widow or other heiress. 20 A.L.J. 282=1922 A. 100: 1933 R. 157 : 9 P.L.T. 210. (a) A is lawfully in possession of certain land. The inhabitants of a neighbouring village claim a right of way across the land. A may sue for a declaration that they are not entitled to the right so claimed.

(b) A bequeaths his property to B, C and D, "to be equally divided amongst all and each of them, if living at the time of my death, then amongst their surviving children." No such children are in existence. In a suit against A's executor, the Court may declare whether B, C and D took the property absolutely, or only for their lives, and it may also declare the interests of the children before their rights are vested.

(c) A covenants that, if he should at any time be entitled to property exceeding one lakh of rupees, he will settle it upon certain trusts. Before any such property accrues, or any persons entitled under the trusts are ascertained, he institutes a suit to obtain a declaration that the covenant is void for uncertainty. The Court may make the declaration.

(d) A alienates to B property in which A has merely a life interest. The alienation is invalid as against C, who is entitled as reversioner. The Court may in a suit by C against A and B declare that C is so entitled.

(e) The widow of a sonless Hindu alienates part of the property of which she is in possession as such. The person presumptively entitled to possess the property if he survive her may, in a suit against the alienee, obtain a declaration that the alienation was made without legal necessity and was therefore void beyond the widow's lifetime.

(f) A Hindu widow in possession of property adopts a son to her deceased husband. The person presumptively entitled to possession of the property on her death without a son may, in a suit against the adopted son, obtain a declaration that the adoption was invalid.

A co-sharer professed to grant a lease of the entire interest in a property of which he held a share only, had the draft of the kabuliyat made, agreed to give an amalnama or authority to the lessee to take possession of the property and received the full selam stipulated from the lessee and accepted rent. The other co-sharers refusing to execute the kabuliyat, the co-sharer refused possession of his share. Lessee sued for amalnama and possession. Held, that the suit, was not for specific performance of a contract and thus coming under S. 14, 15 and 16, but was for a declaration and consequential relief to which the plaintiffs were entitled. 33 C.W.N. 314=1929 Cal. 380. Where the defendant obtained a declartion that a certain wakfnama was invalid and possession of the properties which he claimed as his own, a suit for a mere declaration that the aforesaid wakfnama was valid is not competent without a prayer for consequential relief, e.g., joint possession or restraining the defendant from diverting the properties. That no consequential relief within the terms of S. 92 of the C. P. Code, is appropriate in the case, primarily because the section, in so far as it pre-supposes the existence of a trust, is not applicable to a suit for a declaration that there is a trust and secondly because, reliefs besides those enumerated in S. 92 are not inconceivable. Remedies open to the plaintiff in such a case indicated. 34 C.W.N. 1129=1930 Cal. 787. If a Mahomedan, anxious to protect a wakf estate, is prepared, as against third parties, to establish that they have wakf property in their hands, a declaration to this effect may certainly be given upon the terms set forth in S. 42. If, however, the plaintiff does not profess to establish that he had any grievance against the defendants, he is not entitled to a declaration that certain trusts for the benefit of the Muhammadan community —in which the transferees may not be in the least interested—were validly created. Still less he is entitled, in a suit for a mere declaration of the validity of the wakf to have an issue decided about the validity of the transfers to the defendants. 130 I.C. 369=34 C.W.N. 1=1930 Cal. 787. See also 1933 Oudh 555; 1936 Lah. 233. Where in a suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is a gaddanashin of a certain khankah, the allegation by the plaintiff that he is already in possession of the properties attached to the khankah is not disputed by the defendant who merely claims to be in joint possession with him, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to include a prayer for possession but he must however include a prayer for ejectment of the defendant. It is open to him to sue also for an injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with his rights as a manager of the khankah. 40 P.L.R. 516=1938 Lah. 616. See also 71 M.L.J. 611=1937 M. 21.

that the Collector's action in appointing the defendant was wrongful, the Government not being impleaded as a party, Held, that the Court will refuse to pass a decree which the Government may in its discretion either accept or disregard; that the Government, a proper party, not having been impleaded, the Court will refuse to exercise a sound discretion by refusing to pass a decree. 39 L.W. 510=1934 Mad. 293 Where a right alleged on behalf of the plaintiff as owner of a property is denied on behalf of the defendant, it cannot be said that the plaintiff is not clothed with the legal character or title entitling him to ask for a declaration; and the Court may grant a declaration; and the Court may grant a declaration in its discretion; 63 Cal. 108=63 C.L.J. 210=40 C.W.N. 916. Where the right claimed has never been denied by the defendant, it is improper to grant a declaration. 71 M.L.J. 611. A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is a director of a certain company and for the protection of his rights qua director, is competent. But if such a suit also challenges the appointment of the other directors and seeks to remove them from the directorate, it is wrongly constituted to that extent. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 560. Where in a suit by the managing director who was removed by the company by a special resolution for a declaration that he is still the managing director it was found that the resolutions removing him from office were ultra vires. Held, that the managing director was entitled to the declaration and the same could not be refused on the ground that the company might subsequently remove him from office by a valid resolution. 190 I.C. 819=1940 Lah. 243.

TRADE MARK.—Every one has the right to use any kind of trade mark he likes, so long as he does not infringe the right of others already acquired. Hence, where a plaintiff does not make out a case that the right to the use of a certain trade mark is the "exclusive right of property" which he has acquired to the exclusion of every one else, a relief to declare that the plaintiff has got the right to use that trade mark cannot be granted. (6 R. 291, Rel.) 143 I.C. 840=1933 A. 495. Where the effect of negativing a right claimed by the defendant is to directly or indirectly affirm a right claimed by the plaintiff in common with others, a suit for declaration that the defendant does not possess such right is maintainable. However the relief may be worded, the test is always the same, namely, whether the right claimed by the defendant implies a denial of the plaintiff's "right as to any property" or to some legal character. 143 I.C. 840=1933 A. 495.

PROVISO—"FURTHER RELIEF."—The plaintiff cannot sue for a mere declaration when a consequential relief is open to him. 2 P. 391=4 Pat.L.T. 675 (49 I.C. 355; 2 I.A. 169, Ref.); 103 I.C. 29. See also 141 I.C. 409; 1933 P. 259; 13 L. 491=1932 L. 636; 1933 M. 503=144 I.C. 602=38 L.W. 194; 68 M.L.J. 229; 14 L.R. 549 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 715; 145 I.C. 1003=1933 O. 517; 1933 A. 958; 1928 R. 134; 1927 L. 788; 1927 L. 128. The word "relief" in the proviso to S. 42 connotes something which is needed by the person seeking the relief; it means more than "right". If the further relief is necessary to the relief which the plaintiff needs and seeks in the Court then he is not entitled to have a mere declaration. A suit for a declaration that certain property is the property of a joint family consisting of the plaintiff and the defendants and that the plaintiff has a certain share in it, the plaintiff alleging that he is in possession of the property and that one of the defendants is holding out that it is not joint family property, is not barred by proviso to S. 42; although no further relief by way of partition is claimed, the relief of partition in the circumstances of the case is not a further relief, but is merely an entirely different right which it may not be necessary for the plaintiff under the circumstances of the case to exercise for the time being. 164 I.C. 133=1936 R. 316. 'Further relief' does not mean every kind of relief that may be prayed for; what is contemplated is a relief arising from the cause of action on which the plaintiff's suit is based. If the plaintiff, by reason of the declaration he seeks and obtains, becomes entitled in some remote way to other reliefs, they are not so related to his cause of action, as to be properly termed 'further reliefs' within the meaning of the section. 1936 M.W.N. 770=1937 Mad. 495. In the case of joint owners the possession of one is the possession of all. The only relief which a plaintiff who alleges that he is a joint owner can ask is, to ask the Court to prevent the other joint owner from interfering with the enjoyment of his right. Where a joint tenancy is alleged it is not necessary to sue for possession. The object of the proviso to S. 42 is only to prevent multiplicity of suits. The real difficulty as regards the proviso to S. 42 is in the interpretation of the phrase 'where the plaintiff being able to sue for further relief.' The phrase only means that where the plaintiff in the opinion of the Court and in the circumstances of a case 'ought' to make a demand for a relief that flows naturally from the declaration and which is not automatically granted to him by the declaration. 1939 A.M.L.J. 120. See also 1939 Sind 107. What "further relief" in the proviso to S. 42 means, see 33 C.L.J. 592=26 C.W.N. 206. See also 47 A. 416=28 A.L.J. 291. Under S. 42, in order to enable the plaintiff to get a declaration it is only necessary for him to show that he has some legal character or some right to property and that his opponent is either denying or is interested in denying such legal character or title. It is not necessary for him to show that he has a right to some other consequential relief which he might have claimed at the same time or which is preparatory to his obtaining relief in other Courts. If there is a cloud cast on his title or legal character, he is entitled to seek the assistance of the Court to dispel it by a declaratory decree, provided he is not in a position at that time to ask for any other relief consequent on the declaration prayed. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 443=44 C.W.N. 847=1940 Cal. 445. In an action brought by the plaintiffs for a declaration to the effect that they were not the share-holders of a certain company, the Court found that no money was forwarded by the plaintiffs with their applications for allotment of shares, that the plaintiffs have substantially asked for all the reliefs to which they were entitled and that a prayer to the effect that the register of the company may be rectified by the removal of the plaintiff's names from the list of shareholders would merely be a prayer for a nominal relief. Held, that the objection with respect to the maintainability of the suit in a declaratory form is without any substance. 161 I.C.'952=1936 L. 790. Plaintiff need not always sue for all the relief which could possibly be granted to him. 19 S.L.R. 220. Whether it is incumbent upon the plaintiff to ask for consequential relief must depend upon the circumstances of each case. There may be cases in which a declaration may be sufficient for his protection. In such an event the plaintiff cannot be compelled to seek a consequential relief. 37 C.L.J. 499=1923 C. 362; 37 C.L.J. 482=1924 C. 411; 144 I.C. 753=1933 P. 259; 1935 L. 657; 1937 P. 250. A suit for a declaration that an assessment of the plaintiff's holding by the Municipality is illegal and ultra vires, being based on an erroneous valuation, is not bad for the reason that the plaintiff has not asked for any consequential relief in the shape of an injunction restraining the defendant Municipality from realising the tax, when the Municipality has done nothing towards such realisation. (26 I.A. 16, Ref.) 61 C. 276=38 C.W.N. 245=1934 C. 673. Where the plaintiff alleges he is entitled to a religious office and that he is prevented from discharging his duties by the trustees and their nominees, it is not necessary that actual possession should be asked for; a suit for a declaration of his right and injunction will give the plaintiff all that can also be obtained by a prayer for possession. 133 I. C. 193=1931 M. 505. But see also 9 R. 459=1931 R. 322 (contra). The proviso applies to cases where at the date of the suit the plaintiff is able to obtain consequential relief and not in cases where by taking certain other proceedings the plaintiff will in future be in a position to seek such relief. It may be that the Court should, in the exercise of its discretion, refuse to grant a mere declaration if the plaintiff, though not entitled to claim possession at the date of the suit, can by taking proper proceedings more effectively vindicate his right by obtaining possession. 27 A. true owner is entitled to claim a mere declaration of title without infringing proviso to S. 42, as there is presumption that the true owner is in possession of a vacant site, unless the defendant can prove clear possession by himself. 120 I. L.J. 317. The distinction between a suit brought for a declaration that an act or order of a statutory body is in excess of its jurisdiction, and a suit brought for the correction of an entry in a settlement record on certain specified grounds is patent and substantial. In the one case it is a suit under the general law based on a common law right. In the other it is a suit under an enabling provision of an enactment. In the first case apart from the question of jurisdiction, the merits do not matter. In the second case the decision must be on the merits. And a suit for the declaration simpliciter contemplated by the first case is always maintainable. 59 M. 825=1936 M. 531=71 M.L.J. 118 (F.B.). Where a person who is admittedly in possession of a mauza, claims land which has been recorded by the survey and settlement authorities, as lying outside the mauza, he is not entitled to mere declaration of his title to the land in dispute without also suing for possession. The position would be different if it is found that the claimant is in actual possession of the disputed land as well. The plaintiff being out of possession in the eye of law, it is open to him to bring a suit to establish his title to recover possession, or in the alternative to show that he had come into possession since the dispossession implicit in the decision of the boundary line dispute under S. 41, Bengal Survey Act. If he takes neither of these courses but merely sues for declaration of title without asking any relief as regards possession his suit is barred under S. 42. 17 Pat.L.T. 405=1936 P. 185. Where plaintiffs pray for a mere declaration that two idols are the owners of the property in dispute, while they should in fact ask for the appointment of trustees, the formulation of a scheme for management and recovery of property from people who have committed breach of trust, the suit is barred under S. 42, proviso. All these things cannot be relegated to a second suit. It is exactly for the purpose of avoiding the evils of second suit that the proviso of S. 42 has been enacted. 27 A.L.J. 1201=1929 A. 974. Where the liability of the rent was settled but the dispute was whether the persons were jointly liable, held, that the landlord can file a declaratory suit for that purpose. 1931 A.L.J. 214=1930 A. 869. Where the plaintiff sued for a declaration that a deed of a release executed by the judgment-debtor in favour of a third person was void and ineffective as against the creditors and that they were entitled to proceed against the property by way of execution, held, that the mere fact that they had not sued for cancellation of the released deed did not bar the suit for declaration. 7 R. 477. Suit for declaration of invalidity of a tax—Injunction for refund, or perpetual injunction not being claimed, suit is not tenable. 46 A. 553 =22 A.L.J. 446. A suit for a declaration that a previous decree declaring certain wakfnamas invalid and distributing the properties covered by those deeds among the alleged heirs of the settlor is not binding on the plaintiff is not governed by S. 42. The decision of the Court under Succession Act is a summary one and does not stand in the way of the trial of the same question in any regular suit. A, a Hindu, in a suit to which B, his alleged wife, and her mother, are defendants, seeks a declaration that his marriage was duly solemnized and an order for the restitution of his conjugal rights. The Court makes the declaration and order. C, claiming that B is his wife, then sues A for the recovery of B. The declaration made in the former suit is not binding upon C.

OF THE APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVERS.

Appointment of receivers discretionary.

44. The appointment of a receiver pending a suit is a matter resting in the discretion of the Court.

The mode and effect of his appointment and his rights, powers, duties and liabilities are, regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.[1] debtor has transferred his immovable property with a view to defeat or delay his rights and that the transfer is therefore ineffectual against his rights, is not barred by the proviso to S. 42: 150 I.C. 888=35 P.L.R. 402=1934 L. 460. There is nothing in S. 42 which bars a suit for a declaration that a certain sale is void. The question whether a particular sale is void is a mixed question of law and fact, but whether under the given circumstances a sale is void is a question of law only. A plaintiff is entitled to sue for a declaration that certain facts existed and therefore the sale in that case is void. 165 I.C. 749=1936 P. 572. Where a sub-lessee who is liable to pay his lessor commission and royalty, purchases in his son's name but in reality for himself, the lessor's right to realize commission and royalty in a certificate sale, formal delivery to him does not change his position if the sale is void or fraudulent, nor can it be said that the purchaser obtained possession by realizing the royalty from himself and a suit purely for a declaration that the sale is void is maintainable. 1935 Pat 572.

RIGHT TO CONSEQUENTIAL RELIEF ARISING DURING PENDENCY OF SUIT.—Where a plaintiff was not able to seek further relief than he sought at the time of the institution of his suit and it was only during the pendency of the suit that he acquired the right to ask for such relief, it is open to him to apply for leave to amend the plaint so as to claim the further relief and the Court might order him to amend; but in the absence of such order, the plaintiff is not bound to amend and is entitled to sue for the relief to which he was entitled at the time of the institution of this suit. 1939 N.L.J. 577=1940 Nag. 99= I.L.R (1941) N. 735. See also 190 I.C. 756.

Where it cannot be said that the plaintiff has slept over her rights, for she obtained possession of the land at the time when the contract of sale was entered into, and since that time has been in possession and enjoyed the usufruct thereof and where real right of action had only accrued a short time before the proceedings were instituted, nine years, lapse of time would not be fatal to any action for sp. performance of an executed contract. 1934 R. 310 (2).

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE—APPEAL.—Where a declaration is to be refused, it should be refused at a preliminary stage of litigation and not by a Court of appeal after the issues on fact and law have been decided. 137 I.C. 145 =1932 All. 661. Where a declaratory relief has been given by the Courts below, the appellate Court cannot refuse that relief unless it comes to the conclusion that the Courts below have acted in an arbitrary or perverse manner. 153 I.C. 73=1935 All. 174. See also 155 I.C. 244=16 Pat.L.T. 236=1935 Pat. 256; 13 Pat. 182=1934 Pat. 498. Where the plaintiff is either in actual or constructive possession of most of the suit properties or when no further relief in respect of them can be asked at the time of filing the suit, a suit for mere declaration in respect of suit properties is maintainable. If, however, the suit includes a small item of property with respect to which further relief of possession is not asked for though such relief could have been prayed for by the plaintiff, the Court may allow amendment of the plaint by allowing plaintiff to add such prayer in respect of the small item. 174 I.C. 356=1937 Lah. 295. See also 1940 Nag. 99; 190 I.C. 756. OF THE ENFORCEMENT OF PUBLIC DUTIES.

Powers to order public servants and others to do certain specific acts.

45. Any of the High Courts of Judicature at [1][Calcutta, Madras and Bombay] may make an order requiring any specific act to be done or forborne, within the local limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, by any person holding a public office, whether of a permanent or a temporary nature, or by any corporation or inferior Court of Judicature :

NOTES.

Sec. 45 : SCOPE OF SECTION.—The writ of mandamus, being a high prerogative writ, is of the greatest value in maintaining the laws, but it is discretionary, The precise order asked for and made should in such cases be carefully defined. The form of procedure adopted in any particular case should not become a precedent in any future attempt to decide similar questions. 1931 A.C. 652=1931 P.C. 132=61 M.L.J. 299 (P. C.). An order under S. 45 is only to be made inter alia if the plaintiff has no other specific and adequate legal remedy. [47 Bom. 742 (P. C.), Ref.] 10 Rang. 412=1932 Rang. 123 (F.B.); 1934 Mad. 140=66 M.L.J. 233. The prerogative writ of mandamus is in form a command issued in the King's name from the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice. So far as this country is concerned, S. 45 now empowers the High Courts of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon to make orders which secure the same result as the writ of mandamus issued by the King's Bench Division, and the conditions which are set forth in that section are substantially the same as those under which the writ of mandamus is issued in England. 10 Pat. 218=1930 Pat. 538 (F. B.). See 45 M.L.J. 592=47 Bom. 742 =50 I. A. 227=1923 P. C. 138 (P.C.). (On appeal from 23 Bom.L.R. 1132). Writ of mandamus can be issued only by the High Courts at Calcutta, Bombay, and Madras in their original jurisdiction, but not by the other High Courts, i. e., Allahabad, Patna and Lahore. 5 Pat. 595=1926 Pat. 305 ; 4 Pat. 224=86 I.C. 170; 10 Pat. 218=129 I.C. 529=1930 Pat. 538 (F.B.). See also 1926 Rang. 135. They have no power to issue the writ of mandamus apart from and except under conditions prescribed by S. 45: 10 Pat. 218=129 I. C. 529=1930 Pat. 538 (F. B.). (Power of High Court to order land acquisition officer to refer the award to High Court.) The section is not to authorise the High Court "to make any order which is otherwise expressly excluded by any law for the time being in force." 5 Pat. 595=7 Pat.L.T. 695=1926 Pat. 305. See also 5 Bur.L.J. 26 = 1926 R. 135. The power to make the order under S. 45 is discretionary and it may only be made provided that the doing of a specific act is clearly incumbent upon the particular public officer against whom the order is sought. 1937 Rang.L.R. 414=1938 Rang. 69. Suit to declare electoral lists illegal and restrain elections thereunder—S. 45 applies. 87 I. C. 475=27 Bom. L.R. 368=1925 B. 255. Where the petitioner prayed that the High Court should issue a writ of certiorari to the Election Officer and to direct the said Officer to include his name in the list of nominated candidates and then proceed to hold the election and though relief sought was nominally against the Election Officer, it was in reality against the Government who had cancelled the order of the Election Officer accepting the nomination papers and further directed the exclusion of the petitioner's name from the list of valid nominations, held, that the prayer asked for would be suitable in a writ of mandamus but not in a writ of certiorari. Held, further, that the Court could not issue a writ of mandamus against the Governor acting with ministers. Need for Government being joined as party in such applications pointed out. 142 I.C. 187=1933 M. 319. Reference to High Court under S. 51, Income-tax Act—Application to compel reference refused—Leave to appeal to Privy Council to be granted under Letters Patent, Bombay, cl. 39: see 64 I. C. 619; 136 I.C. 762=1932 S. 1. An assessee in Sind, unlike an assessee within the jurisdiction of High Courts, has no remedy under S. 45 of this Act where he cannot obtain relief under S. 66 (3) of the Income-tax Act. It is, however, for the legislature to remedy this anomaly by extending the provisions of S. 45 or by amending S. 66 (3) of the Income-tax Act, so as to give him a right of reference where Commissioner refuses to state a case on fanciful and unfounded grounds. 26 S.L.R. 235=136 I. C. 762=1932 S. 1; 1934 M. 140=68 M.L.J. 233; 12 R. 322=1934 R. 132 (S.B.). Where a case, if stated by the Commissioner of Income-tax, would have to be referred to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner in Sind for decision, it would not be right for the Bombay High Court in the exercise of its discretion, to make an order under this section requiring the Commissioner to state a case to it, even if the Bombay Court has jurisdiction to do so by reason that the Commissioner resides in Bombay. 33 Bom.L.R. 36=1931 B. 273; 1934 M. 140=66 M.L.J. 233. See also 58 B. 361= 36 Bom.L.R. 23=1934 B. 62. ing the Municipal Commissioner from granting sanction for a proposed building, when the sanction has already been granted qualified by a condition that the building should not contravene any of the provisions of the Act. 33 Bom. L.R. 31=1931 B. 173. The Corporation owes a legal duty to an adjacent owner and there is, therefore, a corresponding right in his favour, to prevent building plans being passed contrary to the bye-laws. If, therefore, the Building Committee of the Corporation sanctions a building plan in disregard of the bye-laws and an adjacent owner is thereby injured as to light, air, health and amenities by reason of the particular situation of his property, he can apply for mandamus under S. 45. I. L. R. (1941) 1 Cal. 16=45 C. W. N. 401=1941 Cal. 391. Where the amenities and sanitation of a person's property will be substantially prejudiced if a building plan which violates the regulations is sanctioned such person has the right to call upon the Municipal Corporation to see that the provisions of the statute are observed. He can apply for mandamus under S.45. 45 C.W.N. 408. An owner of premises has a clear right to insist that the building rules should be strictly observed by the Corporation in sanctioning plans in respect of buildings proposed to be erected in the neighbourhood, although the owner of the premises which lie immediately next to the proposed building has no objection to building operations being undertaken in accordance with the plans. He has a right to apply for a mandatory order on the Corporation under S. 45 as the Calcutta Municipal Act furnishes no specific and adequate legal remedy to persons in his position. I.L.R. The Commissioner of Police must issue licence to a rickshaw whether it is old or new if it complies with the conditions as laid down under S. 23 of the Rangoon Hackney Carriage Act and is found fit for public use, and if the Commissioner has not issued the licence up to the maximum number as fixed by him. And therefore where he does not exercise the discretion as vested in him, a writ of mandamus can be issued directing him to issue such a licence. 142 I. C. 832=1933 R. 37. See also 142 I. C. 832=1933 R. 39.

APPLICATION UNDER PATENTS AND DESIGNS ACT—WRIT OF CERTIORARI ON CONTROLLER OF PATENTS.—The High Court has jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari or prohibition or mandatory order under S. 45 against the Controller of Patents and Designs, in proceedings on an application under the Patents and Designs Act. The High Court has right to exercise a controlling jurisdiction similar to that which is exercised by the King's Bench Division in England, over matters arising within the jurisdiction of the High Court and over persons or bodies exercising duties within its jurisdiction. Before, however, these extraordinary remedies are used, the Court must be sure that they will be effective. The mere existence of a right of appeal is not conclusive, because it may not be adequate, and in some circumstances, the remedy given by the issue of such writs may be more speedy and more convenient and less costly. 62 C. 596=39 C.W.N. 573.

QUIA TIMET ACTION.—Proof of imminent danger and consequent irreparable damage is necessary. Discretion is to be liberally used by Court. 85 I.C. 14=1925 C. 373. In disposing of an application for an injunction, powers of the High Court on Original Side are not wholly circumscribed by the rules laid down in S. 45. 85 I.C. 14=1925 C. 373. "Specific and adequate remedy" in S. 45 (d) refers not to general right of suit which must, unless expressly barred always exist, but to some specific remedy expressly given by a particular act. 66 I.C. 600 =48 C. 916. If the High Court were to express judicial opinion in the course of injunction proceedings that certain land acquisition proceedings were illegal and ultra vires, it must be assumed that the Local Government as the Land Acquisition authorities will stay their hands in view of the decision. 66 I.C. 600=48 C. 916. S. 106 (2) of the Government of India Act and S. 52 of the Income-tax Act (old Act VI of 1918) prohibit the High Court from entertaining any application under S. 45 for compelling the Revenue Board to refer the matter to the High Court under S. 5 of the Income-tax Act. 41 M.L.J. 177=44 M. 718; 42 Bom.L.R. 419 (Right to be assessed by a particular Income-tax Officer). Issuing an order under S. 45 is an exercise of original jurisdiction under S. 106 (2) of the Government of India Act. 44 M 718.

Sec. 45 (a) to (e).—The conditions laid down in the provisos (a) to (e) to sec. 45 are

(b) that such doing or forbearing is, under any law for the time being in force, clearly incumbent on such person or Court in his or its public character or on such corporation in its corporate character ;

(c) that in the opinion of the High Court such doing or forbearing is consonant to right and justice ;

(d) that the applicant has no other specific and adequate legal remedy ; and (e) that the remedy given by the order applied for will be complete.

Exemptions from such power. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any High Court—

(f) [1][to make any order binding on the Secretary of State, the Central Government, the Crown Representative or any Provincial Government] ;

[1] Substituted by LEG. REF. A.O., 1937.

NOTES.

cumulative, so that all of them must be fulfilled before the order applied for is made. The order is discretionary. The Court's jurisdiction has no doubt to be exercised for the protection of the rights of the public ; but it must nevertheless be exercised with caution, as the remedy is of a summary nature and coercive in character. Further sec. 45 enables the Court to make an order requiring any specific act or acts to be done or forborne from being done, and nothing else. 41 Bom.L.R. 911=1939 Bom. 481.

Sec. 45 (a).—A "personal right" is not a right which every member of a civilized society possesses independently of any Act of his own. An applicant under the section must show that he had some special definite individual right of his own in the matter complained of irrespective of his right as a member of the community at large. Where no special circumstances are shown indicating such a personal right, there is no personal right within the meaning of the proviso or any injury to such right. 41 Bom.L.R. 911=1939 Bom. 481.

Sec. 45 (b).—Clause (b) limits the jurisdiction of the Court to cases where there is a clear breach of duty on the part of a corporation, and under that section the Court will not interfere with that class of act which are not expressly forbidden by the constituting instrument, but are on the border-line between authority and no authority as may be reasonably thought incidental to the exercise of powers expressly given (obiter). 1930 S. 287.

Sec. 45, Proviso (b).—Under proviso (b) to sec. 45, the jurisdiction of the Court is limited to cases where there is a clear breach of duty to do or forbear from doing, as the cases may be. What is or what is not clearly incumbent must be determined with reference to the provisions of the statute or regulation under which the act complained of should have been done or forborne. Where the doing of an act is incumbent upon a public officer by the clear terms of a statute, an applicant under sec. 45 cannot ask for, nor can the Court make, an order restraining the public officer from doing the act which is clearly incumbent upon him. 41 Bom.L.R. 911=1939 Bom. 481.

Sec. 45, Proviso (c).—"Consonant to right and justice"—Meaning—An applicant under sec. 45 must show that the order he prays for is consonant to right and justice. What is consonant to right and justice must depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. In the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction the Court generally has regard amongst other things to considerations of the importance of the case, or the principles involved or the delay on the part of the applicant in making the applications or to considerations which involve protection of the rights of other persons. The expression "consonant to right and justice" only emphasises the equitable jurisdiction of the Court in making the order. 41 Bom.L.R. 911=1939 Bom. 481.

Sec. 45 (d).—The provisions of sec. 45 (d) are not satisfied when the applicant would have another "specific and adequate legal remedy." The term "legal remedy" would include any remedy given by law including statute law and would not necessarily be confined to legal remedy enforceable in a Court of law. Held, that the remedy available under secs. 518 and 520 of the Bombay City Municipal Act would exclude an application under S. 45 of this Act. 32 Bom.L.R. 416=1930 Bom. 232. The mere possibility of a right of action is no bar to an application under S. 45. 42 C.W.N. 789. It is an elementary principle of law that a man should not be allowed to have recourse to an extraordinary remedy of the kind contemplated by S. 45, if it is not really needed; and it is for an applicant to show that he has no other specific or adequate legal remedy. 41 Bom. L.R. 911=1939 Bom. 481.

Sec. 45 (f): "BINDING ON THE GOVERNMENT"—Meaning of. See 1926 M.W.N. 842=1927 Mad. 22. Although sec. 50 has abolished the power of High Court to issue writ of mandamus, still in practice such a writ is asked for and issued under sec. 45. 1926 M.W.N. 842=99 I.C. 18=1927 Mad. 22. "Breach of duty"—Meaning of. 1927 Mad. 22. The High Court has no doubt power to issue a mandamus to prevent a Court from doing something which clearly it has no power to do. But where that Court comes to the conclusion after full consideration of arguments that it has jurisdiction to do what it proposes to, and there is ground for the decision, an application for a mandamus will be refused. 13 Rang. 310. Application to direct Commissioner of Income-tax to make reference to High Court—Original Side of the High Court as the forum—Application under S. 66 (3), Income-tax Act, filed in Appellate Side—Same cannot be converted into one under sec. 45 of the Specific Relief Act. 30 Bom.L.R.

(g) to make any order on any other servant of the Crown, as such, merely to enforce the satisfaction of a claim upon the Crown ; or

(h) to make any order which is otherwise expressly excluded by any law for the time being in force.

Application how made. Procedure thereon.

46. Every application under section 45 must be founded on an affidavit of the person injured, stating his right in the matter in question, his demand of justice and the denial thereof ; and the High Court may, in its discretion, make the order applied for absolute in the first instance, or refuse it, or grant a rule to show cause why the order applied for should not be made.

Order in alternative.

If, in the last case, the person, Court or corporation complained of shows no sufficient cause, the High Court may first make an order in the alternative, either to do or forbear the act mentioned in the order, or to signify some reason to the contrary and make an answer thereto by such day as the High Court fixes in this behalf.

Peremptory order.

47. If the person, Court or corporation to whom or to which such order is directed makes no answer, or makes an insufficient or a false answer, the High Court may then issue a peremptory order to do or forbear the act absolutely.

Execution of, and appeal from, orders.

48. Every order under this Chapter shall be executed, and may be appealed from, as if it were a decree made in the exercise of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Costs.

49. The costs of all applications and orders under this Chapter shall be in the discretion of the High Court.

Bar to issue of mandamus.

50. Neither the High Court nor any Judge thereof shall hereafter issue any writ of mandamus.

Power to frame rules.

51. Each of the said High Courts shall, as soon as conveniently may be, frame rules[1] to regulate the procedure under this Chapter ; and, until such rules are framed, the practice of such Court as to applications for and grants of writs of mandamus shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to applications and orders under this Chapter.

Sec. 45 (g): PUBLIC SERVANT—POWER OF COURT TO ISSUE MANDAMUS.—The Court cannot claim even in appearance to command the Crown, and where an obligation is cast upon the principal, the Court cannot enforce it against the servant merely as such. Before mandamus can issue to a public servant, it must be shown that a duty towards the applicant has been imposed upon the public servant by statute, so that he can be charged thereon, and independently of any duty which, as servant, he may owe to the Crown, his principal. 63 I.A. 408=1936 P.C. 269=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 200 (P.C.).

Sec. 52.—It is within the discretion of a Court to grant an injunction or not. 78 I.C.

53. Temporary injunctions are such as are to continue until a specified time, or until the further order of the Court. They may be granted at any period of a suit, and are regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.[1]

Temporary injunctions.

A perpetual injunction can only be granted by the decree made at the hearing and upon the merits of the suit: the defendant is thereby perpetually enjoined from the assertion of a right, or from the commission of an act, which would be contrary to the rights of the plaintiff.

Perpetual injunction.

OF PERPETUAL INJUNCTIONS.

54. Subject to the other provisions contained in, or referred to by, this Chapter, a perpetual injunction may be granted to prevent the breach of an obligation existing in favour of the applicant whether expressly or by implication.

844=1924 All. 724. Hence in a suit brought on a contract comprising an affirmative agreement and a negative agreement, the Court is not deprived of its discretion under S. 52 in granting or refusing injunction, merely because a negative agreement has been coupled with an affirmative agreement. 30 S.L.R. 157=164 I.C. 929=1936 Sind 119. Principle of injunction is to avoid multiplicity of legal actions by prevention of threatened injuries and is not limited to past injuries. 80 I.C. 59=1924 Nag. 413. The Court has jurisdiction to issue an injunction upon a defendant residing outside territorial limits where he has property in Court's jurisdiction which could be proceeded against in the event of any contempt of Court. 5 P.L.T. 121=75 I.C. 381. Injunction may be granted restraining partition by Collector though applicant has taken part for several years, in Collector's partition. 84 I.C. 151=1925 Pat. 137.

Sec. 53.—While passing an order of injunction, the Court should look into the balance of convenience caused to the parties. 1928 Cal. 293; 1928 Mad. 810. It should also see whether there is a prima facie case for the issue of such an injunction. 120 I.C. 535=1930 Lah. 184. Where defendant constructed a spout leading water in the plaintiff's land, injunction may be granted. 1926 Lah. 681=27 Punj. L.R. 827. Where the marriage of a girl is arranged by her guardian with a person whose father has on medical examination been found to be suffering from leucoderma, but there is no evidence as to whether the proposed bridegroom or his brother betray an indication of the disease of being in incipient state or being actually visible, it is the duty of the Court to step in and pass an injunction restraining the guardian from taking any further steps in connection with the marriage, until the proposed bridegroom is proved to be a fit person. 121 I.C. 690=1930 All. 66. Equity acts in personam and an injunction must be addressed to the defendant personally. The Secretary of State as a corporation sole would be an individual; but neither is the N. W. Ry. Administration Lahore an individual, nor is the Agent of the Railway an individual. That would amount only to a suit against the office of agent and not against the person or official himself. 1933 Lah. 203=14 Lah. 330; see also 1933 All. 284. Sec. 54: SCOPE OF SECTION.—See 19 S.L.R. 168; 18 N.L.J. 123. Grounds for granting injunction—Discretion of Court. 73 P.L.R. 1922=1922 Lah. 443 (2). To obtain an injunction to restrain the commission of a prospective nuisance, it is necessary to show a strong case of probability that the apprehended mischief will in fact arise. 89 I.C. 929=1926 Nag. 50; 9 Mys.L.J. 49. Where the crux of the plaintiff's complaint is that the defendants were trying to persuade the members of a community from joining in a celebration by the plaintiff, it is difficult to see how law can intervene, if the persuasion is not accompanied with any threat to use force or violence. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 429=1939 N.L.J. 184=1939 Nag. 154. An injunction will not issue in the case of contracts which cannot be specifically enforced or where their breach can adequately be compensated in damages. 43 P.L.R. 619=1941 Com. C. 301=1942 Lah. 47. Waste of money is not an irreparable injury and under sec. 54 an injunction is not to be given when the injury, if any, can be compensated by damages. 151 I.C. 862=1934 Sind 136.

PERPETUAL INJUNCTION—GRANT OF—CONSIDERATIONS FOR COURT.—In deciding whether in any particular case, a right has been interfered with and nuisance thereby caused, it is necessary to determine whether the act complained of is an inconvenience materially interfering with the ordinary physical comfort of human existence, not merely according to elegant or dainty modes and habits of living but according to plain, sober and simple notions obtaining among the people. It is also necessary to take into account the circumstances and character of the locality in which the

When such obligation arises from contract, the Court shall be guided by the rules and provisions contained in Chapter II of this Act.

When the defendant invades or threatens to invade the plaintiff's right to, or enjoyment of, property, the Court may grant a perpetual injunction in the following cases (namely) :—

complainant lives. People living in a locality which is mixed residential and industrial locality cannot except the same amenities as those who live in a locality which is entirely residential. 30 S.L.R. 441=1937 S. 8. See also 1939 Mar. L.R. 108 (Civ.). The grant of an absolute injunction restraining a person from enjoying his own land is wholly illegal. The apprehension of the defendants acquiring a right of easement of light and air after the lapse of 20 years, if their doors and windows are allowed to stand and remain open, cannot afford any justification for preventing the defendants by an injunction from enjoying their property by keeping their doors and windows open. 16 Luck. 686=1941 O.W.N. 509=1941 Oudh 442. In matters of issuing injunctions the law cannot make over nice distinctions and refuse the relief merely because there is a bare possibility that the evil against which an injunction is sought may be avoided. Proceeding upon practical views of human affairs, the law will guard against risks which are so imminent that no prudent person would incur them, although they do not amount to absolute certainty of damage. Law will go further, according to the same practical and rational view, and balancing the magnitude of the evil against the chances of its occurrence, it will even provide against a somewhat less imminent probability in cases where the mischief, should it be done, would be vast and overwhelming. 43 L.W. 197; 1936 S. 119; 1936 M. 202. Where in the case of an infringement of an easement of passage, the plaintiff has served a notice to the defendant but has not followed it up by a suit for a temporary injunction, he is not entitled to specific relief by demolition, but only to pecuniary damages, especially when he has another perfectly good passage. 41 P.L.R. 224=1939 Lah. 339.

NATURE OF INJUNCTION—DOES NOT RUN WITH THE LAND—EXCEPTIONS TO THE RULE.—The rule that a decree for injunction does not run with the land has been deviated from in the case of legal representatives on the death of the judgment-debtor on the ground of the express provisions made by S. 50 of the C.P. Code, and in the case of transferees in virtue of S. 52. 33 Bom.L.R. 266=1931 B. 280.

WHEN INJUNCTION CAN BE GRANTED.—Before an injunction can be granted, the applicant must establish a legal right in himself, show an actual or threatened invasion of that right and must prove that the wrongful act complained of or apprehended will be repeated or done. 63 I.C. 727. Where, in a suit for a permanent injunction restraining a corporation from proceeding with an election, the plaintiff claims to be an elected member of the corporation, but does not obtain leave to bring a representative suit, he must prove that he himself has a right enforceable by law requiring the corporation not to proceed with the election. Such a right must be personal to the plaintiff. 151 I.C. 862=1934 S. 136. Before a person who is not the owner of land can prevent another person from using the land to the same extent as himself, he must establish a right by acts of exclusive possession of a very definite nature. A miscellaneous user, such as making only a temporary use of the land for occasional necessities of a house-holder, cannot create any title by adverse possession; a miscellaneous user of this sort is not possession at all. 37 P.L.R. 472=1934 L. 701; 1934 A. 883=153 I.C. 672. Proof of imminent danger must be proved—Filing suit on last day of limitation is against presumption of imminent danger. 89 I.C. 635=1926 Nag. 25; 104 I.C. 563=28 Punj. L.R. 590=1927 Lah. 718. As to effect of laches, see 89 I.C. 635=1926 Nag. 85; 108 I.C. 69=1928 Mad. 810; 93 I.C. 1011; 1928 Oudh 510; 12 Rang. 200=151 I.C. 193=1934 Rang. 244; 1937 Lah. 186 (dishonest use of trade mark). It must be proved that damage will be irreparable. 95 I.C. 371=1925 Nag. 251. Grant of injunction is discretionary—Lower appellate Court refusing relief though granted by trial Court—Plaintiff must show strong reasons against the lower appellate Court's decree. 89 I.C. 636=1926 Nag. 25. Court has discretion to grant injunction or not—Different considerations govern Indian Courts and English Courts—Court must have consideration for both parties—Easements Act, S. 35. 3 Rang. 230. See also 1939 Lah. 339. A plaintiff who has established that his common law right has been invaded is entitled to an injunction to prevent a recurrence of that violation. 59 I.C. 823=13 Bur. L.T. 62. Breach of obligation in plaintiff's favour or breach of some right of plaintiff must be threatened. 84 I.C. 282=1925 S. 175.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—The grant of an absolute injunction resulting in an invasion of the defendant's legitimate rights to use his own property and restrain him from enjoying his own land is wholly illegal. An act, which is not unlawful in itself, does not become unlawful merely because it interferes with other people's business or because the motive of the act is bad. The holding of a mela by the defendant on his land as a rival attraction to that held by the plaintiff on his own on identical days cannot be held to be unlawful, because it may interfere with the plaintiff's mela or because it was held with a bad motive. It would be actionable if the defendant in so doing employed illegal means or used force, violence, intimidation or threat. He cannot, however, be restrained by an injunction from holding a mela in his own land in a peaceable manner. 61 Cal. 543=1934 Cal. 752. Where a plaintiff brought a suit for injunction against the defendant for restraining him from interfering with plaintiff's possession and where a prior suit by the defendant under S. 9 had been dismissed, held, that the dismissal of the defendant's suit does not necessarily show the actual peaceable possession of the plaintiff at the suit date and, unless that was proved, an injunction restraining the defendant could not be justified. 1929 M. 784=120 I.C. 384. See also 1929 L. 11. A perpetual injunction cannot be granted to restrain the execution of a decree for removal of nim tree on the ground that it is a sacred one for the reason that there is no breach of any obligation, i.e., of a duty enforceable by law within the meaning of S. 54 of the Act. 60 I.C. 536=34 C.L.J. 315. public nuisance should thereby be cause d. But it is not merely on the ground of nuisance that the Court can impose limitations on the user of a building. Where some Mahomedans construct a building in the midst of a Hindu locality intending to declare it and use it as a mosque such user may not ipso facto be a nuisance or amount to an obnoxious user. But if it is found as a fact, on the evidence, from the attitude taken up by the Mahomedans in respect of their rights, that it would be impossible for the communities peaceably to enjoy their respective rights, the Civil Court is entitled to restrain by injunction the owner of the building from declaring it to be a mosque. Considerations of sentiments of parties and damage to public peace are not wholly out of place in the proper application of the maxim "sic uteri tuo ut alienum non laedas." 1937 Mad. 348=(1927) 1 M.L.J. 197.

Sec. 54 (c): INJUNCTION OR DAMAGES—PRINCIPLES REGULATING EXERCISE OF DISCRETION—DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ENGLISH AND INDIAN LAW.—In a case where the plaintiff's right of light or air has been proved or admitted to have been infringed, the English Courts have proceeded on the principle that the normal and natural relief that ought to be granted is by way of an injunction and not by awarding damages. The burden lies upon the defendant to satisfy the Court as a matter of equity that in the circumstances of any particular case, the Court ought not to issue an injunction and on the principle that "he who seeks equity must do equity" the defendant who has acted with a reckless disregard of the plaintiff's rights has been held to be disentitled from invoking the aid of Court to award damages in lieu of injunction. The law in India is, however, different. In England, the plaintiff whose legal right has been invaded is prima facie entitled to an injunction. In India, the Court has jurisdiction to grant an injunction in its discretion only in cases in which (inter alia) "invasion is such that pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief". In considering the question whether an injunction ought to issue, the Courts in India are not concerned with the question, if the defendant has acted in a high-handed manner or an unneighbourly spirit, but only with the question whether an award of damages would or would not afford adequate relief to the plaintiff for the invasion of his rights. In connection therewith, all the circumstances of the case must be taken into consideration, not only the injury to the plaintiff, but also the amount which has been laid out by the defendant, and the Court ought to be chary of granting an injunction in cases wherean injunction would be oppressive and inflict hardship upon the defendant out of all proportion to the injury to the plaintiff. The defendants erected a five-storeyed building, in spite of warning, and had admittedly infringed the prescriptive right to light and air entering through the windows in the northern wall of the plaintiffs' three-storeyed building. Held, that award of damages and not injunction was an appropriate remedy, having regard to the facts (i) that notwithstanding the erection, the plaintiffs' building remained substantially useful as business premises; (ii) that, though the comfort and convenience in using the rooms facing north have been deleteriously affected, their business had not been in the east affected; (iii) the defendants' building was a magnificient structure erected on steel frame-work and any reconstruction will inflict upon the defendants immense expenditure out of all proportion to the extent of the injury suffered by the plaintiffs by reason of the violation of their rights. 12 R. 200=1934 R. 144.

NOTES.

Sec. 54, Ill. (p).—The public generally has the right to use a public thoroughfare and a Court is not justified in restricting that general right by the issue of any permanent injunction to any particular individual. And where religious processions are taken out under license from the authorities, it is for the authorities to impose such conditions as may be deemed necessary for the safeguarding of the public peace and the freedom of every individual to use the public thoroughfares without any improper obstruction. 1933 L. 344. A village graveyard reserved for the use of the inhabitants or a particular community in that village cannot be said to be a trust in favour of anybody. The members of that community are only co-owners in that land and hence one of them can sue other co-owners who pervert the use of the common property. Mandatory injunctions.

right to the support of his land in its natural state. It is not an easement; it is a right of property. In a suit for injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with plaintiff's right of support, it is not necessary to show that the plaintiff has sustained actual damage. It is sufficient to show that the injury is imminent and certain to result from the defendant's acts. 59 C. 363=1932 C. 542.

Secs. 54, 55 and 56.—Before a suit for a mandatory injunction can be filed, there must be an obligation on the part of the defendant to perform certain acts. 5 R. 404=104 I.C. 139 (1)=1927 R. 257. Where an encroachment has been made by one of the proprietors into the common land, and another proprietor files a suit for mandatory injunction, the plaintiff should prove special damage and should take action within a reasonable time; further he should show that the defendant had appropriated more area than would be allotted to him in case of partition. 1935 Lah. 250. Claim for mandatory injunction for supply of water by a Municipality. See 1939 A. 375=I.L.R. 1939 A. 337. When a statute creates a body like the Municipal Committee and confers on it power to levy taxes of a particular kind in a particular manner, there is an implied "obligation" on the part of the Committee not to tax the subject in a manner not covered by the statute, and if a Committee does impose such a tax it commits a breach of this obligation and a suit would lie under sec. 54 of the Specific Relief Act for issue of a perpetual injunction restraining the Committee from imposing and collecting the tax. Such a suit is not barred by sec. 56 (1) of the Act, as there is no "other usual mode of proceeding" available to the plaintiff which can be considered to be "equally efficacious." I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 707=42 P.L.R. 73=1940 Lah. 377 (F.B.). Ss. 54 and 56 are to be read together as supplementing each other; the former defines the circumstances under which a perpetual injunction can be granted and the latter enumerates cases where an injunction must not be granted. 23 Pat.L.T. 270.

Secs. 54 and 56 (i): SUIT FOR AN INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN ARBITRATION—MAINTAINABILITY.—Where the plaintiff instituted a suit for a declaration that no contract was entered into between the parties and that as the defendants had no right to refer the dispute to arbitration an injunction should issue to the arbitrators not to give an award. Held, that while the prayer for injunction could not be brought within the scope of S. 54 the suit was barred under S. 56, cl. (i). As there was no contract alleged, the arbitration proceedings could only terminate in an award which was a nullity and the plaintiff would have ample opportunity to protect himself by an appropriate proceeding. 18 Lah. 345=39 P.L.R. 233=1937 Lah. 545.

Sec. 55: SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF SECTION.—In exercise of its discretion as to the grant of a mandatory injunction under S. 55, the Court would have regard to principles laid down by the Courts in England in this connection. 27 Bom.L.R. 73=86 I.C. 19; 1928 Cal. 584. See also 6 Rang. 456. only be granted when pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief. But it does not necessarily follow therefrom that a Court has always the power to grant pecuniary compensation for a wrong whenever an injunction is asked for. The Courts have recognised that, when the issue of a mandatory injunction would involve the removal of a completed structure which entails no inconvenience and only a slight invasion of the plaintiff's rights, not committed wantonly or after protest, pecuniary compensation is the more appropriate remedy. But it is not proper for a Court to pass a decree which effects a compulsory acquisition of a considerable strip of land under the guise of monetary compensation in lieu of an injunction, when the plaintiff not only sues for possession and injunction but also proves his title. 43 L.W. 512= 1936 Mad. 687; 1936 A.M.L.J. 81. When there is a reasonable apprehension of damage to crops by the overhanging of trees on neighbouring land, the owner of the crops is entitled to an injunction to compel the owner of the trees to cut the overhanging branches. 40 L.W. 639=67 M. L.J. 442. High handedness of defendant would be considered in favour of plaintiff in granting an injunction. 95 I.C. 636=1926 N. 416; mere delay not amounting to waiver or abandonment is no bar to grant of injunction. 1926 Nag. 416; 1934 Lah. 847. The grant of a mandatory injunction is an equitable relief which it is discretionary with the Court to grant or to refuse. Ordinarily, a great deal of delay in the institution of the suit would disentitle the plaintiff to the grant of a mandatory injunction. Whether there has been unreasonable delay in the institution of the suit depends on the circumstances of each particular case. 1934 Lah. 847; 1934 Rang. 310. Mandatory injunction cannot be granted where applicant has constructively acquiesced. 1929 P. 349. Where the plaintiff co-sharer sought demolition of structure over a party wall, the relief was refused as the suit was brought eight years after the structure was built. 89 I.C. 746= 1925 Lah. 642; 133 I.C. 872=32 P.L.R. 694. In cases of mandatory injunctions for restoration of property to its original condition, demolition is the most exceptional remedy and it is the duty of the Court to weigh the amount of substantial mischief done to the plaintiff and compare it with that which would be inflicted upon the defendant. If the balance of convenience is in favour of the plaintiff, removal of the building would be the proper relief, but not where the balance of convenience lies on the side of the defendant. 1939 Mar. Secs. 55 and 45.—S. 55 is independent of S. 45 and an injunction can be issued under that section to a public body like a Municipal Committee even in those cases where S. 45 of the Act does not apply. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 278=43 P.L.R. 18= 1941 Lah. 200.

Sec. 56.—Injunction is a discretionary form of specific relief and under S. 56 the Court may refuse to grant an injunction if the plaintiff by his conduct has disentitled himself to such relief. 40 P.L.R. 577. The Court, in dealing with suits for injunction, has to consider in each case not merely whether the plaintiffs' legal right has been infringed, but also whether under all the circumstances of the case, he ought to be granted an injunction as the proper and appropriate remedy for such infringement. (67 I.C. 299, Foll.) 40 P.L.R. 160.

It is not open to a Civil Court to prevent a public officer, such as the Deputy Commissioner acting under the Mysore Land Revenue Code from exercising the public duty enjoined on him by S. 37 of that Code. A suit for an injunction to restrain the Government or its officers from doing an act which is done in discharge of such a duty is barred by S. 56 of the Specific Relief Act. 16 Mys. L.J. 87=43 Mys. H.C.R. 14. An interim injunction order was passed in a dispute between two competing cinemas regarding the right to exhibit a certain film first in the city. Held, that this was a quarrel between businessmen about a business matter involving question of rupees, annas and pies, and damages and not an injunction would be the ordinary and adequate remedy. 30 S.L.R. 157= 1936 Sind 119. Doing scavenging work is not a trade or a business or a profession involving skill. The right to do scavenging work in certain houses and to exclude others from doing so is in substance a right to prevent a man from pursuing his legitimate calling, and is one which the law cannot recognise. No injunction can therefore be given restraining any one from doing scavenging work in particular houses. Nor can a custom making scavenging rights res commercium be recognised by the Courts, as it is contrary to the public good and unreasonable. The custom, if allowed, would turn out to be an oppressive monopoly, and can never be sustained in a Court of Law. 48 L. W. 258=1938 Mad. 881. It is well-established that when it is open to a person to sue for possession, he cannot be granted any relief in the shape of a mere injunction. When a suit for possession has become barred by time, the plaintiff cannot circumvent the law of limitation by merely suing for an injunction. 40 P.L.R. 319=1938 Lah. 369 (F.B.). S. 56 relates to permanent injunction and cannot be made directly to apply to a temporary injunction which is governed by the provisions of O. 39, C. P. Code. 152 I.C. 98=1934 A. 876. A plaintiff can seek relief by means of an injunction within the period of limitation against a party seeking to establish an easement against him. There may be cases where it would be inequitable on account of the plaintiff's acquiescence over a period of less than 20 years to grant the relief. 46 B. 827. Under the law in India, declarations and injunctions are discretionary forms of specific relief and under S. 56, the Court may refuse to grant an injunction if the plaintiff has by acquiescence or other conduct disentitled himself to such relief. 37 C.W.N. 1021=1933 P.C. 193=65 M.L.J. 163 (P.C.). Under S. 56 a superior Court cannot stay proceedings in a Court not subordinate to it. 81 I.C. 2=1925 C. 233. A man is not to be deprived of his legal rights, unless he has acted in such a way as would make it fraudulent for him to set up those rights. As to the elements or requisites necessary to constitute fraud of that description, see 73 I.C. 223=1924 C. 438. Under S. 56 (1) no injunction should be granted when equally efficacious relief can certainly be obtained by any other usual mode of proceeding except in case of breach of trust. 84 I.C. 282=1925 S. 175. Where equally efficacious relief can be obtained by monetary compensation, injunction should not be granted. 27 S.L.R. 41=1933 S. 176. The tendency of modern decisions is that, even if the Court has jurisdiction to restrain criminal proceedings for the recovery of a penalty imposed by statute for breach of its enactments, it will not interfere as a general rule. 50 C. 813=27 C.W.N. 787. Sec. 56 (a) and (i): INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN EXECUTION SALE—IF CAN BE GRANTED.—Where the plaintiff's property, to which his rights have been established, is attempted to be wrongfully sold in execution, he has a right to restrain it by an injunction, since the result of allowing the sale to go on would be a multiplicity of proceedings in future between him and the would-be purchaser. The principle enunciated in Cl. (i) of S. 56 of the Act cannot be applied to such a case, because there is no principle or precedent which compels a person whose interests are not at all affected by a decree and against whom that decree is not binding to satisfy that decree. He cannot be made to stop the sale by depositing the decree amount. 61 C. L.J. 75.

Sec. 56 (b) : SCOPE.—S. 56 (b) bars a suit for an injunction seeking to stay proceedings in a Court not subordinate to that from which the injunction is sought. 152 I.C. 798=11 O.W.N. 1376. S. 56 (b) contemplates injunctions directed to the Court itself and does not prevent any Court from making an order in personam forbidding an individual from prosecuting proceedings in another Court. Also S. 56 refers only to perpetual injunctions. 57 C. 1280=1931 C. 279 ; 152 I.C. 98=1934 A. 876. An injunction to restrain proceedings in a Court, when issued, is issued against an individual prosecuting his case in a Court, and if an injunction was granted, it is an injunction granted against the litigant and not against the Court. There is no method by which an injunction can be directed to a Court in contradistinction to the persons or parties prosecuting their litigation in that Court. Where execution is being taken out in the Court of the Subordinate Judge, no application can lie in that Court for the grant of an injunction to restrain proceedings in such execution, in view of S. 56 (b). The proviso added to O. 39, R. 1, C. P. Code, to come into force on 1st January, 1938, adds nothing to the law governed by the Specific Relief Act, and makes no difference in the position which is the same. 1938 P.W.N. 220=1938 Pat. 606. Where two proceedings are pending in the same Court between the same parties, cl. (b) of S. 56 has no application and the Court can always regulate its own proceedings, as the prohibition under cl. (b) operates only in respect of Courts which are not subordinate in the sense that they are co-ordinate or superior, and not in respect of the Court itself which must always be taken to be competent to regulate its own proceedings. 14 Pat.L.T. 258=1933 P. 250. Where a person files a declaratory suit with a prayer for perpetual injunction, he can be granted a declaration if his case is true, even though he is not entitled to an injunction. 1933 P. 250.

Sec. 56 (e).—32 C.W.N. 576=1928 C. 464. A Civil Court has no power to restrain a person or corporate body from contemplated prosecution, where proceedings are threatened but are not yet pending, although in terms S. 56 (e) may not apply. It is a much more serious thing to restrain a person from seeking redress in a Criminal Court than to restrain him from applying to a legislative body which is forbidden by cl. (c). Where the Municipal Council launched complaints against the petitioners for working their rice mills without the necessary licenses under S. 249 of the District Municipalities Act and the petitioners thereupon applied for an injunction restraining the criminal proceedings pending disposal of a civil suit, held, that the Criminal Court could also decide the question of fact whether licence was necessary and that it was not a fit case for granting an injunction. 119 I.C. 465=1929 M. 345. Sec. 56 (j).—S. 56 (j) rests on the maxim that he who seeks equity must do equity and implies that a plaintiff seeking an injunction must come with clean hands. A plaintiff, who asks for an injunction, must be able to satisfy the Court that his own acts and dealings in the matter have been fair and honest and free from any taint of fraud or illegality, and if, in his dealings with the person against whom he seeks relief or with third parties, he has acted in an unfair or inequitable manner, he cannot have relief. A Municipal Committee had refused to grant permission to a person to build certain structure. The person subsequently induced the Committee to grant permission on condition that he paid certain sum to the Committee. The Committee passed a resolution accepting the offer but when the person failed to pay the sum as agreed served a notice for demolition. The person who had built the structure pleaded that the resolution imposing condition for grant of permission was illegal and brought a suit for injunction against demolition. In other words, he wanted to utilize that portion of permission which benefited him and to repudiate that part of it which went against him. Held, that the person could not be granted injunction as his dealings with the Committee were dishonest. 188 I.C. 264=1940 Lah. 69. Plaintiff must show diligence and must not be guilty of laches. 1928 C. 510; 37 P.L.R. 160. Though an injunction against a joint owner to demolish structures built without permission on a joint land can be obtained, the granting of such an injunction is discretionary. Where the applicant bring a suits after an unreasonable delay, which is deliberate, and for improper motive, his conduct is such as to disentitle him to the assistance of the Court. Injunction should be refused, as it is an equitable remedy and plaintiff does not come into Court with clean hands. 1929 A. 877.

Sec. 56 (k): SCOPE.—In a suit for injunction restraining the building of a house it is incumbent on the plaintiff under S. 56 (k) to show some special damage or injury. The mere fact that the Municipal Committee acted beyond its powers in granting the sanction for construction of the house is not by itself sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to sue. 1941 Nag. 364. Where a plaintiff asks for an injunction to restrain the building of a house sanctioned by a Municipal Committee, it is incumbent on him under S. 56 (k) to show that he has some personal interest in the matter. It is only when the act of any corporation or public company which is in excess of the powers is calculated to be injurious to the rights of the property of an individual that he would have the right to protection of the Court by injunction. The plaintiff can succeed only on proof of some special damage or injury occasioned to him by reason of the permission granted by the Municipal Committee. To determine whether an act which is complained of as being a nuisance is strictly so or not is to be judged by the

57. Notwithstanding section 56, clause (f), where a contract comprises an affirmative agreement to do a certain act, coupled with a negative agreement, express or implied, not to do a certain act, the circumstances that the Court is unable to compel specific performance of the affirmative agreement shall not preclude it from granting an injunction to perform the negative agreement: provided that the applicant has not failed to perform the contract so far as it is binding on him.

The Court cannot compel A to send his customers to B, but B may obtain an injunction restraining A from carrying on the business in Calcutta.

(b) A contracts to sell to B the good-will of a business. A then sets up a similar business close by B's shop and solicits his old customers to deal with him. This is contrary to his implied contract, and B may obtain an injunction to restrain A from soliciting the customers, and from doing any act whereby their good-will may be withdrawn from B.

(c) A contracts with B to sing for twelve months at B's theatre and not to sing in public elsewhere. B cannot obtain specific performance of the contract to sing, but he is entitled to an injunction restraining A from singing at any other place of public entertainment.

Secs. 56 and 21.—In pursuance of certain articles of association a member was appointed by the company as its managing director and was subsequently illegally removed. The managing director on the basis of the articles which constitute an implied contract between him and the company brought a suit for injunction to the effect that the company should not prevent him from discharging his duties. Held, that the contract on which the managing director relied being dependent on personal services and volition of the parties, the contract could not be specifically enforced under S. 21, nor an injunction could be granted under S. 56. Claim for damages against the company was adequate relief. 190 I.C. 819=1940 Lah. 243.

Where a Receiver appointed in an action attempts to take possession of property in possession of a third party and the third party sues for injunction, his going to the Court appointing the Receiver and to ask to be examined pro inter esse suo is a remedy open to him but it is not one by which he can obtain "equally efficacious relief" within S. 56. 102 I.C. 797=1927 P. 297.

Sec. 57.—S. 57 does not say that every affirmative contract includes by necessary implication a negative agreement to refrain from doing certain things. It is therefore a question of interpretation in each case whether a particular contract can be said to have a negative covenant express or implied contained within it. The defendant had agreed to serve the plaintiffs exclusively for a period of five years, but subsequently ceased to serve the plaintiffs and set up a rival business. The plaintiffs having sued for a declaration and injunction and to recover damages, held, that the plaintiffs could not put an end to the contract and also claim injunction based on the contract for the full term of five years. They had to waive their rights at all events in order to take advantage of the breaches on the part of the defendant. Held, however, that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover damages. Meaning of expression "exclusive service" discussed. 31 Punj.L.R. 154=1930 L. 597. See also I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 53. The parties came to an agreement that their property should be managed by a common manager. There was also a negative covenant that there should be no partition of the estate jointly owned for a certain period. But in the meanwhile the defendants tried to break this contract on which the plaintiffs applied in the Courts for an injunction. Held, that the effect of the agreement was that the parties had agreed not to do that which they ordinarily had a right to do. The agreement, although affirmative in form, was negative in substance and hence S. 57 applied and injunction could be granted against some of them trying to break it. 17 Pat.L.T. 865=1936 P. 456. Where there is a contract of personal service coupled with a stipulation that the servant is not to seek service elsewhere during the period of the contract, the Court can grant an injunction restraining the servant from seeking employment elsewhere in breach of contract, though it is unable to enforce specific performance of the affirmative covenant. 64 I.C. 794 =11 L.B.R. 26.

(e) A contracts with B, that, in consideration of Rs. 1,000 to be paid to him by B on a day fixed he will not set up a certain business within a specified distance. B fails to pay the money. A cannot be restrained from carrying on the business within the specified distance.

2. In this Act,—

(a) "instrument to which this Act applies" means—

(i) any instrument mentioned in Article No. 19, No. 36, No. 37 or No. 52 in Schedule I to the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, or

(ii) any promissory note payable on demand for an amount exceeding two hundred and fifty rupees, which has been executed in British India at any time after the 30th day of September, 1923, and before the 1st day of April, 1924, and which has been stamped in such a manner that it would have been duly stamped for the purposes of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, if the Indian Stamp (Amendment) Act, 1923, had not been passed; and

Application of certain provisions of Act II of 1899.

3. (1) No exception or restriction in respect of promissory notes contained in clause (a) of the proviso to section 35 or in sub-section (1) of section 40 or in section 41 shall be deemed to apply in respect of any promissory note which is an instrument to which this Act applies.

(2) For the purpose of the application of clause (a) of the proviso to section 35 and of sub-section (1) of section 40 to instruments to which this Act applies, nothing therein contained shall be deemed to require or authorise the imposition of any penalty in respect of any such instrument.

(3) Every instrument to which this Act applies shall be deemed to have been duly stamped for the purposes of section 62.

(4) Where, before the commencement of this Act, any sum has been recovered in respect of any instrument to which this Act applies, by way of fee under sub-section (1) of section 32, or by way of penalty under the proviso to section 35 or under sub-section (1) of section 40, or by way of fine under section 62, the person from whom such sum has been recovered shall be entitled to a refund thereof.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Banker."

(1) "banker" includes a bank and any person acting as a banker ;

"Bill of exchange."

(2) "bill of exchange" means a bill of exchange as defined by the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, and includes also a hundi, and any other document entitling or purporting to entitle any person, whether named therein or not, to payment by any other person of, or to draw upon any other person for, any sum of money ;

"Bill of exchange payable on demand."

(3) "bill of exchange payable on demand" includes—

(a) an order for the payment of any sum of money by a bill of exchange or promissory note, or for the delivery of any bill of exchange or promissory note in satisfaction of any sum of money, or for the payment of any sum of money out of any particular fund which may or may not be available, or upon any condition or contingency, which may or may not be performed or happen ;

(b) an order for the payment of any sum of money weekly, monthly or at any other stated period ; and

(c) a letter of credit, that is to say, any instrument by which one person authorizes another to give credit to the person in whose favour it is drawn ;

"Bill of lading."

(4) "bill of lading" includes a "through bill of lading" but does not include a mate's receipt ;

"Bond."

(5) "bond" includes—

NOTES

=1935 R. 243 (S.B.) The Stamp Validating Act XI of 1926 has no reference to a case where a promissory note was not stamped with a stamp of the value required by law in force at the time the promissory note was executed. It was intended to validate cases where the promissory note bore sufficient stamp but adhesive stamp inscribed for postage. The preamble to the Act shows that it became expedient to provide the validation of certain promissory notes stamped with postage stamps of the denomination of two or four annas. The Act did not intend to validate or render admissible documents insufficiently stamped. 110 I.C. 747 (C.). Trial Court receiving document as properly stamped—Reopening of stamp question on appeal not allowed. 57 M. 783=1934 M. 500=66 M.L.J. 703. Reading R. 24 and R. 118 of the Stamp Manual together, it appears that, in order to comply with the condition of R. 24, it would be enough if it could be shown that stamps of smaller denominations were purchased on account of there being no stamp of the required denomination in the stock of the stamp vendor. 1936 A.L.J. 1222 =1936 A. 701.

Secs. 1 and 2.—The Act being a fiscal statute whose primary object is to secure revenue to the State, its object is attained by excluding the unstamped document from evidence and not acting on it. The parties need not be penalised beyond this extent. 65 I.C. 37=15 S.L.R. 135. The enactment is prohibitory. It is not confined to affording a party a protection, of which he may avail himself or not as he pleases. 52 C. 408=52 I.A. 126=49 M.L.J. 136 (P.C.). To determine whether a document is sufficiently stamped for its admissibility in evidence, the Court must look at the document itself as it stands. 27 Bom.L.R. 1122=1925 B. 527. In estimating the stamp duty payable on an instrument, the Court must look to the primary contract and not take into account the stipulation which it may contain for payment of any damages in a case of default, as such a stipulation is by way of penalty in case of breach of the original covenant. 98 I.C. 6 ;1=1927 N. 72.

Sec. 2 (1).—When a banker is a trustee : see 32 M. 68 ; 35 M. 712.

Sec. 2 (2).—'Includes ': see 8 C. 536. Demand drafts by one branch of a bank upon another branch of the same bank are bills of exchange under this clause and are exempt from stamp duty by Act V of 1927. 1928 C. 566 (S.B.). 32 C.W.N. 1015.

Sec. 2 (5) : BOND.—The definition of bond is not exhaustive. 2 Lah.L.J. 224 ; 6 L. 276 ; 131 I.C. 157 ; 1931 A. 392=1931 A.L.J. 608 (F.B.). The mere fact that a person chooses to give a certain title to a document does not make it that document. Its terms and nature should be considered. 1931 A.L.J. 230. See also 1941 A.L.J. 427=1941 All. 243 (F.B.). In deciding the question whether an instrument does or does not fall within the purview of bond as defined by S. 2 (5) the instrument must be considered as a whole and it is not permissible to divide it into serveral parts and look at it piecemeal and then to assign each one of such parts to some other article of Sch. I of the Act. I.L.R. (1941) All. 471=1941 All. 243 (F.B.). Where an instrument is in the form of an agreement between two parties and among other covenants also contain a covenant to make certain payments and is also attested by witnesses and was not payable to order or bearer, it comes within the definition of a bond under S. 2 (5). (a) any instrument whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another, on condition that the obligation shall be void if a specified act is performed, or is not performed, as the case may be ;

(b) any instrument attested by a witness and not payable to order or bearer, whereby a person obliges himself to pay money to another ; and

(c) any instrument so attested, whereby a person obliges himself to deliver grain or other agricultural produce to another :

"Chargeable." (6) "chargeable" means, as applied to an instrument executed or first executed after the commencement of this Act, chargeable under this Act, and, as applied to any other instrument, chargeable under the law in force in British India when such instrument was executed or, where several persons executed the instrument at different times, first executed ;

"Cheque." (7) "cheque" means a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand ;

NOTES.

All. 205. Where an instrument in the nature of a promissory-note contained a statement at the end by the pen of P, son of M, and also 'the money was paid in my presence', it was held. that though a scribe could be an attesting witness, the mere statement that money was paid in his presence could not make him an attesting witness and, it could not per se amount to 'attestation' and that the instrument was not a'bond'for that reason.15 Luck. 285=1939 O.W.N. 1109=1940 Oudh 83 (F.B.). It is no part of the definition of 'bond' that the date of payment should be stated. 1934 N. 261. A cadjan unstamped document duly attested, and not containing any prohibition restricting the promisee from alienating it, nor expressly mentioning that the amount will be paid to the person in whose favour it was executed or to his order is a bond within the meaning of the Act. 118 I.C. 492=1929 M. 599. A Kabin-nama, pure and simple, does not require any stamp. 1935 L. 122. Shahjog hundi whether a bond or a promissory note, see 22 C.L.J. 22=19 C.W.N. 1326. A document under which a person has obliged himself to pay money to another which is neither payable to order or bearer nor attested by a witness is not a bond within S. 2 (5) : 2 Pat.L.J. 686=41 I.C. 693. In order that a document may constitute a bond, there must be an express obligation to pay. No such obligation can be inferred from a mere acknowledgment. The fact that an entry signed by the debtor is attested by two witnesses and contains an implied promise to pay cannot convert an acknowledgment into a bond. 170 I.C. 68=48 P.L.R. 269=1937 Lah. 220. A written promise to pay a barred debt is not required to be stamped ; it is not a bond ; even if it be, when an instrument has been admitted in evidence such admission shall not be questioned at any subsequent stage of the same suit under S. 36. 1923 L. 481 ; 142 I.C. 535=1933 L. 271. See also 1936 Lah. 449.

Sec. 2 (5) (b).—Mere signing of a balance in account books, even if it is attested does not necessarily make such instrument a bond. Even if the obligation to pay is implied, it does not do so. But where words are added showing an obligation to pay, the matter becomes different. Where a 'ruju' and a 'chitti' were executed on the same day and the ruju was an acknowledgment of debt by signing a balance in creditor's account books and it expressed an obligation to pay principal and interest and was not payable to order or bearer and the chitti was attested : Held that the 'ruju' and 'chitti' formed one instrument of bond within S. 2 (5) (b) and was charageable as such : 1934 N. 261. Ordinarily, a balance struck by the debtor followed by the words "baqi rahe" and signed by the debtor would be a mere "acknowledgment" on which a stamp duty of one anna will be sufficient. In such a case it will be immaterial that the entry is or is not attested by witnesses. If, however, the words used are "baqi dene" that would amount to an "agreement" and be liable to be stamped as such. If, further, such an entry is attested by one or more witnesses, it would be a "bond" and must be stamped accordingly. 40 P.L.R. 193=1938 Lah. 503. Attestation—What amounts to—Writer of document—If an attesting witness. 49 C. 729=26 C.W.N. 585. "Collector." (9) "Collector"—

(a) means, within the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay the Collector of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively, and, without those limits the Collector of a district; and

(b) includes a Deputy Commissioner and any officer whom the [2][Collecting] Government may, by notification[3] in the Official Gazette, appoint in this behalf;

"Conveyance." (10) "conveyance" includes a conveyance on sale and every instrument, by which property, whether moveable or immoveable, is transferred inter vivos and which is not otherwise specifically provided for by Schedule I;

"Duly stamped." (11) "duly stamped" as applied to an instrument, means that the instrument bears an adhesive or impressed stamp of not less than the proper amount and that such stamp has been affixed or used in accordance with the law for the time being in force in British India;

"Executed" and "execution." (12) "executed" and "execution" used with reference to instruments, mean "signed" and "signature."

a Bank and specifying the name of the messenger who is to receive payment is only a receipt and not liable to stamp duty as a cheque. 58 P.L.R. 1922=13 I.C. 330.

Sec. 2 (10).—A conveyance is an instrument which transfers property from one person to another. 115 P.R. 1918=44 I.C. 261 (S.B.). On this clause, see also 32 A. 171; 44 C. 72. A confirmatory letter with reference to a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds does not amount to a conveyance so as to require stamp or registration. 139 I.C. 95=1932 S. 73. See also 43 P. L.R. 294=20 Lah.L.T. 108 (document recording prior oral transaction of sale is not a "conveyance".) If, after entering into a contract to sell, the parties in spite of the risk that either party may resile from the contract, refrain from getting an actual deed of conveyance prepared they can successfully evade the payment of higher duty. 1932 A.L.J. 394=1932 A. 291 (S.B.). An actual transfer of property is an essential feature of a "conveyance." A contract "constituting the title of the allottee" consisting merely of an agreement to transfer property in the future cannot be treated as a "conveyance." 15 L. 501=1934 L. 530 (S.B.). Where the language of a document makes it clear that it was intended to be only an agreement to sell and that a proper deed of sale to complete the transaction was to be executed later on, the document does not amount to a conveyance under S. 2 (10) though possession also is delivered. 1939 N.L.J. 37. "Conveyance"—Company—Allotment of shares—Contract regarding—Statement in form VII filed before Registrar is not transfer of property but only agreement—Stamp duty. See 167 I.C. 513 =1937 M. 259=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 108; 15 L. 509=1934 L. 533.

Sec 2 (10) and Sch. 1-A, Art. 23.—DOCUMENT RECORDING PRIOR ORAL TRANSACTION—STAMP DUTY.—A document to be liable to stamp duty as a conveyance must be the document by which property is actually transferred. A document which purports to be a record in writing of an oral transaction carried out some years earlier, is not therefore liable to be stamped as a conveyance. 20 Lah.L.T. 108=43 P.L.R. 294.

Sec. 2 (11) and 12.—Where, in a promissory note, out of four stamps only three were cancelled and one was not cancelled, held, the document was inadmissible. 1933 L. 148=145 I.C. 154. It is necessary to interpret the word "is" in S. 35 so as to include "has been." Consequently where a promissory note is duly stamped at the time of the execution, the document is admissible in evidence, if at the time it is tendered in evidence it is no longer "duly stamped" by reason of the loss or removal of the stamp. 1934 A.L.J. 1202=1934 A. 388 =56 A. 781.

Sec. 2 (12).—Under S. 2 (12) "execution," stands for "signature" and an instrument chargeable with stamp duty only on being executed is not liable to duty until it is signed. 22 I.C. 75=7 Bur.L.T. 48. See also 17 L. 223= 162 I.C. 774=1936 L. 449 (S. B.). (Signature alone does not in all cases complete execution. But Stamp Act makes instrument chargeable as soon as they are signed by the executant).

(a) in relation to stamp duty in respect of bills of exchange, cheques, promissory notes, bills of lading, letters of credit, policies of insurance, proxies and receipts, and in relation to any other stamp duty chargeable under this Act and falling within item 59 in List I in the Seventh Schedule to the Government of India Act, 1935, the Central Government ;

(b) save as aforesaid, the Provincial Government ;]

"Impressed stamp." (13) "impressed stamp" includes—

(a) labels affixed and impressed by the proper officer, and

(b) stamps embossed or engraved on stamped paper ;

"Instrument." (14) "instrument" includes every document by which any right or liability is, or purports to be, created, transferred, limited, extended, extinguished, or recorded ;

"Instrument of partition." (15) "instrument of partition" means any instrument whereby co-owners of any property divide or agree to divide such property in severalty, and includes also a final order for effecting a partition passed by any revenue authority or any Civil Court and an award by an arbitrator directing a partition ;

NOTES.

Sec. 2 (14).—"Instrument"—Whether an entry in the plaintiff's register signed by the defendant is an instrument within S. 2 (14). 11 A.L.J. 966=36 A. 11. See also 35 C. 3.

Secs. 2 (14) and 35.—A promissory note is an instrument as defined in S. 2 (14) as it purports to create a liability and is hence inadmissible under S. 35 unless it can be saved by proviso (a). That proviso saves only instruments other than promissory note. 1940 N.L.J. 217=1940 Nag. 214.

Sec. 2 (15).—An "instrument of partition" includes in its definition award by an arbitrator directing a partition. 1922 A. 283; 1928 M. 1181=55 M.L.J. 584 (F. B.); 42 I. C. 365=6 L.W. 448; 52 M. 1=115 I.C. 824. Under S. 2 (15) the parties need not be co-owners in the eye of law. If they purport to be co-owners and if the document is executed in that capacity it would come under the definition of partition. The very fact of the reference to properties as those in which the parties have certain shares indicates that they purport at least to deal with them as co-owners. Even if the description as co-owners is not actually found in a document it is still open to the Court to find on proper construction of the terms thereof whether the parties purport to be co-owners of the property or not. 150 I.C. 119=39 L.W. 157=1934 M. 204. A partition list which does not itself effect any division but is merely an agreement for effecting a future partition on terms agreed, is not an instrument of partition within the meaning of S. 2 (15) and is liable to stamp duty as an agreement under Art. 4, Sch. I (a). 1933 M. 162=145 I.C. 529. See also 1933 O. 562=146 I.C. 506. A document may be an "instrument of partition" as defined by S. 2 (15) and would be liable to stamp duty under Art. 45 of the Act, though it might also fall under Art. 46-B as an instrument of dissolution of partnership, and liable to be stamped with the higher stamp duty under Art. 45, as required by S. 6 of the Act. I.L.R. (1937) Mad. 553=45 L. W. 123=1937 Mad. 308=(1937) 1 M. L. J. 174 (F. B.). A decree for a partition is an instrument of partition and such has got to be engrossed on stamp paper. 40 P.L.R. 2=1938 Lah. 321. Where in a suit for partition of joint family property to which strangers in possession of certain items of property were also added, a preliminary decree was passed in which directions were given for the division of the immovable property as also for the payment of specific sums as between parties inter se. Held, that the decree was a final order of a Civil Court for effecting a partition and that it falls strictly within the terms of S. 2 (15). Held, further, that the fact that the decree did not finally divide the whole of the joint family property was quite immaterial. 47 L.W. 51=1938 M.W.N. 656=1938 Mad. 307. The decree in a partition suit stating that plaintiff is entitled to a certain fraction is only a preliminary decree and does not divide the property in severalty and therefore is not required to be stamped under S. 2 (15) read with Sch. I, Art. 45. To make the order chargeable with stamp duty, it must effect an actual division by metes and bounds of the property. 139 I. C. 673=1932 R. 120. Where a partition decree is not drawn up on non-judicial stamp paper, there is no decree at all and the executing Court can refuse execution. The fact that in such a case the party has mistakenly furnished court-fee stamp and the Court mistakenly permitted the decree to be drawn up is immaterial. 135 I. C. 685=1932 L. 249. The words "final order" in S. 2 (15) and Art. 45 (3) refer to the final order of the lowest Court of original jurisdiction empowered to give an order for partition. 36 A. 137=12 A.L.J. 113 (P. C.). An award of arbitrators directing a partition executed before the present Stamp Act (II of 1899) came into force will be received on evidence even if it bears a stamp duty of Rs. 5 only. 29 P. R. 1915=27 I. C. 489. See also 45 L.W. 123=1937 M. 308=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 174 (F. B.). As to stamp on partition instrument, see also 55 I.C. 965=38 M.L.J. 330. To make an order chargeable under S. 2 (15) an award must effect an actual division. 35 M. 26=12 I.C. 775. As to stamp on document of partition reciting partition already effected and embodying its details, see 2 Mys.L.J. 69.

"Lease." (16) "lease" means a lease of immovable property, and includes also—

(a) a patta ;

(b) a kabuliyat or other undertaking in writing, not being a counterpart of a lease, to cultivate, occupy or pay or deliver rent for, immovable property ;

(c) any instrument by which tolls of any description are let;

(d) any writing on an application for a lease intended to signify that the application is granted ;

"Marketable security." [1][(16-A) "marketable security" means a security of such a description as to be capable of being sold in any stock market in British India or in the United Kingdom ;]

"Mortgage deed." (17) "mortgage-deed" includes every instrument whereby, for the purpose of securing money advanced, or to be advanced, by way of loan, or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers, or creates, to, or in favour of, another, a right over or in respect of specified property ;

"Paper." (18) "paper" includes vellum, parchment or any other material on which an instrument may be written ;

"Policy of insurance." (19) "policy of insurance" includes—

(a) any instrument by which one person, in consideration of a premium, engages to indemnify another against loss, damage or liability arising from an unknown or contingent event ;

Sec. 2 (15) and Sch. I, Arts. 12 and 46.—Where a document refers to a previous partition and to certain properties being divided later on and is signed by the parties and also refers to an already existing partnership and makes provision for the future conduct of the partnership it is neither a deed of partition nor partnership nor award. 1942 All. 220 (F.B.).

Sec. 2 (15) and Arts. 45 and 46-B.—Applicability—Partnership—Dissolution--Award allotting one business to certain persons as a group and another to others as a group—Is instrument of partition liable to—Stamp duty. 1937 M. 308=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 174.

Sec. 2 (16).—A marupat which is a counterpart of a lease executed by a tenant promising certain rent must be stamped as a counterpart. See 41 M. 469=33 M.L.J. 693 (F.B.).

LEASE AND LICENSE—DISTINCTION.—The distinction between a lease and license consists in whether the interest in immovable property transferred is exclusive or not. What has to be considered is not merely the intention of the parties or the language used in a document, but the actual position resultant from the covenant made. 19 Lah.L.T. 33.

Sec. 2 (16) (b).—Scope of. See 145 I.C. 674 =1933 A.L.J. 749=1933 A. 735 (F.B.). Where a printed tabular form containing particulars as to the name of the lessee, the plot leased, the rent, the nature of the right, etc., signed by the manager of an estate is issued to a new tenant, it contains no agreement or terms regarding the grant of a lease. This does not create a lease, it is only a memorandum of the transaction granting a tenancy which had already been effected in favour of the tenant. It does not come under S.1. (16) of the Stamp Act. 1939 N.L.J. 404.

Sec. 2 (17).—See 134 I.C. 1269=1931 C. 732 (S.B.). A consent decree creating a charge on immovable property, which is not the subject-matter of the suit does not require to be stamped under the Stamp Act. 37 Bom. A document giving the mortgagee a mortgage by the deposit of title-deeds together with the right to appoint a receiver at any time without first having recourse to the Court and also the right to call upon the mortgagors at any time to execute a mortgage in the English form in favour of the mortgagee, comes within the definition of "mortgage-deed." 41 C.W.N. 961=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 486. A document transferring the benefit of the interest secured by that deed from the mortgagee to another person falls to be stamped not under Art. 23 of Sch. I-A of the Bengal Stamp Amendment Act, 1922, but under Art. 62 (c) of the same schedule. 41 C.W.N. 961. In order to bring an instrument within the definition of mortgage deed it is necessary that the transfer should be effected by the instrument in question. Where an entry is merely a memorandum of payment of certain sum to another on account of the mortgage of certain land and does not purport itself to create the mortgage, the document is not liable to be stamped as a mortgage deed. 40 P.L.R. 749=1938 Lah. 460.

Sec. 2 (19).—The expression of an agreement for sea insurance, otherwise than in a policy is a thing forbidden in the public interest, and the statutory insistence on a policy is no mere collateral requirement or prescription of (b) a life policy, and any policy insuring any person against accident or sickness, and any other personal insurance ;

[1][* * * * * *]

"Policy of sea-insurance" or "sea-policy."

(20) "policy of sea-insurance" or "sea-policy"—

(a) means any insurance made upon any ship or vessel (whether for marine or inland navigation), or upon the machinery, tackle or furniture of any ship or vessel, or upon any goods, merchandise or property of any description whatever on board of any ship or vessel, or upon the freight of, or any other interest which may be lawfully insured in, or relating to, any ship or vessel ; and

(b) includes any insurance of goods, merchandise or property for any transit which includes, not only a sea risk within the meaning of clause (a), but also any other risk incidental to the transit insured from the commencement of the transit to the ultimate destination covered by the insurance ;

where any person, in consideration of any sum of money paid or to be paid for additional freight or otherwise, agrees to take upon himself any risk attending goods, merchandise or property of any description whatever while on board of any ship or vessel, or engages to indemnify the owner of any such goods, merchandise or property from any risk, loss or damage, such agreement or engagement shall be deemed to be a contract for sea-insurance ;

"Power-of attorney."

(21) "power-of-attorney" includes any instrument (not chargeable with a fee under the law relating to court-fees for the time being in force) empowering a specified person to act for and in the name of the person executing it ; the proper way of making such an agreement. 52 C. 408=52 I.A. 126=49 M.L.J. 136 (P.C.).

"Promissory note."

(22) "promissory note" means a promissory note as defined by the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 ;

Sec. 2 (21).—Letter empowering another to sell land is not power-of-attorney. 27 Punj. L.R. 78=1926 L. 229. A vakalatnama executed by a client to his advocate to be used in the Bombay Presidency S.C. Court is a power-of-attorney as defined in S. 2 (21) of the Stamp Act and is chargeable with a stamp duty of Rupee one under Art. 48 (b) of Schedule I of the Act, as applied to Bombay. 58 B. 597=36 Bom. L. R. 658=1934 Bom. 299. Power-of-attorney is an authority whereby one is set in the turn, stead or place of another to act for him. Vakalatnama is therefore a power-of-attorney. A power-of-attorney for the purposes of the Stamp Act is defined in a way that excludes a vakalatnama, because it excludes a document which carries a court-fee stamp, but that definition for the purposes of the Stamp Act makes it quite clear that, if it were not for that definition, a vakalatnama, being a power-of-attorney, would require not only a court-fee stamp under the Court-Fees Act, but also a stamp under the Stamp Act, and to avoid that double stamp, it was necessary in the Stamp Act to exclude the vakalatnama. 1937 Nag. 65=19 N.L.J. 207.

Sec. 2 (22).—A document by which the executant undertakes to make certain specified payments towards the sum due under it and agrees that his failure to do so shall render him liable to forfeit any payment already made is not a promissory note payable otherwise than on demand, but only an agreement requiring 8 annas stamp. 28 I.C. 300=8 L.B.R. 155. Sec. 2 (22) extends the definition of "promissory note" as given in the Negotiable Instruments Act in certain ways, but it does not do away with one essential characteristic of a promissory note that it must contain a promise to pay to some person or persons or to their order or to the bearer of the note. 1933 Mad. 306=64 M.L.J. 204. See also 1941 A.M.L.J. 117. A document in which there is only an express stipulation to pay interest and there is no undertaking to pay the principal amount, is not a promissory note within the meaning of Sec. 2 (22). The recital in the document of the fact that the executant has taken a loan would be no more than a mere acknowledgment of the debt which falls very far short of an undertaking to pay. 43 C.W.N. 330. Letter of request for a loan is not a promissory note. 71 I.C. 968. An instrument attested by a witness and not made payable to order or bearer is a bond and not a promissory note. 100 I.C. 794=1927 Nag. 195. See also the cases cited on the point under cl. (5). See also 54 Cal. 445 followed in 1929 Mad. 599 (Effect of amendment of Negotiable Instruments Act discussed). The mere fact that a person chooses to give a certain title to document by no means makes it that document. A document provided as follows: "On June 25, 1925, Rs.....were found due from me to P, about February 27, it also includes a note promising the payment of any sum of money out of any particular fund which may or may not be available, or upon any condition or contingency which may or may not be performed or happen ;

"Receipt." (23) "receipt" includes any note, memorandum or writing—

(a) whereby any money, or any bill of exchange, cheque or promissory note is acknowledged to have been received, or

(b) whereby any other movable property is acknowledged to have been received in satisfaction of a debt, or

(c) whereby any debt or demand, or any part of a debt or demand, is acknowledged to have been satisfied or discharged, or

(d) which signifies or imports any such acknowledgment, and whether the same is or is not signed with the name of any person ; [1][*]

"Settlement." (24) "settlement" means any non-testamentary disposition, in writing, of movable or immovable property made—

(a) in consideration of marriage,

(b) for the purpose of distributing property of the settler among his family or those for whom he desires to provide, or for the purpose of providing for some person dependent on him, or

(c) for any religious or charitable purpose ;

and includes an agreement in writing to make such a disposition [2][and, where any such disposition has not been made in writing, any instrument recording, whether by way of declaration of trust or otherwise, the terms of any such disposition] ; [3][and

"Soldier." (25) "soldier" includes any person below the rank of non-commissioned officer who is enrolled under the Indian Army Act, 1911.]

Therefore this pronote payable on demand has been executed so that it may serve as evidence and may be useful in time." Held, that the document was a mere acknowledgment of debt coupled with an agreement to pay debt and not a promissory note. Effect of use of words "on demand" discussed. 131 I.C. 135=1931 A. 302; 34 C.W.N. 911. On this section, see also 4 I.C. 293 (L.B.); 28 I.C. 300=8 L.B.R. 155.

Sec. 2 (23).—Each of the entries of over Rs. 20 in a sarkhat left in the hands of the debtor must be stamped as a receipt. 11 A. L.J. 309=35 All. 290. The definition of "receipt" in Sec. 2 (23) is applicable only to instruments executed by the payee in favour of the payer and not to acknowldgments of payment made to a third person. A memorandum signed by the witness and showing that he has received the diet money and filed in Court is not a "receipt" and does not require stamp. 140 I.C. 192. On this subsection, see 12 Rang. 174=1934 Rang. 49.

Sec. 2 (24) : "SETTLEMENT."— Generally refers to a disposition of successive interests in immovable property and is generally couched in the form of a trust. 63 C 1098=40 C.W.N. 1320=1936 C. 556. A deed by which a certain income from property is vested in a body of trustees to be applied to certain charitable institutions is a deed of settlement as well as a deed of trust, and as such is separately liable to stamp duty. 20 Lah.L.T. 151.

Sec. 3.—A decree of Court in the terms of an award is not an instrument chargeable with stamp duty. 11 L.L.T. 147.

Instruments chargeable with duty.

Schedule I, the following instruments shall be chargeable with duty of the amount indicated in that schedule as the proper duty therefor respectively, that is to say :—

(a) every instrument mentioned in that schedule which, not having been previously executed by any person, is executed in British India on or after the first day of July, 1899 ;

(b) every bill of exchange [1][payable otherwise than on demand] [2][*] or promissory note drawn or made out of British India on or after that day and accepted or paid, or presented for acceptance or payment, or indorsed, transferred or otherwise negotiated, in British India ; and

(c) every instrument (other than a bill of exchange [2][*] or promissory note) mentioned in that schedule, which, not having been previously executed by any person, is executed out of British India on or after that day, relates to any property situate, or to any matter or thing done or to be done, in British India and is received in British India :

Provided that no duty shall be chargeable in respect of—

(1) any instrument executed by, or on behalf of, or in favour of, the [3][Crown] in cases where, but for this exemption, the [3][Crown] would be liable to pay the duty chargeable in respect of such instrument ;

(2) any instrument for the sale, transfer or other disposition, either absolutely or by way of mortgage or otherwise, of any ship or vessel, or any part, interest, share or property of or in any ship or vessel registered under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, or under Act XIX of 1838, or the Indian Registration of Ships Act, 1841, as amended by subsequent Acts.

Several instruments used in single transaction of sale, mortgage or settlement.

4. (1) Where, in the case of any sale, mortgage or settlement, several instruments are employed for completing the transaction, the principal instrument only shall be chargeable with the duty prescribed in Schedule I, for the conveyance, mortgage or settlement, and each of the other instruments shall be chargeable with a duty of one rupee instead of the duty (if any) prescribed for it in that schedule.

(2) The parties may determine for themselves which of the instruments so employed shall, for the purposes of sub-section (1), be deemed to be the principal instrument :

Provided that the duty chargeable on the instrument so determined shall be the highest duty which would be chargeable in respect of any of the said instruments employed.

Instruments relating to several distinct matters.

5. Any instrument comprising or relating to several distinct matters shall be chargeable with the aggregate amount of the duties with which separate instruments, each comprising or relating to one of such matters, would be chargeable under this Act.

Sec. 12 : CANCELLATION—WHAT AMOUNTS TO.—Cancellation of stamps—Allegation that stamp was cancelled subsequent to execution of instrument—Burden of proof. 1937 Rang.L.R. 196=1937 Rang. 392. S. 12 (2) cannot be construed to mean that if the concellation of stamps on an instrument, however effective, was effected at some later time than the affixing of the stamps, the document is not receivable in evidence. Such a construction of the section is unsound. The wording of S. 12 (2) makes it clear that that a document is to be deemed unstamped if when the Court looks at the same, it finds that it has not been cancelled so that the stamps cannot be used again, and the criterion of the cancellation is the appearance of the stamps. The sub-section has nothing to do with the penalty for failing to cancel the stamps, for which S. 63 makes provision. If the stamps are in such a condition that they cannot be used again, they have been cancelled and the document cannot be treated as unstampted. There is nothing in the section which prevents the document from being used in evidence if, when it is presented to the Court, the stamps are cancelled; that does not mean that they must have been cancelled at some particular time anterior to its presentment in evidence. It merely refers to the condition of the stamps at the time it is so presented. The object of the legislature is only to protect the revenue. If, when the Court comes to examine the document, the stamps are intact, the danger of a second use of the stamps has not yet occurred, and if cancellation is, before it is presented in evidence, effected, no danger arises of a second use of the stamps in the future. 16 P. 84=17 Pat.L.T. 769=1937 P. 73. See also 161 I.C. 150=1936 O.W.N. 245=1936 O. 176. The Legislature has not attempted any exhaustive list of the modes in which cancellation may be done in sub-S. (3) of S. 12. The object of the cancellation obviously is to make the stamp unfit for further use in the ordinary course of business, and whether this has been done in any particular case is a question to be determined on an examination of the instrument in question. The section does not lay down that the cancellation must be such that it would be impossible for a criminally inclined person to use the stamp again. Thus, where the executant of a promissory note clearly initials his signature on the adhesive stamps on it, the mere fact that the date on which the executant initialled does not appear on any of them, does not make it "not effectually cancelled". 40 P.L.R. 801=1938 Lah. 505. See also I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 56. Where there are several adhesive Stamps, which together make the required stamp, affixed to a promissory note, then in that case S. 12 requires that all such stamps must be cancelled. If one of them is not duly cancelled, the note is to be deemed unstamped so far as that stamp is concerned, and the note is, therefore, inadmissible in evidence. 1940 O.W.N. 581=1940 Oudh 308. Promissory note stamped with four stamps—Cancellation of stamps—What amounts to. 1937 Rang. L.R. 127=1937 Rang. 408. Cancellation is effected within the meaning of this clause, if it is done in such a manner that a person seeing the stamp so cancelled will realise at once that it had already been used and should not be used

(b) whoever executes any instrument on any paper bearing an adhesive stamp shall, at the time of execution, unless such stamp has been already cancelled in manner aforesaid, cancel the same so that it cannot be used again.

(2) Any instrument bearing an adhesive stamp which has not been cancelled so that it cannot be used again, shall, so far as such stamp is concerned, be deemed to be unstamped.

(3) The person required by sub-section (1) to cancel an adhesive stamp may cancel it by writing on or across the stamp his name or initials or the name or initials of his firm with the true date of his so writing, or in any other effectual manner.

again, or in other words if it has been defaced in such a manner that it cannot be used again without some manipulation of words, figures, pen, or ink. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 56=201 I.C. 711. Crossing a stamp by drawing a line and signing on the second adjacent stamp is not cancellation of the first stamp within the meaning of S. 12. 1934 R. 364. Where it is possible to use stamp a second time, in spite of the one line that is drawn across it, the stamp is not cancelled in the effectual manner required by sub-S. (3), S. 12; (1920 L. 374, Rel. on.) 1935 L. 716. A cross mark on the stamp of a pro-note by an illterate person in token of indication of acknowledgment constitutes an effectual cancellation of the stamp within the meaning of S. 12. 3 R. 39=88 I.C. 933. A promissory note was executed in favour of the Nawab of Rampur as such on an unstamped paper, the law in the State not requiring any stamp, held, that the promissory note was admissible in evidence in a British Indian Court as a valid instrument according to this Act. 33 A. 571= 8 A.L.J. 566,

Sec. 12 (1-b) and (2).—OBJECT OF SECTION —ONE or SEVERAL STAMPS NOT CANCELLED—EFFECT.—The principle underlying S.12 is that the possibility of a stamp affixed to an instrument being used again should be precluded. Where a promissory note had four one anna adhesive stamps affixed to it and one of them was not in any way cancelled: Held, that the note was insufficiently stamped. 1934 L. 606. The w rds "so that it cannot be used again" in S. 12 do not imply such a degree of cancellation as would make it physically impossible for any dishonest person to make hereafter a fraudulent use of the stamp. The expression means merely such cancellation as will prevent the stamp being lawfully or conscientiously used again. The question resolves itself into this, if the stamp became detached from the document to which it has been affixed and came into the possession of a person of ordinary honesty and prudence, could he conscientiously use that stamp again? Applying this criterion, a stamp can be as effectually cancelled by a line deliberately drawn across it with the object of cancelling it, as by writing a name or a date across it. 1937 Rang.L.R. 127=1937 Rang. 408. See also 1937 Rang. 413. If one of the two-anna stamps on a promissory note is not duly cancelled and the one anna stamp alone is not sufficient for such note, if cannot be held that the promissory note is sufficiently stamped, for, under S. 12 (2), the note is to be deemed unstamped so far as the uncancelled stamp is concerned. 1929 R. 270; 1933 L. 148. See also 60 I.C. 652=2 P.L.T. 184; 16 I.C. 834=169 P.L.R. 1912.

(b) nothing contained in this proviso shall relieve any person from any penalty incurred by him for omitting to affix or cancel a stamp.

D.—Of valuations for Duty.

Conversion of amount expressed in foreign currencies.

20. (1) Where an instrument is chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of any money expressed in any currency other than that of British India, such duty shall be calculated on the value of such money in the currency of British India according to the current rate of exchange on the day of the date of the instrument.

(2) The Central Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, prescribe[2] a rate of exchange for the conversion of British or any foreign currency into the currency of British India for the purposes of calculating stamp-duty, and such rate shall be deemed to be the current rate for the purpose of sub-section (1).

Stock and marketable securities how to be valued.

Sec. 24.—Sale deed—Purchase-money—Sale of property subject to mortgages—Vendee agreeing to pay off encumbrance—Stamp duty payable on sale-deed. 49 Bom. 73=1924 Bom. 524; 1937 Nag. 57. On this section, see also 13 Rang. 613.

Sec. 24, Expl.—The clause "subject to a mortgage or other incumbrance" governs "sale of property" and not 'property' in S. 24. If property is subject to a mortgage but the vendor in return for the purchase money is to give clear title free from all encumbrances, the explanation does not apply. Nor does the 2nd illustration apply, for the case there put is not a sale free from the encumbrances. Held, that the unpaid mortgage money is in the case of a sale, subject to a mortgage, to be deemed to be part of the consideration for the sale, not because it is part of such consideration, but because the Legislature is determined to tax it. Consequently, an enquiry into the question whether the mortgage amount in fact proved part of the consideration is entirely irrelevant. 58 Cal. 33=1931 Cal. 193 (F.B.); 19 N.L.J. 259 (cited under S. 27, infra).

Sec. 24, Proviso, Expl.—A person having a fractional interest in a mortgage purchasing the equity of redemption of the whole property is not entitled to claim a reduction in the value of the stamp under the proviso in S. 24. 18 Lah.L.T. 45. Under the Explanation to S. 24 the consideration for a sale subject to a mortgage includes the amount of the mortgage-debt. The whole mortgage-debt is charged on every part of the property. Where the equity of redemption is sold in parts the revenue authorities are entitled to charge, on the sale of each party, stamp duty, which includes the amount of the whole mortgage-debt ; that is the effect of S. 24. Certain persons sold one-fourth undivided share which they had in two immovable properties for a sum of Rs. 14,000, one of the properties sold was subject to a mortgage-debt amounting to Rs. 66,633, and that property was sold subject to the mortgage. Held, that the stamp duty on the sale-deed must be calculated on a total sum of Rs. 80,633 (Rs. 14,000 plus Rs. 66,633) and not merely on Rs. 14,000 plus one-fourth of the mortgage-debt only. 42 Bom.L.R. 964=1940 Bom. 360= I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 23.

Sec. 24, proviso.—See 50 Bom. 640=28 Bom.L.R. 1091=1926 Bom. 542.

Secs. 24 and 27.—Where property is sold subject to a mortgage and the vendee undertakes to discharge the mortgage or encumbrance, the instrument of sale must set forth the mortgage as part of the consideration for the sale, under Ss. 24 and 27. The undertaking on the part of the vendee need not be express; it may be implied. The omission to set forth the encumbrance and to pay stamp duty on the amount of the encumbrance is a fraud on the Stamp Law and amounts to defrauding the Government under S. 64 of the Stamp Act. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 432=19 N.L.J. 259=1937 Nag. 57.

Sec. 25.—Where lessee sold all his rights and liabilities under a permanent lease to instrument or the consideration for such conveyance, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be,—

(a) where the sum is payable for a definite period so that the total amount to be paid can be previously ascertained—such total amount ;

(b) where the sum is payable in perpetuity or for an indefinite time not terminable with any life in being at the date of such instrument or conveyance —the total amount which, according to the terms of such instrument or conveyance, will or may be payable during the period of twenty years calculated from the date on which the first payment becomes due ; and

(c) where the sum is payable for an indefinite time terminable with any life in being at the date of such instrument or conveyance—the maximum amount which will or may be payable as aforesaid during the period of twelve years calculated from the date on which the first payment becomes due.

Stamp where value of subject-matter is indeterminate.

26. Where the amount or value of the subject-matter of any instrument chargeable with ad valorem duty, cannot be, or (in the case of an instrument executed before the commencement of this Act) could not have been, ascertained at the date of its execution or first execution, nothing shall be claimable under such instrument more than the highest amount or value for which, if stated in an instrument of the same description, the stamp actually used would, at the date of such execution, have been sufficient :

[1][Provided that, in the case of the lease of a mine in which royalty or a share of the produce is received as the rent or part of the rent, it shall be sufficient to have estimated such royalty or the value of such share, for the purpose of stamp-duty,—

(a) when the lease has been granted by or on behalf of the [2][Crown] , at such amount or value as the Collector may, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, have estimated as likely to be payable by way of royalty or share to the [2][Crown] under the lease, or another for a fixed sum of money and the liabilities so transferred to the assignee included the payment of an annuity to the landlord, the rent or annuity to which the corpus of sale is subject is not the consideration for the transfer and S. 25 has no application thereto. 32 Bom.L.R. 1447=1931 Bom. 1.

Sec. 25 (a) and (b) and Art. 63: CONSTRUCTION AND SCOPE—LEASE OF MINE AND QUARRY FOR 99 YEARS ON PAYMENT OF ANNUAL ROYALTY.—What S. 25 aims at is the ascertainment of the sum which is payable, and which alone is to be taken into consideration for the purpose of calculating the stamp duty. Where a period is fixed, as in the case of a lease, for the subsistence of the lease, a stamp officer who has to determine the stamp duty when the document is presented to him, can immediately ascertain the total sum payable for the period fixed. Obviously, that is not possible where the lease is in perpetuity or where there is no definite time fixed during which the lease is to subsist. In the first case it would fall under sub-Cl. (a) of S. 25: in the second case, it would come under sub-Cl. (b). All that the stamp authorities have to see in the case of a deed of transfer or assignment of a lease, is if they can ascertain the total sum payable by the lessee. If they can do so, they must proceed under S. 25 (a); if they cannot do so, they must take the total sum to be the capitalised sum for 20 years. The period during which the lessee is to hold the estate or the period when the lease expires or can be determined either by a provision in the lease itself or otherwise in accordance with law, has nothing to do with the section and is not of much importance to the stamp authorities. What is aimed at is the ascertainment of the total amount payable when the document is presented. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 320=41 Bom.L.R. 297=1939 Bom. 215.

Secs. 26 and 35.—S. 26 is subject to S. 35. 1924 Nag. 408 (2). By the combined operations of Ss. 26 and 35 a lessee under a mining lease is entitled upon payment of the proper penalty, to recover the royalty provided for in the lease, even though the amount thereof should prove to be in excess of that covered by the stamp originally affixed to the lease. 51 I.A. 332=4 Pat. 34=47 M.L.J. 300 (P.C.). Objection under the section taken for first time in appeal. An objection by the defendant appellant that the lease having been stamped under S. 26, the plaintiff was not entitled to recover anything in excess of the amount for which the stamp was paid, was not taken in the Court below or in the memorandum of appeal ; Held that it was

(b) when the lease has been granted by any other person, at twenty thousand rupees a year ; and the whole amount of such royalty or share, whatever it may be, shall be claimable under such lease :

Provided also that, where proceedings have been taken in respect of an instrument under section 31 or 41, the amount certified by the Collector shall be deemed to be the stamp actually used at the date of execution.

Facts affecting duty to be set forth in instrument.

27. The consideration (if any) and all other facts and circumstances affecting the chargeability of any instrument with duty, or the amount of the duty with which it is chargeable, shall be fully and truly set forth therein.

Direction as to duty in case of certain conveyances.

28. (1) Where any property has been contracted to be sold for one consideration for the whole, and is conveyed to the purchaser in separate parts by different instruments, the consideration shall be apportioned in such manner as the parties think fit, provided that a distinct consideration for each separate part is set forth in the conveyance relating thereto, and such conveyance shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of such distinct consideration.

(2) Where property contracted to be purchased for one consideration for the whole, by two or more persons jointly, or by any person for himself and others, or wholly for others, is conveyed in parts by separate instruments to the persons by or for whom the same was purchased, for distinct parts of the consideration the conveyance of each separate part shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the distinct part of the consideration therein specified.

(3) Where a person, having contracted for the purchase of any property but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the same to any other person and the property is in consequence conveyed immediately to the sub-purchaser, the conveyance shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect of the consideration for the sale by the original purchaser to the sub-purchaser.

(4) Where a person, having contracted for the purchase of any property but not having obtained a conveyance thereof, contracts to sell the whole, or any part thereof, to any other person or persons and the property is in consequence conveyed by the original seller to different persons in parts, the conveyance of each part sold to a sub-purchaser shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect only of the consideration paid by such sub-purchaser, without regard to the amount or value of the original consideration ; and the conveyance of the residue (if any) of such property to the original purchaser shall be chargeable with ad valorem duty in respect only of the excess of the original consideration over the aggregate of the considerations paid by the sub-purchasers :

Provided that the duty on such last-mentioned conveyance shall in no case be less than one rupee.

NOTES.

not an objection, even though tenable, on which the decree should be set aside. 1930 C. 526. S. 26 only applies to a case where the amount or value of the subject-matter of any instrument chargeable with ad valorem duty cannot be ascertained at the date of its execution. It does not apply to the case of an assignment by way of gift in which an estimated value is given of the interest assigned. The parties to an assignment of a debt are under no compulsion to value it at the entire amount due. There is nothing in the Act to limit the right of the parties to value a chose in action at any amount they may think fit or to penalise them for doing so. The fact that a certain value is given in the assignment deed does not preclude the assignee from recovering or claiming more than that amount from the debtor. 18 Pat. 141=1938 P.W.N. 885=19 Pat. Sec. 29.—Where in the case of a sale deed the money for the purchase of the stamp is supplied by and accounted for to the vendee, there is no agreement to the contrary within the meaning of the preamble of S. 29 although the actual purchase of the stamp is made by the vendor. 18 Lah.L.T. 45. S. 29 prescribes that in the absence of an agreement, to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne in the case of a bond by the person drawing, making or executing it. Ordinarily therefore it would be reasonable that the person who has failed to discharge the duty required of him under S. 29 of the Act should bear the expense and penalty if the bond remains unstamped, no matter which party produces it. This view is supported by the fact that under S. 44 when duty or penalty is paid by a person in respect of an instrument which under S. 29 is required to be borne by some other person the former is entitled to recover from the latter the amount of the duty on penalty so paid. 1939 N.L.J. 364.

ADJUDICATION AS TO STAMPS.

Adjudication as to proper stamp.

31. (1) When any instrument, whether executed or not and whether previously stamped or not, is brought to the Collector, and the person bringing it applies to have the opinion of that officer as to the duty (if any) with which it is chargeable, and pays a fee of such amount (not exceeding five rupees and not less than eight annas) as the Collector may in each case direct, the Collector shall determine the duty (if any) with which, in his judgment, the instrument is chargeable.

(2) For this purpose the Collector may require to be furnished with an abstract of the instrument, and also with such affidavit or other evidence as he may deem necessary to prove that all the facts and circumstances affecting the chargeability of the instrument with duty, or the amount of the duty with which it is chargeable, are fully and truly set forth therein, and may refuse to proceed upon any such application until such abstract and evidence have been furnished accordingly :

(2) When such instrument is, in his opinion, not chargeable with duty, the Collector shall certify in manner aforesaid that such instrument is not so chargeable.

(3) Any instrument upon which an endorsement has been made under this section, shall be deemed to be duly stamped or not chargeable with duty, as the case may be; and, if chargeable with duty, shall be receivable in evidence or otherwise, and may be acted upon and registered as if it had been originally duly stamped :

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorize the Collector to endorse—

Though the Collector might erroneously decide that no stamp duty was necessary in regard to an assignment of a promissory note, his decision would be final if he had granted a certificate on the document in question. It would not then be open to a Civil Court to question an endorsement on the document even though the Collector ought not to have granted the certificate, because it was out of time. A letter, however, from the Collector expressing his opinion that no stamp duty was necessary is not a certificate which is contemplated by S. 32 (2) and hence the same is not binding or conclusive on the Civil Court. 1942 M.W.N. 192=55 L.W. 156 =(1942) 1 M.L.J. 325.

INSTRUMENTS NOT DULY STAMPED.

Examination and impounding of instruments.

33. (1) Every person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, and every person in charge of a public office, except an officer of police, before whom any instrument, chargeable in his opinion, with duty, is produced or comes in the performance of his functions, shall, if it appears to him that such instrument is not duly stamped, impound the same.

(2) For that purpose every such person shall examine every instrument so chargeable and so produced or coming before him in order to ascertain whether it is stamped with a stamp of the value and description required by the law in force in British India when such instrument was executed or first executed :

Provided that—

(a) nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require any Magistrate or Judge of a Criminal Court to examine or impound, if he does not think fit so to do, any instrument coming before him in the course of any proceeding other than a proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 ;

(b) in the case of a Judge of a High Court, the duty of examining and impounding any instrument under this section may be delegated to such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf.

(3) For the purposes of this section, in cases of doubt,—

(a) the [1][collecting Government] may determine what offices shall be deemed to be public offices ; and

(b) the [2][collecting Government] may determine who shall be deemed to be persons in charge of public offices.

NOTES.

Scc. 33.—It is not sufficient for the purposes of S. 33 that the document should somehow be produced or come before a public officer. It is essential that it should be produced or come before him "in the performance of his functions" and a mere production in compliance with an illegal demand will not confer authority on him to take action under S. 33. 13 L. 745=1932 L. 495 (F.B.). The word "produced" as used in S. 33 means produced in the ordinary course of law and not produced under compulsion. Further a document is produced by a party only when it is sought to be proved and a witness is examined in respect thereof and not earlier. It is highly improper for a Court to compel a party to produce an original document with a view to impound the document, because the Court has been informed that it is not sufficiently stamped. 44 P.L.R. 188. A document tendered in evidence merely for a collateral purpose can be impounded. S. 33 does not define any particular intention with which a document must be tendered in order that the section may become operative. All that is required is that the document should come before the Court in discharge of its functions. 20 Lah.L.T. 5. Where a copy of an entry not properly stamped was attached to a plaint and the suit was compromised at the first hearing and there was nothing to show that the original entry was ever produced or came before the Court, S. 33 of the Stamp Act had no application. 36 P.L.R. 1 =1934 L. 637 (F.B.); 163 I.C. 560=1936 L. 985 (Transliterations of documents filed with the plaint to be used in case of necessity—Necessity not arising—Court has no power to impound them).

Sccs. 33 and 35.—Promissory note insufficiently stamped—Admissibility—If can be used as acknowledgment of debt. See 40 C.W.N. 399.

Secs. 33-38.—Where a Court finds a deficiency of stamp in a document, the procedure laid down in Ss. 33-38 should be followed. The document must first be impounded under S. 33 and, on payment of penalty, it can be admitted in evidence. The final decision whether it is insufficiently stamped rests with the Collector alone. 95 I.C. 960; 1926 A. 478. A sale certificate granted to a purchaser by the Court had only a four anna stamp, though it should have borne a stamp of eight annas. A copy of the certificate was sent to the Sub-Registrar who informed the Judge that it was insufficiently stamped. The Judge got the certificate back from the purchaser and thinking that he had power to accept the document and to impose a penalty asked for the opinion of the High Court: Held, that until the Judge signed the sale certificate, there was no instrument and so the sale certificate could not be said to come before the Judge in the performance of his functions when it was submitted to him for his signature and seal on the first occasion; that when the Judge signed the certificate on the first occasion, he was functus officio and therefore he was not acting judicially in allowing a second four anna stamp to be attached; that as the Judge when the certificate was presented to him for the second time was functus officio he could not impound it under S. 33 (1), nor had he any legal authority in the exercise of his own inherent powers to recover the requisite stamp of additional value. 32 Bom.L.R. 1084=1930 B. 392 (F.B.); 29 I.C. 671=16 Cr.L.J. 543.

Secs. 33 and 40.—The Collector cannot impound a document again under the provisions of S. 33 (1) or proceed to assess further deficiency and penalty under the provisions of S. 40 of the Stamp Act, where the Court has granted a certificate under S. 42 (1) of the Act having admitted the document into evidence under the provisions of proviso (a) of S. 35. I. L.R. (1940) Lah. 628=1941 Lah. 65.

Secs. 33 and 61.—When an instrument has been admitted in evidence and judgment delivered, the Court becomes functus officio and it is not therefore open to the Court to reopen the matter and impound the document. Its admission may be called in question in a proceeding under S. 61, Stamp Act. 46 L. W. 470=1937 M.W.N. 693=1937 Mad. 763.

Sec. 35: SCOPE OF.—An instrument is a document only when it affects any right or liability. 1936 N. 225. An instrument containing record of a fact per se not affecting any right or liability can be used as evidence without stamp duty. 1936 N. 225. An improperly stamped promissory note cannot be admitted in evidence to prove an acknowledgment of liability in order to save limitation in respect of promissory notes previously executed and recited in the insufficiently stamped instrument. The wording of S. 35 is very precise, and if the words of the section are to be given their ordinary and plain meaning, the promissory note cannot be admitted under any circumstances or for any purpose in a civil suit. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 210=46 L. W. 692=1938 Mad. 75=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 805. See also 1938 Nag. 464; 1938 N.L.J. 145=1938 Nag. 294. S. 35 does not merely say that an instrument which is not duly stamped shall not be admitted in evidence, but it also says that the instrument shall not be acted upon for any purpose, and the passing of a decree upon such an instrument is "acting" upon it. Consequently when a suit is brought upon an instrument which is not duly stamped, the admission of the contents of the instrument made by the defendant does not avail the plaintiff and a decree cannot be based on such an instrument. 1935 R. 282. merely intended to prove that the debtor made an admission of liability to pay on that date. S. 35 would come into play only if it were used as containing within itself any matter which would extend the creditor's right to recover the money. But if the creditor derives his right not from the document itself but from the Limitation Act in consequence of the admission of liability simpliciter contained in the document then S. 35 has no application. Such a document can be used for the purpose of extending limitation under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. A document relevant for this purpose need not be an instrument under S. 2 (14) of the Stamp Act. 1938 N.L.J. 145=1938 Nag. 294. But see 1938 M. 75=(1938) 2 M. L. J. 805. "ADMITTED IN EVIDENCE," meaning of. 50 I. C. 871. Merely handing a document to a witness for purpose of refreshing his memory does not make the document a piece of evidence in the case. 14 P. 233. Where a document as a whole is insufficiently stamped, it should not be admitted in evidence for any purpose. The words "for any purpose" in S. 35 imply "for each and every purpose whatsoever, without any exception." It matters little whether the purpose is the main purpose or is a collateral one. Where the executant of a document bearing one anna stamp states in the earlier portion that a certain amount was found due from him, and in the later portion, promises to pay that amount, the document is intended to be a promissory note and the stamp is affixed to it as such and not as a mere acknowledgment of liability. It is not possible to split it up into two portions, treating the introductory portion as a separate and independent acknowledgment for which one anna stamp is affixed, and treating the rest of it as a promissory note wholly unstamped, so as to make the acknowledgment admissible in evidence. 166 I.C. 919=1936 A. L.J. 1391=1937 A. 101; 1937 Rang.L.R. 127=1937 Rag. 408 (Distinction between collateral purpose and collateral matter pointed out).

WHAT ARE DULY STAMPED DOCUMENTS.—Documents which have been stamped in accordance with the practice which has been recognized by the High Court for a long time, though not strictly legal, will be held to be duly stamped. 40 C. 219=17 C.W.N. 395.

WHAT ARE NOT DULY STAMPED DOCUMENTS.—A demand promissory note stamped with four postal stamps of a quarter anna each, is not duly stamped. 42 I.C. 947=19 Bom.L.R. 862.

PROCEDURE.—Though party withdraws plea against admissibility, Court must deal with the question. 7 Lah.L.J. 343=1925 L. 552. Where the execution of a document which is not duly stamped is admitted by one of the defendants, the document cannot be rejected as against him. 40 P.L.R. 231=1938 Lah. 511. See also 1937 Pat. 560. Where a plaintiff sues to set aside an award on the ground of misconduct of the arbitrators, the plaintiff cannot be called upon if it is found that the award is not duly stamped, to make up the deficiency in the stamp and to pay the penalty under S. 35. 39 I.C. 382=11 Bur.L.T. 17. When a Civil Court admits a document in evidence under S. 35, on payment of deficiency in stamp duty and penalty, it must first exact the full amount of the penalty. 13 L.L.T. 32. When the Court overrules the contention of a party that a document does not require any stamp duty, it should afford him an opportunity to pay the stamp duty and penalty before refusing to admit it in evidence. There is no authority for the proposition that the requisite stamp duty and penalty should be tendered at the time of the production of the document. 35 P.L.R. 687=1934 L. 730.

WHO CAN ADMIT DOCUMENTS.—A clerk of the Court cannot admit a document in evidence; that is a duty reserved for the Court. 1922 L. 354.

THE FOLLOWING DOCUMENTS ARE ADMISSIBLE.—A shahjog hundi attested by a witness being a bond. 22 C.L.J. 209=19 C.W.N. 1326. A foreign promissory note which is not stamped as such is not excluded by S. 35 from being admitted in evidence in a suit filed by the promisee against the maker of the note for recovery of the amount due on the instrument. 28 S.L. R. 266. A promissory note executed outside British India is admissible in evidence though unstamped, but is liable to duty before admission. 32 I.C. 582=9 S.L.R. 150. Where a promissory note is inadmissible in evidence as being insufficiently stamped, a decree cannot be passed on the note, even if the defendant admits liability thereunder. 1934 L. 606; 1935 R. 282. A contract containing the submission to arbitration is not invalid in default of eight annas stamp under S. 35. 35 I.C. 449. Where an instrument included a promissory note and in its latter portion an acknowledgment of a prior liability, though as a promissory note insufficiently stamped it may be inadmissible, the latter portion which contains the acknowledgment is admissible to save limitation. 141 I.C. 169 (1)=1933 M. 251 (2). See also (1938) 2 M.L.J. 189 (F.B.). Where after the execution of a promissory note certain additional words are written on the same paper with the consent of the parties and such words amount to a written agreement varying its terms, the agreement may be proved, if it is not itself a promissory note, upon payment of the deficit stamp and the penalty imposed, and the agreement is binding upon the parties thereto. If the additional words are merely a memorandum for purposes of record of the terms of an oral agreement which varied the terms of the promissory note they are of no effect, for the oral agreement cannot be proved. In any event, the validity and admissibility of the promissory note is not affected. On the other hand, if the effect of the additional words or any of them is to alter the instrument itself in a material respect the result is that the original promissory note will be cancelled, and unless the promissory note as altered has duly been stamped it is inadmissible as such for any purpose, and cannot subsequently be stamped even upon payment of a penalty. It is in each case a question of fact whether the instrument itself has been altered, and a question of law whether the alteration is a material one. Where after the execution of a promissory note it was orally agreed that the maker should be granted 12 months time in which to pay the amount and a memorandum is made to that effect on the note, the instrument itself is not thereby altered in any way, nor is it intended to be a written agreement. 14 Rang. 29. When a Court of Wards, which has power to give acknowledgment of an existing debt, authorises a promissory note to be executed, the note could in any event be used as an acknowledgment of a pre-existing debt. 34 I.C. 205=43 C. 211.

WHAT ARE NOT ADMISSIBLE.—Document not sufficiently stamped is not admissible in evidence for any purpose whatever. 52 P.L.R. 1922=1923 L. 29; 5 O.W.N. 750; 1933 N. 391. Unstamped bond—Secondary evidence of, not admissible. 3 L. 282=1922 L. 401; 1922 L. 354. Where a hundi being insufficiently stamped becomes inadmissible in evidence, no secondary evidence of the transaction can be given. 66 I.C. 201=2 L. 330. A copy of an unstamped original cannot be admitted in evidence on payment of the penalties which can be recovered in respect of the original. 33 P.R. 1913 =16 I.C. 950; 56 I.C. 249; 1922 L. 354; 91 I.C. 772=1925 L. 552; 4 R. 363. Where a document which must be stamped bears adhesive stamp, but the stamp is not cancelled, the document is not admissible under S. 35. 60 I. C. 652=2 Pat.L.T. 184; 1929 R. 270; 1933 L. 148; 16 I.C. 834=169 P.L.R. 1912. An unstamped acknowledgment is inadmissible in evidence even to save limitation. 50 I.C. 78. (18 B. 64, Diss.; 21 B. 201, Foll.)

ADMISSIBILITY FOR COLLATERAL PURPOSE.—Although a document is inadmissible for the purpose of proving a claim, it may be admissible for a collateral purpose, that is, a purpose foreign and not subordinate to that for which the document was executed. A promissory note which is not properly stamped is not only inadmissible for the purpose of proving the debt covered by it, but cannot also be used to support the statement of the plaintiff's witnesses who come to prove the debt. 14 P. 233. A promissory note which is insufficiently stamped cannot be used even for the purpose of proving an acknowledgment by the maker of it of his indebtedness. A promissory note which contains a promise to pay at a future date instead of on demand clearly falls under S. 35. 1937 M. 364 =(1937) 1 M.L.J. 163. See also (1938) 2 M.L. J. 189 (F.B.); 1939 Mad. 34=(1938) 2 M.L. J. 846. The fact that a promissory note is unstamped does not make the document invalid. The effect of S. 35 is to make such an unstamped document inadmissible in evidence, and unable to be acted upon by persons having authority to receive evidence or by any public officer. It does not affect the validity of the document. I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 257=1937 Cal. 765.

PRO-NOTE DULY EXECUTED — SUBSEQUENT REMOVAL OF STAMP—PROCEDURE.—It is necessary to interpret the word "is" in S. 35 so as to include "has been". Consequently where a promissory note is duly stamped at the time of the execution, the document is admissible in evidence, if, at the time it is tendered in evidence, it is no longer "duly stamped" by reason of the loss, or removal of the stamp. 1934 A.L.J. 1202=1934 A. 388. Promissory note—Subsequent addition of words with consent of parties —Effect of—Admissibility—Stamp, if necessary. 14 R. 29.

DOCUMENT INSUFFICIENTLY STAMPED ATTACHED TO PLAINT—DECREE ON TERMS OF COMPROMISE.—Where a copy of an entry not properly stamped was attached to a plaint and the suit was compromised at the first hearing and a decree was passed in terms of the compromise without the copy or the original entry having been put in evidence, the document could not be held to have been acted upon and the provisions of S. 35 have no application. 36 P.L.R. 1=1934 L. 637 (F.B.).

DOCUMENTS ADMITTED, EFFECT OF.—Where a document alleged to be a promissory note has been admitted in evidence by the trial Court on payment of a penalty, the admission cannot be questioned in the Court of appeal however erroneous that admission might have been. 1924 Lah. 143. Under S. 35, an instrument not duly stamped cannot be admitted in any evidence for any purpose whatever, but, when once it is admitted by a Court, though wrongly, the appellate Court is debarred under S. 36 from interfering in the matter. 141 I.C. 569=1933 Lah. 240. See also notes under Sec. 36, infra.

REJECTION OF DOCUMENTS—WHETHER SUIT LIES.—Where certain hundis sued on were rejected as being insufficiently stamped, held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to sue for the consideration. 45 Cal. 538=41 I.C. 503=21 C.W.N. 1043. Arbitration—Award—Submission not stamped—Effect of—Suit to set aside award—Objection. 27 C.W.N. 513. See also 1939 A.M.L.J. 125. Where a promissory note is inadmissible in evidence, under the law a claim based on the original consideration may be enforced provided it has not merged in the note. The loan itself implies a promise to repay. 19 I.C. 840=17 C.L.J. 399. Where a promissory note executed in settlement of accounts between the parties is invalid for want of stamp, the plaintiff could get a decree on the previous settlements of accounts and the oral agreement to pay. 23 I.C. 85=15 M.L.T. 243. Where a promissory note is inadmissible in evidence for want of stamp, it is not permissible to grant a decree on the original consideration when there was no independent obligation to pay apart from the note. 38 Mad. 660=26 M.L.J. 10. If a loan and the pro-note are contemporaneous and form part of one transaction, no suit based on the original consideration is maintainable if the pro-note is inadmissible for insufficient stamp. 10 I.C. 669=9 M.L.T. 281. Even where the alleged loan and the promissory note are contem-

Provided that—

(a) any such instrument not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna [1][or half an anna] only, or a bill of exchange or promissory note, shall, subject to all just exceptions, be admitted in evidence on payment of the duty with which the same is chargeable, or, in the case of an instrument insufficiently stamped, of the amount required to make up such duty, together with a penalty of five rupees, or, when ten times the amount of the proper duty or deficient portion thereof exceeds five rupees, of a sum equal to ten times such duty or portion ;

(b) where any person from whom a stamped receipt could have been demanded, has given an unstamped receipt and such receipt, if stamped, would be admissible in evidence against him, then such receipt shall be admitted in evidence against him on payment of a penalty of one rupee by the person tendering it ;

poraneous and the promissory note is inadmissible in evidence for want of proper stamp under S. 35, the plaintiff can prove the loan transaction only apart from the defective instrument, there being no intention to deliver the money gratuitously or in satisfaction of any obligation. 1933 Nag. 57 (2). Document unstamped—Inadmissible in evidence—Decree on original consideration maintainable. 65 I.C. 37.

PENALTY—PROCEDURE BY COURT.—Where a document is held to be an insufficiently stamped agreement, the trial Court should record at the earlier stages a finding on that issue and give an opportunity to the party to pay the penalty. Where such opportunity was denied, held, that the penalty could be allowed to be paid in second appeal. 13 Lah. 516=1932 Lah. 616.

FOREIGN LAW.—If the law of a foreign country, where a document was executed, simply provides that it shall not be admissible in evidence if not properly stamped, it can be sued upon in a British Court. But if the foreign law provides that the agreement embodied in the document is void for want of proper stamp, then it cannot be sued upon in a British Court. 20 Bom. L.R. 464=46 I.C. 174=42 Bom. 522.

Sec. 35, Proviso (a).—When the previous loans were not time-barred, a sarkhat was executed by the debtor for the money lent before; but it was stated that money lent had been paid in cash, and the debtor agreed to pay interest. It was not stamped. Held, that though it might have been an acknowledgment, it was the intention of the parties that the sarkhat should be a fresh transaction; that the document could be treated as an agreement which was admissible in evidence on payment of the stamp duty and penalty. 54 A. 761=142 I.C. 688=1933 A. 179. See also 16 N.L.J. 241 =1933 Nag. 391. S. 35. Proviso (a) is mandatory and a document (e.g., a bond) which is not one of the documents excepted in that proviso must be admitted in evidence on payment of duty and penalty. The omission to get a document which is executed out of British India, stamped with a foreign stamp, and stamped in British India is not any "just exception" contemplated by the proviso. The phrase is somewhat vague, and means "some valid objection to the document being stamped other than a mere objection under the Stamp Act, e.g., some fraud or intention on the part of the holder of the document to evade the duty, or again the document itself might be a suspicious one, or a forged one in the opinion of the Court." 1935 Nag. 54. See also 1939 A.L.J. 458=1939 All. 515; 1940 N.L.J. 217=1940 Nag. 214. If a document could not be admitted under proviso (a) to S. 35, then it would be totally inadmissible in evidence. Where a document is inadmissible in evidence, a plaintiff can sue upon the original claim if in time, but the document cannot be admitted in evidence in support of the claim. 1935 Nag. 54.

Sec. 35, Proviso (b).—Where the document in question was not an "acknowledgment of a debt" within the meaning of Art. 1 of Sch. I, but was an entry purporting to be a 'receipt' of a cash advance made by the plaintiff and an one anna stamp was affixed to the same but the defendant failed to cancel the same. Held, that the receipt would be considered to have been unstamped and could be admitted in evidence only on payment of a penalty of one rupee. I.R. 1932 Lah. 624. See also 54 All. 761=142 I. C. 688=1933 All. 179.

Secs. 35 and 36.—Arbitrator—Power to act under the section—Jurisdiction of Court—Documents substituting one arbitrator for another—Stamp not necessary. 28 C.W.N. 871 =1924 Cal. 794. There is no bar under any law preventing the Court from using a promissory note which is stamped with an one anna stamp instead of a two anna stamp as a piece of evidence supporting the plaintiff's case as to loan. Where such a document has been received in evidence in the trial Court without objection on the part of the defendant, the appellate Court will not interfere. 53 C.L.J. 254=1931 Cal. 480. See also (1938) 2 M.L.J. 189 (F.B.). The appellat Court cannot say that, though it has been marked as an exhibit in the case, it would not look into it or pass a decree on that basis. 1932 Mad. 765=63 M.L.J. 548. See also 1933 Lah. 240=34 P.L.R. 501. Where a document like a promissory note, which is insufficiently stamped and which cannot be admitted in evidence under S. 35 even

(c) where a contract or agreement of any kind is effected by correspondence consisting of two or more letters and any one of the letters bears the proper stamp, the contract or agreement shall be deemed to be duly stamped ;

(d) nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any proceeding in a Criminal Court, other than a proceeding under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 ;

(e) nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in any Court when such instrument has been executed by or on behalf of the [1][Crown], or where it bears the certificate of the Collector as provided by section 32 or any other provision of this Act.

Admission of instrument where not to be questioned.

36. Where an instrument has been admitted in evidence, such admission shall not, except as provided as section 61, be called in question at any stage of the same suit or proceeding on the ground that the instrument has not been duly stamped.

NOTES.

on payment of duty and penalty, is admitted in evidence by the lower Court, it cannot be called in question in revision on the ground that it is not duly stamped. S. 61 gives the Court to which appeals lie a jurisdiction to deal with the case of instruments which should not have been admitted in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under S. 35 or without the payment of a higher duty than those paid. It does not give such Court any jurisdiction to deal with the case of an instrument which should not have been admitted at all. 1935 A.L.J. 651=1935 All. 410. Partition decree not engrossed on non-judicial stamp of proper value—Acting upon —Execution ordered—Objection at subsequent executions, can be taken. 1938 Mad. 307.

Secs. 35 and 48: DOCUMENT ADMITTED IN EVIDENCE AND DECREE PASSED ON IT—POWER OF COURT TO REALISE DEFICIENCY IN STAMP.—The only provision of the Stamp Act by which a Civil Court is authorized to realise deficiency in stamp is S. 35, but that provision is obviously intended to apply before a document is admitted in evidence. Where, however, a document is admitted in evidence and a decree is passed on it through an oversight without the deficiency in stamp and the requisite penalty having been paid, the jurisdiction to realise the deficiency in stamp lies with the Collector under S. 48 and not with the Civil Court. 1936 O.W.N. 1245=1937 Oudh 176.

Sec. 35 and Sch. I, Art. 48: APPLICABILITY —LETTER EMPOWERING LETTING OF LAND.—If a letter written by a zamindar empowers his karinda to let the land to anybody, it would be a power of attorney and would be inadmissible in evidence if unstamped in view of S. 35 read with Art. 48, Sch. I of the Act. 1942 R.D. 365=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 276.

Sec. 36.—Section is mandatory and applies both to Court of Appeal as well as of revision, and whether the admissibility was challenged in the lower Court or not. See 98 I.C. 75=1926 M. 1148; 63 Cal. 1098=40 C.W.N. 1320 =1936 C. 556; 1928 P. 255; 1927 L. 876. See also 45 L.W. 515=1937 Mad. 431. The words of S. 36 are perfectly general and are not restricted in their application to such documents only as can be received in evidence on payment of the stamp duty and penalty. It applies also to instruments which form the very basis of the claim made, and since the section lays down that the admission of the instrument cannot be called in question, it necessarily implies that the instrument must also be acted upon. In a suit on an insufficiently stamped pro-note, the note was allowed to be filed in evidence, the Court being of opinion that it could be relied on as an acknowledgment of liability, and on the strength of it, a decree was passed. The decree having been set aside on appeal, held, in second appeal, that the pro-note once having been admitted in evidence, the original defect ceased to be a hindrance by reason of S. 36 and that the decree passed on the strength of it was perfectly valid. 1934 Mad. 700=67 M.L.J. 539. See also 1936 Rang. 498; 13 Rang. 322=1935 Rang. 160. When an instrument has once been admitted in evidence, it cannot be called in question at any stage of the same suit, in view of the provisions of S. 36. It matters nothing under S. 36 whether the instrument was wrongly admitted or rightly admitted, or admitted without objection or after hearing or without hearing such objection. From the time of admission of the document, it is not open to objection on the ground of not having been duly stamped. 16 P. 84=167 I.C. 152=3 B.R. 272 =17 P.L.T. 769=1937 P. 73; 51 C.L.J. 569=1930 C. 577 (1). S. 36 is not confined to instruments admitted in the course of evidence in support of subsidiary points in the case but applies also to documents forming the foundation for suit. Where the lower Court has definitely found that the suit note is a bond and has admitted it in evidence levying penalty on it, the question whether the suit note is a promissory note or bond does not necessarily arise for decision in appeal. Even assuming that the suit document is a promissory note, it having been admitted in evidence by the payment of a penalty, its

Where a document has been admitted in evidence by the trial Court, it is not open in appeal, which is a mere continuation of the same proceeding, to question that admission. 1925 M. 1215=49 M.L.J. 306; 101 I. C. 198=1927 R. 109; 1931 A.L.J. 230=1931 A. 302; 1933 L. 240; 1924 L. 143; 53 C.L.J. 254=1931 C. 480; 63 M.L.J. 548=1932 M. 765; 1927 M. 786=53 M.L.J. 131; 53 C. 515 =30 C.W.N. 609=1926 C. 877; 13 Bom. 449; 12 C. 64; 19 C.L.J. 87; 1939 N.L.J. 341=1939 Nag. 220; 1937 M. 431; 71 C.L.J. 190; 1939 O.W.N. 102=1939 Oudh 85; 1936 Pesh. 200; 1931 A.L.J. 230=1931 A. 302; 1933 All. 821 (The trial Court also cannot review its own order). Where a trial Court admits only part of an insufficiently stamped promissory note, as an acknowledgment, the appellate Court would not be precluded from holding that part of the document is not admissible and that the whole of it should be excluded as being inadmissible. But if it had admitted the document in its entirety and relied only on a portion of it, the appellate Court would be precluded from questioning its admissibility even though it had been wrongly admitted by the trial Court. 1938 A.L.J. 907=1938 All. 619. Stamp matters are really no concern of the parties. If the objection was taken at the time when the record was made and rejected, it cannot be raised at any later stage. 51 C.L.J. 569= 1930 C. 577 (1). In a suit on a hundi, a clerk of the Court stamped the usual indorsement of production and admission on the hundi and the Judge's initials were affixed to the same by a rubber stamp. Subsequently the Judge on a consideration of the document held that it was not duly stamped and therefore inadmissible and rejected it. Held, that the Judge not having applied his mind to a consideration of its admissibility at the time of the endorsement made by the clerk and the affixing of his initials, it could not be said that the hundi was admitted in evidence within the meaning of S. 36, and therefore it was open to the Judge to reject the hundi as it was not properly stamped. 1929 M. 522=56 M.L.J. 633; 38 L.W. 582=65 M.L.J. 673 (meaning of the words "admitted in evidence"). See also 142 I.C. 535=1933 L. 271; I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 195=1940 Sind 194; 1938 O.W.N. 1085=178 I.C. 338. But where an instrument inadmissible in evidence for want of proper stamp was let in and after examining witnesses as to its execution, the Judge gave judgment acting upon it, it must be held to have been admitted in evidence within the meaning of S. 36, and admission cannot be questioned in appeal. 119 I.C. 485=1929 L. 770. If an instrument is let in whether after deciding the objection to its admissibility or not, it must be held to have been admitted in evidence within the meaning of S. 36 and its admissibility cannot thereafter be questioned. Where the Judge endorses on the back of the document that it is insufficiently stamped and that it is allowed to go in, and the same bears a rubber stamp with the initials of the Judge, it must be held to have been admitted in evidence. 48 L.W. 494=1938 Mad. 938=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 478. See also 1938 O.W.N. 1085. The provisions of S. 36 are mandatory and absolute and preclude the admission of a document once admitted in evidence from being called in question at any stage of the suit on the ground that the document was not duly stamped. There is nothing in the section to warrant the conclusion that the section has application only to cases in which the Court has admitted the document after 'consciously' applying its mind to the question of admissibility. When a Court admits a document in evidence it does or at least is deemed to act judicially and this judicial act of admitting the document in evidence can at no subsequent stage of the suit be set at naught on the ground that the document was not duly stamped. I.L.R. (1939) All. 846=1939 A.L.J. 552=1939 All. 588. Where the plaintiff sued on a promissory note and the defendant raised the plea that it was not admissible in evidence on the ground that it was not validly stamped, but no issue was framed on its admissibility and the Court of the first instance marked it as exhibit unconditionally, the appellate Court has no jurisdiction to agitate the question of its admissibility. 119 I.C. 472=1929 M. 622. A mortgage was executed on an ordinary impressed revenue stamp, but surcharged with the words: "Court-fee" stamped over it. The amount of the stamp was sufficient to satisfy the revenue requirements. Before the defendants filed a written statement calling attention to the stamp objection, the plaintiffs mortgagees had applied to the Court for return of the mortgage deed in order that they might apply to the Collector for rectification of the error. The document was forwarded to the Collector under S. 38 (2) who on payment of further duty and a penalty certified it to be duly stamped. It was then received in evidence. Held, that in accordance with S. 36, its admission could not be called in question at any stage of the suit on a stamp objection. 56 I. A. 379=7 Rang. 624=58 M.L.J. 56 (P.C.). Once a document is admitted in evidence, no further question can arise under the section as to its admissibility on the ground that it was not duly stamped. 11 A.L.J. 506= 19 I.C. 445. Judge admitting in evidence—Successor cannot reject the document. 93 I. C. 317=24 A.L.J. 389. S. 36 is applicable to documents executed before the Act and the admission of such a document in evidence cannot be subsequently objected to on the ground that it was insufficiently stamped. 59 I.C. 3=32 C.L.J. 73. See also 66 M. Where the trying Court treats an unstamped document as agreement and collects penalty and duty thereon erroneously, the appellate Court cannot correct the error by virtue of S. 36. 62 I. C. 607=40 M.L.J. 479. A pro-note with a stamp not duly cancelled was admitted in evidence in an ex parte trial, but the ex parte trial was set aside and the proceedings were commenced afresh. Held, that the admissibility of the pro-note in evidence could be attacked after the ex parte trial was set aside. 16 I.C. 96=23 M.L.J. 273. The word 'admission' in S. 36 includes the giving of decree. The term "acting upon" is wider than the word "admission". 33 I.C. 595=8 Bur.L.T. 290. See also 65 M.L.J. 673. Where a document is decided by the trial Court to be admissible in evidence, such admission cannot be questioned in appeal on the ground that the document has not complied with R. 7 of the rules made by the Government of India under S. 75, Stamp Act. 1932 Lah. 582. An appellate Court should not dismiss a suit on the ground that a document which the first Court has admitted in evidence was unstamped or insufficiently stamped; all it could do would be to impound the document and send it on to the Collector to levy duty and penalty. 93 I.C. 595=8 Bur.L.T. 290. In a suit on a promissory note, the defendant admitted execution in his written statement and pleaded discharge, but at the time of argument he discovered a legal objection to the maintainability of the suit on the ground that the stamp affixed to the note had not been cancelled as required by S. 12 and raised the objection that the note was inadmissible in evidence. Held, that having regard to S. 36, the admissibility of the document could not be reopened on account of the document not having been duly stamped. 1932 Mad. 693=63 M.L.J. 303. See also 57 Mad. 783=66 M.L.J. 703.

"ADMITTED IN EVIDENCE"—MEANING OF.—"Admitted in evidence" means the act of letting the document in as part of the evidence; but it must be let in as a result of the judicial determination of the question whether it can be admitted in evidence or not for want of stamp. (6 I.C. 903, Foll.) An unstamped hundi exhibited before a Commissioner appointed by the Court was given only an identifying mark and no more. The Commissioner had not considered, when exhibited, as to its admissibility in evidence, much less was there any objection raised as to its admissibility. An issue as to its admissibility was pending before the Court. Held, that it could not be inferred in law that there was an admission of the hundi in evidence by the Commissioner within the meaning of S. 36, Stamp Act. 42 L. W. 574=1935 Mad. 888. The words of S. 36 do not contemplate admission in evidence except by the Court itself. 42 L.W. 574=1935 Mad. 888.

Sec. 37.—Endorsement on a pro-note by a sub-Collector that the penalty has been levied is not a certificate within S. 37 that the pro-note is duly stamped. 52 I.C. 758. It is not correct that S. 37 has no reference to any stamp, except a revenue stamp pure and simple. A revenue stamp surcharged "court-fee" is within the meaning of S. 37 a stamp of improper description. So far as court-fee stamps in their present form are concerned, too narrow a construction upon a remedial section like S. 37 should not be put. (23 All. 213, Dissented from.) 56 I.A. 379=7 Rang. 624=58 M.L.J. 59 (P.C.). See also 1937 Pat. 560. A promissory note stamped with quarter anna postage stamps is a document bearing stamps of improper description and can be validated by the Collector under R. 18 of the Government of India Stamp Rules. 55 Mad. 627=1932 Mad. 390=62 M.L.J. 538 (F.B.). Where a partition decree is not drawn up on judicial stamp paper, there is no decree at all and the executing Court can refuse execution. The fact that in such a case, the party has mistakenly furnished court-fee stamp and the Court mistakenly permitted the decree to be drawn up is immaterial. 135 I.C. 685=1932 Lah. 249.

Secs. 37 and 42.—A partition decree was not duly stamped as required by the Stamp Act, but it was nevertheless acted upon and executions also were ordered. On an objection at a later stage as to the absence of stamp, the decree was engrossed on proper stamp. On a question whether the decree and the proceedings in execution thereof became validated retrospectively, thereby. Held, that S. 37 had no application and that the case was not one in which an instrument had been written on a stamp of sufficient amount, but of improper description. 1938 Mad. 307. Held, further, that there was no provision of law which could validate a decree of the kind in question, with retrospective effect and that S. 42 (2) of the Act in terms is not retrospective in its operation. 47 L.W. 51=1938 M.W.N. 656=1938 Mad. 307.

Sec. 38.—Where a bond executed outside British India is presented in a British Indian Court nearly 10 months after its execution, it cannot be stamped in British India under the provisions of S. 18, nor can it be endorsed by the Collector under S. 32. But the Court must impound the document under proviso (a) to S. 35, and send it to the Collector under S. 38. 1935 Nag. 54. Both under S. 38 (1) and S. 61, the Civil Court is the final authority as to the amount of the stamp duty, while the Revenue authorities have the final decision on the amount of penalty to be levied. 13 Lah. L.T. 32. See also 1935 N. 54.

Sec. 38 (2): JURISDICTION OF COLLECTOR.—So far as S. 38 (2) is concerned, the Collector derives his jurisdiction only from the order which has been made within the Act, and if an order is made which is ultra vires even the Collector's jurisdiction is not being properly exercised. 44 P.L.R. 188.

Sec. 40 (1) (b).—The Chief Controlling Authority is competent to revise the order of the Collector passed under cl. (b) of S. 40 (1). 34 P.L.R. 630. See also 1941 Lah. 65 ; I.L.R. Where the vendee of immovable property, being well aware of the existence of incumbrances on that property, fails to inform the Registering officer of all the facts and circumstances pertaining to the sale when questioned about it and recites a patently and an absurdly small sum as consideration, he commits a breach of S. 27 and must be held to have withheld the information with the intent of defrauding the State of the full stamp duty on the transaction. The Collector in such a case is perfectly entitled to levy not merely the sum of Rs. 5 but the full amount of ten times the amount of the proper stamp duty as also the amount of the proper stamp duty. 20 N.L.J. 67. Provided that, when such instrument has been impounded only because it has been written in contravention of section 13 or section 14, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, remit the whole penalty prescribed by this section.

(2) Every certificate under clause (a) of sub-section (1) shall, for the purposes of this Act, be conclusive evidence of the matters stated therein.

(3) Where an instrument has been sent to the Collector under section 38, sub-section (2), the Collector shall, when he has dealt with it as provided by this section, return it to the impounding officer.

Instruments unduly stamped by accident.

41. If any instrument chargeable with duty and not duly stamped, not being an instrument chargeable with a duty of one anna [2][or half an anna] only or a bill of exchange or promissory note, is produced by any person of his own motion before the Collector within one year from the date of its execution or first execution, and such person brings to the notice of the Collector the fact that such instrument is not duly stamped and offers to pay to the Collector the amount of the proper duty, or the amount required to make up the same, and the Collector is satisfied that the omission to duly stamp such instrument has been occasioned by accident, mistake or urgent necessity, he may, instead of proceeding under sections 33 and 40, receive such amount and proceed as next hereinafter prescribed.

Endorsement of instruments on which duty has been paid under section 35, 40 or 41.

42. (1) When the duty and penalty (if any) leviable in respect of any instrument have been paid under section 35, section 40 or section 41, the person admitting such instrument in evidence or the Collector, as the case may be, shall certify by endorsement thereon that the proper duty or, as the case may be, the proper duty and penalty (stating the amount of each) have been levied in respect thereof, and the name and residence of the person paying them.

as those contained in the Stamp Act, it must like any other citizen be expected to be called upon not only to refund the money due from it but also the cost, or a proportion of the costs, of the machinery of Government which has had to be set in motion in order to make that recovery possible. 20 Lah.L.T. 46.

Sec. 40 (2).—The conclusive presumption laid down in the section does not arise in a case where the Collector's certificate is without jurisdiction. See 93 I.C. 63=1926 A. 359.

Secs. 40 and 35.—There is nothing in S. 35 or S. 40 to enable either the Court or the Collector to compel a person who merely wishes to have an insufficiently stamped document admitted in evidence in Court to pay the duty or penalty, when he is not himself the executant under these sections, the payment of such duty or penalty is left to his choice. If he does not pay, he has to take the consequence of not being able to use the document. But it would be obviously hard and unfair to compel such a person to pay the duty on the document merely because he attempted to produce it in evidence. 42 P.L.R. 413=1940 Lah. 315 (S.B.). See also 20 N.L.J. 67.

Secs. 40 and 56 : POWERS OF COLLECTOR.—Where a Court is unable to determine whether the amount of duty to be paid is sufficient or not, or what duty should be paid, the Court should state the same when sending the case to the Collector. The certificate of Collector under S. 40 (1) (a) is final and probably an order under S. 40 (1) (b) is also final. It is discretionary with the Collector whether the matter should be referred to the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority. 1935 N. 54. See also 13 Lah.L.T. 32.

Sec. 41.—Obiter.—Where a sale certificate is insufficiently stamped, the purchaser may apply under S. 41 to the Collector asking for the mistake to be rectified. 32 Bom.L.R. 1084=1930 B. 392 (F.B.).

Sec. 42.—Where a document purports to be a deed of adoption but is in reality a deed of gift and is stamped as an authority to adopt, if the Collector validates and certifies it under S. 42, his decision is final and binding and cannot be set aside by a Civil Court. 119 I.C. 680 (1)=1929 N. 272. S. 42 (2) has no application to a case where no duty and penalty have been levied in respect of a document by the lower Court. 1932 M. 765=63 M.L.J. 548. See also 1938 Mad. 307 ; 1941 Lah. 65.

(2) Every instrument so endorsed shall thereupon be admissible in evidence, and may be registered and acted upon and authenticated as if it had been duly stamped, and shall be delivered on his application in this behalf to the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the officer impounding it, or as such person may direct :

Provided that—

(a) no instrument which has been admitted in evidence upon payment of duty and a penalty under section 35, shall be so delivered before the expiration of one month from the date of such impounding, or if the Collector has certified that its further detention is necessary and has not cancelled such certificate ;

(b) nothing in this section shall affect the Code of Civil Procedure, section 144, clause 3.[1]

Prosecution for offence against stamp-law.

43. The taking of proceedings or the payment of a penalty under this Chapter in respect of any instrument shall not bar the prosecution of any person who appears to have committed an offence against the stamp-law in respect of such instrument :

Provided that no such prosecution shall be instituted in the case of any instrument in respect of which such a penalty has been paid, unless it appears to the Collector that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty.

Persons paying duty or penalty may recover same in certain cases.

44. (1) When any duty or penalty has been paid under section 35, section 37, section 40 or section 41, by any person in respect of an instrument, and, by agreement or under the provisions of section 29 or any other enactment in force at the time such instrument was executed, some other person was bound to bear the expense of providing the proper stamp for such instrument, the first mentioned person shall be entitled to recover from such other person the amount of the duty or penalty so paid.

(2) For the purpose of such recovery any certificate granted in respect of such instrument under this Act shall be conclusive evidence of the matters therein certified.

(3) Such amount may, if the Court thinks fit, be included in any order as to costs in any suit or proceeding to which such persons are parties and in which such instrument has been tendered in evidence. If the Court does not include the amount in such order, no further proceedings for the recovery of the amount shall be maintainable.

Sec. 43: LAUNCHING OF PROSECUTION—DUTY OF COLLECTOR.—Prima facie CASE, IF SUFFICIENT. —The proviso to S. 43 requires that unless the Collector is satisfied that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty, no prosecution should be launched. The Collector cannot leave this question to the Court that is responsible for trying the case. A prima facie case is not sufficient. The section is mandatory in this respect. The Collector must himself record a finding that he is satisfied that such an intention existed. 1911 A.M.L.J. 111.

Sec. 44.—S. 44 is only intended to give a right to an innocent party, to recover the duty and penalty he is obliged to pay from the person or persons guilty of default. A co-executant cannot therefore claim contribution from his co-executants. 31 I.C. 285=2 L.W. 1024. See also 46 L. W. 470=1937 Mad. 763 ; 160 I. C. 70=1936 A.L.J. 187=1936 A. 151 ; 1939 N.L. Power to revenue-authority to refund penalty or excess duty in certain cases.

Controlling Revenue-authority[1] may, upon application in writing made within one year from the date of the payment, refund such penalty wholly or in part.

(2) Where, in the opinion of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority,[1] stamp-duty in excess of that which is legally chargeable has been charged and paid under section 35 or section 40, such authority may, upon application in writing made within three months of the order charging the same, refund the excess.

Non-liability for loss of instruments sent under section 38.

46. (1) If any instrument sent to the Collector under section 38, sub-section (2), is lost, destroyed or damaged during transmission, the person sending the same shall not be liable for such loss, destruction or damage.

(2) When any instrument is about to be so sent, the person from whose possession it came into the hands of the person impounding the same, may require a copy thereof to be made at the expense of such first-mentioned person and authenticated by the person impounding such instrument.

Power of payer to stamp bills and promissory notes received by him unstamped.

47. When any bill of exchange, [2][or promissory note] chargeable with the duty of one nana is presented for payment unstamped, the person to whom it is so presented may affix thereto the necessary adhesive stamp, and, upon cancelling the same in manner hereinbefore provided, may pay the sum payable upon such bill [3][or note], and may charge the duty against the person who ought to have paid the same, or deduct it from the sum payable as aforesaid, and such bill [3][or note] shall, so far as respects the duty, be deemed good and valid :

Provided that nothing herein contained shall relieve any person from any penalty or proceeding to which he may be liable in relation to such bill [3][or note].

Recovery of duties and penalties.

48. All duties, penalties and other sums required to be paid under this Chapter may be recovered by the Collector by distress and sale of the movable property of the person from whom the same are due, or by any other process for the time being in force for the recovery of arrears of land-revenue.

[2] Substituted for the words "promissory note or cheque" by Act V of 1927.

[3] Substituted for the words "note or cheque" by Act V of 1927.

[4] The words "Local Government" were substituted for "Governor-General in Council" by Act IV of 1914, and word "collecting" was substituted for 'Local' by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937. In S. 49, cl. (c) the word "cheques" has been omitted by Act V of 1927 and the words "payable otherwise than on demand" were added by Act V of 1927.

NOTES.

Sec. 47.—Sec. 47 does not permit a bill of exchange being stamped by an intermediate holder of the bill who is neither the drawer nor the drawee in order to validate such bill and thereby enable himslf or a subsequent holder of the bill to sue the drawer. 86 I.C. 357=1925 S. 241.

Sec. 48.—Where a document which is insuffi ciently stamped has been impounded, Govern ment can pursue its claim against the estate of the deceased executant. 42 P.L.R. 413=1940 Lah. 315 (S.B.).

Secs. 48 and 58.—A deed by which a person settles his property on his sons and arranges for its management is liable to stamp duty under Arts. 48 and 58. 20 Lah. L.T. 5.

Secs. 49 and 50.—A person other than the purchaser of the stamp wasted can apply for refund. 116 I.C. 713=1929 L. 332.

Allowance for spoiled stamps.

as to the evidence to be required, or the enquiry to be made, the Collector may, on application made within the period prescribed in section 50, and if he is satisfied as to the facts, make allowance for impressed stamps spoiled in the cases hereinafter mentioned, namely :—

(a) the stamp on any paper inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, obliterated or by error in writing or any other means rendered unfit for the purpose intended before any instrument written thereon is executed by any person ;

(b) the stamp on any document which is written out wholly or in part, but which is not signed or executed by any party thereto ;

(c) in the case of bills of exchange [1][payable otherwise than on demand] [1][*] or promissory notes—

(1) the stamp on [2][any such bill of exchange] [2][* ] signed by or on behalf of the drawer which has not been accepted or made use of in any manner whatever or delivered out of his hands for any purpose other than by way of tender for acceptance : provided that the paper on which any such stamp is impressed does not bear any signature intended as or for the acceptance of any bill of exchange [2][ *] to be afterwards written thereon :

(2) the stamp on any promissory note signed by or on behalf of the maker which has not been made use of in any manner whatever or delivered out of his hands :

(3) the stamp used or intended to be used for [2][any such bill of exchange], [2][* ] or promissory note signed by, or on behalf of, the drawer thereof, but which from any omission or error has been spoiled or rendered useless, although the same, being a bill of exchange [2][ ], may have been presented for acceptance or accepted or endorsed, or, being a promissory note, may have been delivered to the payee : provided that another completed and duly stamped bill of exchange, [2][ *] or promissory note is produced identical in every particular, except in the correction of such omission or error as aforesaid, with the spoiled bill, [2][] or note:

(d) the stamp used for an instrument executed by any party thereto which—

(1) has been afterwards found to be absolutely void in law from the beginning:

(2) has been afterwards found unfit, by reason of any error or mistake therein, for the purpose originally intended :

(3) by reason of the death of any person by whom it is necessary that it should be executed, without having executed the same, or of the refusal of any such person to execute the same, cannot be completed so as to effect the intended transaction in the form proposed :

(4) for want of the execution thereof by some material party, and his inability or refusal to sign the same, is in fact incomplete and insufficient for the purpose for which it was intended :

(5) by reason of the refusal of any person to act under the same, or to advance any money intended to be thereby secured, or by the refusal or non-acceptance of any office thereby granted, totally fails of the intended purpose :

(6) becomes useless in consequence of the transaction intended to be thereby effected being effected by some other instrument between the same parties and bearing a stamp of not less value :

(7) is deficient in value and the transaction intended to be thereby effected has been effected by some other instrument between the same parties and bearing a stamp of not less value :

(8) is inadvertently and undesignedly spoiled, and in lieu whereof another

[2] The words "or cheque" in S. 49, cl. (c) (1) in two places and in (c) (3) have been omitted by Act V of 1927. The word "cheque" in S. 49, cl. (c), and in three places in cl. (c) (3) has been omitted by Act V of 1927. The words "any such bill of exchanges" were substituted for the words "any bill of exchange" by Act V of 1927.

instrument made between the same parties and for the same purpose is executed and duly stamped :

Provided that, in the case of an executed instrument, no legal proceeding has been commenced in which the instrument could or would have been given or offered in evidence and that the instrument is given up to be cancelled.

Explanation.—The certificate of the Collector under section 32 that the full duty with which an instrument is chargeable has been paid is an impressed stamp within the meaning of this section.

Application for relief under section 49 when to be made.

50. The application for relief under section 49 shall be made within the following periods, that is to say,—

(1) in the cases mentioned in clause (d) (5), within two months of the date of the instrument :

(2) in the case of a stamped paper on which no instrument has been executed by any of the parties thereto, within six months after the stamp has been spoiled :

(3) in the case of a stamped paper in which an instrument has been executed by any of the parties thereto, within six months after the date of the instrument, or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed :

Provided that,—

(a) when the spoiled instrument has been for sufficient reasons sent out of British India, the application may be made within six months after it has been received back in British India :

(b) when, from unavoidable circumstances, any instrument for which another instrument has been substituted cannot be given up to be cancelled within the aforesaid period, the application may be made within six months after the date of execution of the substituted instrument.

Allowance in case of printed forms no longer required by Corporations.

51. The [1]Chief Controlling Revenue-authority [2][or the Collector if empowered by the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority in this behalf] may, without limit of time, make allowance for stamped papers used for printed forms of instruments [3][by any banker or] by any incorporated company or other body corporate, if for any sufficient reason such forms have ceased to be required by the said [3][banker] company or body corporate: provided that such authority is satisfied that the duty in respect of such stamped papers has been duly paid.

Allowance for misused stamps.

52. (a) When any person has inadvertently used, for an instrument chargeable with duty, a stamp of a description other than that prescribed for such instrument by the rules made under this Act, or a stamp of greater value than was necessary, or has inadvertently used any stamp for an instrument not chargeable with any duty ; or the Collector may, on application made within six months after the date of the instrument, or, if it is not dated, within six months after the execution thereof by the person by whom it was first or alone executed, and upon the instrument, if chargeable with the duty, being restamped with the proper duty, cancel and allow as spoiled the stamp so misused or rendered useless.

(b) when any stamp used for an instrument has been inadvertently rendered useless under section 15, owing to such instrument having been written in contravention of the provisions of section 13 ;

LEG. REF.

[1] In the North-West Frontier Province, for "Chief Controlling Revenue-authority" read "Revenue Commissioner"—see S. 6 (1) (d) of the North-West Frontier Province Law and Justice Regulation, 1901 (VII of 1901), P. and N.W. Code.

[2] The words "or the Collector.....behalf" were inserted by Act IV of 1914, Sch. I.

[3] These words [by any banker or] and [banker] were inserted by S. 6 of the Indian Stamp (Amendment) Act (V of 1906).

Allowance for spoiled or misused stamps how to be made.

53. In any case in which allowance is made for spoiled or misused stamps, the Collector may give in lieu thereof—

(a) other stamps of the same description and value ; or

(b) if required and he thinks fit, stamps of any other description to the same amount in value ; or

(c) at his discretion, the same value in money, deducting one anna for each rupee or fraction of a rupee.

Allowance for stamps not required for use.

54. When any person is possessed of a stamp or stamps which have not been spoiled or rendered unfit or useless for the purpose intended, but for which he has no immediate use, the Collector shall re-pay to such person the value of such stamp or stamps in money, deducting one anna for each rupee or portion of a rupee, upon such person delivering up the same to be cancelled, and proving to the Collector's satisfaction—

(a) that such stamp or stamps were purchased by such person with a bona fide intention to use them ; and

(b) that he has paid the full price thereof ; and

(c) that they were so purchased within the period of six months next preceding the date on which they were so delivered :

Provided that, where the person is a licensed vendor of stamps, the Collector may, if he thinks fit, make the repayment of the sum actually paid by the vendor without any such deduction as aforesaid.

Allowance on renewal of certain debentures.

55. When any duly stamped debenture is renewed by the issue of a new debenture in the same terms, the Collector shall, upon application made within one month, repay to the person issuing such debenture, the value of the stamp on the original or on the new debenture, whichever shall be less :

Provided that the original debenture is produced before the Collector and cancelled by him in such manner as the [1][Provincial Government] may direct.

Explanation.—A debenture shall be deemed to be renewed in the same terms within the meaning of this section notwithstanding the following changes :—

(a) the issue of two or more debentures in place of one original debenture, the total amount secured being the same ;

(b) the issue of one debenture in place of two or more original debentures, the total amount secured being the same ;

(c) the substitution of the name of the holder at the time of renewal for the name of the original holder ; and (d) the alteration of the rate of interest or the dates of payment thereof.

CHAPTER VI.

REFERENCE AND REVISION.

Control of and statement of case to, Chief Controlling Revenue authority.

56. (1) The powers exercisable by a Collector under Chapter IV and Chapter V [2][and under clause (a) of the first proviso to section 26] shall in all cases be subject to the control of the [3]Chief Controlling Revenue-authority.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted for 'Governor-General in Council' by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

[2] These words and figures were inserted by S. 7 of the Indian Stamp (Amendment) Act (XV of 1904).

[3] In the North-West Frontier Province, in Ss. 56 and 57, for "Chief Controlling Revenue-authority" read wherever they appear "Revenue Commissioner"—see S. 6 (1) (d) of the North-West Frontier Province Law and Justice Regulation (VII of 1901), P. and N.W. Code.

OTES.

Sec. 56.—See 1935 N. 54 cited under S. 40. Under S. 56, the High Court can deal only with those instruments which are already in existence and which have been the subject of action by the Collector. 12 A.L.J. 47=37 A. 125 (F.B.).

(2) If any Collector, acting under section 31, section 40 or section 41, feels doubt as to the amount of duty with which any instrument is chargeable, he may draw up a statement of the case, and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, or for the decision of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority.

(3) Such authority shall consider the case and send a copy of its decision to the Collector, who shall proceed to assess and charge the duty (if any) in conformity with such decision.

Statement of case by Chief Controlling Revenue authority to High Court Chief Court, or Judicial Commissioner's Court.

57. (1) The Chief Controlling Revenue-authority may state any case referred to it under section 56, sub-section (2), or otherwise coming to its notice, and refer such case, with its own opinion thereon;—

[1][(a) if the case arises in the Province of Madras or in Coorg, to the High Court at Madras ;

(b) if it arises in the Province of Bombay, to the High Court at Bombay ;

(c) if it arises in Sind, to the Judicial Commissioner's Court ;

(d) if it arises in Agra or in Ajmer-Merwara, to the High Court at Allahabad;

(e) if it arises in Oudh, to the Chief Court ;

(f) if it arises in Bihar or in Orissa, to the High Court at Patna;

(g) if it arises in the Punjab, the North-West Frontier Province, British Baluchistan, or Delhi, to the High Court at Lahore ;

(h) if it arises in the Central Provinces and Berar, to the High Court at Nagpur, and

(i) if it arises in any other part of British India, to the High Court at Calcutta.]

(2) Every such case shall be decided by not less than three Judges of the High Court, [2][*] Chief Court [2][or Judicial Commissioner's Court] to which it is referred, and in case of difference the opinion of the majority shall prevail.

LEG. REE.

[1] Present cls. (a) to (i) of S. 57 were substituted for old cls. (a) to (e) by A.O., 1937.

[2] Omitted and inserted by A.O., 1937.

NOTES.

Sec. 56 (2).—S. 56 (2) confers very wide controlling powers on the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority and the power can be exercised even before the stamp duty is paid. 13 L. 745=1932 L. 495 (F.B.). See also 20 Lah. L.T. 126. In revision the Financial Commissioner has to satisfy himself not that the decision of the Collector is exactly that the Financial Commissioner should necessarily have made in the first instance, but that the Collector's decision has been made reasonably and with due consideration. 18 Lah.L.T. 45. No doubt only the Financial Commissioner has authority to pass orders on a petition under S. 56. But the instructions of the Financial Commissioners contained in para. 53 of Chap. 3 of Part 1-B of the Punjab Sramp Manual require Commissioners in the first instance to entertain such petitions and to forward them to the Court of the Financial Commissioner with their opinion thereon. 20 L.L.T. 108=43 P.L.R. 294.

Sec. 57 : SOPE OF SECTION.—S. 57 cannot be used for obtaining an opinion from the High Court on questions of a general nature not arising out of any particular case. If the Government desires legal advice upon a general question, it can obtain it by consulting the law officers of the State or by obtaining such other advice as may be desirable. Where the Board of Revenue made a reference whether a certain type of document called Marine Insurance policy represented by a blank form attached to the statement of affairs should be stamped with duty payable under Art. 47-A (1) (ii) of Sch. I to the Stamp Act or duty under Art. 62-C of the said Schedule or with some other or what duty, held, that the reference was incompetent. 33 C. W.N. 1174=1929 C. 799. Before the Revenue-authority can refer to the High Court a case 'otherwise coming to its notice the Revenue-authority should be faced with the duty of disposing of the case, as indicated by the concluding words of S. 59. A document was brought to the Collector for his opinion under S. 31. He made an order that it was chargeable under Art. 40, cl. (b). The parties applied to the Board of Revenue to override that ruling and the Board made a reference to the High Court. Held, that the reference was incompetent. The Collector did not state a case to the Board and so S. 56 (2) did not operate to impose any duty on the Board of Revenue with reference to the instrument, and as the Collector did not exercise his powers under S. 33 to impound the instrument, the Board of Revenue had no controlling power over the Collector at that stage. So the Board was not competent to make the reference. 59 C. 1171=36 C.W.N. 502=1932 C. 736. If a deed does not mention the value of the property it does not require a stamp. 119 I.C. 680 (1)=1929 N. 272. Reference—Certificate by Collector after levy of deficit duty. 40 A. 128=16 A.L.J. 49 (F.B.). Power of High Court, [*] Chief Court [or Judicial Commissioner's Court] to call for further particulars as to case stated.

58. If the High Court, [1][*] Chief Court [1][or Judicial Commissioner's Court] is not satisfied that the statements contained in the case are sufficient to enable it to determine the questions raised thereby, the Court may refer the case back to the Revenue-authority by which it was stated, to make such additions thereto or alterations therein as the Court may direct in that behalf.

Procedure in disposing of case stated.

59. (1) The High Court, [*][2] Chief Court, [2][or Judicial Commissioner's Court], upon the hearing of any such case, shall decide the questions raised thereby, and shall deliver its judgment thereon containing the grounds on which such decision is founded.

(2) The Court shall send to the Revenue-authority by which the case was stated a copy of such judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar; and the Revenue-authority shall, on receiving such copy, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

Statement of case by other Courts to High Court, [*] Chief Court [or Judicial Commissioner's Court.]

60. (1) If any Court, other than a Court mentioned in section 57, feels doubt as to the amount of duty to be paid in respect of any instrument under proviso (a) to section 35, the Judge may draw up a statement of the case and refer it, with his own opinion thereon, for the decision of the High Court, [1][*] Chief Court [1][or Judicial Commissioner's Court] to which, if he were the [2][Chief Controlling Revenue-authority], he would, under section 57, refer the same.

(2) Such Court shall deal with the case as if it had been referred under section 57, and send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court and the signature of the Registrar to the [2][Chief Controlling Revenue-authority] and another like copy to the Judge making the reference, who shall, on receiving such copy, dispose of the case conformably to such judgment.

(3) References made under sub-section (1), when made by a Court subordinate to a District Court, shall be made through the District Court, and, when made by any subordinate Revenue Court, shall be made through the Court immediately superior.

Sec. 60.—It is only where and when the Judge making the reference has any doubt that the matter can be referred. [11 M. 38 (F.B.), Foll.] 135 I.C. 200 (1)=1932 L. 172 (F.B.). An appellate Court has no power to make a reference. S. 60 applies only to trial Courts which may feel a doubt at the stage of admission of a document as to whether it is or it is not properly stamped, and such Court can refer the matter to the High Court. After the document has been admitted by the trial Court, if the appellate Court has any doubts about the matter and desires to take any action, the proper course is to proceed under S. 61 (2) of the Act. 1935 M. 382=68 M.L.J. 267. A reference made under S. 60 (1), does not abate or become incompetent by reason of the death of the party who has executed the document which has given rise to the reference. 17 Pat. 95=18 Pat.L.T. 933=1937 P.W.N. 962=1938 Pat. 33 (S.B.).

Secs. 60 and 40.—REFERENCE UNDER S. 60—STAGE, WHEN TO BE MADE.—The proper time for making a reference to the High Court under S. 60 is before the Court passes an order impounding the document. But where this is not done and the document is impounded and the Collector's certificate obtained under S. 40 (1) (a) of the Act, the Court cannot thereafter make the reference to the High Court. It would amount to reopening a question which had become conclusive. 15 Luck. 318=1940 O.W.N. 18. See also 1938 O.W.N. 983=1938 Oudh 226 (F.B.).

Revision of certain decisions of Courts regarding the sufficiency of stamps.

61. (1) When any Court in the exercise of its civil or revenue jurisdiction or any Criminal Court in any proceeding, under Chapter XII or Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, makes any order admitting any instrument in evidence as duly stamped or as not requiring a stamp, or upon payment of duty and a penalty under section 35, the Court to which appeals lie from, or references are made by, such first-mentioned Court may, of its own motion or on the application of the Collector, take such order into consideration.

(2) If such Court, after such consideration, is of opinion that such instrument should not have been admitted in evidence without the payment of duty and penalty under section 35, or without the payment of a higher duty and penalty than those paid, it may record a declaration to that effect, and determine the amount of duty with which such instrument is chargeable, and may require any person in whose possession or power such instrument then is, to produce the same, and may impound the same when produced.

(3) When any declaration has been recorded under sub-section (2), the Court recording the same shall send a copy thereof to the Collector, and, where the instrument to which it relates has been impounded or is otherwise in the possession of such Court, shall also send him such instrument.

(4) The Collector may thereupon, notwithstanding anything contained in the order admitting such instrument in evidence, or in any certificate granted under section 42, or in section 43, prosecute any person for any offence against the Stamp-law which the Collector considers him to have committed in respect of such instrument :

Provided that—

(a) no such prosecution shall be instituted where the amount (including duty and penalty) which, according to the determination of such Court, was payable in respect of the instrument under section 35, is paid to the Collector, unless he thinks that the offence was committed with an intention of evading payment of the proper duty ;

NOTES.

Sec 61.—Where the duty and penalty paid is sufficient and the document has been properly admitted in evidence under S. 35, no declaration in respect of that document can be made under S. 61. 11 O.W.N. 258=1934 O. 344. A letter from the Chief Inspector of Stamps is sufficient compliance with all that is required by the Legislature in the matter of S. 61 (1). A regular application in the form of a revision by the Collector is not necessary. 1942 A.L.J. 87 =1942 O.W.N. 97. Document not duly stamped—Admitted in evidence—Not to be questioned later. 1923 N. 109 ; 1935 A.L J. 651. As to what amounts to an order admitting a document in evidence, see 165 I.C. 95=1936 Pesh. 186. Where a Collector refers a matter to the Court for acting under S. 61, there is nothing in the Act which requires the issue of notice to the person. The question of prosecution is for the Collector to decide upon, irrespective of action by the Court. 93 I.C. 909 (1)=1926 O. 397. When a case is reported under S. 61, the Collector must first insist on the payment of the deficiency reported by the Civil Court, and unless he decides to move the High Court to revise the declaration made by the reporting Court, he must proceed to decide on the penalty. He may also very properly give notice that unless the deficiency is paid in a reasonable time to be fixed by him, the maximum penalty will be assessed. 13 L.L.T. 32. Where an order is obtained under S. 61 at the instance of the Collector and no steps are taken to have it set aside, no decision given by the High Court in a reference under S. 57 can have any effect in law as the decision at the instance of the Collector is final. There is no case within the meaning of S. 57 (1), for the term 'case' in S. 57 (1) refers only to a case as yet undecided by a competent authority, and the decision to be given by the High Court under sub-s. (2) must clearly be a decision on which action can be taken if thought fit. 18 L. 762=1934 L. 666 (S.B.) See also 1939 A.M.L.J. 125. The Civil Court is the final authority as to stamp duty; the Collector has the final decision as to the penalty to be levied. 13 L.L.T. 32. Admission of document by trial Court—Appellate Court having doubt as to proper stamp duty—Reference under S. 60—Competency. 68 M. L. J. 267. Document produced and admitted—Judgment delivered—Subsequent impounding of document—Power of Court—Proper procedure. See 46 L.W. 470= 1937 Mad. 763.

Under this section Court has not only to declare the proper stamp duty, but also determine the amount of penalty. 63 C. 1098= 40 C.W.N. 1320=1936 C. 556.

(b) except for the purposes of such prosecution, no declaration made under this section shall affect the validity of any order admitting any instrument in evidence, or of any certificate granted under section 42.

CHAPTER VII.

CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND PROCEDURE.

Penalty for executing, etc., instrument not duly stamped.

62. (1) Any person—

NOTES.

Sec. 62 : CONSTRUCTION OF SECTION.—The Stamp Act is a fiscal enactment, and must be strictly construed; and before any person can be punished, the procedure prescribed by the Act must be strictly followed. On the discovery of a not duly stamped instrument, the procedure laid down in S.37 (old Act) should be followed. For criminal prosecution there must be an intention to evade the stamp law. 8 C. 259; 10 C.L.J. 365. Dishonest intention being the gist of the offence under S. 62, it is not open to a Magistrate to find that there was absence of dishonest intention and at the same time warn the accused not to do the act in future. 25 A.L.J. 401=1927 A. 238. A penal Act must be read as favourably as possible to the subject. 7 A.L J. 180. See 140 I.C. 192=9 O.W.N. 852. As to essentials of offence under this section and S. 68, see 18 Cr.L.J. 725=40 I. C. 725=21 C.W.N. 758. Signing improperly stamped instrument as a witness, is not punishable. 17 L. 223=162 I.C. 774=1936 L. 449 (S.B.).

PROOF OF INTENTION TO EVADE PAYMENT OF STAMP DUTY.—See 54 I.C. 406=21 Cr.L.J, 54; 2 P.L.T. 623=64 I.C. 286. But see 24 A.L. J. 358=93 I.C. 694. Where it has been held that the mere signing otherwise as a witness of an instrument chargeable with duty without the same being duly stamped is an offence. No question of intention arises. 24 A.L.J. 358. See also 1934 A.L.J. 582=1934 A. 201; 93 I.C. 694=1926 A. 389. Intention to avoid payment of stamp is not an essential ingredient of the offence described in S. 60 of Act I of 1879. But such intention is the essential ingredient of the offence made punishable by S. 63 of that Act. 12 M. 231; 1 Weir 903. Provided that the prosecution be duly instituted, the intention of the party prosecuted to evade the stamp-duty or otherwise is immaterial for the purpose of securing his conviction. L.B.R. (1872-1892) 623; 150 I.C. 672=1934 A. 201. No. fraudulent intent need be proved for a conviction under S. 62. But the section must be read with S. 43, and no prosecution should be started when the duty and penalty have been paid, except in case of fraud. But though the duty and penalty have not been paid, if the document cannot be impounded, a prosecution under S. 62 should be compounded for payment of duty plus a sum which may reasonably be imposed as penalty, when there is no reason to believe a fraudulent mind. 13 L.L.T. 18.

JURISDICTION.—As the Stamp Acts of 1869 and 1879 recognise the Collector as primarily responsible for the institution of prosecutions for offences against them, he should not himself try, in his capacity as a Magistrate, a person charged with an offence under that Act. 2 A. 806. See also 2 Cr.L.J. 468.

COMPETENCY OF PROSECUTING MAGISTRATE TO TRY OFFENDERS—PROCEDURE.—A Magistrate, authorised by the Collector of a district to prosecute offenders against the Stamp law, is not competent to try them for the same offence. 3 C. 622; 1884 A.W.N. 37.

PENALTY.—For the purpose of ascertaining whether any and what penalty should be imposed, a Magistrate is bound to consider the question whether a person, prosecuted under this section, had any intention to defraud the Government by evading payment of stamp duty. 2 C. 399 (F.B.); 2 Cr.L.J. 468. Where a person is convicted of the abetment of an offence under S. 61 for not fixing a stamp to an acknowledgment signed by a debtor in his account books, the amount of fine inflicted should not be excessive but proportionate to the fraudulent intent of the offender. 1885 A.W.N. 30.

ACCEPTOR OF UNSTAMPED RECEIPT—LIABILITY.—7 M. 71; 7 B. 82. The mere fact of the acceptance of an insufficiently stamped instrument cannot amount to an abetment of the offence under S. 61. A.W.N. (1883) 145. [R. 20 A. 440.] See also A.W.N. (1884) 37. The mere receipt of an unstamped khata does not constitute an offence under S. 61. Rat. Un. Cr. C. 882; Cr. Rg. 47 of 93. (7 M. 171, Foll.) As to granting of unstamped receipt without criminal intention, see 2 Pat.L.T. 623 =64 I.C. 286. Voucher by one servant to another with respect to money belonging to the master is not receipt that requires stamp. 18 Cr.L.J. 968=42 I.C. 328; 4 O.L.J. 490. As to liability of creditor for instrument not duly stamped, see 1934 N. 231.

MEANING OF TERMS.—"Accepting" is a technical term and does not apply to the mere taking of a promissory note in one's favour from the debtor. "Presenting" like "accepting" is a technical term and is so used in S. 62 of the Act. U.B.R. (1892-1896), Vol. I, p. 312. "Accepting" does not mean "receiving" but "executing as acceptor". U.B.R. (1892-1896), Vol. I, p. 311. The term "accepting" in S. 61 does not mean "receiving", but "executing as an acceptor." The mere receiver of a pronote not duly stamped does not render himself liable to the penalities under the section. 20 A. 440=24 W.R. (Cr.) 1. See also 12 P.R. 1887 (Cr); 7 M. 71=1 Weir 902; 18 P. R. 1895 (Cr.). See also cases under "abetment of offence." The words "signing otherwise than as a witness" in S. 61 includes the writing of a person's name by himself, or by his authority, with the intention of authenticating a document as being that of the person whose name is so written. 27 C. 324 =4 C.W.N. 440. The term "person" used in Ss. 61 and 64 includes the members of a trading partnership. 1903 A.W.N. 173. The execution of a document, which on its face

(a) drawing, making, issuing, endorsing or transferring, or signing otherwise than as a witness, or presenting for acceptance or payment, or accepting, paying or receiving payment of, or in any manner negotiating, any bill of exchange [1][payable otherwise than on demand] [2][*] or promissory note without the same being duly stamped ; or

(b) executing or signing otherwise than as a witness any other instrument chargeable with duty without the same being duly stamped ; or shall for every such offence be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees :

(c) voting or attempting to vote under any proxy not duly stamped ;

NOTES.

requires to be, and is not stamped, cannot be said to be an "act, contrivance, or device not specially provided for" within the meaning of S. 67, because where the document is what on its face purports to be the act of the executant, if punishable at all, is provided for under S. 61 and cannot, therefore, fall under S. 67: 23 M. 155=1 Weir 907. Unstamped receipt issued by an unauthorised gomastha. 8 C.W.N. 378. Where a clerk signs a firm's name under the authority of the firm, it makes little difference that he wrote the letters to the dictation of the Manager and he may be properly convicted under S. 61. 27 Cal. 324=4 C.W.N. 440. No prosecution lies under S. 61 against the holder of an insufficiently stamped pro note. But the Collector, on the bond being impounded and send to him, can levy the penalty under S. 37. 40 P.R. 1886 (Cr.).

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RECEIPT OF DEBT DUE BY LETTER—FAILURE TO PROPERLY STAMP IT.—Where a person acknowledges by letter the receipt of money in satisfaction of a debt for more than Rs. 20, the letter is a receipt and it as such chargeable with duty and the person signing it otherwise than as a witness without its being properly stamped is liable to be convicted under S. 61 of the Act. 8 M. 11=1 Weir 902 (F.B.); 1 Weir 903=11 M. 329; 1885 A.W.N. 266.

TERM "RECEIPT" EXPLAINED.—1 Weir 901; 1903 A.W.N. 174 ; Ibid., 173.

OTHER ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—An agreement to lease by which no rent is reserved and no premium paid or money advanced is not included in the Schedule to this Act and so does not require a stamp. The executant of such a document cannot be convicted under S. 62 (b). 1 Pat. L.J. 366=20 C.W.N. 923. There is nothing in the law which renders is obligatcry to execute a charter party in duplicate; but when the parties think proper to execute it in duplicate, they commit an offence punishable under S. 61, if they fail to stamp the counterpart as preseribed in the schedule. L.B.R. (1872-92) 623. The mere fact that they have intended it to be used merely as a private copy cannot alter its nature or make it any the less a duplicate or counterpart if it is duly signed. (1872-1892) L.B.R. 623. Award in partition—Libility to stamp—Signature of arbitrator—Offence. See 46 All. 54. Sale of Court-fee stamps without lieence, if offence. See 4 All. 216 (F.B.). Compromise petition to Court—Necessity for Court-fee stamp and not general stamp. 42 I.C. 1008=40 All. 19.

ABETMENT OF OFFENCE.—The conviction of a person, who merely received a promissory note executed on plain paper, in his favour, of abetment of the offence under S. 61 is bad in law. I.N.L.R. 163. The mere receipt of an unstamped instrument does not constitute the offence of abetment of the execution of instrument. U.B.R. 1904 and Qr., Stamps, 1 [7 Bom. 82; 20 All. 440 and U.B.R. (1892-1896) 313. Ref.] 8 A. 18=1885 A.W.N. 317. It is not abetment of the execution of an unstamped instrument to receive it, any more than acceptance of stolen property is abetment of theft. 7 Bom. 82. The act of the person receiving the unstamped document may amount to abetement of an offence under S. 61, and would then be an act provided for by any other law for the time being in force, namely the Penal Code, and is, therefore, beyond the scope of S. 67 of the Act. 23 Mad. 155=1 Weir 907.

SANCTION OF COLLECTOR.—The Act does not require intention to be proved as a part of an offence under it, but in order to prevent indiscriminate prosecutions, it confines the power of instituting the prosecutions to the Collector, and instructs him to exercise it only when it appears to him that the offence had been committed with an intention to evade payment of the proper duty. 7 Mad. 537=1 Weir 899. See also 24 W.R. (Cr.) 1; 12 Mad. 231=1 Weir 903. Again it is not necessary in proceedings under the Act that the document should be impounded under S. 33. U.B.R. (1892-1896), Vol. I. p. 318.

Provided that, when any penalty has been paid in respect of any instrument under section 35, section 40 or section 61, the amount of such penalty shall be allowed in reduction of the fine (if any) subsequently imposed under this section in respect of the same instrument upon the person who paid such penalty.

(2) If a share-warrant is issued without being duly stamped, the Company issuing the same, and also every person who, at the time when it is issued, is the managing director or secretary or other principal officer of the Company, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for failure to cancel adhesive stamp.

63. Any person required by section 12 to cancel an adhesive stamp and failing to cancel such stamp in manner prescribed by that section, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for omission to comply with provisions of section 27.

64. Any person who, with intent to defraud the Government,—

(a) executes any instrument in which all the facts and circumstances required by section 27 to be set forth in such instrument are not fully and truly set forth ; or

(b) being employed or concerned in or about the preparation of any instrument, neglects or omits fully and truly to set forth therein all such facts and circumstances ; or shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

(c) does any other act calculated to deprive the Government of any duty or penalty under this Act ;

Penalty for refusal to give receipt and for devices to evade duty on receipts.

65. Any person who,—

Sec. 64.—SCOPE OF THE SECTION.—Essentials of conviction under the section. 108 I.C. 427=29 Cr.L.J. 397; 1 Weir 905. Mortgage property sold not setting forth mortgage amount as part of the consideration—Non-payment of stamp duty on mortgage amount is an offence. 19 N L.J. 259. Fraudulent intention has necessarily to be established for a conviction under S. 64. There is a strong presumption that a person will not expose himself to the penalty for fraud in a case in which he is not interested. It has also to be presumed that what is done openly is not done fraudulently. 13 L.L.T. 18. See also 1933 Lah. 959. Person in whose favour the document is executed is not hit by S. 64 (a). 1929 Cr. C. 359=1929 Cal. 723. But see also 19 N.L.J. 259 (Person bringing about a sale-deed and arranging for its wording and paying registration charges is a "person concerned in or about its preparation" within cl. (h) of S. 64 and will be liable as such). 19 N.L.J. 259. Each of the entries of receipts over Rs. 20 in a sarkhat left in the hands of debtor must be stamped as a receipt. 35 All. 290=11 A.L.J. 309. On this section, see also 12 Mad. 231=1 Weir 903; 1 Weir 901; 19 Cr.L.J. 515=45 I.C. 275 (Cr.) (proof of fraudulent intent is necessary); 44 Cal. 321=24 C.L.J. 441 ("Any other Act," meaning of.).

Sec. 64 (a).—For conviction under this section a proof of intent to defraud is necessary. 146 I.C. 1055=1933 Lah. 959; 13 L.L.T. 18. In order to maintain a conviction under S. 64, it is necessary to prove intent to defraud. This intent can only be inferred from the circumstances. Where there was no secrecy about the preparation of a document which was described and registered as a will, an intent to defraud cannot be inferred although the document is in reality a deed of settlement. 42 P.L.R. 215=1940 Lah. 274. See also 1937 M. W.N. 867. The fact that a man sells his property for less than it is worth cannot be an offence under S. 64 (a), unless it is proved that the consideration quoted in the deed of sale is not the real consideration but something else, and that the intention or effect was to defraud Government of stamp revenue. The market value of the property is irrelevant. 1937 M. W.N. 1071.

Sec. 65.—CONDITIONS TO BRING AN INSTRUMENT UNDER S. 64.—1884 A.W.N. 164. See also U.B.R. (1892-1896), Vol. I, p. 303 (execution of instrument of gift or settlement); 10 A.L.J. 309=35 All. 390 ; 32 All. 171 ; 44 Cal. 321. The failure of the creditor to affix such stamp is not an offence under S. 64. 1884 A.W.N. 164. Where a person neither refuses nor neglects to give a receipt nor with intent to defraud the revenue gives a receipt for less than Rs. 20 when he has received more, nor with like intent separates or divides the money or property paid or delivered, he cannot be convicted under S. 64 of the (old) Act. 8 M. 11=1 Weir 902 (F.B.). See also 1903 A.W.N. 173. The term "receipt" explaiued. 1 Weir 901; 1903 A..NW. 174. See also under Ss. 62 and 64. Private persons cannot start prosecutions under this section. 104 I.C. 108=1927 N. 202. Sanction of Collector is indispensable ; subsequent sanction cannot validate previously instituted proceedings. (Ibid.) Such a defect is not cured by S. 537 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Ibid.).

(a) being required under section 30 to give a receipt, refuses or neglects to give the same ; or

(b) with intent to defraud the Government of any duty, upon a payment of money or delivery of property exceeding twenty rupees in amount or value, gives a receipt for an amount or value not exceeding twenty rupees, or separates or divides the money or property paid or delivered ; shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for not making out policy or making one not duly stamped.

66. Any person who—

(a) receives, or takes credit for, any premium or consideration for any contract of insurance and does not, within one month after receiving, or taking credit for, such premium or consideration, make out and execute a duly stamped policy of such insurance ; or shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(b) makes, executes or delivers out any policy which is not duly stamped or pays or allows in account, or agrees to pay or allow in account, any money upon, or in respect of, any such policy ;

Penalty for not drawing full number of bills or marine policies purporting to be in sets.

67. Any person drawing or executing a bill of exchange [1][payable otherwise than on demand] or a policy of marine insurance purporting to be drawn or executed in a set of two or more, and not at the same time drawing or executing on paper duly stamped the whole number of bills or policies of which such bill or policy purports the set to consist, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Penalty for post-dating bills and for other devices to defraud the revenue.

68. Any person who—

(a) with intent to defraud the Government of duty, draws, makes or issues any bill of exchange or promissory note bearing a date subsequent to that on which such bill or note is actually drawn or made ; or,

(b) knowing that such bill or note has been so post-dated, endorses, transfers, presents for acceptance or payment, or accepts, pays or receives payment of, such bill or note, or in any manner negotiates the same ; or shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

(c) with the like intent practises or is concerned in any act, contrivance or device not specially provided for by this Act or any other law for the time being in force ;

Sec. 68 (c).—The accused, a money lender, was prosecuted under S. 68 (c) in respect of certain entries in his account book. They related to loans advanced by him and were signed by the borrower. Held, that the Government had failed to prove any intention to defraud the Government duty. Simply because the effect of these entries is to deprive the Government of duty, it cannot be inferred that the accused intended to defraud Government. Where an Act of Parliament, makes an offence dependent on proof of intention, the Court must have proof of facts sufficient to justify it in coming to the conclusion that the intention existed. (b) any person not so appointed who sells or offers for sale any stamp (other than a one -anna [1][or half an anna] adhesive stamp); shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Institution and conduct of prosecutions.

70. (1) No prosecution in respect of any offence punishable under this Act or any Act hereby repealed shall be instituted without the sanction of the Collector or such other officer as the [2][collecting Government] generally, or the Collector specially, authorises in that behalf.

(2) The Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, or any officer generally or specially authorised by it in this behalf, may stay any such prosecution or compound any such offence.

(3) The amount of any such composition shall be recoverable in the manner provided by section 48.

Jurisdiction of Magistrates.

71. No Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate whose powers are not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class, shall try any offence under this Act.

Place of trial.

72. Every such offence committed in respect of any instrument may be tried in any district or presidency-town in which such instrument is found as well as in any district or presidency-town in which such offence might be tried under the Code of Criminla Procedure for the time being in force.

SCHEDULE I.

STAMP-DUTY ON INSTRUMENTS.

Description of instrument.	Proper stamp-duty.
1. Acknowledgment of a debt exceeding twenty rupees in amount or value, written or signed by, or on behalf of, a debtor in order to supply evidence of such debt in any book (other than a banker's pass-book) or on a separate piece of paper when such book or paper is left in the creditor's possession: provided that such acknowledgment does not contain any promise to pay the debt or any stipulation to pay interest or to deliver any goods or other property.	One anna.

NOTES.

Sch. I, Art. 1.—Dominant purpose of the document should be looked into in deciding whether a given acknowledgment is one falling within Sch. I, Art. 1. 46 M. 948=45 M.L.J. 399. See also 7 M.L.T. 84=5 I.C. 756. Each document has to be looked at by itself. 45 A. 374; 41 A. 169. See also 146 I.C. 1009=1933 L. 962; 53 A. 963=1932 A. 199; 1933 A.L.J. 198=1933 A. 256 (F.B.). The question, whether a particular acknowledgment falls within Art. 1, or is excepted from its operation by the proviso, will depend on the wording of the document. It is the document as it stands and not the bargain to which it refers, which has been made chargeable to stamp duty. The duty is on the instrument and not on the transaction. If therefore a document is so worded that it expressly, or by necessary implication, comes within a particular provision of the Act, it must be stamped accordingly. But the implication must arise from the phraseology used in the document, and not be matter of legal inference or presumption. An implication of law does not involve liability to duty, though it may give rise to certain legal obligations. It does not therefore follow that simply because a particular document is a good "acknowledgment" for the purpose of extending time under S. 19, Limitation Act, or may be basis of a suit, that it must necessarily be chargeable to duty as an agreement under the Stamp Act. Held, an entry in a bahi of the seller which was merely a memorandum of a transaction of purchase of goods on credit was neither an acknowledgment of a debt within the meaning of Art. 1 nor an agreement or memorandum of an agreement within the meaning of Art. 5 (c) and as such did not require to be stamped. It is a voucher which a purchaser who buys on credit leaves at the shop of the seller. The fact that the entry was made in bahi and not on a separate piece of paper made no difference. 1935 L. 567. See also 20 N.L.J. 276 ; 64 C.L.J. 75. Whether particular document is acknowledgment depends upon circumstances of each case—Primary question is whether document is to be evidence of debt—Where document contains entries showing intention to arrive at statement of account, signing such document cannot be held to supply evidence to creditor. 24 S.L.R. 372=121 I.C. 873 =1930 S. 189 ; 168 I.C. 799=1937 O.L.R. 322 =1937 O.W.N. 719=1937 O. 391. See also 132 I.C. 881=1931 L. 63 (acknowledgment coupled with a promise to pay must be stamped as an agreement or bond. See also 165 I.C. 520=40 C.W.N. 1181=1936 C. 399 ; 132 I.C. 844=32 P.L.R. 767). The wording of the Stamp Act must be strictly construed and, unless the document that purports to be an acknowledgment is saved by the proviso to Art. 1, it cannot be admitted in evidence under the proviso to S. 35. For a document to be covered by the proviso to Art. 1, there must either be an express promise to pay as distinguished from the implied promise to pay, which is contained in any unconditional acknowledgment, or there must be a stipulation to pay interest or to deliver goods or other property. In the absence of any such express promise to pay or agreement to pay interest, the acknowledgment is a bare acknowledgment and, although under the general provisions of law it does imply a promise to pay, it is still an acknowledgment which should be stamped with a one anna stamp under Art. 1 and, therefore, if unstamped is inadmissible in evidence under S. 35. 1934 N. 273. ACKNOWLEDGMENT AND BOND— DISTINCTION BETWEEN.—There is a clear distinction between an "acknowledgment" and a "bond" as defined in the Stamp Act, and if a "promise to pay" is imported into an "acknowledgment" the distinction between the two will practically disappear, when the acknowledgment is attested. A promise to pay cannot be deemed to be included in an acknowledgment for the purpose of the Stamp Act. 1933 L. 271=34 P.L.R. 417.

Sch. I, Art. 1, proviso.—Where the balance of account was struck between the parties and above the entry of the balance and the thumb impression of the debtor there was a line which described the rate of interest on the balance struck, held, that the entry must be read as a whole, that there was a clear stipulation to pay interest and that the balance fell within the proviso to Art. 1. 127 I.C. 706=1931 L. 4. An acknowledgment of debt in order to incur the duty under Art. 1 must be not only an acknowledgment made to supply evidence of such debt, but must also contain no promise to pay the debt or no stipulation to pay interest or to deliver goods or other property. Where therefore a judgment-debtor in his letter asks the creditors to have full faith in him as he intends to reap his crops shortly and faithfully promises to pay the sum within three weeks, the letter is not liable to the stamp duty of one anna. 152 I.C. 879=1934 P. 629 (2). See also 132 I.C. 881 ; 132 I.C. 884 ; 1927 A. 677.

(Burma) Sch. I, Art. 1—Applicability—Test—Running account—Balance struck and signed every month—Stamp, not necessary. 1939 Rang. L.R. 194=1939 Rang. 315.

Even though a document is an acknowledgment of a debt, it does not come within the mischief of Art. 1 of Sch. I, Burma Stamp Act, unless it was created in order to supply evidence of such debt. 1939 Rang. 315; 44 P. L.R. 10 (F.B.).

Sch. I, Arts. 1, 5 and 15.—Entry with respect to balance struck in account book—Construction—Acknowledgment or agreement or bond. The question whether an entry with respect to a balance struck in an account book is to be classed an an acknowledgment agreement or bond for the purpose of duty chargeable under the Stamp Act has to be decided on the basis of the language used. It is the phraseology used and not the legal implications following from it that determines the duty chargeable on such cases. Stamp duty is not based on the legal obligation flowing from a document but is based on the nature of the document itself. What is taxed in other words is not the transaction but the document and therefore whatever implied promise there may be involved in an unconditional acknowledgment, it can never be a bond unless the obligation is contained in the document itself in express terms. In most cases in which balances are struck from time to time, the object is to extend the period of limitation and nothing more. The promise to pay is made at the time when the original loan is advanced and there is no necessity to make any fresh promise to pay so long as the period for limitation has not expired. But when the debt remains unpaid and the period of limitation is about to expire, the creditor generally requires the debtor to make an entry in his account book acknowledging the balance due so that it may serve to extend the period of limitation. Such entries usually fall within the category of "acknowledgments" as given in Art. 1, Sch. I except when they are taken out of the scope of the article by the proviso thereto. The phraseology employed usually is baqi dene, baqi lane, or baqi rahe, but all these expressions appear to mean really the same thing, viz., that such and such balance is payable. When this phraseology is employed and there are no other words expressing any promise to pay the entries should be taken to amount to mere acknowledgment and would be chargeable as such. Of course if the acknowledgment includes any stipulation as to interest or to deliver any goods or other property the entry will be taken out of the scope of the article, by virtue of its proviso. If the phraseology of the entry itself contains a distinct promise to pay, it

NOTES.

The mere fact that, beyond the stipulation for a sale of goods, there was an agreement that, in case a rival proprietor raised any objection to the cutting of timber and removal of the same the vendor was to have the responsibility, did not in any way alter from character of the agreement. 1931 A.L.J. 608=1931 All. 392 (F.B.). A partition list which does not itself effect any division, but is merely an agreement for effecting a future partition on terms agreed is not an instrument of partition within the meaning of S. 2 (15) and is liable to stamp duty as an agreement under Art. 5. 1933 Mad. 162. Sarkhat containing stipulation for interest at the top and unsigned entries of advances at the bottom—Document stamped as one agreement—Sufficiency. See 118 I.C. 173.

Art. 12.—A decree of Court in the terms of an award is not an instrument chargeable with stamp duty. 11 L.L.T. 147. What has to be considered is not the value which the appellants may place on the property at the time of filing their application for the purpose of invoking the jurisdiction of the Court, but the value of the property at the time of the making of the award. When the value of the property with which the instrument in question is concerned is not stated in the instrument, its value for the purpose of stamp duty must be taken to be the price which could be obtained for it on a sale in open market. Where the property concerned is a Buddhist monastery which has no value, the stamp duty payable is the minimum amount payable under Art. 12, read with Art. 15, as amended by Burma Act (II of 1932), that is, two annas. 1935 R. 204. See 1942 All. 220 (F.B.).

Eight annas.
(ii) in any other case.	One rupee.
Exemptions. (a) Copy of any paper which a public officer is expressly required by law to make or furnish for record in any rublic office or for any public purpose.

NOTES.

Art. 23.—Where there is nothing in a document to show that title in the property was being conveyed by the vendor to the vendee by it, on the other hand, the document refers to a sale as a completed transaction under which possession had been delivered to the vendee, and the primary object of the execution of the documents appears to be to record the fact that, out of the total purchase price, a portion had been received by the vendor from the vendee and to safeguard the latter against a fresh demand for that sum, rather than to create title in the vendee as owner of the land, which had been done already by an independent transaction altogether. Held that the document is a receipt and not conveyance. 14 L. 102=1932 L. 535 (S.B.). The test to determine whether a document is a conveyance is to find out whether the intention of the parties was that the document should be the sole, repository and appropriate evidence of the transaction of sale. If it is so. the Court must hold it to be a conveyance. But if it merely recites a part accomplished fact, it is not a conveyance liable to be stamped or registered as such. A deed which merely acknowledges as a fact that a right is vested in a particular person is not a conveyance; it has to be shown that the right was created by the particular deed in question. 13 L.L.T. 48. See also 41 C.W.N. 961; 20 Lah. L.T. 108=43 P.L.R. 294. When the accused made a purchase of gold ornaments from a client, he got the client to make an entry in the account book giving the client's name and description of the goods purchased and of the price paid, and got this signed by the client. Held, that the documents were merely memoranda of the sale of goods and were exempt from stamp duty under Art. 5, Exemption (a) and not conveyance within Art. 23, but as the documents contained a clear acknowledgment that the price had been received by the seller they were receipts as well as memoranda of the sale of goods and should have been stamped as receipts with stamp duty of one anna each. 56 A. 680=1934 A.L.J. 582=1934 A. 201. "EQUITABLE MORTGAGE.—See agreement by way of Equitable Mortgage No. 6."

NOTES.

Art. 30.—The Court of the Judical commissioner of Upper Burma is not a High Court within the meaning of Art. 30. 1 R. 142; 1924 R. 1. There is a wide difference between 'pleader' and 'advocate' or 'vakil,' Advocates, vakils and attorneys fall into one category and belong to the legal practitioners practising in a High Court and pleaders and mukhtars belong to another class of legal practitioners, who practise in subordinate Courts. The position of the two classes is different in many ways. An advocate, vakil or attorney is enrolled once and for all and unless struck off the roll or suspended from practice, he has the right to practise without any further payment; a pleader is not enrolled; he receives a sanad or certificate which lasts for one year and which has to be renewed and a new fee paid every year. This class does not fall within Art. 30 of Stamp Act at all and does not fall within the class that may practise in a Chartered High Court according to the scheme of the Legal Practitioners' Act. I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 186=1937 Nag. 318. Advocate enrolled in Rangoon High Court before separation of Burma from India—Application after separation for enrolment as advocate of Madras High Court—Payment of enrolment fee over again—Necessity. See (1942) 1 M.L.J. 599 (F.B.) Enrolment as attorney—Subsequent enrolment as advocate—Fee payable. See 36 C. 645=2 I. C. 843.

35. Lease, including an under lease or sub-lease and any agreement to let or sub-let—

NOTES.

Arts. 33 and 55—Deed—gift or Release.—Art. 55 of the Stamp Act governs instruments whereby any person may renounce a claim upon any other person or against any specified property; but a document in which the executant is not renouncing any claim upon property but is transferring possession of it does not fall under Art. 55. A Hindu widow governed by the Dhayabhaga School of Hindu law was allotted by a decree of Court in a partition suit certain properties with rights in the said properties similar to those of a Hindu widow in the estate of her deceased husband and was in possession of the properties in viitue of the decree and was in enjoyment of the usufruct thereof. She desired to surrender her interest in the properties to her sons who would succeed to the property in the ordinary course of her death and for that purpose she executed a deed whereby she transferred the right to possession of the properties to her sons. Held, (1) that the deed was an instrument of gift governed by Art. 33 and was not a release under Art. 55; (2) that stamp duty was payable on the value of the properties conveyed as described in the deed, the value to be stated in the deed being not the capital value of the property conveyed, but the present value of the life interest of the widow, whatever that might have been at the time of the execution of the deed. 18 Pat.L. T. 933=17 Pat. 95=1937 P.W.N. 962=1938 Pat. 33 (S.B.).

Art. 35.—An agricultural lease is exempt from stamp duty under Exemption (a) to Art. 35. 44 I.C. 109. An agreement to pay shop rent at Rs. 60 per month at Rs. 2 per day creates a monthly tenancy and not a tenancy for an indefinite term under the sub-cl. (iv). 46 C. 804= 51 I.C. 221=23 C.W.N. 398; 39 B. 434=28 I. C. 584=17 Bom.L.R. 320. Where a lease is from month to month and does not give the lessee a right to continue in possession for more than six weeks consecutively because on two weeks' notice being given the lessee would have to vacate at the end of the following month, the lease falls under sub-Cl. (a) (i) of Art. 35 of Sch. 1-A of the Stamp Act and not under sub-Cl. (a) (viii) of that article. An annual lease is a lease which gives the lessee a definite right to continue in possession for a full year. 19 Lah. L.T. 32. See also 1938 All. 304; 1938 Lah. 531. A lease for less than one year means a lease for some specified period which is less than 12 months. It does not follow that because a lease deed is a monthly tenancy under S. 106, T.P. Act, it is a lease for less than one year. A lease which is expressed to be a monthly one but which specifies no period of duration is clearly a lease for an indefinite term and must be stamped under Cl. (viii) of Art. 30 (a), of Sch. I-A of the Stamp Act as amended in Madras and not under Cl. (i) of Art. 30 (a). I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 384=49 L.W. 253=1939 Mad. 356=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 350 (F.B.). Where no period is fixed or mentioned in a lease but the tenancy is terminable on a month's notice, it is not a lease purporting to be for a term of less than one year and does not fall under Art. 35 (a) (i) of the Stamp Act but falls under Art. 35 (a) (iv) (which is Art. 35 (a) (viii) as amended for United Provinces) which, relates to cases where the lease does not purport to be for any definite term inasmuch as the lease does not fix a period for its duration. 1941 O.W.N. 45= 1941 Oudh 217. Agreement to lease—What constitutes—No demise of interest in present.—Ostensible owner having no title—Advance of money as loan and not as consideration for lease—Simple agreement—Stamp payable. See 53 B. 1=112 I.C. 758. On this article, see also 39 B. 431=28 I.C. 584=17 Bom.L.R. 320; 8 I.C. 481=19 M.L.J. 35; 55 A. 874=1933 A. L.J. 749=1933 A. 735 (F.B.); 1934 N. 273; (1940) 1 M.L.J. 391 (F.B.). Where a lease of a house only provided that a month's notice was to be given, in case it was required to be vaçated, though it is a monthly tenancy within the meaning of S. 106 of the T. P. Act, it does not follow from that the document is a lease for less than one year. The lease is for an indefinite period and as such is to be stamped as required by Art. 35 (a) (iv) of the Stamp Act. I.L.R. (1938) All. 481=1938 A.L.J. 324=1938 All.

Description of instrument.	Proper stamp-duty.
Lease—(Contd.) (a) where by such lease the rent is fixed and no premium is paid or delivered— (i) where the lease purports to be for a term of less than one year;	The some duty as a Bond (No. 15) for the whole amount payable or deliverable under such lease.
(ii) where the lease purports to be for a term of not less than one year but not more than three years;	The same duty as a Bond (No. 15) for the amount or value of the average annual rent reserved.
(iii) where the lease purports to be for a term of in excess of three years;	The same duty as a Conveyance (No. 23) for a consideration equal to the amount or value of the average annual rent reserved.
(iv) where the lease does not purport to be for any definite term;	The same duty as a Comveyance (No. 23) for a consideration equal to the amount or value of the average annual rent which would be paid or delivered for the first ten years if the lease continued so long.
(v) where the lease purports to be in perpetuity;	The same duty as a Conveyance (No. 23) for a consideration equal to one-fifth of the whole amount of rents which would be paid or delivered in respect of the first fifty years of the lease.
(b) where the lease is granted for a fine or premium or for money advanced and where no rent is reserved;	The same duty as a Conveyance (No. 23) for a consideration equal to the amount or value of such fine or premium or advance as set forth in the lease.
(c) where the lease is granted for a fine or premium or for money advanced in addition to rent reserved:	The same duty as a Conveyance (No. 23) for a consideration equal to the amount or value of such fine or premium or advance as set forth in the lease, in addition to the duty which would have been payable on such lease if no fine or premium or advance had been paid or delivered:

Arts. 35 (a) (vi), 35 (c) and (5) (c).—Lease of land, buildings and appurtenances for 34 years—Covenant by lessee to pay off lessor's debt and annual rent—Property to pass to lessee at the end of period—Stamp payable, see 61 C. 556=38 C.W.N. 627=1934 C. 803.

Art. 35 (a) and (b).—'RENT RESERVED'—MEANING OF.—The only meaning that can be given to the word 'reserved' in Art. 35 (b) is, that it is rent agreed to be paid and received as such and not a payment which has already been made and received in consideration of which possession of the property is transferred for the term specified. There is nothing to distinguish a sum represented as having been paid in advance for rent from any other money advanced. Hence Art. 35 (b) applies to cases of leases in which money is advanced as consideration for the lease and where no rent is reserved or where no provision has been made for the payment of rent for the period of the lease, and not Art. 35 (a). 1941 N.L.J. 103. Under Art. 35 (b) of Sch. I-A the duty payable in the case of a lease where the whole rent is paid in a lump sum in advance is the same as that payable on a conveyance. If the parties execute a mortgage Arts. 40 and 57.—A security bond executed by two sureties in favour of the sheristadar of a Court, as required by S. 21 (2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act, should be stamped under Art. 40 and not under Art. 57. The word 'contract' used in Art. 57 means a contract as defined in S. 2 (h) of the Contract Act. A security bond cannot amount to a contract, as the Court is not a juridical person and is incapable of contracting. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 460= 47 L.W. 154=1938 Mad. 262=(1938) 1 M.L. J. 159 (F. B.). It cannot be treated as a security bond under Art. 57 for the words 'executed by surety' in that Article must be given their plain and natural meaning and there is no justification for extending the scope of the word 'surety' to the case of principals who are parties to the proceedings on whose behalf the deed is executed. 1942 O. THE STANDARDS OF WEIGHT ACT (IX OF 1939).

PREFATORY NOTE:STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASON. "The question of prescribing a scale of standard weights and measures throughout British India has been under the consideration of the Government of India from time to time. In 1871 the Indian Weights and Measures of Capacity Act, XXXI of 1871, was passed, section 8 of which empowered the Governor General in Councll to introduce a system of weights and measures, consistent with the statutory units prescribed by section 3 thereof. This Act however remained inoperative since no notification prescribed thereunder was issued as it was hoped that weights and measures based on the statutory units would be gradually and generally adopted without further intervention on the part of Government.

2. In 1913,the Government of India appointed the Weights and Measures Committee to investigate the feasibility of introducing uniform weights and measures throughout the country. The Committee's recommendation were examined in consultation with the Local Governments and Administrations and in 1922 the Government of India issued a resolution containing the decisions arrived at. As 'weights and measures' became a Provincial transferred subject under the Government of India Act, 1919, subject to legislation by the Indian Legislature as regards standards, it was left to the Provincial Governments to under take the necessary legislation with the previous consultation with the Government of India as to the form which such legislation should take and the previous sanction of the Governor General required under that Act. Accordingly three Provinces, viz., the Central Provinces in 1928, Coorg in 1931 and Bombay in 1932, passed such legislation.

3. The constitutional position now is that according to item 51 in the Federal Legislative List in the Seventh Schedule to the Government of India Act of 1935, the Central Government is responsible for the establishment of standards of weights, while Provincial Governments are concerned with 'weights and measures', vide item 30 in the Provincial Legislative List. So far as concerns weights, therefore, it is for the Ceneral Government to prescribe the standards. The enforcement of the use of weights based on these standards is a matter for the Provincial Governments.

4. The desirability of establishing standards of weight has lately been constantly pressed upon the Government of India and some Provinces are reported to have their Weights and Measures Bill ready for introduction as soon as a Central Act establishing standards of weight is passed. A Bill has accordingly been prepared prescribing the units of weight commonly used by the Railways and in commerce, viz., the tola, the seer and the maund and also the pound, the ounce, the hundredweight and the ton."

THE STANDARDS OF WEIGHT ACT (IX OF 1939).

[28th March, 1939.

An Act to establish standards of weight throughout British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to establish standards of weight throughout British India;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. extent- and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE STANDARDS OF WEIGHT ACT, 1939.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint.

Unit for weight.

2. (1) The unit for weight shall be the standard grain, that is to say, that weight which when multiplied by 1799·84585 is the weight in vacuo of the iridio-platinum cylinder in the custody of the Mint Master, Bombay, certified by the Standards Department of the British Board of Trade as having a weight of 1799·84585 grains in vacuo.

(2) The standard grain shall be the only unit from which all other standard weights shall be ascertained.

Standard weights.

3. (1) There shall be the following standard weights, namely:—

(a) the standard tola; being a weight of 180 standard grains;

(b) the standard seer, being a weight of 18 standard tolas or 14,400 standard grains;

(c) the standard maund, being a weight of 40 standard seers;

(d) the standard pound, being a weight of 7,000 standard grain;

(e) the standard ounce, being one-sixteenth part of the weight of a standard pound;

(f) the standard hundred weight, being a weight of 112 standard pounds;

(g) the standard ton, being a weight of 2,240 standard pounds.

(2) No weight other than the weights set forth in sub-section (1) and integral multiples or sub-multiples of any such weight shall be used as a standard weight.

Sets of standard weights.

4. (1) The Central Government shall cause to be prepared one set of such of the standard weights specified in sub-section (1) of section 3 or multiples or sub-multiples thereof as the Central Government may consider expedient, and shall cause eaeh weight of such set to be authenticated as having been ascertained from the standard grain, and shall deposit the set in such custody as the Central Government may think fit.

(2) The Central Government shall cause similar sets of weights, similarly authenticated, to be prepared, and shall supply one set to each Provincial Government.

(3) The Central Government shall cause similar sets of weights, similarly authenticated, to be prepared and shall supply one set to the Government of any Indian State or foreign settlement situated in India which applies for it and pays the price fixed by the Central Government.

Rules.

5. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules made under this section may regulate—

(a) the preparation of the sets of standard weights referred to in section 4;

(b) the custody of the set of such weights which is to be maintained by the Central Government and the periodical verification and adjustment thereof;

(c) the periodical verification and adjustment of the sets of standard weights supplied to Provincial and other Governments.

6. The Indian Weights and Measures of Capacity Act, 1871, in so far as it relates to the establishment of standards of weight, is hereby repealed.

Repeal.

THE SUCCESSION ACT (XXXIX OF 1925).

Amended, Act XXXVII and XV of 1926; Act X of 1927; Act XVIII of 1927; Act XIV of 1928; Act XXI of 1928; Act XVIII of 1929; Act XXI of 1929; Act XVII of 1932.

[30*th September,* 1925.

An Act to consolidate the law applicable to intestate and testamentary succession in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the law applicable to intestate and testamentary succession in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE INDIAN SUCCESSION ACT, 1925.

NOTES.

Sec. 1.—The object of the Act is to consolidate all the Indian Law relating to succession. The separate existence on the Statute book of a number of large and important enactments renders the present law difficult of ascertainment and there is, therefore, every justification for an attempt to consolidate it. The Bill has been prepared by the Statute Law Revision Committee as a purely consolidating measure. No intentional change of the law has therefore been made— [Notes on clauses.]

This Act is applicable only to cases of intestate or testamentary succession. 12 Beng.L.R. 358. See also 21 W. R. 221. The Act is not applicable to the Crown when it takes the property upon escheat. 54 A. 226=1932 A.L. J. 150=1932 A. 220. This Act does not enlarge the category of heritable property. 31 B. 25. There are no words in the Act as it now stands limiting it to British subjects as opposed to foreigners. 37 P.L.R. 502 =1935 L. 646. Applicability—Chinese Buddhists domiciled in Burma—Law governing succession. See 8 R. 57=1930 R. 81 (F. B.). The rules in the Act do not affect rights of co-partnership or survivorship. See also 15 C.W.N. 158; 1912 M.W.N. 386. The enactment in this section, operates as a repeal of the previously existing law in respect of matters dealt with by this Act just as completely and effectually as if it had been expressly repealed. 12 Beng.L. R. 427. The provisions of this Code, in so far as they apply to Muhammadans, override any rules of Muhammadan Law that are inconsistent with them. 34 I.C. 128. A Hindu convert to Christianity, who dies a Christian, is governed by this Act in matters of succession and cannot elect to be governed by the Hindu Law of Inheritance. 8 O.W.N. 1198=1932 O. 85. Hindu—Meaning—European or other non-Hindu if can become a Hindu—Proof of European Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "administrator" means a person appointed by competent authority to administer the estate of a deceased person when there is no executor;

(b) "codicil" means an instrument made in relation to a will, and explaining, altering or adding to its dispositions, and shall be deemed to form part of the will;

[1][(bb) "District Judge" means the Judge of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction];

(c) "executor" means a person to whom the execution of the last will of a deceased person is, by the testator's appointment, confided;

LEG. REF.

[1] After Cl. (b) the new Cl. (bb) has been inserted by Succession (Amendment) Act XVIII of 1929.

NOTES.

becoming a Hindu and being a Hindu at time of his or her death—Quantum—Law governing succession to such person—Hindu Law—European lady converted to Hinduism—Marriage with Vaisya according to Vedic rites—Validity of—Caste—Membership of—Necessity of, for a Hindu. 52 M. 160=55 M.L.J. 478=1928 M. 1279.

RETROSPECTIVE EFFECT.—The Act has no retrospective effect and does not apply to a will executed in 1890. Therefore a bequest under the will to unborn persons, who were not in existence at the time of the testator's death, is void. 18 N.L.J. 1.

CONSTRUCTION.—Where there is a positive enactment of the Indian Legislature, the proper course is to examine the language of that statute and to ascertain its proper meaning, uninfluenced by any consideration derived from the previous state of the law or of the English law upon which it may be founded. These observations apply with peculiar force to testamentary cases which are governed by the Indian Succession Act of 1865 or the Probate and Administration Act of 1881 (both now repealed by the Succession Act of 1925). [33 C. 116 (P.C.), Ref.] 55 I.A. 18=7 P. 221=32 C.W.N. 402=54 M.L.J. 281 (P.C.).

A bequest in a will which is void under S. 100, Succession Act (1865), is not validated by Act VIII of 1921. This Act does not cure or prevent the invalidity. 58 M. 15=67 M.L.J. 525.

JURISDICTION.—It is not the province of a Court of Probate to determine questions of title to a property which a testator purports to dispose of by his will. 54 M. 24 =59 M.L.J. 529. A succession certificate can be granted by the High Court on its Original Side under the provisions of this as amended by Act XVIII of 1929. 53 M. 237=1930 M. 779=59 M.L.J. 17. See also 58 C. 801. The re-distribution of territories would not by itself make an Act inapplicable to a place in which it was already in force. Where a will was executed in Sylhet in 1883 and it was argued that the place having become part of Assam, the Hindu Wills Act, 1870, could not apply, held, that the Act applied in spite of the redistribution of provinces. S. 58 of the Government of India Act relied on. 48 C.L.J. 523=114 I.C. 666=1929 C. 145. See also 35 C.W.N. 122.

Sec. 2.—As the General Clauses Act, 1897 (X of 1897), will apply to this Act, the definitions of "persons", "year", "monthly", "immovable property", "movable property", "Local Government" and "High Court" are unnecessary and are omitted. The definitions of "British India" and "District Judge" have also been omitted as the definitions in the General Clauses Act appear more suitable and do not change he substance of the law. The definition of "minor" and "minority" is adopted from S. 3 of the Probate and Administration Act, 1881 (V of 1881), and seems appropriate to the consolidated Bill. 21 W.R. 221. No change has been made in the other definitions which are taken from Act X of 1865, though one or two could perhaps have been more suitably worded. The definition of "Indian Christian" is taken from the Native Christian Administration of Estates Act (VII of 1901), except that the phrase "'Indian Christian" has been used instead of "Native Christian" following the modern practice in this receipt.—[Notes on clauses.]

Sec. 2 (a) and (c).—"Derivative executor"—Executor of an executor if. 12 B. L.R. 423.

Sec. 2 (b): CODICIL.—The codicil always follows a will. When there is anything ambiguous in the will, the codicil can be used to control it. 20 C. 904; or to interpret its language. (1904) 2 Ch. 52; (1898) 1 Ch. 95.

Sec. 2 (bb).—S. 2 of the present Act empowers a High Court to grant succession certificates. The term "District Judge" in the sections relating to succession certificates includes a Judge of the High Court. 58 C. 801=35 C.W.N. 122=1931 C. 580. The term "District Judge" in the Succession Act has been construed to include a High Court Judge within the Presidency-towns. The Succession Act and the earlier Acts which that Act replaced have always been treated by the High Courts in India as

(d) "Indian Christian" means a native of India who is, or in good faith claims to be, of unmixed Asiatic descent and who professes any form of the Christian religion;

(e) "minor" means any person subject to the Indian Majority Act, 1875, who has not attained his majority within the meaning of that Act, and any other person who has not completed the age of eighteen years; and "minority" means the status of any such person;

(f) "probate" means the copy of a will certified under the seal of a Court of competent jurisdiction with a grant of administration to the estate of the testator;

(g) "province" includes any division of British India having a Court of the last resort; and (h) "will" means the legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death.

Sec. 2 (d): APPLICABILITY—CHRISTIAN —WHO IS.—In considering whether the rules of succession laid down in the Act are to be applied in administering the estate of an alleged Christian, the Court must have regard to the outward and formal recognition of his religious belief, and not to what may be the real though undisclosed convictions of the deceased. Sec. 2 (e).—These definitions of minor and minority do not apply in cases where a person enters into a contract on his own behalf and not in any representative character under this Act. 12 B.L.R. 358: 1 B.L.R. O.C. 10. As to age of majority being extended to 21 in cases where there has been an appointment of guardian by Court, or the Court of Wards has taken charge of the estate, see 8 C.L.R. 419; 17 C. 347; 17 C. 944; 8 C. 714; 9 C. 901.

Sec. 2 (h).—"Will" differs from a "deed" in that it operates not eo instanti but from the date of the death of the maker; it cannot be rectified by any Court of law, while in cases of mistake, a Court has power to rectify a deed. Courts always put a benevolent construction on the terms of wills. It is not possible to lay down categorically what the tests of a will are; it must indicate an intention to take effect after death, must be revocable, and must dispose of property. 8 C.W.N. 614; 14 C.W.N. 174; 13 C.L.J. 579; 12 M. 490. See also 1 Pat. Validity of bequest is to be determined from testator's lawful disposing power at his death. 56 I.A. 156= 4 Luck. 122=57 M.L.J. 496 (P.C.). A will may be written, or partly written, in pencil. 3 Moo. P. C. 223. The form of a paper does not affect its title to probate as a will, provided that it is the intention of the deceased that it should operate after his death. 4 C. 721; 12 C. 10. Testamentary instruments not drawn by a professional man must be liberally construed. 12 C. 942. If one part of a document is clearly testamentary in the character, the remainder of the language, if capable of that construction, may be presumed to have been intended also to be testamentary. 4 C.L.R. 401. A document is not a will merely because it is styled a will. 1913 M.W.N. 159=18 I.C. 1006. An authority to adopt is not a will. 18 I.C. 1006. See also 49 M.L.J. 227 (P. C.). A document inoperative as a will may be valid as an authority to adopt. 48 M. 614=52 I.A. 305=49 M.L.J. 247. See also 48 I.A. 482. A document which is in form a deed of gift may operate as a will. 46 M.L.J. 288. As to wills by mahants, shebaits, or managers of religious institutions, see 27 I.C. 24=20 C.L.J. 307; 51 I.C. 884=23 C.W.N. 401. Trust deed mentioned as part of the grant of letters of administration—Provision made for appointment of future trustee—Will, if constituted: see 46 C.L.J. 145. "Will"—Deed by Hindu styled vyavasthapatra in contemplation of death—Recital of agreement to partition between testator and coparcener—Provision for management by vyavasthapaks —Prohibition against adoption by widow—Legacies granted out of testator's half-share in the properties—Effect—Deed—If will or only family arrangement. 39 Bom.L.R. 165=1937 Bom 341. Hindu will need not be signed by the testator nor does it require registration—Such a will, if proved to be the last will of the testator is sufficient to revoke a previous registered will. 50 A. 314.

Sec. 3.—This is based on S. 332 of the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865); but in the consolidated Bill it is necessary to confine its operation to those provisions which

Power of Provincial Government to exempt any race, sect or tribe in the Province from operation of Act.

Gazette, either retrospectively from the sixteenth day of March, 1865, or prospectively, exempt from the operation of any of the following provisions of this Act, namely, sections 5 to 49, 58 to 191, 212, 213 and 215 to 369, the members of any race, sect or tribe in the province, or of any part of such race, sect or tribe, to whom the Provincial Government considers it impossible or inexpedient to apply such provisions or any of them mentioned in the order.

(2) The Provincial Government may, by a like notification, revoke any such order, but not so that the revocation shall have retrospective effect.

(3) Persons exempted under this section or exempted from the operation of any of the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, under section 332 of that Act are in this Act referred to as "exempted persons."

PART II.

OF DOMICILE.

Application of Part.

4. This Part shall not apply if the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina.

NOTES.

are derived from that Act. The use of the term "exempted person" is a drafting device which enables the language of the Bill to be shortened.—[Statement of Objects and Reasons.] Notification under the section does not apply retrospectively. 1 Pat.L.J. 225=20 C.W.N. 1082.

Sec. 4.—It is well settled that the word "Hindu" in the Act, includes Jainas and Sikhs (cf. 31 C. 11, etc.) and also Brahmos (see 26 C.W.N. 799=49 C. 1069=1923 C. 265); also one professing the Hindu religion although of mixed parentage (see 7 Bur.L.T. 138=21 I.C. 638), and as the Hindu Wills Act, 1870, which the Bill consolidates makes special mention of Sikhs and Jainas, they are separately mentioned throughout the Bill.

HINDU BY CONVERSION.—European or other non-Hindu can become a Hindu by conversion. 111 I.C. 364=55 M.L.J. 478. A European does not become a Hindu merely because he proposes theological allegiance to the Hindu faith, or is an ardent admirer and advocate of Hinduism and its practices; but if he resides long in India, abdicates his religion by a clear act of renunciation and adopts Hinduism by undergoing formal conversion, gives up along with Christianity his Christian name and deliberately assumes a Hindu name, marries in accordance with Hindu religious rites a person who is a Hindu by race and religion, and cuts himself off from his old environment and takes to the Hindu mode of life, in such a case the Court may justly come to the conclusion that he has become a Hindu within the meaning of the Succession Act. A European who becomes a Hindu becomes also subject to the Hindu Law, the test in such a case being not one of domicile but of religion. 55 M.L.J. 478, supra. But see 43 A. 525. This Part II would apply to the following classes of persons: (1) European by birth or descent domiciled in British India; (2) East Indians or persons of mixed European and native blood; (3) Jews; 1 C. 148; 1 Boul. 234; Fult 420, except in Aden, where they have been exempted by notification under S. 332 [Gazette of India, 1886, p. 717]; (4) Armenians; (5) Parsees, in regard to testamentary succession; (6) Native Christians and their Christian descendants. 43 A. 525=64 I.C. 559; 2 M. 209; 7 M.H.C.R. 121; 9 M.I.A. 239; 9 M. 466; 10 M. 69; 19 B. 783; (7) A native Christian convert from any sect of Hinduism. 43 A. 525. He cannot afterwards elect to be governed by Hindu Law in matters of succession. 43 A. 525. But see 55 M.L.J. 478=111 I.C. 364; (8) Natives of India other than those comprised in the terms "Hindu, Muhammadan or Buddhist"; (9) All Europeans in India not having an Indian domicile. (7 Cl. and Fin. 895.) It would not apply to (1) a Chinese Buddhist: 8 L.B.R. 222=24 I.C. 367; (2) one who professes the Hindu religion though of mixed parentage: 7 Bur.L.T. 133=24 I.C. 638; (3) a Brahmo: 26 C.W.N. 79=49 C. 1069=1923 C. 265. (A Brahmo is a Hindu, even when he makes a declaration under Act III of 1872. 49 C. 1069).

PERSONS MARRIED UNDER SPECIAL MARRIAGE ACT.—Applicability of Act to such persons. See 30 Bom.L.R. 139.

HINDU WILL need not be signed by the testator nor does it need attestation; such a will if proved to be the last will is sufficient to revoke a previous registered will. 25 A. L.J. 1073=50 A. 314.

Secs. 4 and 5: ADOPTION BY BUDDHIST WOMAN—SUBSEQUENT CONVERSION TO CHRISTIANITY—RIGHT OF ADOPTED CHILD.—According to the rules of succession laid down under this Act, an adopted child is not an heir entitled upon an intestacy to inherit the estate of his deceased adoptive parent. A Buddhist woman adopted a girl as a daughter in Keittima form with a view to inherit; but Law regulating succession to deceased person's immovable and movable property, respectively.

5. (1) Succession to the immovable property in British India of a person deceased shall be regulated by the law of British India, wherever such person may have had his domicile at the time of his death.

(2) Succession to the movable property of a person deceased is regulated by the law of the country in which such person had his domicile at the time of his death.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having his domicile in British India, dies in France, leaving movable property in France, movable property in England, and property, both movable and immovable, in British India. The succession to the whole is regulated by the law of British India.

(ii) A, an Englishman, having his domicile in France, dies in British India, and leaves property, both movable and immovable, in British India. The succession to the movable property is regulated by the rules which govern, in France, the succession to the movable property of an Englishman dying domiciled in France, and the succession to the immovable property is regulated by the law of British India.

One domicile only affects succession to movables.

6. A person can have only one domicile for the purpose of the succession to his movable property.

NOTES.

she subsequently became a Christian and died as a Christian intestate. Held, that the adopted girl could not inherit. 12 R. 184=1934 R. 72.

Secs. 5-19: ADOPTION—PLACE IN THE SUCCESSION ACT—SUCCESSION TO ESTATE OF SIKH CONVERT TO CHRISTIANITY.—On a consideration of the provisions contained in Part IV of the Succession Act which deals with consanguinity, it would be noticed that there is absolutely no mention of adoption as creating any kind of relationship whatsoever. The rule of law applicable in regard to the succession to the estate of a Sikh cinvert to Christianity, is not any practice or custom of adoption which might have prevailed, in the locality in the Punjab or the community to which the convert belonged before his conversion, but is as provided for in the Succession Act. Further in the absence of anything to show that the convert after his conversion desired or did something indicating an intention to retain any custom of adoption that might have prevailed in the community or the locality to which he belonged before his conversion, any such custom cannot apply. I.L.R. (1940) All. 100=1940 A.L.J. 1=1940 All. 134.

Sections 5-19 deal with domicile and are excluded in their application in the case of Hindus, Muhammadans, Buddhists, Sikhs and Jainas. The section applies to testamentary as well as intestate succession. Where a will relating to movables is invalid according to Indian Law, but valid under the law of the domicile of testator, probate will be granted in India. 1 Hagg. 498; 3 Hagg. 373; L.R. 8 App.Cas. 177; 1 Vern. 85. Thus if a man domiciled in England makes a will respecting immovable property in this country, both its construction and the ceremonial of its execution must be in accordance with this Act. 20 B. 607. In applying the rules of Hindu, Muhammadan, or English Law, to the wills of Hindus, Muhammadans or East Indian Christians, their particular habits and modes of life may be looked to as a guide to the interpretation. 5 B.L.R. 1; 13 W.R.P.C. 41. Generally speaking, the law of domicile governs under this Act the validity of wills of movables, their construction, and succession to the same. 13 M.I.A. 277; 5 B.L.R.P.C. 1: 20 B. 607; but it does not apply to immovables. In the case of immovable property belonging to a foreigner or Feudatory State, the section does not apply. 10 C. 136; 11 C. 17; 35 C. 777. The law of domicile is branch of private International Law. Two factors are essential to constitute domicile, i.e., residence and the intention to make a home. The usual classification is domicile by birth, by choice and by operation of law, e.g., marriage. For the English case-law bearing on Ss. 5 to 19, see Dicey's Conflict of Laws, 3rd Edn., Chap. II, pp. 83-207; Story's Conflict of Laws, Ch. III; Williams on Executors, 10th Edn., pp. 1261, 1270; Jarman on Wills, 5th Edn., p. 14.

Sec. 5.—The question of status of parties is of course one to be decided according to the law of domicile of the parties; but succession to immovable property in British India of a person deceased is, as provided by S. 5 of the Act, regulated by law of British India, wherever such person may have had his domicile at the time of his death. The custom prevailing among Parsis resident in Baroda for a husband to divorce his wife by mutual furgats or releases, assuming it to be a valid custom, cannot be recognised as valid in British India for the purpose of determining right or succession to land in British India, and such a divorce is not a valid divorce under the British Indian law for the purpose of deciding questions of succession to immovable property. 40 Bom.L.R. 141=1938 Bom. 238.

Domicile of origin of person of legitimate birth.

7. The domicile of origin of every person of legitimate birth is in the country in which at the time of his birth, his father was domiciled; or, if he is a posthumous child, in the country in which his father was domiciled at the time of the father's death.

Illustration.

At the time of the birth of A, his father was domiciled in England. A's domicile of origin is in England, whatever may be the country in which he was born.

Domicile of origin of illegitimate child.

8. The domicile of origin of an illegitimate child is in the country in which, at the time of his birth, his mother was domiciled.

Continuance of domicile of origin.

9. The domicile of origin prevails until a new domicile has been acquired.

Acquisition of new domicile.

10. A man acquires a new domicile by taking up his fixed habitation in a country which is not that of his domicile of origin.

Explanation.—A man is not to be deemed to have taken up his fixed habitation in British India merely by reason of his residing there in His Majesty's civil [1]military [2 or air force] service, or in the exercise of any profession or calling.

Illustrations.

(i) A, whose domicile of origin is in England, proceeds to British India, where he settles as a barrister or a merchant, intending to reside there during the remainder of his life. His domicile is now in British India.

(ii) A, whose domicile is in England, goes to Austria, and enters the Austrian service, intending to remain in that service. A has acquired a domicile in Austria.

(iii) A, whose domicile of origin is in France, comes to reside in British India under an engagement with the Central Government for a certain number of years. It is his intention to return to France at the end of that period. He does not acquire a domicile in British India.

(iv) A, whose domicile is in England, goes to reside in British India for the purpose of winding up the affairs of a partnership which has been dissolved, and with the intention of returning to England as soon as that purpose is accomplished. He does not by such residence acquire a domicile in British India, however long the residence may last.

(v) A, having gone to reside in British India in the circumstances mentioned in the last preceding illustration, afterwards alters his intention, and takes up his fixed habitation in British India. A has acquired a domicile in British India.

(vi) A, whose domicile is in the French Settlement of Chandernagore, is compelled by political events to take refuge in Calcutta, and resides in Calcutta for many years in the hope of such political changes as may enable him to return with safety to Chandernagore. He does not by such residence acquire a domicile in British India.

[2] Inserted by Act XXXV of 1934.

NOTES.

Secs. 7 to 10.—Beaman, J., in 41 B. 687 =36 I.C. 227=18 Bom.L.R. 715, discusses the terms domicile of origin and domicile of choice, and shows how strongly law leans in favour of the retention of the domicile of origin. As to the circumstances which may be relied on to prove evidence of intention, see 12 Moore P.C. 285; 17 Jur. N.S. 717. Even one day's residence in a new place with the requisite animus is sufficient to confer a new domicile. 43 B. 647. The explanation to S. 10 simply lays down the law as settled in other countries. 2 C.L.R. 497; 4 C. 106: 5 M. 379.

Sec. 7.—It is always material in determining what is a man's domicile, to consider where his wife and children live and have their permanent place of residence, and where the establishment is kept up. L.R. 3 App. Cas. 243; as an indication of intention, acts are more important than declarations. 10 Jur.N.S. 717. Officers of the Crown, coming to India at the time of the East India Company, did not lose their domicile of origin; but officers of the East India Company did. 5 M. 379; 2 C.L.R. 497 (Note); 4 C. 106; 2 C.L.R. 496.

Sec. 8.—Minors are generally incapable proprio motu of changing their domicile during their minority—Story's Conflict of Laws, 47. Their domicile follows that of the parent from whom it was derived.

(vii) A, having come to Calcutta in the circumstances stated in the last preceding illustration, continues to reside there after such political changes have occurred as would enable him to return with safety to Chandernagore, and he intends that his residence in Calcutta shall be permanent. A has acquired a domicile in British India.

Special mode of acquiring domicile in British India.

11. Any person may acquire a domicile in British India by making and depositing in some office in British India, appointed in this behalf by the Provincial Government, a declaration in writing under his hand of his desire to acquire such domicile: provided that he has been resident in British India for one year immediately preceding the time of his making such declaration.

Domicile not acquired by residence as representative of foreign Government, or as part of his family.

12. A person who is appointed by the Government of one country to be its ambassador, consul or other representative in another country does not acquire a domicile in the latter country by reason only of residing there in pursuance of his appointment; nor does any other person acquire such domicile by reason only of residing with such first-mentioned person as part of his family, or as a servant.

Continuance of new domicile.

13. A new domicile continues until the former domicile has been resumed or another has been acquired.

Minor's domicile.

14. The domicile of a minor follows the domicile of the parent from whom he derived his domicile of origin.

Exception.—The domicile of a minor does not change with that of his parent, if the minor is married, or holds any office or employment in the service of His Majesty, or has set up, with the consent of the parent, in any distinct business.

Domicile acquired by woman on marriage.

15. By marriage a woman acquires the domicile of her husband, if she had not the same domicile before.

Wife's domicile during marriage.

16. A wife's domicile during her marriage follows the domicile of her husband.

Exception.—The wife's domicile no longer follows that of her husband if they are separated by the sentence of a competent Court, or if the husband is undergoing a sentence of transportation.

Minor's acquisition of new domicile.

17. Save as hereinbefore otherwise provided in this part, a person cannot, during minority, acquire a new domicile.

NOTES.

Sec. 11.—In the Province of Oudh, the Office of the Judicial Commissioner at Lucknow should, until further orders, be the office in which declarations made under this section should be deposited. (Gazette of India, July 10th, 1865, p. 803.) In British Burma, the Office of the Chief Commissioner, British Burma at Rangoon is the office in which such declarations are to be deposited. (Gazette of India, 29th July, 1865.)

Sec. 13: SCOPE—SUIT BY EXECUTOR—PROBATE, IF A CONDITION PRECEDENT.—The grant of a probate is not a condition precedent to the institution of a suit by an executor. He has the right to sue as executor even before he obtains probate, and he will be entitled to get a decree if he produces the probate before the passing of the decree. 61 C. 1081=1935 C. 158.

Sec. 14.—See 4 C. 140; 1 C. 412.

Sec. 15.—Widow retains husband's domicile until she acquires another as by remarriage. 19 B. 697. A husband with an English domicile marrying a wife with an Indian domicile is on her death entitled to inherit the whole of her movable property to the exclusion of the next of kin. 23 C. 506. A Hindu widow of French India by migrating to British India and acquiring a new domicile does not change the character of the estate held by her. 24 M. 650.

Lunatic's acquisition of new domicile.

18. An insane person cannot acquire a new domicile in any other way than by his domicile following the domicile of another person.

Succession to movable property in British India in absence of proof of domicile elsewhere.

19. If a person dies leaving movable property in British India, in the absence of proof of any domicile elsewhere, succession to the property is regulated by the law of British India.

PART III.

MARRIAGE.

Interests and powers not acquired nor lost by marriage.

20. (1) No person shall, by marriage, acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries or become incapable of doing any act in respect of his or her own property which he or she could have done if unmarried.

(2) This section—

(a) shall not apply to any marriage contracted before the first day of January, 1866;

(b) shall not apply, and shall be deemed never to have applied, to any marriage one or both of the parties to which professed at the time of the marriage the Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jain religion.

Effect of marriage between person domiciled and one not domiciled in British India.

21. If a person whose domicile is not in British India marries in British India a person whose domicile is in British India, neither party acquires by the marriage any rights in respect of any property of the other party not comprised in a settlement made previous to the marriage, which he or she would not acquire thereby if both were domiciled in British India at the time of the marriage.

Settlement of minor's property in contemplation of marriage.

22. (1) The property of a minor may be settled in contemplation of marriage, provided the settlement is made by the minor with the approbation of the minor's father, or, if the father is dead or absent from British India, with the approbation of the High Court.

(2) Nothing in this section or in section 21 shall apply to any will made or intestacy occurring before the first day of January, 1866, or to intestate or testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina.

NOTES.

Sec. 19.—The presumption is against a change of domicile. 12 Moo.P.C. 255. See as to domicile of choice and proof of intention, 41 B. 687=36 I.C. 227=18 Bom. L.R. 715; and as to burden of proof generally, 32 C. 631.

Secs. 20 and 21.—The sections deal with different subjects. The former declares the general lex loci of India; the second lays down a special rule in a particular case. (Per Markby, J., 1 C. 412). It is to be observed, however as pointed out by Sale, J., in 23 C. 506, that in 1 C. 412, the question whether Ss. 20 and 21 did in any way affect the rights of succession was not dealt with as necessarily arising in the case.

Sec. 20.—The effect of the section is to say that the rights and liabilities of husband and wife are not governed by the English Common Law, but to keep their proprietary rights kept intact as if they were unmarried. Thus, in a suit for judicial separation, the husband cannot be ordered to give security for costs. 5 C. 357; 7 C.W.N. 505, unless the wife is without property of her own. 9 M. 12. But the section cannot operate to prevent effect being given to a marriage settlement. 13 Beng.L.R. 383. See also 30 B. 500.

Sec. 21.—Part III deals with intestate succession and the section prevents the anomaly of movable and immovable properties being governed by two different systems of law, but does not lay down a rule intended to affect the law of succession. 1 C. 412; 23 C. 536.

PART IV.

OF CONSANGUINITY.

Application of part.

23. Nothing in this part shall apply to any will made or intestacy occurring before the first day of January, 1866, or to intestate or testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or Parsi.

Kindred or consanguinity.

24. Kindred or consanguinity is the connection or relation of persons descended from the same stock or common ancestor.

Lineal consanguinity.

25. (1) Lineal consanguinity is that which subsists between two persons, one of whom is descended in a direct line from the other, as between a man and his father, grandfather and great-grandfather, and so upwards in the direct ascending line; or between a man and his son, grandson, great-grandson and so downwards in the direct descending line.

(2) Every generation constitutes a degree, either ascending or descending.

(3) A person's father is related to him in the first degree, and so likewise is his son; his grandfather and grandson in the second degree; his great-grandfather and great-grandson in the third degree, and so on.

Collateral consanguinity.

26. (1) Collateral consanguinity is that which subsists between two persons who are descended from the same stock or ancestor, but neither of whom is descended in a direct line from the other.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining in what degree of kindred any collateral relative stands to a person deceased, it is necessary to reckon upwards from the person deceased to the common stock and then downwards to the collateral relative, a degree being allowed for each person, both ascending and descending.

Persons held for purpose of succession to be similarly related to deceased.

27. For the purpose of succession, there is no distinction—

(a) between those who are related to a person deceased through his father, and those who are related to him through his mother; or

(b) between those who are related to a person deceased by the full blood, and those who are related to him by the half blood; or

(c) between those who were actually born in the lifetime of a person deceased and those who at the date of his death were only conceived in the womb, but who have been subsequently born alive.

Mode of computing of degrees of kindred.

28. Degrees of kindred are computed in the manner set forth in the table of kindred set out in Schedule I.

Illustrations.

(i) The person whose relatives are to be reckoned and his cousin-german, or first cousin, are, as shown in the table, related in the fourth degree; there being one degree of ascent to the father, and another to the common ancestor, the grandfather; and from him one of descent to the uncle and another to the cousin-german, making in all four degrees.

NOTES.

Sec. 24.—The definition is based on the English Statute 23 Charles II, c. 10, and is to be distinguished from affinity which is relationship through marriage. But in the case of Hindus, "kindred" includes relationship by marriage also. 15 C.W.N. 945.

Secs. 25 to 28.—Illegitimate children seem to be excluded from the operation of sections 25-28. See 11 Beng.L.R. App. 6; 30 B. 500. See also 58 C. 761=1931 C. 560.

(ii) A grandson of the brother and a son of the uncle, i.e., a great-nephew and a cousin-german, are in equal degree being each four degrees removed.

(iii) A grandson of a cousin-german is in the same degree as the grandson of a great-uncle for they are both in the sixth degree of kindred.

PART V.

INTESTATE SUCCESSION.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Application of part.

29. (1) This part shall not apply to any intestacy occurring before the first day of January, 1866, or to the property of any Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina.

(2) Save as provided in sub-section (1) or by any other law for the time being in force, the provisions of this part shall constitute the law of British India in all cases of intestacy.

As to what property deceased considered to have died intestate.

30. A person is deemed to die intestate in respect of all property of which he has not made a testamentary disposition which is capable of taking effect.

Illustrations.

(i) A has left no will. He has died intestate in respect of the whole of his property.

(ii) A has left a will, whereby he has appointed B his executor; but the will contains no other provisions. A has died intestate in respect of the distribution of the property.

(iii) A has bequeathed his whole property for an illegal purpose. A has died intestate in respect of the distribution of his property.

(iv) A has bequeathed 1,000 rupees to B and 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of C, and has made no other bequest; and has died leaving the sum of 2,000 rupees and no other property. C died before A without having ever had a son. A has died intestate in respect of distribution of 1,000 rupes.

CHAPTER II.

RULES IN CASES OF INTESTATES OTHER THAN PARSIS.

Chapter not to apply to Parsis.

31. Nothing in this Chapter shall apply to Parsis.

Devolution of such property.

32. The property of an intestate devolves upon the wife or husband, or upon those who are of the kindred of the deceased, in the order and according to the rules hereinafter contained in this Chapter.

Explanation.—A widow is not entitled to the provision hereby made for her if, by a valid contract made before her marriage, she has been excluded from her distributive share of her husband's estate.

NOTES.

Sec. 29.—To show that the English Law on its introduction by the Charter of 1726 was inapplicable to a particular community, it is not enough to prove that the community, had prior to that been governed by a law differing from English Law. It must be shown that the English Law is based on social or political conditions peculiar to the country of its origin. Part V of the Succession Act applies to the members of the Jewish community in Calcutta. 58 C. 761 =1931 C. 560.

Secs. 29 and 30.—See 54 A. 293=1932 A. 262.

Sec. 30.—Before the consolidation there was conflict as to its effect on the rule of survivorship: see 31 B. 25; 10 M. 69. As to effect of informal execution of will and partial intestacy, see 9 B.L.R. 377; 4 B. 537; 31 M. 517. Intestacy may be total or only partial. The former occurs when no will is left, or the will left becomes inoperative. (1902) 1 Ch. 218; (1902) 2 Ch. 500; the latter when part only of the beneficial interest is disposed of. 21 Ch. D. 10; (1900) 2 Ch. 541.

Sec. 32.—These sections relate to devolution as distinguished from distribution and are based on the English Law relating to personal property. The explanation does not apply to post-nuptial settlements. 3 Ves. 332; 10 Ves. 17. The section does not defeat the widow's right to dower. 6 C. 794. As regards the wife's share, the section corresponds mostly with the English

Where intestate has left widow and lineal descendants, or widow and kindred only, or widow and no kindred.

33. Where the intestate has left a widow—

(a) if he has also left any lineal descendants, one-third of his property shall belong to his widow, and the remaining two-thirds shall go to his lineal descendants according to the rules hereinafter contained;

(b) [1][Save as provided by section 33-A] if he has left no lineal descendants, but has left persons who are of kindred to him, one-half of his property shall belong to his widow, and the other half shall go to those who are of kindred to him, in the order and according to the rules hereinafter contained;

(c) if he has left none who are of kindred to him, the whole of his property shall belong to his widow.

Special provision where intestate has left widow and no lineal descendants.

[2][33-A. (1) Where the intestate has left a widow but no lineal descendants and the nett value of his property does not exceed five thousand rupees, the whole of his property shall belong to the widow.

(2) Where the nett value of the property exceeds the sum of five thousand rupees, the widow shall be entitled to five thousand rupees thereof and shall have a charge upon the whole of such property for such sum of five thousand rupees, with interest thereon from the date of the death of the intestate at 4 per cent. per annum until payment.

(3) The provision for the widow made by this section shall be in addition and without prejudice to her interest and share in the residue of the estate of such intestate remaining after payment of the said sum of five thousand rupees, with interest as aforesaid, and such residue shall be distributed in accordance with the provisions of section 33 as if it were the whole of such intestate's property.

(4) The nett value of the property shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross value thereof all debts, and all funeral and administration expenses of the intestate, and all other lawful liabilities and charges to which the property shall be subject.

(5) This section shall not apply—

(a) to the property of :—

(i) any Indian Christian,

(ii) any child or grandchild of any male person who is or was at the time of his death an Indian Christian, or

(iii) any person professing the Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina religion the succession to whose property is, under section 24 of the Special Marriage Act, 1872, regulated by the provisions of this Act;

(b) unless the deceased dies intestate in respect of all his property.]

Where intestate has left no widow, and where he has left no kindred.

34. Where the intestate has left no widow, his property shall go to his lineal descendants or to those who are of kindred to him, not being lineal descendants, according to the rules hereinafter contained; and, if he has left none who are of kindred to him, it shall go to the Crown.

35. A husband surviving his wife has the same rights in respect of her property, if she dies intestate, as a widow has in respect of her husband's property, if he dies intestate.

Distribution where there are lineal descendants.

Rules of distribution.

36. The rules for the distribution of the intestate's property (after deducting the widow's share, if he has left a widow) amongst his lineal descendants shall be those contained in sections 37 to 40.

Where intestate has left child or children only.

37. Where the intestate has left surviving him any child or children, but no more remote lineal descendant through a deceased child, the property shall belong to his surviving child, if there is only one, or shall be equally divided among all his surviving children.

Where intestate has left no child but grandchild or grandchildren.

38. Where the intestate has not left surviving him any child, but has left a grandchild or grandchildren and no more remote descendant through a deceased grandchild, the property shall belong to his surviving grandchild if there is only one, or shall be equally divided among all his surviving grandchildren.

Illustrations.

(i) A has three children, and no more, John, Mary and Henry. They all die before the father, John leaving two children, Mary three, and Henry four. Afterwards A dies intestate, leaving those nine grandchildren and no descendant of any deceased grandchild. Each of his grandchildren will have one-ninth.

(ii) But if Henry had died, leaving no child, then the whole is equally divided between the intestate's five grandchildren, the children of John and Mary.

Where intestate has left only great-grandchildren or remoter lineal descendants.

39. In like manner the property shall go to the surviving lineal descendants who are nearest in degree to the intestate, where they are all in the degree of great-grandchildren to him, or are all in a more remote degree.

Where intestate leaves lineal descendants, not all in same degree of kindred to him, and those through whom the more remote are descended are dead.

40. (1) If the intestate has left lineal descendants who do not all stand in the same degree of kindred to him, and the persons through whom the more remote are descended from him are dead, the property shall be divided into such a number of equal shares as may correspond with the number of the lineal descendants of the intestate who either stood in the nearest degree of kindred to him at his decease, or, having been of the like degree of kindred to him, died before him, leaving lineal descendants who survived him.

NOTES.

the Parsi Succession Act and taken together with the preceding clauses reproduces the whole of that Act which it is therefore proposed to repeal. In England the husband succeeds to the whole of the wife's personal property. All rights are at an end when the marriage is dissolved by divorce. 4 Eq. 162; 3 Ch. 220. As to husband's share in wife's property, see 87 I.C. 354=1925 M. 1110.

Sec. 37.—"Child" in S. 37 possibly includes an illegitimate child. 58 C. 761. See also 1940 Rang.L.R. 654. The child or children in the section refers to legitimate children. In the case of personal estate, the question of legitimacy is governed by the law of domicile, and hence a child legitimate by such law, though not according to English Law, gets a share. 17 Ch.D. 266; 5 B. and C. 451; 10 H.L. Cases 1; but see 58 C. 761; so also in the case of legitimatio per subsequens matrimonium, it must be allowed by the law of the place of domicile. 10 Ch. D. 216; 17 Ch.D. 266. As to adopted children see 1940 Rang.L.R. 654; 1940 All. 134.

Secs. 37 and 48: ADOPTED CHILD—RIGHT TO INHERIT.—According to the rules of succession laid down under the Succession Act, an adopted child is not an heir entitled upon an intestacy to inherit the estate of his deceased adoptive parent. A Buddhist woman adopted a girl as a daughter in Keittima form with a view to inherit, but he subsequently became a Christian and died as a Christian intestate. Held, that the adopted girl could not inherit 12 R. 184=1934 R. 72. See also 43 A. 255; 9 M.I.A. 195; 15 W.R. 33 (P.C.) and 57 I.A. 313 (P.C.).

(2) One of such shares shall be allotted to each of the lineal descendants who stood in the nearest degree of kindred to the intestate at his decease; and one of such shares shall be allotted in respect of each of such deceased lineal descendants; and the share allotted in respect of each of such deceased lineal descendants shall belong to his surviving child or children or more remote lineal descendants, as the case may be; such surviving child or children or more remote lineal descendants always taking the share which his or their parent or parents would have been entitled to respectively if such parent or parents had survived the intestate.

Illustrations.

(i) A had three children, John, Mary and Henry; John died, leaving four children, and Mary died, leaving one, and Henry alone survived the father. On the death of A, intestate, one-third is allotted to Henry, one-third to John's four children, and the remaining third to Mary's one child.

(ii) A left no child, but left eight grandchildren, and two children of a deceased grandchild. The property is divided into nine parts, one of which is allotted to each grandchild, and the remaining one-ninth is equally divided between the two great-grandchildren.

(iii) A has three children, John, Mary and Henry; John dies leaving four children; and one of John's children dies leaving two children. Mary dies leaving one child; A afterwards dies intestate. One-third of his property is allotted to Henry, one-third to Mary's child, and one-third is divided into four parts one of which is allotted to each of John's three surviving children and the remaining part is equally divided between John's two grandchildren.

(iv) A has two children, and no more; John and Mary. John dies before his father, leaving his wife pregnant. Then A dies leaving Mary surviving him, and in due time a child of John is born. A's property is to be equally divided between Mary and the posthumous child.

Distribution where there are no lineal descendants.

Rules of distribution where intestate has left no lineal descendants.

41. Where an intestate has left no lineal descendants, the rules for the distribution of his property (after deducting the widow's share, if he has left a widow) shall be those contained in sections 42 to 48.

Where intestate's father living.

42. If the intestate's father is living, he shall succeed to the property.

Where intestate's father dead but his mother, brothers and sisters living.

43. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living and there are also brothers or sisters of the intestate living, and there is no child living of any deceased brother or sister, the mother and each living brother or sister shall succeed to the property in equal shares.

Illustration.

A dies intestate, survived by his mother and two brothers of the full blood, John and Henry and a sister Mary, who is the daughter of his mother but not of his father. The mother takes one-fourth, each brother takes one-fourth, and Mary, the sister of half-blood, takes one-fourth.

Where intestate's father dead and his mother, a brother or sister, and children of any deceased brother or sister, living.

44. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living and if any brother or sister and the child or children of any brother or sister who may have died in the intestate's lifetime are also living, then the mother and each living brother or sister, and the living child or children of each deceased brother or sister, shall be entitled to the property in equal shares, such children (if more than one) taking in equal shares, only the shares which their respective parents would have taken if living at the intestate's death.

Where intestate's father dead and his mother and children of any deceased brother or sister living.

45. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living, and the brothers and sisters are all dead, but all or any of them have left children who survived the intestate, the mother and the child or children of each deceased brother or sister shall be entitled to the property in equal shares, such children (if more than one) taking in equal shares, only the shares which their respective parents would have taken if living at the intestate's death.

The mother takes one-third, the child of Mary, takes one-third and the children of George divide the remaining one-third, equally between them.

Where intestate's father dead, but his mother living and no brother, sister, nephew or niece.

46. If the intestate's father is dead, but the intestate's mother is living, and there is neither brother, nor sister, nor child of any brother or sister of the intestate, the property shall belong to the mother.

Where intestate has left neither lineal descendant, nor father, nor mother.

47. Where the intestate has left neither lineal descendant, nor father, nor mother, the property shall be divided equally between his brothers and sisters and the child or children of such of them as may have died before him, such children (if more than one) taking in equal shares only the shares which their respective parents would have taken if living at the intestate's death.

48. Where the intestate has left neither lineal descendant, nor parent, nor brother, nor sister, his property shall be divided equally among those of his relatives who are in the nearest degree of kindred to him.

CHAPTER III.

SPECIAL RULES FOR PARSI INTESTATES.

General principles relating to intestate succession.

[1][50. For the purpose of intestate succession among Parsis—

(a) there is no distinction between those who were actually born in the lifetime of a person deceased and those who at the date of his death were only conceived in the womb, but who have been subsequently born alive;

(b) a lineal descendant of an intestate who has died in the lifetime of the intestate without leaving a widow or widower or any lineal descendant or a widow of any lineal descendant shall not be taken into account in determining the manner in which the property of which the intestate has died intestate shall be divided; and

(c) where a widow of any relative of an intestate has married again in the lifetime of the intestate, she shall not be entitled to receive any share of the property of which the intestate has died intestate, and she shall be deemed not to be existing at the intestate's death.

Division of a male intestate's property among his widow, children and parents.

51. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), the property of which a male Parsi dies intestate shall be divided—

(a) where he dies leaving a widow and children, among the widow and children, so that the share of each son and of the widow shall be double the share of each daughter, or

(b) where he dies leaving children but no widow, among the children, so that the share of each son shall be double the share of each daughter.

(2) Where a male Parsi dies leaving one or both parents in addition to children or a widow and children, the property of which he dies intestate shall be divided so that the father shall receive a share equal to half the share of a son and the mother shall receive a share equal to half the share of a daughter.

Division of a female intestate's property among her widower and children.

52. The property of which a female Parsi dies intestate shall be divided—cable the principle of English Law that anything received by way of advancement or settlement should be brought into the hotchpot so as to make the shares of all children equal. As to what is and what is not advancement, see 20 Eq. 155; 8 Ch. D. 136; (1903) 1 Ch. 1. Prior to Act XXI of 1865 the law governing Parsis in the mufassil was the ascertained usage of the community modified by the rules of equity and good conscience. 30 B. 359.

Secs. 50 to 56 and Sch. II.—Contain special rules as to intestate succession among Parsis; and correspond to Ss. 1 to 7 of the Parsi Intestate Succession Act (XXI of 1867). Although as early as 1877, it was pointed out by the Judges of the Bombay High Court that there were defects in the drafting of the Act and that in order to make this Act harmonious with other enactments, amendments are necessary in several respects (see 1 B. 506), still the legislature has not though fit to make those amendments in the present Act (vide Speech of Law Member in introducing the Bill in the Council and Joint Committee Report). As to the construction of this chapter and whether the form in which the Act was placed before the Legislative Council can be considered in construing the Act, see 11 B. 1 (4). As to construction of Parsi Will, see 4 B. 537; 7 Bom.L.R. 207. Where there are no special statutes relating to them, the law applicable to Parsis in the island and town of Bombay is the English common law and the statute law in England so far as they are reasonably applicable to them. 51 B. 167=98 I.C. 949=1927 B. 22.

Sec. 51.—As to the meaning of "widower," see 11 B. 1 (4). A widower on a second marriage is still a widower relatively to deceased wife. 11 B. 1. As to succession of a Parsi female, see 5 Bom.L.R. 252.

Secs. 52 to 56.—As to the validity of a direction in the will of a Parsi excluding particular heir, see 28 I.C. 481.

(a) where she dies leaving a widower and children, among the widower and children so that the widower and each child receive equal shares, or (b) where she dies leaving children but no widower, among the children in equal shares.

Division of share of pre-deceased child of intestate leaving lineal descendants.

53. In all cases where a Parsi dies leaving any lineal descendant, if any child of such intestate has died in the lifetime of the intestate, the division of the share of the property of which the intestate has died intestate which such child would have taken if living at the intestate's death shall be in accordance with the following rules, namely:—

(a) If such deceased child was a son, his widow and children shall take shares in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter as if he had died immediately after the intestate's death:

Provided that where such deceased son has left a widow or a widow of a lineal descendant but no lineal descendant, the residue of his share after such distribution has been made shall be divided in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter as property of which the intestate has died intestate, and in making the division of such residue the said deceased son of the intestate shall not be taken into account.

(b) If such deceased child was a daughter, her share shall be divided equally among her children.

(c) If any child of such deceased child has also died during the lifetime of the intestate, the share which he or she would have taken if living at the intestate's death shall be divided in like manner in accordance with clause (a) or clause (b) as the case may be.

(d) Where a remoter lineal descendant of the intestate has died during the lifetime of the intestate, the provisions of clause (c) shall apply mutatis mutandis to the division of any share to which he or she would have been entitled if living at the intestate's death by reason of the predecease of all the intestate's lineal descendants directly between him or her and the intestate.

Division of property where intestate leaves no lineal descendant but leaves a widow or widower or a widow of any lineal descendant.

54. Where a Parsi dies without leaving any lineal descendant but leaving a widow or widower or a widow of a lineal descendant, the property of which the intestate dies intestate shall be divided in accordance with the following rules, namely:—

(a) If the intestate leaves a widow or widower but no widow of a lineal descendant, the widow or widower shall take half the said property.

(b) If the intestate leaves a widow or widower and also a widow of any lineal descendant, his widow or her widower shall receive one-third of the said property, and the widow of any lineal descendant shall receive another one-third, or if there is more than one such widow, the last mentioned one-third shall be divided equally among them.

(c) If the intestate leaves no widow or widower but one widow of a lineal descendant, she shall receive one-third of the said property or, if the intestate leaves no widow or widower but more than one widow of a lineal descendant, two-thirds of the said property shall be divided among such widows in equal shares.

NOTES.

Sec. 54.—As to position of widower of a pre-deceased son or daughter before and after the Act, see 1 B. 506. It is not a condition precedent to the application of S. 5 that the pre-deceased son of an intestate Parsi shall have left a widow and issue. 1 B. 506.

Secs. 55 and 56.—In both these sections the words "next-of-kin" and "relatives" are synonymous. 22 B. 909.

Sec. 56.—Only in cases where the deceased left neither lineal descendants nor widow nor widower, as the case may be, would this section and Sch. II, Art. 2 apply. 4 B. 537. As to meaning of "next-of-kin," see 22 B. 903.

(d) The residue after the division specified in clause (a), (b) or (c) has been made shall be distributed among the relatives of the intestate in the order specified in Part I of Schedule II. The next-of-kin standing first in Part I of that Schedule shall be preferred to those standing second, the second to the third, and so on in succession, provided that the property shall be so distributed that each male shall take double the share of each female standing in the same degree of propinquity.

(e) If there are no relatives entitled to the residue under clause (d), the whole of the residue shall be distributed in proportion to the shares specified among the persons entitled to receive shares under this section.

Division of property where intestate leaves neither lineal descendants nor a widow or widower nor a widow of any lineal descendant.

55. When a Parsi dies leaving neither lineal descendants nor a widow or widower nor a widow of any lineal descendant, his or her next-of-kin, in the order set forth in Part II of Schedule II, shall be entitled to succeed to the whole of the property of which he or she dies intestate. The next-of-kin standing first in Part II of that Schedule shall be preferred to those standing second, the second to the third, and so on in succession, provided that the property shall be so distributed that each male shall take double the share of each female standing in the same degree of propinquity.

Division of property where there is no relative entitled to succeed under the other provisions of this Chapter.

56. Where there is no relative entitled to succeed under the other provisions of this Chapter to the property of which a Parsi has died intestate, the said property shall be divided equally among those of the intestate's relatives who are in the nearest degree of kindred to him.]

PART VI.

TESTAMENTARY SUCCESSION.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTORY.

Application of certain provisions of Part to a class of wills made by Hindus, etc.

[1]57. The provisions of this Part which are set out in Schedule III shall, subject to the restrictions and modifications specified therein, apply—

(a) to all wills and codicils made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina, on or after the first day of September, 1870, within the territories which at the said date were subject to the Provincial Government of Bengal or within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Madras and Bombay; and

(b) to all such wills and codicils made outside those territories and limits so far as relates to immovable property situate within those territories or limits; [and]

[1] S. 57.—Sub-S. (1) of S. 57 has been renumbered as S. 57, and after Cl. (b) and before the proviso the word "and" and Cl. (c) have been added; and sub-S. (2) of S. 57 has been omitted by Act XVIII of

NOTES.

Sec. 57.—Part VI deals with testamentary succession. Read with Schedule III it reproduces those provisions of the Hindu Wills Act (XXI of 1870), which relate to testamentary succession. S. 187 of the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), as applied by the Hindu Wills Act, has been dealt with in another part of the Bill and will be dealt with under the appropriate section. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Will executed by a Hindu in the mofussil —Estate, when vests in the executor—Probate not obtained, effect of. 49 M. 261=1926 M. 434=50 M.L.J. 308 (F.B.). In the case of wills executed outside Madras, probate need be taken of them only in so far as they relate to immovable properties

[(c) to all wills and codicils made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina, on or after the first day of January, 1927, to which those provisions are not applied by clauses (a) and (b):]

Provided that marriage shall not revoke any such will or codicil.

[* * * * * * *]

General application of Part.

58. (1) The provisions of this Part shall not apply to testamentary succession to the property of any Muhammadan nor, save as provided by section 57, to testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina; nor shall they apply to any will made before the first day of January, 1866.

(2) Save as provided in sub-section (1) or by any other law for the time being in force, the provisions of this Part shall constitute the law of British India applicable to all cases of testamentary succession.

CHAPTER II.

OF WILLS AND CODICILS.

Person capable of making wills.

59. Every person of sound mind not being a minor may dispose of his property by will.

LEG. REF.

1929. The necessity for the amendment has been explained as follows:—Under sub-section (2) of S. 57 of the Act of 1925, which was inserted by Act XXXVII of 1926, all wills and codicils made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina on or after the 1st January, 1927, in areas outside those where sub-section (1) of that section is in force, are required to be reduced to writing signed and attested under S. 63 of the Act. It is considered that the provisions of the other sections of the Indian Succession Act set out in Schedule III should be made applicable to the class of wills dealt with in S. 57 (2), since the failure to apply these provisions to those wills may lead to the inference that different principles govern them, and once it is decided that this class of wills should be in writing, signed and attested, there is no reason for differentiating it from the wills falling under Cls. (a) and (b) of S. 57 (1). The necessary amendments are provided in clauses (3) and (4) of the Bill.

HINDU WILLS ACT (XXI OF 1870), Ss. 2 AND 3—SCOPE AND EFFECT OF.—The combined effect of Ss. 2 and 3 of the Hindu Wills Act is that a disposition permitted by the Succession Act may be invalidated, but a disposition invalid under this Act cannot be validated by any rule of Hindu Law. 1934 M. 705=67 M.L.J. 525.

Secs. 57 (c) and 63: ORAL WILL BY HINDU—VALIDITY.—In view of Ss. 57 (c) and 63 of the Succession Act, no oral will could legally be made by a Hindu after the 1st January, 1927. 42 P.L.R. 326.

Secs. 57 and 213.—Where the will of Hindu in Ajmer deals with property in Calcutta, the legatee cannot establish his right thereunder without first obtaining probate or letters of administration. 1941 A.M.L.J. 132.

Secs. 57 (c), 213 and 383.—Where a person claims under a will falling under S. 57 (c), he can apply under S. 383 and get the succession certificate granted to another, revoked, without obtaining a probate of the will, for S. 213, which requires it, does not apply to a will falling under S. 57 (c). 1938 A.L.J. 939=1938 All. 640.

Sec. 59.—Sound mind is not the same as perfectly balanced mind; it need only be of natural capacity, and not unduly impaired by old age, illness or influence. L.R. 1 P. & D. 398; 3 P. Any assent by the legatee to abide by the will would not clothe the testator with authority to deal with property over which he had no disposing power. 114 I.C. 105 =1929 S. 19. W.N. ccii. Illness incapacitating a man

Explanation I.—A married woman may dispose by will of any property which she could alienate by her own act during her life.

Explanation II.—Persons who are deaf or dumb or blind are not thereby incapacitated for making a will if they are able to know what they do by it.

Explanation III.—A person who is ordinarily insane may make a will during an interval in which he is of sound mind.

Explanation IV.—No person can make a will while he is in such a state of mind, whether arising from intoxication or from illness or from any other cause, that he does not know what he is doing.

Illustrations.

(i) A can perceive what is going on in his immediate neighbourhood, and can answer familiar questions, but has not a competent understanding as to the nature of his property, or the persons who are of kindred to him, or in whose favour it would be proper that he should make his will. A cannot make a valid will.

(ii) A executes an instrument purporting to be his will, but he does not understand the nature of the instrument, nor the effect of its provisions. This instrument is not a valid will.

(iii) A, being very feeble and debilitated, but capable of exercising a judgment as to the proper mode of disposing of his property, makes a will. This is a valid will.

Testamentary guardian.

60. A father, whatever his age may be, may by will appoint a guardian or guardians for his child during minority.

Will obtained by fraud, coercion, or importunity.

61. A will or any part of a will, the making of which has been caused by fraud or coercion, or by such importunity as takes away the free agency of the testator, is void.

Illustrations.

(i) A falsely and knowingly represents to the testator that the testator's only child is dead, or that he has done some undutiful act and thereby induces the testator to make a will in his, A's favour; such will has been obtained by fraud, and is invalid.

(ii) A, by fraud and deception, prevails upon the testator to bequeath a legacy to him. The bequest is void.

(iii) A, being a prisoner by lawful authority, makes his will. The will is not invalid by reason of the imprisonment.

(iv) A threatens to shoot B, or to burn his house or to cause him to be arrested on a criminal charge, unless he makes a bequest in favour of C. B, in consequence, makes a bequest in favour of C. The bequest is void, the making of it having been caused by coercion.

(v) A, being of sufficient intellect, if undisturbed by the influence of others, to make a will, yet being so much under the control of B that he is not a free agent, makes a will, dictated by B. It appears that he would not have executed the will but for fear of B. The will is invalid.

(vi) A, being in so feeble a state of health as to be unable to resist importunity, is pressed by B to make a will of a certain purport and does so merely to purchase peace and in submission to B. The will is invalid.

(vii) A being in such a state of health as to be capable of exercising his own judgment and volition, B uses urgent intercession and persuasion with him to induce him

Will may be revoked or altered.

62. A will is liable to be revoked or altered by the maker of it at any time when he is competent to dispose of his property by will.

CHAPTER III.

OF THE EXECUTION OF UNPRIVILEGED WILLS.

Execution of unprivileged wills.

63. Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [1][or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:—

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

The impression of a facsimile is enough. 25 C. 911; initials are sufficient. 58 I.C. 134. If it runs over several pages, signature in the last page is sufficient. (1908) P. 1; 14 C. The practice of touching the pen and handing it to some other person amounts to direction. 6 M.L.J. 209. See 40 M. 540; but thumb mark is sufficient. 45 B. 989. See also 1941 Pat. 368=193 I.C. 463. A will executed by a marks-woman was attested by four witnesses one of whom was dead and the others were examined. After the attestation there was the customary memorandum by the writer that the will was in the handwriting of one of them. It appeared that the scratch mark was put by the writer and not by the executant. Held (on a difference of opinion) that the will was properly executed in accordance with S. 63 (a) of the Succession Act. 57 M. 972= 1934 M. 436=67 M. L. J. 721. Even a testator who can sign his name can execute a will by making his mark. 28 Bom.L.R. 529=1926 B. 365; 61 I.C. 587=23 Bom.L. R. 399; though he is assisted by some other person in making his mark: 22 I.C. 677; 42 C.W.N. 649; 10 C.W.N. 1295; the signature must be animo testandi and the attestation animo attestandi. 29 I.C. 7=19 C. W.N. 1279. Where the testator was roused from unconsciousness in order to sign the will and the attestation took place immediately after his signature and the attesting witnesses were in close proximity to the testator in the same room. Held, that it was not an excessive presumption to say that as the testator had been roused from unconsciousness and was sufficiently conscious to realise that he was making his mark on his will, he was equally conscious at the time immediately afterwards that the attestation was taking place and that, therefore, there had been sufficient compliance with the provisions of S. 63 (c). 42 C.W.N. 649. Want of attestation is fatal. 30 I.C. 263 =2 O.L.J. 193. Attestation at the time of Registration is sufficient. 6 C. 17; 27 C. 169. When a Registering Officer endorses that execution was admitted before him he can be considered an attestor. 1 P. 300= 1923 P. 402. A will executed by a Hindu living within the territory over which the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal had jurisdiction requires attestation by two witnesses as a condition to its validity. Where a will was presented before the Sub-Registrar in a sealed cover and the cover contained the endorsement "I do execute the last will" and the signature of the pleader was taken to the endorsement of presentation made on the cover by the Sub-Registrar: Held, that assuming that the endorsement on the cover containing the will was a sufficient acknowledgment of his signature upon the will, it was not signed by the pleader as a witness

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

Incorporation of papers by reference.

64. If a testator, in a will or codicil duly attested, refers to any other document then actually written as expressing any part of his intentions, such document shall be deemed to form a part of the will or codicil in which it is referred to.

OF PRIVILEGED WILLS.

Privileged wills.

65. Any soldier being employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [1][or an airman so employed or engaged] or any mariner being at sea, may, if he has completed the age of eighteen years, dispose of his property by a will made in the manner provided in section 66. Such wills are called privileged wills.

A will is validly attested, if either of the two necessary attesting witnesses has merely affixed his mark to the will. 1936 A.L.J. 782=1936 A. 576 (F. B.). The word "sign" in S. 63 (c) must be interpreted as including also making a mark or thumb impression. For the attestation to be valid, it is not consequently necessary that the attesting witnesses should put down their names in their handwriting. It is sufficient if they affix their marks or thumb impressions. 39 Bom.L.R. 606=1937 Bom. 389. See also 1936 A.L.J. 782=1936 All. 576=58 All. 1064 (F. B.). (iii) A, a soldier serving in the field against insurgents, is a soldier engaged in actual warfare, and as such can make a privileged will.

(iv) A, a mariner of a ship, in the course of a voyage, is temporarily on shore while she is lying in harbour. He is, for the purposes of this section, a mariner at sea, and can make a privileged will.

(v) A, an admiral who commands a naval force, but who lives on shore, and only occasionally goes on board his ship, is not considered as at sea, and cannot make a privileged will.

(vi) A, a mariner serving on a military expedition, but not being at sea, is considered as a soldier, and can make a privileged will.

Mode of making, and rules for executing, privileged wills.

66. (1) Privileged wills may be in writing, or may be made by word of mouth.

(2) The execution of privileged wills shall be governed by the following rules:—

(a) The will may be written wholly by the testator, with his own hand. In such case it need not be signed or attested.

(b) It may be written wholly or in part by another person, and signed by the testator. In such case it need not be attested.

(c) If the instrument purporting to be a will is written wholly or in part by another person and is not signed by the testator, it shall be deemed to be his will, if it is shown that it was written by the testator's directions or that he recognized it as his will.

(d) If it appears on the face of the instrument that the execution of it in the manner intended by the testator was not completed, the instrument shall not, by reason of that circumstance, be invalid, provided that his non-execution of it can be reasonably ascribed to some cause other than the abandonment of the testamentary intentions expressed in the instrument.

(e) If the soldier, [1][airman] or mariner has written instructions for the preparation of his will, but has died before it could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute his will.

(f) If the soldier, [1][airman] or mariner has, in the presence of two witnesses, given verbal instructions for the preparation of his will, and they have been reduced into writing in his lifetime, but he has died before the instrument could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute his will, although they may not have been reduced into writing in his presence, nor read over to him.

(g) The soldier, [1][airman] or mariner may make a will by word of mouth by declaring his intentions before two witnesses present at the same time.

(h) A will made by word of mouth shall be null at the expiration of one month after the testator, being still alive, has ceased to be entitled to make a privileged will.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE ATTESTATION, REVOCATION, ALTERATION AND REVIVAL OF WILLS.

Effect of gift to attesting witness.

67. A will shall not be deemed to be insufficiently attested by reason of any benefit thereby given either by way of bequest or by way of appointment to any person attesting it, or to his or her wife or husband; but the bequest or appointment shall be void so far as concerns the person so attesting, or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under either of them.

Explanation.—A legatee under a will does not lose his legacy by attesting a codicil which confirms the will.

Witness not disqualified by interest or by being executor.

68. No person, by reason of interest in, or of his being an executor of, a will, shall be disqualified as a witness to prove the execution of the will or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof.

Revocation of will by testator's marriage.

69. Every will shall be revoked by the marriage of the maker, except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the property over which the power of appointment is exercised would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his or her executor or administrator, or to the person entitled in case of intestacy.

Explanation.—Where a man is invested with power to determine the disposition of property of which he is not the owner, he is said to have power to appoint such property.

Revocation of unprivileged will or codicil.

70. No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, shall be revoked otherwise than by marriage, or by another will or codicil, or by some writing declaring an intention to revoke the same and executed in the manner in which an unprivileged will is hereinbefore required to be executed, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator or by some person in his presence and by his direction with the intention of revoking the same.

attesting witnesses. 1927 P.C. 248=54 M. L.J. 43 (P.C.) (1925 O. 465, Affirm.). In 4 M. 244 the reason of the prohibition was stated to be "the suspicion or chance of possible collusion which is favoured by the prospect of benefit". If what is given by way of bequest is by way of trust, it is not void. 6 Eq. 69. Even if there are two other attesting witnesses, the bequest is void. 4 M. 244. The marriage of legatee after attestation does not affect validity of legacy. 6 Q.B.D. 311. A bequest to a son of an attesting witness made independently and not as a person claiming under the attesting witness is not void and S. 67 does not apply. 1937 L. 292=174 I.C. 687.

Sec. 69.—To have the effect of revocation the marriage must be valid. 15 P.D. 152. But if at the time of marriage, the testator is domiciled in a country where marriage does not revoke wills, it has not that effect. 1 P.D. 74; L.R. 1900 P. 211; L.R. 1904 P. 269. Where the maker of a will disposes of his own property and also exercises a power of appointment, marriage revokes only the former part and not the latter. (1921) 2 Ch. 1. A will is not destroyed merely by being struck through with a pen. The destruction must be by some method ejusdem generis with those described in S. 70. Cancellation is not one of the means of revocation either under the English or under the Indian Law. Where a testatrix who had executed a will and a codicil destroyed the outer cover of the will and drew two crossed ink lines on the first page and wrote at its top the words "the will is cancelled" and signed the same, but otherwise the will and codicil were left intact, the will and codicil were not effectually revoked in law and that the conduct of the testatrix did not fall under the words "otherwise destroyed" in S. 70 of the Act. 30 Bom.L.R. 473=1928 B. 194. Effect of obliteration, interlineation or alteration in unprivileged will.

71. No obliteration, interlineation or other alteration made in any unprivileged will after the execution thereof shall have any effect, except so far as the words or meaning of the will have been thereby rendered illegible or undiscernible, unless such alteration has been executed in like manner as hereinbefore is required for the execution of the will:

Provided that the will, as so altered, shall be deemed to be duly executed if the signature of the testator and the subscription of the witnesses is made in the margin or on some other part of the will opposite or near to such alteration, or at the foot or end of or opposite to a memorandum referring to such alteration, and written at the end or some other part of the will.

Revocation of privileged will or codicil.

72. A privileged will or codicil may be revoked by the testator by an unprivileged will or codicil, or by any act expressing an intention to revoke it and accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction, with the intention of revoking the same.

Explanation.—In order to the revocation of a privileged will or codicil by an act accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, it is not necessary that the testator should at the time of doing that act be in a situation which entitles him to make a privileged will.

Revival of unprivileged will.

73. (1) No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, which has been revoked in any manner, shall be revived otherwise than by the re-execution thereof, or by a codicil executed in manner hereinbefore required, and showing an intention to revive the same.

(2) When any will or codicil, which has been partly revoked and afterwards wholly revoked, is revived, such revival shall not extend to so much thereof as has been revoked before the revocation of the whole thereof, unless an intention to the contrary is shown by the will or codicil.

Revocation cannot be presumed but has to be proved. 2 P. and D. 172; 18 C.W.N. 527. As to the presumption of destruction when will is not forthcoming, see 1 Moo.P.C. 299; 22 C. Sec. 71.—The section has nothing to do with alterations prior to execution. 29 C. 311. This section applies only to alterations made after the execution of the will. 38 M. 356=25 M.L.J. 393. The presumption is alterations are made subsequent to execution. 4 Moo.P.C. 419; 16 B. 652; it is not rebutted merely by showing they are dated by the testator prior to execution of will. 47 C. 1043. If a person makes an alteration in a will without the knowledge of the testator, it has no effect except that he cannot claim under the will. 7 M. 302.

Sec. 73.—Revival restores a revoked will or codicil, and has to be distinguished from republication which is tantamount to making a new will. (1904) 1 Ch. 726. To effect a revival, there must be an express intention. 1 P .and D. 575; 3 Ves. 402. Where a codicil merely refers to a revoked will, there is no revival. 1891 P. 326. As to republication of will, see 21 I.C. 183=40 C. 192. The effect of confirming a will by codicil is to bring the will down to the date of codicil. CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF WILLS.

Wording of will.

74. It is not necessary that any technical words or terms of art be used in a will, but only that the wording be such that the intentions of the testator can be known therefrom.

Inquiries to determine questions as to object or subject of will.

75. For the purpose of determining questions as to what person or what property is denoted by any words used in a will, a Court shall inquire into every material fact relating to the persons who claim to be interested under such will, the property which is claimed as the subject of disposition, the circumstances of the testator and of his family, and into every fact a knowledge of which may conduce to the right application of the words which the testator has used.

Illustrations.

(i) A, by his will, bequeaths 1,000 rupees to his eldest son or to his youngest grandchild or to his cousin, Mary. A Court may make inquiry in order to ascertain to what person the description in the will applies.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B "my estate called Black Acre". It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what is the subject-matter of the bequest; that is to say, what estate of the testator's is called Black Acre.

(iii) A, by his will, leaves to B "the estate which I purchased of C". It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what estate the testator purchased of C.

Misnomer or misdescription of object.

76. (1) Where the words used in a will to designate or describe a legatee or a class of legatees sufficiently show what is meant, an error in the name or description shall not prevent the legacy from taking effect.

(2) A mistake in the name of a legatee may be corrected by a description of him, and a mistake in the description of a legatee may be corrected by the name.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a legacy "to Thomas, the second son of my brother John". The testator has an only brother, named John, who has no son named Thomas, but has a second son whose name is William. William will have the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths a legacy "to Thomas, the second son of my brother John". The testator has an only brother, named John, whose first son is named Thomas, and whose second son is named William. Thomas will have the legacy.

(iii) The testator bequeaths his property "to A and B, the legitimate children of C". C has no legitimate child, but has two illegitimate children, A and B. The bequest to A and B takes effect although they are illegitimate.

(iv) The testator gives his residuary estate to be divided among "my seven children" and, proceeding to enumerate them, mentions six names only. This omission will not prevent the seventh child from taking a share with the others.

NOTES.

Sec. 74.—If technical words are used, they must be construed in their legal technical sense. (1913) 1 Ch. 552; (1894) A.C. 310; 24 I.A. 76. If attributing the technical meaning leads to an inconsistency with what the testator intended, it should not prevail. 31 M. 283. The expressed intention is what has to be ascertained. 2 Raym. 1149; 18 Ch.D. 531; (1894) 2 Ch. 83; 18 W.R. 359; 10 M.I.A. 279; 29 B. 375; 11 C.L.J. 461. Where the language is clear and consistent, it must receive a liberal construction. 22 I.A. 119. In construing Hindu wills the ordinary motives and wishes of Hindus can be considered. 2 I.A. 7; 35 I.A. 118. See also 39 C.W.N. 237.

Sec. 75.—The effect of evidence is not to vary or add to the language. (1902) A.C. 2. See the discussion in (1900) 2 Ch. 756. Surrounding circumstances can be looked into. 2 I.A. 256; 36 A. 101; 24 M.L.J. 418; 37 M. 199. Parol evidence is admissible only to show which of the persons or things is intended, not that they were used in a sense to include more than one of them. 15 I.A. 127; 1917 M.W.N. 645. See also 40 B. 1=17 Bom.L.R. 115 (Bequest to unnamed person—Secret instructions).

Secs. 76.—See (1908) 1 Ch. 185; (1908) 2 Ch. 111; 22 M. 383; 27 I.A. 162. Where both name and description are erroneous, the same rule applies. 10 Beav. 537. On the question of persona designata, see 24 M. 214; 31 A. 5; 37 B. 116; 12 I.A. 72. As to when parol evidence is admissible, see (1912) 1 Ch. 135; (1916) 1 Ch. 461.

(v) The testator, having six grandchildren, makes a bequest to "my six grandchildren" and, proceeding to mention them by their Christian names, mentions one twice over omitting another altogether. The one whose name is not mentioned will take a share with the others.

(vi) The testator bequeaths "1,000 rupees to each of the three children of A". At the date of the will A has four children. Each of these four children will, if he survives the testator, receive a legacy of 1,000 rupees.

When words may be supplied.

77. Where any word material to the full expression of the meaning has been omitted, it may be supplied by the context.

Illustration.

The testator gives a legacy of "five hundred" to his daughter A and a legacy of "five hundred rupees" to his daughter B. A will take a legacy of five hundred rupees.

Rejection of erroneous particulars in description of subject.

78. If the thing which the testator intended to bequeath can be sufficiently identified from the description of it given in the will, but some parts of the description do not apply, such parts of the description shall be rejected as erroneous, and the bequest shall take effect.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X". The testator had marsh-lands lying in L but had no marsh-lands in the occupation of X. The words "in the occupation of X" shall be rejected as erroneous, and the marsh-lands of the testator lying in L will pass by the bequest.

(ii) The testator bequeaths to A "my zamindari of Rampur". He had an estate at Rampur but it was a taluq and not a zamindari. The taluq passes by this bequest.

When part of description may not be rejected as erroneous.

79. If a will mentions several circumstances as descriptive of the thing which the testator intends to bequeath, and there is any property of his in respect of which all those circumstances exist, the bequest shall be considered as limited to such property, and it shall not be lawful to reject any part of the description as erroneous, because the testator had other property to which such part of the description does not apply.

Explanation.—In judging whether a case falls within the meaning of this section, any words which would be liable to rejection under section 78 shall be deemed to have been struck out of the will.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L, some of which were in the occupation of X, and some not in the occupation of X. The bequest will be considered as limited to such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X.

(ii) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X comprising 1,000 bighas of lands." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L some of which were in the occupation of X and some not in the occupation of X. The measurement is wholly inapplicable to the marsh-lands of either class, or to the whole taken together. The measurement will be considered as struck out of the will, and such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X shall alone pass by the bequest.

Sec. 77.—Power to be exercised with great caution. 7 H.L.C. 68; 5 Bom.L.R. 719. The supplying of words is to effectuate intention as apparent from whole will. 4 Ves. 57; 13 Ves. 476; 1 C. 104; 16 I.A. 166; 33 Ch.D. 198. On this section, see also 39 C.W.N. 237.

Sec. 78.—See 18 B. 283; 33 A. 66; 8 Bom.L.R. 471; 6 Ch.D. 436.

Sec. 80.—Compare with Ss. 95-97, Indian Evidence Act, dealing with latent and patent ambiguities. Where there is no ambiguity no extrinsic evidence is admissible. 7 H.L. 364; 1894 P. 98; 15 I.A. 126. Where no person properly answers the description, evidence is, in general, inadmissible. 5 H. L.C. 168; 8 H.L.C. 172.

Secs. 80 and 81: SCOPE—IF EXHAUSTIVE—ORAL EVIDENCE—ADMISSIBILITY.—Where the intention of the testator is proved by the terms of the will, although the case is not covered by the terms of Ss. 80 and 81 oral evidence may be allowed to show circumstances, habits and the state of the testator's family on principles trinsic evidence that they admit of applications, one only of which can have been intended by the testator, extrinsic evidence may be taken to show which of these applications was intended.

Illustrations.

(i) A man, having two cousins of the name of Mary, bequeaths a sum of money to "my cousin Mary". It appears that there are two persons, each answering the description in the will. That description, therefore, admits of two applications, only one of which can have been intended by the testator. Evidence is admissible to show which of the two applications was intended.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B, "my estate called Sultanpur Khurd." It turns out that he had two estates called Sultanpur Khurd. Evidence is admissible to show which estate was intended.

Extrinsic evidence inadmissible in case of patent ambiguity or deficiency.

81. Where there is an ambiguity or deficiency on the face of a will, no extrinsic evidence as to the intentions of the testator shall be admitted.

Illustrations.

(i) A man has an aunt, Caroline, and a cousin, Mary, and has no aunt of the name of Mary. By his will he bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "my aunt, Caroline" and 1,000 rupees to "my cousin, Mary" and afterwards bequeaths 2,000 rupees to "my before mentioned aunt, Mary." There is no person to whom the description given in the will can apply, and evidence is not admissible to show who was meant by "my before mentioned aunt, Mary." The bequest is therefore void for uncertainly under section 89.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to . . . . leaving a blank for the name of the legatee. Evidence is not admissible to show what name the testator intended to insert.

(iii) A bequeaths to B ..... rupees, or "my estate of .....". Evidence is not admissible to show what sum or what estate the testator intended to insert.

Meaning of clause to be collected from entire will.

82. The meaning of any clause in a will is to be collected from the entire instrument, and all its parts are to be construed with reference to each other.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator gives to B a specific fund or property at the death of A, and by a subsequent clause gives the whole of his property to A. The effect of the several clauses taken together is to vest the specific fund or property in A for life, and after his decease in B; it appearing from the bequest to B that the testator meant to use in a restricted sense the words in which he describes what he gives to A.

(ii) Where a testator having an estate, one part of which is called Black Acre, bequeaths the whole of his estate to A, and in another part of his will bequeaths Black Acre to B, the latter bequest is to be read as an exception out of the first as if he had said "I give Black Acre to B, and all the rest of my estate to A."

When words may be understood in restricted sense, and when in sense wider than usual.

83. General words may be understood in a restricted sense where it may be collected from the will that the testator meant to use them in a restricted sense; and words may be understood in a wider sense than that which they usually bear, where it may be collected from the other words of the will that the testator meant to use them in such wider sense.

NOTES.

of justice, equity and good conscience. That would include the names of the testator's friends. 39 Bom.L.R. 1151=1937 Bom. 496.

Sec. 81.—See 15 M. 448; 40 B. 1; 2 P. and D. 66; where blanks are left, see 31 Ch.D. 460; 16 B. 652; 1905 P. 129.

Sec. 82.—The whole will should be construed together. 31 M. 283; 46 B. 1; 25 I.A. 126; 18 W.R. 359; 14 M. 65; 12 C. L.J. 301; 28 M. 386. The codicil gives the true interpretation of the will. 24 C. 834; 1907 A.C. 494. On this section, see also 27 Bom.L.R. 380=49 B. 478=1925 B. 282 (2).

Secs. 82 to 87: APPLICABILITY—WILL BY TALUKDAR.—The rules of construction contained in Ss. 82 to 87 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, are applicable to bequests made by talukdars, and in interpreting wills made by talukdars, the Court must be guided by those rules. 153 I.C. 878=1935 O.W.N. 68=1935 O. 198.

Sec. 83.—As to the rule of ejusdem generis, see 3 Beav. 521; 13 Ves. 39; 11 Eq. 232.

Illustrations.

(i) A testator gives to A "my farm in the occupation of B," and to C "all my marsh-lands in L." Part of the farm in the occupation of B consists of marsh-lands in L., and the testator also has other marsh-lands in L. The general words, "all my marsh-lands in L," are restricted by the gift to A. A takes the whole of the farm in the occupation of B, including that portion of the farm which consists of marsh-lands in L.

(ii) The testator (a sailor on ship board) bequeathed to his mother his gold ring, buttons and chest of clothes, and to his friend, A (a shipmate), his red box, clasp-knife and all things not before bequeathed. The testator's share in a house does not pass to A under this bequest.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeathed to B all his household furniture, plate, linen, china, books, pictures and all other goods of whatever kind; and afterwards bequeathed to B a specified part of his property. Under the first bequest, B is entitled only to such articles of the testator's as are of the same nature with the articles therein enumerated.

Which of two possible constructions preferred.

84. Where a clause is susceptible of two meanings according to one of which it has some effect, and according to the other of which it can have none, the former shall be preferred.

No part rejected, if it can be reasonably construed.

85. No part of a will shall be rejected as destitute of meaning if it is possible to put a reasonable construction upon it.

Interpretation of words repeated in different parts of will.

86. If the same words occur in different parts of the same will, they shall be taken to have been used everywhere in the same sense, unless a contrary intention appears.

Testator's intention to be effectuated as far as possible.

87. The intention of the testator shall not be set aside because it cannot take effect to the full extent, but effect is to be given to it as far as possible.

Illustration.

The testator by a will made on his death-bed bequeathed all his property to C D for life and after his decease to a certain hospital. The intention of the testator cannot take effect to its full extent, because the gift to the hospital is void under section 118, but it will take effect so far as regards the gift to C D.

The last of two inconsistent clauses prevails.

88. Where two clauses or gifts in a will are irreconcilable, so that they cannot possibly stand together, the last shall prevail.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator by the first clause of his will, leaves his estate of Ramnagar "to A," and by the last clause of his will leaves it "to B and not to A." B will have it.

NOTES.

Sec. 84.—The more reasonable of the interpretation should be adopted. 2 Ch.D. 639; 16 I.A. 127; 1 H.L.C. 89; 14 M. 65. A construction which though not illegal is unusual is not to be followed. 39 C. 582; 17 C.W.N. 319; 13 B. 160. On this section, see also 39 C.W.N. 237.

Sec. 85.—See 3 M. 349; 28 I.C. 481; 12 B. 202; 17 Bom.L.R. 182; 9 H.L. 420. No part of a will is to be rejected as meaningless, if it is capable of being reasonably construed. 28 I.C. 481.

Sec. 86.—The intention to the contrary must be strong and appear on the face of the will. 1905 A.C. 379; 11 C.L.J. 461; (1900) 1 Ch. 417.

Sec. 87.—Rule not applicable where there is an attempt to create perpetuity or establish line of succession unknown to law. 5 M.L.T. 103. The will must be so read as to lead to a testacy and not intestacy. 30 Ch.D. 390; 29 M.L.J. 711. In construing a will, effect must be given, as far as is legally possible, to the wishes and intentions of the testator. 39 C.W.N. 46=1935 C. 284.

Sec. 88.—The two inconsistent clauses must refer to the same subject-matter. 29 I.A. 826; 2 C.W.N. 417. When there is a general intention and a particular intention, the general should prevail over the particular. 7 C. 269. Where the language used in the earlier part of the will has the effect of constituting the testator's widow absolute owner of his entire estate, and a later clause on the same will gives a part of that estate to another legatee, the later clause must be given effect to. 1931 N. 69 =131 I.C. 259.

(ii) If a man at the commencement of his will gives his house to A, and at the close of it directs that his house shall be sold and the proceeds invested for the benefit of B, the latter disposition will prevail.

Will or bequest void for uncertainty.

89. A will or bequest not expressive of any definite intention is void for uncertainty.

Illustration.

If a testator says "I bequeath goods to A," or "I bequeath to A," or "I leave to A all the goods mentioned in the Schedule" and no Schedule is found, or "I bequeath 'money', 'wheat', 'oil,'" or the like, without saying how much, this is void.

Words describing subject refer to property answering description at testator's death.

90. The description contained in a will of property, the subject of gift, shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, be deemed to refer to and comprise the property answering that description at the death of the testator.

Power of appointment executed by general bequest.

91. Unless a contrary intention appears by the will, a bequest of the estate of the testator shall be construed to include any property which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power; and a bequest of property described in a general manner shall be construed to include any property to which such description may extend, which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power.

Implied gift to objects of power in default of appointment.

92. Where property is bequeathed to or for the benefit of certain objects as a specified person may appoint or for the benefit of certain objects in such proportions as a specified person may appoint, and the will does not provide for the event of no appointment being made; if the power given by the will is not exercised, the property belongs to all the objects of the power in equal shares.

NOTES.

Sec. 89.—The gift of an uncertain amount is void. 14 C. 222; 26 B. 632. Where the bequest is for maintenance and education, the Court will determine the sum necessary. 2 Beav. 436. The will is to be construed most favourably to the legatee. 18 W.R. 359 (P.C.); as to when legatee is entitled to elect, see 18 M. 460; (1899) 2 Ch. 620; (1894) 3 Ch. 260. Gift for charitable purposes not void for uncertainty. 9 Ves. 399; 32 C. 166; 30 A. 111; 1905 A.C. 124; 8 A.L.J. 944. Even a void clause can be used for construing other parts of will. 13 M. 448; 25 I.A. 77. As to the validity of a gift for dharmam, see 30 M. 340; 26 I.A. 71; 3 C.W.N. 621. A bequest of a sum of money for the purpose of a "building for Hindus exclusively for general purposes to be erected on land which is bought" is void for uncertainty. 34 Bom.L.R. 609=1932 B. 451.

Sec. 90.—Under S. 90, there is a presumption of intestacy in respect of property acquired by the testator subsequent to the execution of the will, unless a contrary intention appears from the will. 99 I.C. 775 =1927 M. 383. Rights of easement, etc., incident to the property pass. 38 Ch.D. 295; (1898) 1 Ch. 659; (1919) 1 Ch. 29. The object of the section is to provide for after-acquired property. (1909) 1 Ch. 345, 784; (1911) 2 Ch. 650; 39 Ch.D. 53. The contrary intention need not be expressed in so many words. Lands contracted to be purchased fall within the section. 18 B. 7; (1895) 1 Ch. 724. Unless there are expressions in the will to indicate a contrary intention, it must be presumed that the testator intended to dispose of all his property at his death. A description of the property as that which the testator "now" owns or occupies according to circumstances does not exclude after acquired property. 28 N.L.R. 255=1932 N. 163. Where the object of the legacy is a class, see (1891) 3 Ch. 197.

Sec. 91.—The section does not apply to special powers. 12 Beav. 604; 31 B. 473. Surrounding circumstances are not to be looked to, in order to see if there is a contrary intention. (1900) 2 Ch. 322; (1901) 2 Ch. 529. As to what is evidence of contrary intention, see 1 Eq. 510.

Sec. 92.—The leading case is Brown v. Higgs, 8 Ves. 561. The section is applicable only where there is a clear intention to benefit a class, and the discretion or power is not exercised and then the members take per capita and as tenants in common. 24 Ch.D. 244. See on the principle of the section, 2 Eq. 155; 1913 Ch. 510; 5 M. 371; 19 B. 647.

Bequest to "heirs," etc., of particular person without qualifying terms.

93. Where a bequest is made to the "heirs" or "right heirs" or "relations" or "nearest relations" or "family" or "kindred" or "nearest of kin" or "next-of-kin" of a particular person without any qualifying terms, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

Illustrations.

(i) A leaves his property "to my own nearest relations." The property goes to those who would be entitled to it if A had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(ii) A bequeaths 10,000 rupees "to B for his life and, after the death of B, to my own right heirs." The legacy after B's death belongs to those who would be entitled to it if it had formed part of A's unbequeathed property.

(iii) A leaves his property to B; but if B dies before him, to B's next-of-kin; B dies before A; the property devolves as if it had belonged to B, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(iv) A leaves 10,000 rupees "to B for his life, and after his decease to the heirs of C." The legacy goes as if it had belonged to C, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of the legacy.

Bequest to "representatives," etc., of particular person.

94. Where a bequest is made to the "representatives" or "legal representatives" or "personal representatives" or "executors or administrators" of a particular person, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it.

Illustration.

A bequest is made to the "legal representatives" of A. A has died intestate and insolvent. B is his administrator. B is entitled to receive the legacy, and will apply it in the first place to the discharge of such part of A's debts as may remain unpaid; if there be any surplus, B will pay it to those persons who at A's death would have been entitled to receive any property of A's which might remain after payment of his debts, or to the representatives of such persons.

Bequest without words of limitation.

95. Where property is bequeathed to any person, he is entitled to the whole interest of the testator therein, unless it appears from the will that only a restricted interest was intended for him.

NOTES.

Sec. 93.—As to the meaning of the word "heirs", see 3 H.L.C. 524; 25 Ch.D. 212. The term "relations", though it imports legitimacy and blood relations, may in the context include relatives by marriage or of illegitimate blood. 1891 A.C. 304; (1906) 2 Ch. 316. See 7 Bom.L.R. 207 on the scope of the section. As to meaning of the word "family", see (1876) 3 Ch.D. 672; 9 Eq. 622; 4 C.W.N. 671; 24 C.W.N. 1026. The widow is not one of the "next-of-kin". 10 B. 362. It may in the context include illegitimate children. (1902) 2 Ch. 542. The words "without any qualifying terms" refer to the heirs and not to the bequest. 28 I.C. 481. Bequest in alternative.

96. Where property is bequeathed to a person with a bequest in the alternative to another person or to a class of persons, then, if a contrary intention does not appear by the will, the legatee first named shall be entitled to the legacy if he is alive at the time when it takes effect; but if he is then dead, the person or class of persons named in the second branch of the alternative shall take the legacy.

Sec. 97.—S. 97 embodies an artificial rule of construction taken from the English law, and that rule of construction does not apply to wills made by Hindus. In construing the will of a Hindu it is not improper to take into consideration what are known to be the ordinary notions and wishes of Hindus with respect to the devolution of property. Although ordinarily a daughter does not come in a Hindu's conception of an heir still she being entitled to certain rights of maintenance and residence, if a Hindu testator mentions the daughter along with the sons of a legatee, the Court can infer an intention that the daughter along with the sons shall take the benefit given under the will. Bequest to class of persons under general description only.

98. Where a bequest is made to a class of persons under a general description only, no one to whom the words of the description are not in their ordinary sense applicable shall take the legacy.

Construction of terms.

99. In a will—

(a) the word "children" applies only to lineal descendants in the first degree of the person whose "children" are spoken of;

(b) the word "grandchildren" applies only to lineal descendants in the second degree of the person whose "grandchildren" are spoken of;

(c) the words "nephews" and "nieces" apply only to children of brothers or sisters,

(d) the words "cousins," or "first cousin," or "cousins-german," apply only to children of brothers or of sisters of the father or mother of the person whose "cousins," or "first cousins," or "cousins-german" are spoken of;

(e) the words "first cousins once removed" apply only to children of cousins-german, or to cousins-german of a parent of the person whose "first cousins once removed" are spoken of;

(f) the words "second cousins" apply only to grandchildren of brothers or of sisters of the grandfather or grandmother of the person whose "second cousins" are spoken of;

(g) the words "issue" and "descendants" apply to all lineal descendants whatever of the person whose "issue" or "descendants" are spoken of;

(h) words expressive of collateral relationship apply alike to relatives of full and of half blood; and (i) all words expressive of relationship apply to a child in the womb who is afterwards born alive.

Words expressing relationship denote only legitimate relatives or failing such relatives reputed legitimate.

100. In the absence of any intimation to the contrary in a will, the word "child," the word "son," the word "daughter," or any word which expresses relationship, is to be understood as denoting only a legitimate relative, or, where there is no such legitimate relative, a person who has acquired, at the date of the will, the reputation of being such relative.

Illustrations.

(i) A having three children, B, C and D, of whom B and C are legitimate and D is illegitimate, leaves his property to be equally divided among "my children." The property belongs to B and C in equal shares, to the exclusion of D.

(ii) A, having a niece of illegitimate birth, who has acquired the reputation of being his niece, and having no legitimate niece, bequeaths a sum of money to his niece. The illegitimate niece is entitled to the legacy.

(iii) A, having in his will enumerated his children, and named as one of them B, who is illegitimate, leaves a legacy to "my said children." B will take a share in the legacy along with the legitimate children.

(iv) A leaves a legacy to "the children of B." B is dead and has left none but illegitimate children. All those who had at the date of the will acquired the reputation of being the children of B are objects of the gift.

(v) A bequeaths a legacy to "the children of B." B never had any legitimate child. C and D had, at the date of the will, acquired the reputation of being children of B. After the date of the will and before the death of the testator, E and F were born, and acquired the reputation of being children of B. Only C and D are objects of the bequest.

(vi) A makes a bequest in favour of his child by a certain woman, not his wife. B had acquired at the date of the will the reputation of being the child of A by the woman designated. B takes the legacy.

(vii) A makes a bequest in favour of his child to be born of a woman who never becomes his wife. The bequest is void.

(viii) A makes a bequest in favour of the child of which a certain woman, not married to him, is pregnant. The bequest is valid.

Rules of construction where will purports to make two bequests to same person.

101. Where a will purports to make two bequests to the same person, and a question arises whether the testator intended to make the second bequest instead of or in addition to the first; if there is nothing in the will to show what he intended, the following rules shall have effect in determining the construction to be put upon the will:—

(a) If the same specific thing is bequeathed twice to the same legatee in the same will or in the will and again in the codicil, he is entitled to receive that specific thing only.

(b) Where one and the same will or one and the same codicil purports to make, in two places, a bequest to the same person of the same quantity or amount of anything, he shall be entitled to one such legacy only.

(c) Where two legacies of unequal amount are given to the same person in the same will, or in the same codicil, the legatee is entitled to both.

(d) Where two legacies, whether equal or unequal in amount, are given to the same legatee, one by a will and the other by a codicil, or each by a different codicil, the legatee is entitled to both legacies.

Explanation.—In clauses (a) to (d) of this section, the word "will" does not include a codicil.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having ten shares, and no more, in the Imperial Bank of India, made his will, which contains near its commencement the words "I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B". After other bequests, the will concludes with the words "and I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B". B is entitled simply to receive A's ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India.

(ii) A, having one diamond ring, which was given him by B, bequeaths to C the diamond ring which was given by B. A afterwards made a codicil to his will, and thereby, after giving other legacies, he bequeathed to C the diamond ring which was given him by B. C can claim nothing except the diamond ring which was given to A by B.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and afterwards in the same will repeats the bequest in the same words. B is entitled to one legacy of 5,000 rupees only.

(iv) A by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and afterwards in the same will bequeaths to B the sum of 6,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

NOTES.

Sec. 101.—The leading case is Hooley v. Hatton, 1 Bro.C.C. 390. The meaning of the explanation is that for the purpose of making a cumulative legacy, a will and a codicil are to be regarded as distinct instruments.

(v) A, by his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by a codicil to the will he bequeaths to him 5,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 10,000 rupees.

(vi) A, by one codicil to his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by another codicil bequeaths to him 6,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

(vii) A, by his will, bequeaths "500 rupees to B because she was my nurse", and in another part of the will bequeaths 500 rupees to B "because she went to England with my children". B is entitled to receive 1,000 rupees.

(viii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also, in another part of the will, an annuity of 400 rupees. B is entitled to both legacies.

(ix) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also bequeaths to him the sum of 5,000 rupees if he shall attain the age of 18. B is entitled absolutely to one sum of 5,000 rupees, and takes a contingent interest in another sum of 5,000 rupees.

Constitution of residuary legatee.

102. A residuary legatee may be constituted by any words that show an intention on the part of the testator that the person designated shall take the surplus or residue of his property.

Illustrations.

(i) A makes her will, consisting of several testamentary papers, in one of which are contained the following words:—"I think there will be something left, after all funeral expenses, etc., to give to B, now at school, towards equipping him to any profession he may hereafter be appointed to". B is constituted residuary legatee.

(ii) A makes his will, with the following passage at the end of it:—"I believe there will be found sufficient in my banker's hands to defray and discharge my debts, which I hereby desire B to do, and keep the residue for her own use and pleasure". B is constituted the residuary legatee.

(iii) A bequeaths all his property to B, except certain stocks and funds, which he bequeaths to C. B is the residuary legatee.

Property to which residuary legatee entitled.

103. Under a residuary bequest, the legatee is entitled to all property belonging to the testator at the time of his death, of which he has not made any other testamentary disposition which is capable of taking effect.

Illustration.

A by his will bequeaths certain legacies, of which one is void under section 118, and another lapses by the death of the legatee. He bequeaths the residue of his property to B. After the date of his will A purchases a zemindari, which belongs to him at the time of his death. B is entitled to the two legacies and the zemindari as part of the residue.

Time of vesting legacy in general terms.

104. If a legacy is given in general terms, without specifying the time when it is to be paid, the legatee has a vested interest in it from the day of the death of the testator, and, if he dies without having received it, it shall pass to his representatives.

Where a testatrix, after devising certain immovable property and certain personal property to a Bishop, bequeathed to her niece certain plots of land and added: "I also give to my niece all my personal property and effects" and the bequest to the Bishop was void under S. 118. Held, that the words in the will were wide enough to constitute a residuary gift of the personalty in favour of the niece and that the personalty which formed the subject-matter of the legacy to the Bishop fell into the residue. 12 R. 705=1935 R. 71.

Sec. 105.—Where a testator makes gift of an annuity but the legatee dies before the testator, the legacy lapses. An annuity is a perpetual one only if there is a charge on specific property; in such cases the law assumes that it is not an annuity alone but the property itself that has been bequeathed. From the fact that the annuity is directed to be paid out of an estate, it cannot be said that there is a charge created when there is no charge on any specific property. 1941 Pat. 458=22 Pat.L.T. 396. See also 21 Pat.L.T. 37=1940 Pat. 257. Doctrine of lapse applies to gift for charitable purposes. (1891) 2 Ch. 236; (1895) 1 Ch. 19. It does not apply where testator gives a legacy in payment of a barred debt or for discharging a moral obligation. (1904) 2 Ch. 30. A testator may prevent a legacy from lapsing. But in order to do so he must clearly exclude lapse and must clearly indicate who is to take in case the legatee should die in his lifetime. Therefore where the testator makes a bequest in favour of his wife and daughters, of his property in four equal shares, in the absence of any clear exclusion and indication as to who is to take in case a legatee should die in his lifetime, the bequest to the wife on her death during the lifetime of the testator lapses and passes to the son whom the testator had tried to exclude. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 583=1940 Lah. 318. See also I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 679=38 Bom.L.R. 829=1936 Bom. 459. As to the effect of disclaimer, see (1913) 1 Ch. 272. If a gift in favour of persons named is made to them as tenants-in-common, and one of them dies before the testator, the share bequeathed to him lapses and forms part of the residue of the testator's estate, unless it appears from the will that the testator intended that it should go to some other person, as laid down by S. 105. 29 S.L.R. 374=164 I.C. 889=1935 S. 158.

Secs. 105, Ill. (iv) and 173: APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.—Generally speaking an annuity is a perpetual annuity only in those cases where it is a charge on specific property, in which circumstances the law assumes that it is not annuity alone, but the property itself, that has been bequeathed. 1940 Pat. 257=21 Pat.L.T. 37.

Sec. 106.—The rule applies to gifts to a class. (1915) 2 Ch. 216; (1920) 1 Ch. 334. The section will apply even if the legacy fails from some cause other than death. 34 M. 88; 16 I.A. 44. As to its applicability in cases of joint maintenance grants, see (1920) 1 Ch. 334; 17 C.L.J. 87; 25 C.W.N. 262. Effect of words showing testator's intention to give distinct shares.

When bequest to testator's child or lineal descendant does not lapse on his death in testator's lifetime.

109. Where a bequest has been made to any child or other lineal descendant of the testator, and the legatee dies in the lifetime of the testator, but any lineal descendant of his survives the testator, the bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect as if the death of the legatee had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustration.

A makes his will, by which he bequeaths a sum of money to his son, B, for his own absolute use and benefit. B dies before A, leaving a son, C, who survives A, and having made his will whereby he bequeaths all his property to his widow, D. The money goes to D.

NOTES.

Although ordinarily a daughter does not come in a Hindu's conception of an heir, still she being entitled to certain rights of maintenance and residence, if a Hindu testator mentions the daughter along with the sons of a legatee, the Court can infer an intention that the daughter along with the sons shall take the benefit given under the will. 38 Bom.L.R. 829=1936 B. 459=I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 679. Where a Hindu testator bequeathes a legacy to "A and his sons and daughter," but A and his daughter die during the testator's lifetime, the will must be construed in such a way as to benefit not only A, but his sons and daughter as well and as conferring a benefit on them jointly. It must therefore be held that the sons and daughters of A, take beneficially with him and that the legacy is meant for parent and issue concurrently. The sons, who survive, are therefore entitled to the whole legacy under S. 106. I.L.R. 1937 B. 679.

Sec. 107.—As to the words creating a tenancy-in-common, see 15 M. 448; 28 M. 363. Courts in India are in favour of tenancy-in-common. 24 C. 646; 27 M. 498; 22 B. 833; 33 A. 41; 23 I.A. 37. The failure of the legacy need not be by death alone. 26 M. 433; 4 Ch.D. 165. A gift to a class is prima facie a gift to a class consisting of persons who are included and comprehended under some general description and bear a certain relation to the testator. But when all persons, who are to benefit under the will are mentioned by name the bequest is not to them as a class, but to each of them individually, and is not taken out of the purview of S. 107. 29 S.L.R. 374=1936 S. 158.

Sec. 109.—S. 109 of the Act only provides that, in case of the legatee's death before the testator, the bequest shall take effect as if the legatee's death had happened after the death of the testator. To prevent a lapse it has to be assumed that the legatee survived the testator. But the section does not provide that on such assumption being made, only the lineal descendants are to have the benefit of the bequest and not other heirs. The bequest will take effect in favour of all the heirs of the legatee. 155 I.C. 1076. The legacy vests not in the issue but in the deceased legatee. 16 C. 549; 25 M. 299. Child includes one in embryo. 18 W.R. 359. The words "child or other lineal descendant" in S. 109 do not include any illegitimate children. It is well established that illegitimate children are not included in the term "child" in a will, or deed unless some repugnancy or inconsistency would result from their exclusion. An illegitimate child would come under the word "child" only when there is a designatio personae. 22 Pat.L.T. 396=1941 Pat. 548. The section applies to a gift to a child, even if it were dead at the time of will. 27 C. 521, 627; but not to gifts to children as a class or as joint-tenants. (1890) 1 Ch. 567.

Bequest to A for benefit of B does not lapse by A's death.

110. Where a bequest is made to one person for the benefit of another, the legacy does not lapse by the death, in the testator's lifetime, of the person to whom the bequest is made.

Survivorship in case of bequest to described class.

111. Where a bequest is made simply to a described class of persons, the thing bequeathed shall go only to such as are alive at the testator's death.

Exception.—If property is bequeathed to a class of persons described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to a specified individual, but their possession of it is deferred until a time later than the death of the testator by reason of a prior bequest or otherwise, the property shall at that time go to such of them as are then alive, and to the representatives of any of them who have died since the death of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "the children of B" without saying when it is to be distributed among them. B had died previous to the date of the will, leaving three children, C, D and E. E died after the date of the will, but before the death of A. C and D survive A. The legacy will belong to C and D, to the exclusion of the representatives of E.

(ii) A lease for years of a house was bequeathed to A for his life, and after his decease to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and he never had any other child. Afterwards, during the lifetime of A, C died, leaving E, his executor. D has survived A. D and E are jointly entitled to so much of the leasehold term as remains unexpired.

(iii) A sum of money was bequeathed to A for her life, and after her decease, to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and after that event, two children, E and F, were born to B. C and E died in the lifetime of A, C having made a will, E having made no will. A has died, leaving D and F surviving her. The legacy is to be divided into four equal parts, one of which is to be paid to the executor of C, one to D, one to the administrator of E and one to F.

(iv) A bequeaths one-third of his lands to B for his life, and after his decease to the sisters of B. At the death of the testator, B had two sisters living, C and D, and after that event another sister E was born. C died during the life of B, D and E have survived B. One-third of A's lands belong to D, E and the representatives of C, in equal shares.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life and after his death equally among the children of C. Up to the death of B, C had not had any child. The bequest after the death of B is void.

(vi) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "all the children born or to be born" of B to be divided among them at the death of C. At the death of the testator, B has two children living, D and E. After the death of the testator, but in the lifetime of C, two other children, F and G are born to B. After the death of C, another child is born to B. The legacy belongs to D, E, F and G to the exclusion of the after-born child of B.

(vii) A bequeaths a fund to the children of B, to be divided among them when the eldest shall attain majority. At the testator's death, B had one child living, named C. He afterwards had two other children, named D and E. E died, but C and D were living, when C attained majority. The fund belongs to C, D and the representatives of E, to the exclusion of any child who may be born to B after C's attaining majority.

The rule applies equally to gifts by way of appointment. 8 Ves. 375; 16 B. 492. This section is not to be applied to Hindu vernacular wills. 99 I.C. 705=1925 M. 494. The rule of law embodied in S. 111 is not directly applicable to the case of a Hindu will. But the principle of law recognised in the section is entitled to acceptance as a rule of general application, where there is no special rule to the contrary. 42 L.W. 746=1935 M. 865. Prior to the Hindu Transfers and Bequests Act of 1914 and the Hindu Disposition of the Property Act of 1916, a Hindu cannot by his will make a bequest covered by S. 111 of the Succession Act in favour of a person who is not, either in fact or in contemplation of law, in existence at the time of his death. 44 C.W.N. 214.

CHAPTER VII.

OF VOID BEQUESTS.

Bequest to person by particular description, who is not in existence at testator's death.

112. Where a bequest is made to a person by a particular description, and there is no person in existence at the testator's death who answers the description, the bequest is void.

Exception.—If property is bequeathed to a person described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to a specified individual, but his possession of it is deferred until a time later than the death of the testator, by reason of a prior bequest or otherwise; and if a person answering the description is alive at the death of the testator, or comes into existence between that event and such latter time, the property shall, at such later time, go to that person, or, if he is dead, to his representatives.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of B. At the death of the testator, B has no son. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards, during the life of B, a son is born to C. Upon B's death, the legacy goes to C's son.

(iii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards, during the life of B, a son, named D, is born to C. D dies, then B dies. The legacy goes to the representative of D.

(iv) A bequeaths his estate of Green Acre to B for life, and at his decease, to the eldest son of C. Up to the death of B, C has had no son. The bequest to C's eldest son is void.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of C, to be paid to him after the death of B. At the death of the testator C has no son, but a son is afterwards born to him during the life of B and is alive at B's death. C's son is entitled to the 1,000 rupees.

Bequest to person not in existence at testator's death subject to prior bequest.

113. Where a bequest is made to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death, subject to a prior bequest contained in the will, the later bequest shall be void, unless it comprises the whole of the remaining interest of the testator in the thing bequeathed.

Illustrations.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his eldest son for life, and after the death of the latter to his eldest son. At the time of the testator's death, A has no son. Here the bequest to A's eldest son is a bequest to a person not in existence at the testator's death. It is not a bequest of the whole interest that remains to the testator. The bequest to A's eldest son for his life is void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters. A survives the testator. A has daughters some of whom were not in existence at the testator's death. The bequest to A's daughters comprises the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The bequest to A's daughters is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marries under the age of eighteen, her portions shall be settled so that it may belong to herself for life and may be divisible among her children after her death. A has no daughters living at the time of the testator's death, but has daughters born afterwards who survive him. Here the direction for a settlement has the effect in the case of each daughter who marries under eighteen of substituting for the absolute bequest to her a bequest to her merely for her life; that is to say, a bequest to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund is void.

(iv) A bequeaths a sum of money to B for life, and directs that upon the death of B the fund shall be settled upon his daughters, so that the portion of each daughter may belong to herself for life, and may be divided among her children after her death. B has no daughter living at the time of the testator's death. In this case the only bequest to the daughters of B is contained in the direction to settle the fund, and this direction amounts to a bequest to persons not yet born, of a life interest in the fund, that is to say, of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund upon the daughters of B is void.

Rule against perpetuity

114. No bequest is valid whereby the vesting of the thing bequeathed may be delayed beyond the lifetime of one or more persons living at the testator's death and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the thing bequeathed is to belong.

Illustrations.

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life and after his death to B for his life; and after B's death to such of the sons of B as shall first attain the age of 25. A and B survive the testator. Here the son of B who shall first attain the age of 25 may be a son born after the death of the testator; such son may not attain 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed from the death of the longer liver of A and B; and the vesting of the fund may thus be delayed beyond the lifetime of A and B and the minority of the sons of B. The bequest after B's death is void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, and after B's death to such of B's sons as shall first attain the age of 25. B dies in the lifetime of the testator, leaving one or more sons. In this case the sons of B are persons living at the time of the testator's decease, and the time when either of them will attain 25 necessarily falls within his own lifetime. The bequest is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, with a direction that after B's death it shall be divided amongst such of B's children as shall attain the age of 18, but that, if no child of B shall attain that age, the fund shall go to C. Here the time for the division of the fund must arrive at the latest at the expiration of 18 years from the death of B, a person living at the testator's decease. All the bequests are valid.

(iv) A fund is bequeathed to trustees for the benefit of the testator's daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marry under age, her share of the fund shall be settled so as to devolve after her death upon such of her children as shall attain the age of 18. Any daughter of the testator to whom the direction applies must be in existence at his decease, and any portion of the fund which may eventually be settled as directed must vest not later than 18 years from the death of the daughters whose share it was. All these provisions are valid.

Each child of A's living at the testator's death must attain the age of 25 (if at all) within the limits allowed for a bequest. But A may have children after the testator's decease, some of whom may not attain the age of 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed after the decease of A. The bequest to A's children, therefore, is inoperative as to any child born after the testator's death, [1][and in regard to those who do not attain the age of 25 within 18 years after A's death, but is operative in regard to the other children of A.]

In all other respects the case is the same as that supposed in Illustration (i). The law does not prevent a testator with near relatives from making a charitable bequest, but it has enacted, in S. 118 a safeguard against his doing so by a disposition made when death is imminent. Under S. 118 and S. 42 et seq of the Registration Act three conditions have to be satisfied, first, the will must be executed; secondly the will must be deposited within 6 months of execution with the Registrar of deeds; thirdly the testator must survive for a period of 12 months after the execution of the will. The Legislature has not contemplated the withdrawal of a will from the custody of the Registrar except upon the terms that the charitable bequests in it are rendered void. The true construction of S. 118 in regard to the requirement of deposit of the will is that the will shall be deposited within six months from its execution and shall remain in deposit until the death of the testator. If there is a withdrawal there can be a redeposit but the requirements of S. 118 as to duration of deposit and time of execution should be once again complied with. 1941 Rang.L.R. 410=1941 Rang. 305. the legacy, and in such cases the legacy is from the testator's death said to be vested in interest.

Explanation.—An intention that a legacy to any person shall not become vested in interest in him is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the payment or possession of the thing bequeathed is postponed, or whereby a prior interest therein is bequeathed to some other person, or whereby the income arising from the fund bequeathed is directed to be accumulated until the time of payment arrives, or from a provision that, if a particular event shall happen, the legacy shall go over to another person.

Sec. 120.—Cf. S. 21, T. P. Act. Gifts may be apparently vested but really contingent as in 4 Eq. 372; 2 Mer. 363; 1921 A. C. 594; 4 M. 124; 12 B. 137; or apparently contingent but really vested. (1903) 1 Ch. 448; 19 Eq. 286; 34 Ch.D. 716; 41 C. 642; 47 M.L.J. 850. An estate on a future contingency is within the section. 43 C. 432= 43 I.A. 12=20 C.W.N. 669 (P.C.), confirming, 41 C. 642=18 C.W.N. 360. As regards exception, see 52 I.A. 95; 24 Bom. L.R. 1124=1923 B. 96; it goes beyond the English law. 70 I.C. 178. If a bequest is made in favour of one person and after his death, the property is directed to go to another, the second legatee gets a vested interest in the estate, because the death of a living person is not an uncertain contingency. 27 A.L.J. 274=1929 A. 102. A testator by his will bequeathed a two annas share of his property to his daughter S. K. A later clause in the will inter alia provided: "After the death of S.K., my said daughter aforesaid in the event of there being in existence issue male or female of her body, their issue will have the right of possession in the capacity of absolute owners with full rights. And in case of her dying issueless this 2 annas and also the share which according to para. 4 he might acquire will devolve upon R.S. who will be in possession as absolute owner with full rights." R.S. was the son of another daughter of the testator. R.S. predeceased S.K. who died issueless. The plaintiff claimed as a transferee from the heir of R.S., while the defendants were transferees from the daughter S.K. Held,

(2) A legacy bequeathed in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen does not vest until the happening of that event becomes impossible.

(3) In either case, until the condition has been fulfilled, the interest of the legatee is called contingent.

Exception.—Where a fund is bequeathed to any person upon his attaining a particular age, and the will also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from the fund before he reaches that age, or directs the income, or so much of it as may be necessary, to be applied for his benefit, the bequest of the fund is not contingent.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to D in case A, B and C shall all die under the age of 18. D has a contingent interest in the legacy until A, B and C all die under 18, or one of them attains that age.

(ii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A "in case he shall attain the age of 18" or "when he shall attain the age of 18." A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by his attaining that age.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B if B shall then be living; but if B shall not be then living to C. A, B and C survive the testator. B and C each take a contingent interest in the estate until the event which is to vest it in one or in the other has happened.

(iv) An estate is bequeathed as in the case last supposed. B dies in the lifetime of A and C. Upon the death of B, C acquires a vested right to obtain possession of the estate upon A's death.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A when she shall attain the age of 18, or shall marry under that age with the consent of B, with a proviso that, if she neither, attains 18 nor marries under that age with B's consent, the legacy shall go to C. A and C each take a contingent interest in the legacy. A attains the age of 18. A becomes absolutely entitled to the legacy although she may have married under 18 without the consent of B.

(vi) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall marry and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by A's marrying.

(vii) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall take advantage of any law for the relief of insolvent debtors, and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until A takes advantage of such a law.

(viii) An estate is bequeathed to A if he shall pay 500 rupees to B. A's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has paid 500 rupees to B.

(ix) A leaves his farm of Sultanpur Khurd to B, if B shall convey his own farm of Sultanpur Buzurg to C. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has conveyed the latter farm to C.

(x) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not marry C within five years after the testator's death. A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by the expiration of the five years without B's having married C, or by the occurrence within that period of an event which makes the fulfilment of the condition impossible.

(xi) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not make any provision for him by will. The legacy is contingent until B's death.

(xii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees a year upon his attaining the age of 18, and directs that the interest, or a competent part thereof, shall be applied for his benefit until he reaches that age. The legacy is vested.

(xiii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees when he shall attain the age of 18, and directs that a certain sum, out of another fund, shall be applied for his maintenance until he arrives at that age. The legacy is contingent.

Vesting of interest in bequest to such members of a class as shall have attained particular age.

121. Where a bequest is made only to such members of a class as shall have attained a particular age, a person who has not attained that age cannot have a vested interest in the legacy.

NOTES.

(1) what the will provided was that in the case of S.K. dying without issue surviving her, the property was to devolve upon R.S., who was to get the legacy in case a specified uncertain event happened, and the case therefore fell under Cl. (1) of S. 120 of the Succession Act and not under S. 120 (2); (2) that therefore R.S. had no vested interest, and the plaintiff therefore had no right or interest. 20 Pat.L.T. 90=1939 P. W.N. 349.

which it may be presumed he will be eventually entitled, shall be applied for his maintenance and education. No child of A who is under the age of 18, has a vested interest in the bequest.

CHAPTER IX.

OF ONEROUS BEQUESTS.

Onerous bequests.

122. Where a bequest imposes an obligation on the legatee, he can take nothing by it unless he accepts it fully.

Illustration.

A, having shares in (X), a prosperous joint stock company and also shares in (Y), a joint stock company in difficulties, in respect of which shares heavy calls are expected to be made, bequeaths to B all his shares in joint stock companies; B refuses to accept the shares in (Y). He forfeits the shares in (X).

One of two separate and independent bequests to same person may be accepted, and other refused.

123. Where a will contains two separate and independent bequests to the same person, the legatee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the other, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

Illustration.

A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is higher than the house can be let for, bequeaths to B the lease and a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He will not by this refusal forfeit the money.

CHAPTER X.

OF CONTINGENT BEQUESTS.

Bequest contingent upon specified uncertain event, no time being mentioned for its occurrence.

124. Where a legacy is given if a specified uncertain event shall happen and no time is mentioned in the will for the occurrence of that event, the legacy cannot take effect, unless such event happens before the period when the fund bequeathed is payable or distributable.

NOTES.

Sec. 123.—The section reverses the rule in Talbot v. Radnor, 3 My. & K. 252. The legatee is at liberty to accept beneficial part and reject onerous gift. (1915) Ch. 390; 398. The question is one of intention. 23 Ch.D. 573; (1896) 2 Ch. 511.

Sec. 124.—The section does not apply to Punjab. 1923 L. 649. The hard and fast rule in the section must be applied without speculating on the intention of the testator. 3 C.W.N. 478=23 I.A. 18. See also 27 I.C. 239=19 C.W.N. 52. The section applies only when the time of occurrence of the contingency is uncertain. 58 I.C. 996. Section applies when the prior bequest is capable of taking effect and is not void ab initio. 33 C. 947; 38 C. 327=21 M.L.J. 116=9 I.C. 122 (P.C.). S. 124 does not apply if a period is specified in the will within which the contingent event is to happen. If the terms of the will make that construction of his words impossible, the section then does not apply. 59 I.A. 419=1932 P.C. 269=64 M.L.J. 48 (P.C.). The 'period' referred to in S. 124 does not mean an indefinite period after the testator's death during which the contingency of the death issueless may occur, but the lawful period for distribution by the executors and 'before the period' means 'before the commencement of such period'. 144 I.C. 179 =12 P. 18=1933 P. 126. Gift made absolutely as owner—Subsequent clause in will creating gift over in favour of others—Repugnancy—Vaildity of disposition. 48 C.L.J. 523. It does not contain a provision as to "contrary intention" and hence it cannot be implied. 23 C. 563. Under illus. (ii) the point of time for the occurrence of the contingency is to be determined with reference to the period of payment or distribution and not as in English law with reference to the period of its happening. 24 C. 406. The section depends on a natural meaning as opposed to a forced interpretation of the words. 54 I.C. 897. Where a testator left a will by which he devised an absolute estate to a female with a proviso that, in the event of the death of the female, his nephew was to be the heir but the female survived the testator: Held, that the gift over to the nephew did not take effect and that the female took an absolute estate. 13 Pat. 550=15 P.L.T. 715=1935 Pat. 398. See generally 44 M. 446; 45 B. 1038; 43 C. 432=43 I.A. 12=30 M.L.J. 116 (P.C.); 39 B. 296=42 I.A. 71=28 M.L.J. 167 (P.C.).

Secs. 124 and 125.—The principle underlying S. 124 was based on Edwards v. Edwards. 15 Beav. 357, which has been in part overruled by O'Mahoneo v. Burdett, 7 H. L. 388. So the rule cannot be applied as a (iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A when and if he attains the age of 18, and, in case of his death, to B. A attains the age of 18. The legacy to B does not take effect.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death, to B and, "in case of B's death without children," to C. The words "in case of B's death without children," are to be understood as meaning 'in case B dies without children during the lifetime of A.'

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B, and, "in case of B's death," to C. The words "in case of B's death" are to be considered as meaning "in case B dies in the lifetime of A."

Bequest to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period not specified.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A and B to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. If both A and B survive the testator, the legacy is equally divided between them. If A dies before the testator, and B survives the testator, it goes to B.

(ii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death, to B and C, to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. B dies during the life of A; C survives A. At A's death the legacy goes to C.

(iii) Property is bequeathed to A for life and after his death to B and C, or the survivor, with a direction that, if B should not survive the testator, his children are to stand in his place. C dies during the life of the testator; B survives the testator, but dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of B.

(iv) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death to B and C, with a direction that, in case either of them dies in the lifetime of A, the whole shall go to the survivor. B dies in the lifetime of A. Afterwards C dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of C.

OF CONDITIONAL BEQUESTS.

Bequest upon impossible condition.

126. A bequest upon an impossible condition is void.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall walk 100 miles in an hour. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 500 rupees to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter. A's daughter was dead at the date of the will. The bequest is void.

Fulfilment of condition precedent to vesting of legacy.

128. Where a will imposes a condition to be fulfilled before the legatee can take a vested interest in the thing bequeathed, the condition shall be considered to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C, D and E. A marries with the written consent of B. C is present at the marriage. D sends a present to A previous to the marriage. E has been personally informed by A of his intentions, and has made no objection. A has fulfilled the condition.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. D dies. A marries with the consent of B and C. A has fulfilled the condition.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries in the lifetime of B, C and D, with the consent of B and C only. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A obtains the unconditional assent of B, C and D to his marriage with E. Afterwards B, C and D capriciously retract their consent. A marries E. A has fulfilled the condition.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries without the consent of B, C and D, but obtains their consent after the marriage. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(vi) A makes his will whereby he bequeaths a sum of money to B, if B shall marry with the consent of A's executors. B marries during the lifetime of A, and A afterwards expresses his approbation of the marriage. A dies. The bequest to B takes effect.

(vii) A legacy is bequeathed to A if he executes a certain document within a time specified in the will. The document is executed by A within a reasonable time, but not within the time specified in the will. A has not performed the condition, and is not entitled to receive the legacy.

Bequest to A and on failure of prior bequest to B.

129. Where there is a bequest to one person and a bequest of the same thing to another, if the prior bequest shall fail, the second bequest shall take effect upon the failure of the prior bequest although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a sum of money to his own children surviving him, and, if they all die under 18, to B. A dies without having ever had a child. The bequest to B takes effect.

(ii) A bequeaths a sum of money to B, on condition that he shall execute a certain document within three months after A's death, and, if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in the testator's lifetime. The bequest to C takes effect.

When second bequest not to take effect on failure of first.

130. Where the will shows an intention that the second bequest shall take effect only in the event of the first bequest failing in a particular manner, the second bequest shall not take effect, unless the prior bequest fails in that particular manner.

Illustration.

A makes a bequest to his wife, but in case she should die in his lifetime, bequeaths to B that which he had bequeathed to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him; the bequest to B does not take effect.

131. (1) A bequest may be made to any person with the condition superadded that, in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, the thing bequeathed shall go to another person, or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, the thing bequeathed shall go over to another person.

Bequest over, conditional upon happening or not happening of specified uncertain event.

(2) In each case the ulterior bequest is subject to the rules contained in sections 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 129 and 130.

Illustrations.

(i) A sum of money is bequeathed to A, to be paid to him at the age of 18, and if he shall die before he attains that age, to B. A takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested and to go to B in case A dies under 18.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A with a proviso that, if A shall dispute the competency of the testator to make a will, the estate shall go to B. A disputes the competency of the testator to make a will. The estate goes to B.

(iii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B; but if B shall then be dead, leaving a son, such son is to stand in the place of B. B takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested if he dies leaving a son in A's lifetime.

(iv) A sum of money is bequeathed to A and B, and if either should die during the life of C, then to the survivor, living at the death of C. A and B die before C. The gift over cannot take effect, but the representative of A takes one-half of the money, and the representative of B takes the other half.

(v) A bequeaths to B the interest of a fund for life, and directs the fund to be divided at her death equally among her three children, or such of them as shall be living at her death. All the children of B die in B's lifetime. The bequest over cannot take effect but the interest of the children pass to their representatives.

132. An ulterior bequest of the kind contemplated by section 131 cannot take effect, unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Condition must be strictly fulfilled.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, C and D, the legacy shall go to E. D dies. Even if A marries without the consent of B and C, the gift to E does not take effect.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries with the consent of B. He afterwards becomes a widower and marries again without the consent of B. The bequest to C does not take effect.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, to be paid at 18, or marriage, with a proviso that, if A dies under 18 or marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries under 18 without the consent of B. The bequest to C takes effect.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A for her life and, if she do not desert her husband, to D. A is entitled to the estate during her life as if no condition had been inserted in the will.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and, if he marries, to the eldest son of B for life. B, at the date of the testator's death, had not had a son. The bequest over is void under section 105, and A is entitled to the estate during his life.

Bequest conditioned that it shall cease to have effect in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or not happen.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A for his life, with a proviso that, in case he shall cut down a certain wood, the bequest shall cease to have any effect. A cuts down the wood. He loses his life interest in the estate.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A, provided that, if he marries under the age of 25 without the consent of the executors named in the will, the estate shall cease to belong to him. A marries under 25 without the consent of the executors. The estate ceases to belong to him.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A, provided that, if he shall not go to England within three years after the testator's death, his interest in the estate shall cease. A does not go to England within the time prescribed. His interest in the estate ceases.

(iv) An estate is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that if she becomes a nun, she shall cease to have any interest in the estate. A becomes a nun. She loses her interest under the will.

(v) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B, if B shall be then living, with a proviso that, if B shall become a nun, the bequest to her shall cease to have any effect. B becomes a nun in the lifetime of A. She thereby loses her contingent interest in the fund.

Such condition must not be invalid under S. 120.

135. In order that a condition that a bequest shall cease to have effect may be valid, it is necessary that the event to which it relates be one which could legally constitute the condition of a bequest as contemplated by section 120.

Result of legatee rendering impossible or indefinitely postponing act for which no time specified, and on non-performance of which subject-matter to go over.

136. Where a bequest is made with a condition superadded that, unless the legatee shall perform a certain act, the subject-matter of the bequest shall go to another person, or the bequest shall cease to have effect, but no time is specified for the performance of the act; if the legatee takes any step which renders impossible or indefinitely postpones the performance of the act required, the legacy shall go as if the legatee had died without performing such act.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequest is made to A, with a proviso that, unless he enters the Army, the legacy shall go over to B. A takes Holy Orders, and thereby renders it impossible that he should fulfil the condition. B is entitled to receive the legacy.

NOTES.

Sec. 133.—Cf. S. 30, T.P. Act. See 24 C. 834; 20 B. 450; 4 C.W.N. 671; 11 Ch.D. 959. As to repugnant and inconsistent conditions, see 9 B.L.R. 377. If the condition is too vague for a Court to enforce it, it is void. 7 H.L.C. 707; 20 C. 15; 21 Ch.D. 278.

Sec. 134.—Cf. S. 31, T.P. Act. The object is to get rid of the English rule under which conditions subsequent were held in certain cases void as being in terrorem. See 6 P.C. 11; 7 M.I.A. 169; 17 C.W.N. 39; 22 C.L.J. 61.

Sec. 135.—Cf. S. 32, T.P. Act. If the condition is invalid, the gift is unaffected by the divesting clause, e.e., indefinite failure of male issue or general failure of heirs. 24 I.A. 76.

Sec. 136.—Cf. S. 33, T.P. Act, and S. 34, Indian Contract Act. See also 17 C.W.N. 39; 24 C. 834.

(ii) A bequest is made to A, with a proviso that it shall cease to have any effect if he does not marry B's daughter. A marries a stranger and thereby indefinitely postpones the fulfilment of the conditions. The bequest ceases to have effect.

Performance of condition, precedent or subsequent, within specified time. Further time in case of fraud.

137. Where the will requires an act to be performed by the legatee within a specified time, either as a condition to be fulfilled before the legacy is enjoyed, or as a condition upon the non-fulfilment of which the subject-matter of the bequest is to go over to another person or the bequest is to cease to have effect, the act must be performed within the time specified, unless the performance of it be prevented by fraud, in which case such further time shall be allowed as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud.

CHAPTER XII.

OF BEQUESTS WITH DIRECTIONS AS TO APPLICATION OR ENJOYMENT.

Direction that fund be employed in particular manner following absolute bequest of same to or for benefit of any person.

138. Where a fund is bequeathed absolutely to or for the benefit of any person, but the will contains a direction that it shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, the legatee shall be entitled to receive the fund as if the will had contained no such direction.

Illustration.

A sum of money is bequeathed towards purchasing a country residence for A, or to purchase an annuity for A, or to place A in any business. A chooses to receive the legacy in money. He is entitled to do so.

Direction that mode of enjoyment of absolute bequest is to be restricted, to secure specified benefit for legatee.

139. Where a testator absolutely bequeaths a fund, so as to sever it from his own estate, but directs that the mode of enjoyment of it by the legatee shall be restricted so as to secure a specified benefit for the legatee; if that benefit cannot be obtained for the legatee, the fund belongs to him as if the will had contained no such direction.

NOTES.

Sec. 137.—Cf. S. 34, T.P. Act. This section enunciates a rule of law and not a rule of construction: 94 I.C. 750=1926 P. 356; except the omission of the proviso which was intentional. 20 C. 15. The Court has no power to relieve legatee from the terms. 2 Ch. 143; 14 Ves. 341. Ignorance or illness is no excuse. 16 Eq. 92; 18 Eq. 243 290.

Sec. 138.—Cf. Ss. 10 and 11, T.P. Act. S. 138 does not apply to a case where the bequest is of the life-interest. The word "absolutely" in the section qualified not only the first part, namely, the word "bequeathed" but also the latter part consisting of the words "for the benefit of the person". 52 C.L.J. 165=1930 C. 731. If an absolute estate is given to the donee and then further interests, are given merely after or, on termination of that donee's interest, his absolute estate is not cut down. 14 L. 485=1933 L. 365. Where an absolute estate of inheritance is created, any subsequent clause purporting to restrict it is invalid. The rule is the same if the restriction is for a limited period only. 14 L. 353=1933 L. 201. Where the application of the fund is to be regulated by discretion of others, such clause is void. 15 B. 443. A gift absolutely to wife, followed by directions to be spent "on good works" is an absolute gift. 22 B. 774. Words of inheritance do not necessarily confer an absolute interest. 35 C. 1069. Conditions in absolute restraint of alienation are void. 26 Ch.D. 801; (1896) 2 Ch. 353; 15 I.A. 37; 24 C. 406; 13 Bom. L.R. 141. tively for life and be paid to their children after their death. All the daughters die unmarried. The representatives of each daughter are entitled to her share of the residue.

(ii) A directs his trustees to raise a sum of money for his daughter, and he then directs that they shall invest the fund and pay the income arising from it to her during her life, and divide the principal among her children after her death. The daughter dies without having ever had a child. Her representatives are entitled to the fund.

Bequest of fund for certain purposes, some of which cannot be fulfilled.

140. Where a testator does not absolutely bequeath a fund, so as to sever it from his own estate, but gives it for certain purposes, and part of those purposes cannot be fulfilled, the fund, or so much of it as has not been exhausted upon the objects contemplated by the will, remains a part of the estate of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A directs that his trustees shall invest a sum of money in a particular way, and shall pay the interest to his son for life, and at his death shall divide the principal among his children. The son dies without having ever had a child. The fund, after the son's death, belongs to the estate of the testator.

(ii) A bequeaths the residue of his estate, to be divided equally among his daughters with a direction that they are to have the interest only during their lives, and that at their decease the fund shall go to their children. The daughters have no children. The fund belongs to the estate of the testator.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF BEQUESTS TO AN EXECUTOR.

Legatee named as executor cannot take unless he shows intention to act as executor.

141. If a legacy is bequeathed to a person who is named an executor of the will, he shall not take the legacy, unless he proves the will or otherwise manifests an intention to act as executor.

Illustration.

A legacy is given to A, who is named an executor. A orders the funeral according to the directions contained in the will, and dies a few days after the testator, without having proved the will. A has manifested an intention to act as executor.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF SPECIFIC LEGACIES.

Specific legacy defined.

142. Where a testator bequeaths to any person a specified part of his property, which is distinguished from all other parts of his property, the legacy is said to be specific.

NOTES.

Sec. 140.—The section deals with precatory trusts. As to principle of such trusts, see 3 Beav. 148; 4 M. 244; 9 I.A. 70; (1895) 2 Ch. 370; (1897) 1 Q.B. 483. Words expressing mere wish are not sufficient. 8 M. 325; 23 B. 1; 4 A. 500; 8 I.A. 117. The subject and object of the gift should be certain and well defined; 9 M. 325; 14 C. 322; the intention to impose the obligation should be in terms and definitely shown. (1905) A.C. 84.

Sec. 141.—The section is peremptory and it is not open to Courts to decide if the legacy was left to him qua executor. 15 C. 83; 13 M.L.J. 357. The intention must be manifested unequivocally. 4 Ves. 202; 8 Eq. 277. The section does not apply to a bequest of the residue. 11 Sim. 202; (1914) 2 Ch. 173.

Sec. 142.—Legacies are general or specific. See the definition by Jessel, M.R., in 20 Eq. 304. English Courts do not construe a legacy as specific, unless the intention is clear. 4 Ves. 748. Generally speaking, legacies of money are general legacies unless a particular fund is indicated. (1921) 2 Ch. 327; 8 C. 1. Every bequest of immovable property is specific. 3 Ch. 420; 10 Ch. 136. As to true test of specific legacy, see (1919) 1 Ch. 297. The distinction between the two lies in the fact that, in case of deficiency of assets, specific legacies do not abate; and they are liable to ademption, and if they fail, no recompense can be had out of the general assets. Where testator directed by his will that, "after the amount due in respect of lands sold under oral agreements has been received", a sum of Rs. 10,000 to his wife and a sum of Rs. 4,000 to his daughter should be paid, the legacies were held to be demonstrative and nt specific. 34 Bom.L.R. 1124=1932 B. 506.

(i) A bequeaths to B—
"the diamond ring presented to me by C":
"my gold chain'':
"a certain bale of wool":
"a certain piece of cloth":
"all my household goods which shall be in or about my dwelling house in M street in Calcutta at time of my death":
"the sum of 1,000 rupees in a certain chest'':
"the debt which B owes me":
"all my bills, bonds and securities belonging to me lying in my lodgings in Calcutta'':
"all my furniture in my house in Calcutta":
"all my goods on board a certain ship now lying in the river Hughli":
"2,000 rupees which I have in the hands of C'':
"the money due to me on the bond of D":
"my mortgage on the Rampur factory'':
"one-half of the money owing to me on my mortgage of Rampur factory":
"1,000 rupees being part of a debt due to me from C":
"my capital stock of 1,000*l*. in East India Stock'':
"my promissory notes of the Central Government for 10,000 rupees in their 4 per cent. loan":
"all such sums of money as my executors may, after my death, receive in respect of the debt due to me from the insolvent firm of D and Company'':
"all the wine which I may have in my cellar at the time of my death":
"such of my horses as B may select":
"all my shares in the Imperial Bank of India'':
"all my shares in the Imperial Bank of India which I may possess at the time of my death":
"all the money which I have in the 5½ per cent. loan of the Central Government":
"all the Government securities I shall be entitled to at the time of my decease."
Each of these legacies is specific.

(ii) A, having Government promissory notes for 10,000 rupees, bequeaths to his executors "Government promissory notes for 10,000 rupees in trust to sell" for the benefit of B. The legacy is specific.

(iii) A having property at Benares, and also in other places, bequeaths to B all his property at Benares. The legacy is specific.

(iv) A bequeaths to B— his house in Calcutta:
his zamindari of Rampur:
his taluk of Ramnagar:
his lease of the indigo factory of Salkya:
an annuity of 500 rupees out of the rents of his zamindari of W.
A directs his zamindari of X to be sold, and the proceeds to be invested for the benefit of B. Each of these bequests is specific.

(v) A by his will charges his zamindari of Y with an annuity of 1,000 rupees to C during his life, and subject to this charge he bequeaths the zamindari to D. Each of these bequests is specific.

(vi) A bequeaths a sum of money—to buy a house in Calcutta for B: to buy an estate in zilla Faridpur for B:
to buy a diamond ring for B:
to buy a horse for B:
to be invested in shares in the Imperial Bank of India for B:

Secs. 142 and 150.—Applicability—Testator having funds in Bank—Gift of sum to son for purchase of money and direction for payment of sum out of amount in bank—If specific or demonstrative. See 1942 Mad. 17=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 677.

The true test to determine, whether a particular bequest is specific or demonstrative, so far as the law in India is concerned, is mentioned in the explanation to S. 150, Succession Act. For that the only guiding factor can be the exact words used in the will and no other. 39 Bom.L.R. 497=1937 Bom. 384.

to be invested in Government securities for B.

A bequeaths to B—

"a diamond ring":

"a horse":

"10,000 rupees worth of Government securities":

"an annuity of 500 rupees":

"2,000 rupees to be paid in cash":

"so much money as will produce 5,000 rupees four per cent. Government securities".

These bequests are not specific.

(vii) A, having property in England and property in India, bequeaths a legacy to B, and directs that it shall be paid out of the property which he may leave in India. He also bequeaths a legacy to C and directs that it shall be paid out of property which he may leave in England. No one of these legacies is specific.

Bequest of certain sum where stocks, etc., in which invested are described.

143. Where a certain sum is bequeathed, the legacy is not specific merely because the stock, funds or securities in which it is invested are described in the will.

Illustrations.

A bequeaths to B—

"10,000 rupees of my funded property":

"10,000 rupees of my property now invested in shares of the East Indian Railway Company":

"10,000 rupees, at present secured by mortgage of Rampur factory."

No one of these legacies is specific.

Bequest of stock where testator had, at date of will, equal or greater amount of stock of same kind.

144. Where a bequest is made in general terms of a certain amount of any kind of stock, the legacy is not specific merely because the testator was, at the date of his will, possessed of stock of the specified kind, to an equal or greater amount than the amount bequeathed.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees five per cent. Government securities. A had at the date of the will five per cent. Government securities for 5,000 rupees. The legacy is not specific.

Bequest of money where not payable until part of testator's property disposed of in certain way.

145. A money legacy is not specific merely because the will directs its payment to be postponed until some part of the property of the testator has been reduced to a certain form, or remitted to a certain place.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B 10,000 rupees and directs that this legacy shall be paid as soon as A's property in India shall be realised in England. The legacy is not specific.

When enumerated articles not deemed specifically bequeathed.

146. Where a will contains a bequest of the residue of the testator's property along with an enumeration of some items of property not previously bequeathed, the articles enumerated shall not be deemed to be specifically bequeathed.

Retention, in form, of specific bequest to several persons in succession.

147. Where property is specifically bequeathed to two or more persons in succession, it shall be retained in the form in which the testator left it, although it may be of such a nature that its value is continually decreasing.

NOTES.

Sec. 146.—The word "articles" does not cover items of immovable property. 84 I. C. 1029; 1925 M. 418. To construe the word "as referring to movables and immovables" is opposed to all rules of construction. 20 L.W. 748. The rule is not excluded even if remuneration is particularized by the word "my". 1 Deg. and J. 438. When a general gift of personalty is followed by enumeration of particular articles, still it is only a general legacy. 3 Ch. D. 309; 4 Ch. D. 435.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having lease of a house for a term of years, fifteen of which were unexpired at the time of his death, has bequeathed the lease to B for his life, and after B's death to C. B is to enjoy the property as A left it, although, if B lives for fifteen years, C can take nothing under the bequest.

(ii) A, having an annuity during the life of B, bequeaths it to C, for his life, and, after C's death, to D. C is to enjoy the annuity as A left it, although, if B dies before D, D can take nothing under the bequest.

Sale and investment of proceeds of property bequeathed to two or more persons in succession.

148. Where property comprised in a bequest to two or more persons in succession is not specifically bequeathed, it shall, in the absence of any direction to the contrary, be sold, and the proceeds of the sale shall be invested in such securities as the High Court may by any general rule authorise or direct, and the fund thus constituted shall be enjoyed by the successive legatees according to the terms of the will.

Illustration.

A, having a lease for a term of years, bequeaths all his property to B for life, and, after B's death, to C. The lease must be sold, the proceeds invested as stated in this section and the annual income arising from the fund is to be paid to B for life. At B's death the capital of the fund is to be paid to C.

Where deficiency of assets to pay legacies, specific legacy not to abate with general legacies.

149. If there is a deficiency of assets to pay legacies, a specific legacy is not liable to abate with the general legacies.

CHAPTER XV.

OF DEMONSTRATIVE LEGACIES.

Demonstrative legacy defined.

150. Where a testator bequeaths a certain sum of money, or a certain quantity of any other commodity, and refers to a particular fund or stock so as to constitute the same the primary fund or stock out of which payment is to be made, the legacy is said to be demonstrative.

Explanation.—The distinction between a specific legacy and a demonstrative legacy consists in this, that—where specified property is given to the legatee, the legacy is specific;

where the legacy is directed to be paid out of specified property, it is demonstrative.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B 1,000 rupees, being part of a debt due to him from W. He also bequeaths to C 1,000 rupees to be paid out of the debt due to him from W. The legacy to B is specific, the legacy to C is demonstrative.

(ii) A bequeaths to B—

"ten bushes of the corn which shall grow in my field of Green Acre":

"80 chests of the indigo which shall be made at my factory of Rampur":

"10,000 rupees out of my five per cent. promissory notes of the Central Government":

"an annuity of 500 rupees 'from my funded property'":

"1,000 rupees out of the sum of 2,000 rupees due to me by C":

"an annuity, and directs it to be paid 'out of the rents arising from my taluk of Ramnagar'".

(iii) A bequeaths to B—

"10,000 rupees out of my estate at Ramnagar," or charges it on his estate at Ramnagar:

"10,000 rupees, being my share of the capital embarked in a certain business."

Each of these bequestts is demonstrative.

NOTES.

Sec. 148.—According to English decisions, a slight indication of intention is enough to prevent the applicability of rule. 14 Beav. 82; 19 Eq. 395; 26 Ch. D. 42; 8 Ch.D. 101.

Sec. 150.—As to what is demonstrative legacies, see 29 M. 155; (1912) 1 Ch. 219; 19 I.A. 83; 34 Bom.L.R. 1124=1932 B. 506; (1941) 2 M.L.J. 677.

151. Where a portion of a fund is specifically bequeathed and a legacy is directed to be paid out of the same fund, the portion specifically bequeathed shall first be paid to the legatee, and the demonstrative legacy shall be paid out of the residue of the fund, and, so far as the residue shall be deficient, out of the general assets of the testator.

Order of payment when legacy directed to be paid out of fund the subject of specific legacy.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B, 1,000 rupees, being part of a debt due to him from W. He also bequeaths to C 1,000 rupees to be paid out of the debt due to him from W. The debt due to A from W is only 1,500 rupees; of these 1,500 rupees, 1,000 rupees belong to B, and 500 rupees are to be paid to C. C is also to receive 500 rupees out of the general assets of the testator.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF ADEMPTION OF LEGACIES.

152. If anything which has been specifically bequeathed does not belong to the testator at the time of his death, or has been converted into property of a different kind, the legacy is adeemed: that is, it cannot take effect, by reason of the subject-matter having been withdrawn from the operation of the will.

Ademption explained.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B—

"the diamond ring presented to me by C":
"my gold chain":
"a certain bale of wool":
"a certain piece of cloth":
"all my household goods which shall be in or about my dwelling house in M Street in Calcutta, at the time of my death":

in his lifetime,— sells or gives away the ring:

converts the chain into a cup:
converts the wool into cloth:
makes the cloth into a garment:
takes another house into which he removes all his goods.

Each of these legacies is adeemed.

(ii) A bequeaths to B—

"the sum of 1,000 rupees in a certain chest":
"all the horses in my stable."

At the death of A, no money is found in the chest, and no horses in the stable. The legacies are adeemed.

(iii) A bequeaths to B certain bales of goods. A takes the goods with him on a voyage. The ship and goods are lost at sea, and A is drowned. The legacy is adeemed.

153. A demonstrative legacy is not adeemed by reason that the property on which it is charged by the will does not exist at the time of the death of the testator, or has been converted into property of a different kind, but it shall in such case be paid out of the general assets of the testator.

Non-ademption of demonstrative legacy.

NOTES.

Sec. 152.—The rule of ademption applies to specific legacies only and not to demonstrative legacies. 19 C. 444. The conversion must have been complete in the testator's lifetime; a direction to sell not carried out will not have the effect. 2 De. G. & Sm. 436. Conversion effected by a duly authorized agent will do. 5 Eq. 555= 22 Ch.D. 622; even if done without authority, it will do. 2 Eq. 323. The doctrine applies to gifts under power of appointment. (1901) 1 Ch. 398; (1902) 1 Ch. 100. A mortgage decree is a piece of movable property, where a testator holding a mortgage decree, disposes all his movable and immovable properties to his wife, and during his life takes a mortgage bond from the judgment-debtor in satisfaction of the decree, the wife, on the death of testator, becomes entitled to enforce the mortgage bond. No question of ademption arises under S. 152 of the Succession Act. 190 I.C. 36=1941 Pat. 18.

Ademption of specific bequest of right to receive something from third party.

154. Where the thing specifically bequeathed is the right to receive something of value from a third party, and the testator himself receives it, the bequest is adeemed.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B—
"the debt which C owes me":
"2,000 rupees which I have in the hands of D":
"the money due to me on the bond of E":
"my mortgage on the Rampur factory."
All these debts are extinguished in A's lifetime, some with and some without his consent. All the legacies are adeemed.

(ii) A bequeaths to B his interest in certain policies of life assurance. A in his lifetime receives the amount of the policies. The legacy is adeemed.

Ademption pro tanto by testator's receipt of part of entire thing specifically bequeathed.

155. The receipt by the testator of a part of an entire thing specifically bequeathed shall operate as an ademption of the legacy to the extent of the sum so received.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B "the debt due to me by C". The debt amounts to 10,000 rupees. C pays to A 5,000 rupees, the one-half of the debt. The legacy is revoked by ademption, so far as regards the 5,000 rupees received by A.

Ademption pro tanto by testator's receipt of portion of entire fund of which portion has been specifically bequeathed.

156. If a portion of an entire fund or stock is specifically bequeathed, the receipt by the testator of a portion of the fund or stock shall operate as an ademption only to the extent of the amount so received: and the residue of the fund or stock shall be applicable to the discharge of the specific legacy.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B one-half of the sum of 10,000 rupees due to him from W. A in his lifetime receives 6,000 rupees, part of the 10,000 rupees. The 4,000 rupees which are due from W to A at the time of his death belong to B under the specific bequest.

Order of payment where portion of fund specifically bequeathed to one legatee, and legacy charged on same fund to another, and, testator having received portion of that fund, remainder insufficient to pay both legacies.

157. Where a portion of a fund is specifically bequeathed to one legatee, and a legacy charged on the same fund is bequeathed to another legatee, then, if the testator receives a portion of that fund, and the remainder of the fund is insufficient to pay both the specific and the demonstrative legacy, the specific legacy shall be paid first, and the residue (if any) of the fund shall be applied so far as it will extend in payment of the demonstrative legacy, and the rest of the demonstrative legacy shall be paid out of the general assets of the testator.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B 1,000 rupees, part of the debt of 2,000 rupees due to him from W. He also bequeaths to C 1,000 rupees to be paid out of the debt due to him from W. A afterwards receives [500][1] rupees, part of that debt, and dies leaving only 1,500 rupees due to him from W. Of these 1,500 rupees, 1,000 rupees belong to B, and 500 rupees are to be paid to C. C is also to receive 500 rupees out of the general assets of the testator.

Ademption where stock specifically bequeathed does not exist at testator's death.

158. Where stock which has been specifically bequeathed does not exist at the testator's death, the legacy is adeemed.

A bequeaths to B—

"my capital stock of 1,000*l.* in East India Stock":

"my promissory notes of the Central Government for 10,000 rupees in their 4 per cent. loan."

A sells the stock and the notes. The legacies are adeemed.

Ademption pro tanto where stock, specifically bequeathed, exists in part only at testator's death.

159. Where stock which has been specifically bequeathed exists only in part at the testator's death, the legacy is adeemed so far as regards that part of the stock which has ceased to exist.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B his 10,000 rupees in the 5½ per cent. loan of the Central Government. A sells one-half of his 10,000 rupees in the loan in question. One-half of the legacy is adeemed.

Non-ademption of specific bequest of goods described as connected with certain place, by reason of removal.

160. A specific bequest of goods under a description connecting them with a certain place is not adeemed by reason that they have been removed from such place from any temporary cause, or by fraud, or without the knowledge or sanction of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "all my household goods which shall be in or about my dwelling-house in Calcutta at the time of my death." The goods are removed from the house to save them from fire. A dies before they are brought back.

(ii) A bequeaths to B "all my household goods which shall be in or about my dwelling-house in Calcutta at the time of my death." During A's absence upon a journey, the whole of the goods are removed from the house. A dies without having sanctioned their removal.

Neither of these legacies is adeemed.

When removal of thing bequeathed does not constitute ademption.

161. The removal of the thing bequeathed from the place in which it is stated in the will to be situated does not constitute an ademption, where the place is only referred to in order to complete the description of what the testator meant to bequeath.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "all the bills, bonds and other securities for money belonging to me now lying in my lodgings in Calcutta." At the time of his death, these effects had been removed from his lodgings in Calcutta.

(ii) A bequeaths to B all his furniture then in his house in Calcutta. The testator has a house at Calcutta and another at Chinsurah, in which he lives alternately, being possessed of one set of furniture only which he removes with himself to each house. At the time of his death the furniture is in the house at Chinsurah.

(iii) A bequeaths to B all his goods on board a certain ship then lying in the river Hugli. The goods are removed by A's directions to a warehouse in which they remain at the time of A's death.

No one of these legacies is revoked by ademption.

When thing bequeathed is a valuable to be received by testator from third person; and testator himself, or his representative, receives it.

162. Where the thing bequeathed is not the right to receive something of value from a third person, but the money or other commodity which may be received from the third person by the testator himself or by his representatives, the receipt of such sum of money or other comodity by the testator shall not constitute an ademption; but if he mixes it up with the general mass of his property, the legacy is adeemed.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B whatever sum may be received from his claim on C. A receives the whole of his claim on C, and sets it apart from the general mass of his property. The legacy is not adeemed.

NOTES.

Sec. 161.—No ademption where goods are removed for their preservation: 1 Ves. Sen. 273; or without the testator's knowledge or authority: 2 Vern. 747.

Change by operation of law of subject of specific bequest between date of will and testator's death.

163. Where a thing specifically bequeathed undergoes a change between the date of the will and the testator's death, and the change takes place by operation of law, or in the course of execution of the provisions of any legal instrument under which the thing bequeathed was held, the legacy is not adeemed by reason of such change.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "all the money which I have in the 5½ per cent. loan of the Central Government." The securities for the 5½ per cent. loan are converted during A's lifetime into 5 per cent. stock.

(ii) A bequeaths to B the sum of 2,000*l.* invested in Consols in the names of trustees for A. The sum of 2,000*l.* is transferred by the trustees into A's own name.

(iii) A bequeaths to B the sum of 10,000 rupees in promissory-notes of the Central Government which he has power under his marriage settlement to dispose of by will. Afterwards, in A's lifetime, the fund is converted into Consols by virtue of an authority contained in the settlement.

No one of these legacies has been adeemed.

Change of subject without testator's knowledge.

164. Where a thing specifically bequeathed undergoes a change between the date of the will and the testator's death and the change takes place without the knowledge or sanction of the testator, the legacy is not adeemed.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B "all my 3 per cent. Consols." The Consols are, without A's knowledge, sold by his agent, and the proceeds converted into East India Stock. This legacy is not adeemed.

Stock specifically bequeathed lent to third party on condition that it be replaced.

165. Where stock which has been specifically bequeathed is lent to a third party on condition that it shall be replaced, and it is replaced accordingly, the legacy is not adeemed.

Stock specifically bequeathed sold but replaced, and belonging to testator at his death.

166. Where stock specifically bequeathed is sold, and an equal quantity of the same stock is afterwards purchased and belongs to the testator at his death, the legacy is not adeemed.

CHAPTER XVII.

OF THE PAYMENT OF LIABILITIES IN RESPECT OF THE SUBJECT OF A BEQUEST.

Non-liability of executor to exonerate specific legatees.

167. (1) Where property specifically bequeathed is subject at the death of the testator to any pledge, lien or incumbrance created by the testator himself or by any person under whom he claims, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, the legatee, if he accepts the bequest, shall accept it subject to such pledge or incumbrance, and shall (as between himself and the testator's estate) be liable to make good the amount of such pledge or incumbrance.

NOTES.

Sec. 163.—Alteration in the character of shares, e.g., from preference into ordinary, does not cause an ademption. (191?) 1 Ch. 828. Where however subsequent to the will stock is exchanged under the provisions of an Act, a specific legacy of the stock is adeemed. (1907) 1 Ch. 665.

Sec. 166.—Re-publication of a will or its confirmation by a codicil does not revive a legacy which has been adeemed. 2 Ves. Sen. 626; 6 H.L. 728. But the acquisition of new property between ademption and re-publication answering the description of the adeemed legacy gives the legatee the newly acquired thing. 2 Vern. 209; 2 Atk. 509.

Sec. 167.—This is based on the principle laid down in Locke King's Act. As to what constitutes contrary intention, see 31 Bev. 207; 7 Eq. 371; 33 Ch.D. 195; 15 C. 66. It must be ascertained by referring to the will, mortgage and other deeds connected with it. (1893) 2 Ch. 206. If a testator devises an estate by name when he has only an interest in the proceeds of the sale, that interest passes. (1919) 2 Ch. 304.

(2) A contrary intention shall not be inferred from any direction which the will may contain for the payment of the testator's debts generally.

Explanation.—A periodical payment in the nature of land revenue or in the nature of rent is not such an incumbrance as is contemplated by this section.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B the diamond ring given him by C. At A's death the ring is held in pawn by D, to whom it has been pledged by A. It is the duty of A's executors, if the state of the testator's assets will allow them, to allow B to redeem the ring.

(ii) A bequeaths to B a zamindari which at A's death is subject to a mortgage for 10,000 rupees; and the whole of the principal sum, together with interest to the amount of 1,000 rupees, is due at A's death. B, if he accepts the bequest, accepts it subject to this charge, and is liable, as between himself and A's estate, to pay the sum of 11,000 rupees thus due.

Completion of testator's title to things bequeathed to be at cost of his estate.

168. Where anything is to be done to complete the testator's title to the thing bequeathed, it is to be done at the cost of the testator's estate.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having contracted in general terms for the purchase of a piece of land at a certain price, bequeaths to B, and dies before he has paid the purchase-money. The purchase-money must be made good out of A's assets.

(ii) A, having contracted for the purchase of a piece of land for a certain sum of money, one-half of which is to be paid down and the other half secured by mortgage of the land, bequeaths it to B, and dies before he has paid or secured any part of the purchase-money. One-half of the purchase-money must be paid out of A's assets.

Exoneration of legatee's immovable property for which land-revenue or rent payable periodically.

169. Where there is a bequest of any interest in immovable property in respect of which payment in the nature of land-revenue or in the nature of rent has to be made periodically, the estate of the testator shall (as between such estate and the legatee), make good such payments or a proportion of them, as the case may be, up to the day of his death.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B a house, in respect of which 365 rupees are payable annually by way of rent. A pays his rent at the usual time, and dies 25 days after. A's estate will make good 25 rupees in respect of the rent.

Exoneration of specific legatee's stock in joint stock company.

170. In the absence of any direction in the will, where there is a specific bequest of stock in a joint stock company, if any call or other payment is due from the testator at the time of his death in respect of the stock, such call or payment shall, as between the testator's estate and the legatee, be borne by the estate; but, if any call or other payment becomes due in respect of such stock after the testator's death, the same shall, as between the testator's estate and the legatee, be borne by the legatee, if he accepts the bequest.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B his shares in a certain railway. At A's death there was due from him the sum of 100 rupees in respect of each share, being the amount of a call which had been duly made, and the sum of five rupees in respect of each share, being the amount of interest which had accrued due in respect of the call. These payments must be borne by A's estate.

(ii) A has agreed to take fifty shares in an intended joint stock company, and has contracted to pay up 100 rupees in respect of each share, which sum must be paid before his title to the shares can be completed. A bequeaths these shares to B. The estate of A must make good the payments which were necessary to complete A's title.

(iii) A bequeaths to B his shares in a certain railway. B accepts the legacy. After A's death, a call is made in respect of the shares. B must pay the call.

(iv) A bequeaths to B his shares in a joint stock company. B accepts the bequest. Afterwards the affairs of the company are wound up, and each shareholder is called upon for contribution. The amount of the contribution must be borne by the legatee.

(v) A is the owner of ten shares in a railway company. At a meeting held during his lifetime a call is made of fifty rupees per share, payable by three instalments. A bequeaths his shares to B, and dies between the day fixed for the payment of the first and the day fixed for the payment of the second instalment, and without having paid the first instalment. A's estate must pay the first instalment, and B, if he accepts the legacy, must pay the remaining instalments.

CHAPTER XVIII.

OF BEQUEST OF THINGS DESCRIBED IN GENERAL TERMS.

Bequest of thing described in general terms.

171. If there is a bequest of something described in general terms, the executor must purchase for the legatee what may reasonably be considered to answer the description.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B a pair of carriage-horses or a diamond ring. The executor must provide the legatee with such articles if the state of the assets will allow it.

(ii) A bequeaths to B "my pair of carriage-horses". A had no carriage-horses at the time of his death. The legacy fails.

CHAPTER XIX.

OF BEQUESTS OF THE INTEREST OR PRODUCE OF A FUND.

Bequest of interest or produce of fund.

172. Where the interest or produce of a fund is bequeathed to any person, and the will affords no indication of an intention that the enjoyment of the bequest should be of limited duration, the principal, as well as the interest, shall belong to the legatee.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B the interest of his 5 per cent. promissory-notes of the Central Government. There is no other clause in the will affecting those securities. B is entitled to A's 5 per cent. promissory notes of the Central Government.

(ii) A bequeaths the interest of his 5½ per cent. promissory-notes of the Central Government to B for his life, and after his death to C. B is entitled to the interest of the notes during his life, and C is entitled to the notes upon B's death.

(iii) A bequeaths to B the rents of his lands at X. B is entitled to the lands.

CHAPTER XX.

OF BEQUESTS OF ANNUITIES.

Annuity created by will payable for life only unless contrary intention appears by will.

173. Where an annuity is created by will, the legatee is entitled to receive it for his life only, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, notwithstanding that the annuity is directed to be paid out of the property generally, or that a sum of money is bequeathed to be invested in the purchase of it.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees a year. B is entitled during his life to receive the annual sum of 500 rupees.

(ii) A bequeaths to B the sum of 500 rupees monthly. B is entitled during his life to receive the sum of 500 rupees every month.

(iii) A bequeaths an annuity of 500 rupees to B for life and on B's death to C. B is entitled to an annuity of 500 rupees during his life. C, if he survives B, is entitled to an annuity of 500 rupees from B's death until his own death.

NOTES.

Sec. 172.—The gift of the dividends of a fund to a legatee is a gift of the fund itself. 12 B. 137; gift of rents and profits, 14 Eq. 456; 8 C. 788; 12 I.A. 103; 14 C.L.J. 618. Gift of income without more is gift of the corpus, though the gift is to the separate use or through the medium of trust. 21 I.C. 183=40 C. 192. Sec. 173.—The presumption is that annuity is for life only. 5 Bom.L.R. 729; 13 Beav. 373; 21 C. 683. The section does not apply if there is a contrary intention. 56 I.C. 803. See also 62 I.C. 681. Section applies to Hindus governed by Hindu Wills Act. 56 I.C. 803. The second part is different from the English Law. Annuity to person "putra poutradi krame"—Nature of—If limited to legatee's life or perpetual. See 21 Pat.L.T. 37.

174. Where the will directs that an annuity shall be provided for any person out of the proceeds of property, or out of property generally, or where money is bequeathed to be invested in the purchase of any annuity for any person, on the testator's death the legacy vests in interest in the legatee, and he is entitled at his option to have an annuity purchased for him or to receive the money appropriated for that purpose by the will.

Period of vesting where will directs that annuity be provided out of proceeds of property, or out of property generally, or where money bequeathed to be invested in purchase of annuity.

Illustrations.

(i) A by his will directs that his executors shall, out of his property, purchase an annuity of 1,000 rupees for B. B is entitled at his option to have an annuity of 1,000 rupees for his life purchased for him, or to receive such a sum as will be sufficient for the purchase of such an annuity.

(ii) A bequeaths a fund to B for his life, and directs that after B's death, it shall be laid out in the purchase of an annuity for C. B and C survive the testator. C dies in B's lifetime. On B's death the fund belongs to the representative of C.

175. Where an annuity is bequeathed, but the assets of the testator are not sufficient to pay all the legacies given by the will, the annuity shall abate in the same proportion as the other pecuniary legacies given by the will.

Abatement of annuity.

176. Where there is a gift of an annuity and a residuary gift, the whole of the annuity is to be satisfied before any part of the residue is paid to the residuary legatee, and, if necessary, the capital of the testator's estate shall be applied for that purpose.

When testator's represen- and residuary gift, whole annuity to be first satisfied.

CHAPTER XXI.

OF LEGACIES TO CREDITORS AND PORTIONERS.

177. Where a debtor bequeaths a legacy to his creditor, and it does not appear from the will that the legacy is meant as a satisfaction of the debt, the creditor shall be entitled to the legacy as well as to the amount of the debt.

Creditor prima facie entitled to legacy as well as debt.

178. Where a parent, who is under obligation by contract to provide a portion for a child, fails to do so, and afterwards bequeaths a legacy to the child, and does not intimate by his will that the legacy is meant as a satisfaction of the portion, the child shall be entitled to receive the legacy as well as the portion.

Child prima facie entitled to legacy as well as portion.

Illustration.

A, by articles entered into in contemplation of his marriage with B, covenanted that he would pay to each of the daughters of the intended marriage a portion of 20,000 rupees on her marriage. This covenant having been broken, A bequeaths 20,000 rupees to each of the married daughters of himself and B. The legatees are entitled to the benefit of this bequest in addition to their portions.

NOTES.

Sec. 174.—Even if testator expressly declares, that the legatee shall not be permitted to receive money, rule operates. (1891) 1 Ch. 707; (1906) 2 Ch. 648; (1904) 2 Ch. 8.

Secs. 177 and 179.—Ademption and satisfaction—Applicability. The general principles underlying Ss. 177 and 179 regarding ademption and satisfaction are applicable even to wills not governed by the Act. 1930 M. 956=59 M.L.J. 596.

Sec. 178.—A grandfather making provision for his son's daughter, the son being alive is not in loco parentis. (1919) 1 Ch. 102; 7 Bom.L.R. 299.

No ademption by subsequent provision for legatee.

179. No bequest shall be wholly or partially adeemed by a subsequent provision made by settlement or otherwise for the legatee.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 20,000 rupees to his son B. He afterwards gives to B the sum of 20,000 rupees. The legacy is not thereby adeemed.

(ii) A bequeaths 40,000 rupees to B, his orphan niece, whom he had brought up from her infancy. Afterwards, on the occasion of B's marriage, A settles upon her the sum of 30,000 rupees. The legacy is not thereby diminished.

CHAPTER XXII.

OF ELECTION.

Circumstances in which election takes place.

180. Where a person, by his will, professes to dispose of something which he has no right to dispose of, the person to whom the thing belongs shall elect either to confirm such disposition or to dissent from it, and, in the latter case, he shall give up any benefits which may have been provided for him by the will.

Devolution of interest relinquished by owner.

181. An interest relinquished in the circumstances stated in section 180 shall devolve as if it had not been disposed of by the will in favour of the legatee, subject, nevertheless, to the charge of making good to the disappointed legatee the amount or value of the gift attempted to be given to him by the will.

Testators belief as to his ownership immaterial.

182. The provisions of sections 180 and 181 apply whether the testator does or does not believe that which he professes to dispose of by his will to be his own.

Illustrations.

(i) The farm of Sultanpur was the property of C. A bequeathed it to B, giving a legacy of 1,000 rupees to C. C has elected to retain his farm of Sultanpur, which is worth 800 rupees. C forfeits his legacy of 1,000 rupees, of which 800 rupees goes to B, and the remaining 200 rupees falls into the residuary bequest, or devolves according to the rules of intestate succession, as the case may be.

NOTES.

Sec. 179.—As to the difference between ademption and satisfaction, see 2 H.L. 71 (90). The rule was applied to a Hindu will in 7 Bom.L.R. 299. See also 59 M. L.J. 596, cited under S. 177, supra.

Sec. 180: DOCTRINE OF ELECTION—LIMITS OF.—Any one taking possession under a will cannot set up an adverse title. But this doctrine is subject to the qualification that the election must be made with full knowledge of the circumstances. The doctrine is again inapplicable to a person who was in possession from before the execution of the will. 60 C. 1406=1934 C. 356; 1939 Mad. 485. Principle underlying the doctrine of election as contained in Part 6 of Succession Act, is an equitable principle and is applicable to all wills executed on any date, whether provisions of Part 6 are applicable to it or not. 44 L.W. 247 (2)=1936 Mad. 497.

Secs. 180 and 181: "ELECTION"—WHAT CONSTITUTES.—Before there can be an election there must be knowledge of the right to elect and of the circumstances which would influence an election. A simultaneous approbation and reprobation cannot be an election either to approbate or to reprobate. 1939 M.W.N. 280=1939 Mad. 485. Ss. 180 and 181—Scope of—If cut down by Provident Funds Act, S. 5. See 1939 M. W.N. 280=1939 Mad. 485.

Secs. 180 to 190.—Cf. S. 35, Transfer of Property Act. Consult on the scope of the doctrine, 3 Ch.D. 668; 10 M.I.A. 347; 14 B. 438; 14 L.W. 33. The doctrine of election as contained in Part VI of this Act, is an equitable principle and is applicable to all wills executed on any date whether provisions of Part VI are applicable to it or not. 163 I.C. 752=44 L.W. 247 (2)=1936 M. 497. The question of intention is of utmost importance. 18 Ves. 41. Personal competency necessary. 7 H.L. 67; 16 Beav. 106; 14 B. 438. The doctrine does not apply to creditors: 15 Eq. 389; nor can it be made use of to evade a rule of law based on public policy. (1906) 2 Ch. 288. After election, retraction is not allowed. 7 A.C. 360; (1908) A.C. 224. The doctrine applies to appointments under a power. 22 Ch.D. 555; 27 Ch.D. 606.

Sec. 182.—Court cannot speculate on what testator would have done. 6 Ch.D. 15; 9 Eq. 519. See as to Ill. (iv). Ch. D. 606; 14 B. 438.

(ii) A bequeaths an estate to B in case B's elder brother (who is married and has children) shall leave no issue living at his death. A also bequeaths to C a jewel, which belongs to B. B must elect to give up the jewel or to lose the estate.

(iii) A bequeaths to B 1,000 rupees, and to C, an estate which will, under a settlement, belong to B if his elder brother (who is married and has children) shall leave no issue living at his death. B must elect to give up the estate or to lose the legacy.

(iv) A, a person of the age of 18, domiciled in British India but owning real property in England, to which C is heir-at-law, bequeaths a legacy to C and, subject thereto, devises and bequeaths to B "all my property whatsoever and wheresoever," and dies under 21. The real property in England does not pass by the will. C may claim his legacy without giving up the real property in England.

Bequest for man's benefit how regarded for purpose of election.

183. A bequest for a person's benefit is, for the purpose of election, the same thing as a bequest made to himself.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultanpur Khurd being the property of B, A bequeathed it to C; and bequeathed another farm called Sultanpur Buzurg to his own executors with a direction that it should be sold and the proceeds applied in payment of B's debts. B must elect whether he will abide by the will, or keep his farm of Sultanpur Khurd in opposition to it.

Person deriving benefit indirectly not put to election.

184. A person taking no benefit directly under a will, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, is not put to his election.

Illustration.

The lands of Sultanpur are settled upon C for life, and after his death upon D; his only child. A bequeaths the lands of Sultanpur to B, and 1,000 rupees to C. C dies intestate shortly after the testator, and without having made any election. D takes out administration to C, and as administrator elects on behalf of C's estate to take under the will. In that capacity he receives the legacy of 1,000 rupees and accounts to B for the rents of the lands of Sultanpur which accrued after the death of the testator and before the death of C. In his individual character he retains the lands of Sultanpur in opposition to the will.

Person taking in individual capacity under will may in other character elect to take in opposition.

185. A person who in his individual capacity takes a benefit under a will may, in another character, elect to take in opposition to the will.

Illustration.

The estate of Sultanpur is settled upon A for life, and after his death, upon B. A leaves the estate of Sultanpur to D, and 2,000 rupees to B, and 1,000 rupees to C, who is B's only child. B dies intestate, shortly after the testator, without having made an election. C takes out administration to B, and as administrator elects to keep the estate of Sultanpur in opposition to the will, and to relinquish the legacy of 2,000 rupees. C may do this, and yet claim his legacy of 1,000 rupees under the will.

Exception to provisions of last six sections.

186. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 180 to 185, where a particular gift is expressed in the will to be in lieu of something belonging to the legatee which is also in terms disposed of by the will, then, if the legatee claims that thing, he must relinquish the particular gift, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit given to him by the will.

Illustration.

Under A's marriage settlement his wife is entitled, if she survives him, to the enjoyment of the estate of Sultanpur during her life. A by his will bequeaths to his wife an annuity of 200 rupees during her life, in lieu of her interest in the estate of Sultanpur, which estate he bequeaths to his son. He also gives his wife a legacy of 1,000 rupees. The widow elects to take what she is entitled to under the settlement. She is bound to relinquish the annuity but not the legacy of 1,000 rupees.

NOTES.

Sec. 185.—See 12 C. 60; 25 M. 361; 8 L.W. 252.

Sec. 186.—Where there is full knowledge, acquiescence may be presumed. 20 Beav. 67; 7 Eq. 494. Election under misconception is not conclusive. 12 Ves. 136. Where the person who has to elect is in possession of both estates no presumption arises from possession alone. 11 H.L.C. 588.

Secs. 186-188.—See 41 C.L.J. 258=1925 C. 724.

187. Acceptance of a benefit given by a will constitutes an election by the legatee to take under the will, if he had knowledge of his right to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives inquiry into the circumstances.

When acceptance of benefit given by will constitutes election to take under will.

(i) A is owner of an estate called Sultanpur Khurd, and has a life interest in another estate called Sultanpur Buzurg to which upon his death his son B will be absolutely entitled. The will of A gives the estate of Sultanpur Khurd to B, and the estate of Sultanpur Buzurg to C. B, in ignorance of his own right to the estate of Sultanpur Buzurg, allows C to take possession of it, and enters into possession of the estate of Sultanpur Khurd. B has not confirmed the bequest of Sultanpur Buzurg to C.

(ii) B, the eldest son of A, is the possessor of an estate called Sultanpur. A bequeaths Sultanpur to C, and to B the residue of A's property. B having been informed by A's executors that the residue will amount to 5,000 rupees allows C to take possession of Sultanpur. He afterwards discovers that the residue does not amount to more than 500 rupees. B has not confirmed the bequest of the estate of Sultanpur to C.

188. (1) Such knowledge or waiver of inquiry shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed if the legatee has enjoyed for two years the benefits provided for him by the will without doing any act to express dissent.

Circumstances in which knowledge or waiver is presumed or inferred.

(2) Such knowledge or waiver of inquiry may be inferred from any act of the legatee which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the subject-matter of the bequest in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B an estate to which C is entitled, and to C a coal mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the bequest of the estate to B.

189. If the legatee does not, within one year after the death of the testator, signify to the testator's representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the will the representatives shall, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and, if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the will.

When testators representatives may call upon legatee to elect.

190. In case of disability the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

PART VII.

PROTECTION OF PROPERTY OF DECEASED.

Person claiming right by succession to property of deceased may apply for relief against wrongful possession.

192. (1) If any person dies leaving property, movable or immovable, any person claiming a right by succession thereto, or to any portion thereof, may make application to the District Judge of the district where any part of the property is found or situate for relief, either after actual possession has been taken by another person, or when forcible means of seizing possession are apprehended.

NOTES.

Secs. 192 to 194: APPLICABILITY—JOINT HINDU FAMILY.—Ss. 192 to 194 will not apply to a case where joint Hindu family property passed by survivorship. And although parties may be governed by the "chundavand" rule which is a rule of division of property, mere mention of that rule will not bring the case under Ss. 192 to 194, because the "chundavand" rule will operate only when the property is to be divided and not when it is undivided. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 196=1938 Lah. 753. Part VII incorporates the provisions of the Succession Property Protection Act (XIX of 1841) otherwise known as the Curator's Act. In some respects the procedure resembles S. 145, Cr.P. Code, but is wider in scope, applying both to movables and immovables. See observations of Jwala Prasad, J., in 1922 P. 372. The Senior Subordinate Judge of Delhi has power to entertain an application under Part VII of this Act by virtue of the notification issued by the Lahore High Court on September, 19, 1932. 161 I.C. 219 (2)=38 P.L.R. 398. Inquiry made by Judge.

193. The District Judge to whom such application is made shall, in the first place, examine the applicant on oath, and may make such further inquiry, if any, as he thinks necessary as to whether there is sufficient ground for believing that the party in possession or taking forcible means for seizing possession has no lawful title, and that the applicant, or the person on whose behalf he applies, is really entitled and is likely to be materially prejudiced if left to the ordinary remedy of a suit, and that the application is made bona fide.

Procedure.

194. If the District Judge is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for believing as aforesaid but not otherwise, he shall summon the party complained of, and give notice of vacant or disturbed possession by publication, and, after the expiration of a reasonable time, shall determine summarily the right to possession (subject to a suit as hereinafter provided) and shall deliver possession accordingly:

Provided that the Judge shall have the power to appoint an officer who shall take an inventory of effects, and seal or otherwise secure the same, upon being applied to for the purpose, without delay, whether he shall have concluded the inquiry necessary for summoning the party complained of or not.

Appointment of curator pending determination of proceeding.

195. If it further appears upon such inquiry as aforesaid that danger is to be apprehended of the misappropriation or waste of the property before the summary proceeding can be determined, and that the delay in obtaining security from the party in possession or the insufficiency thereof is likely to expose the party out of possession to considerable risk, provided ceedings. There is no reason why Part VII should not apply to property held by a deceased mahant of a muth or asthal. 1941 P.W.N. 755. Where in proceedings under S. 192 property is ordered to be left with a supratdar and on letters of administration being granted the supratdar fails to deliver the property entrusted to him, the Court has inherent jurisdiction to direct the supratdar to restore possession and enforce it in the same proceedings and avoid multiplicity of proceedings. 1942 N.L.J. 325. Although no appeal or review is allowed from an order in summary proceedings by a District Judge under S. 192, yet there is nothing in the section or the Act which takes away the right of revision by High Court. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 196=1938 Lah. 753.

Sec. 193.—Section is mandatory and its provisions must be strictly fulfilled. 15 I.C. 504; 46 I.C. 589; 23 M.L.J. 537; 28 I.C. 248. The Judge must find there is likelihood of prejudice if left to ordinary remedy and the application must be bona fide. 71 I.C. 32. Although the omission to observe strictly all the requirements of S. 193, may constitute a material irregularity in the exercise of jurisdiction, the High Court will not interfere in revision if the petitioner has availed himself of another remedy open to him by instituting a regular suit. 44 P.L.R. 109. As to statements, see 11 Bom.L.R. 1308. As to nature and scope of enquiry, see 11 C.L.J. 522; 12 C. L.J. 8.

Sec. 194.—An order under S. 194 can be passed only after the conditions embodied in S. 193 have been fulfilled. 1934 L. 930 =154 I.C. 686. The order directing the taking of inventory under the section must conform to requirements of the cognate section. 13 M. 68. Judge cannot throw out application before taking the deposition of petitioner. 1883 A.W.N. 184. The substantive provisions of the law as contained in S. 194 are not in any way controlled by O. 32, R. 6, C.P. Code, relating to the receipt of property by a guardian. An order for delivery of possession of movables to a person under S. 194 without demanding security from him is not illegal. 140 I.C. 376=36 C.W.N. 871.

he is the lawful owner, the District Judge may appoint one or more curators whose authority shall continue according to the terms of his or their respective appointments, and in no case beyond the determination of the summary proceeding and the confirmation or delivery of possession in consequence thereof:

Provided that, in the case of land, the Judge may delegate to the Collector, or to any officer subordinate to the Collector, the powers of a curator:

Provided, further, that every appointment of a curator in respect of any property shall be duly published.

Powers conferable on curator.

196. The District Judge may authorize the curator to take possession of the property either generally, or until security is given by the party in possession, or until inventories of the property have been made, or for any other purpose necessary for securing the property from misappropriation or waste by the party in possession:

Provided that it shall be in the discretion of the Judge to allow the party in possession to continue in such possession on giving security or not, and any continuance in possession shall be subject to such orders as the Judge may issue touching inventories, or the securing of deeds or other effects.

Prohibition of exercise of certain powers by curators. Payment of debts, etc., to curator.

197. (1) Where a certificate has been granted under Part X or under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, or a grant of probate or letters of administration has been made, a curator appointed under this part shall not exercise any authority lawfully belonging to the holder of the certificate or to the executor or administrator.

(2) All persons who have paid debts or rents to a curator authorized by a Court to receive them shall be indemnified, and the curator shall be responsible for the payment thereof to the person who has obtained the certificate, probate or letters of administration, as the case may be.

Curator to give security and may receive remuneration.

198. (1) The District Judge shall take from the curator security for the faithful discharge of his trust, and for rendering satisfactory accounts of the same as hereinafter provided, and may authorise him to receive out of the property such remuneration, in no case exceeding five per centum on the movable property and on the annual profits of the immovable property, as the District Judge thinks reasonable.

(2) All surplus money realized by the curator shall be paid into Court and invested in public securities for the benefit of the persons entitled thereto upon adjudication of the summary proceeding.

(3) Security shall be required from the curator with all reasonable despatch, and, where it is practicable, shall be taken generally to answer all cases for which the person may be afterwards appointed curator; but no delay in the taking of security shall prevent the Judge from immediately investing the curator with the powers of his office.

NOTES.

an application under this section High Court will not interfere with the discretion of District Judge. 102 I.C. 622. Delay is a ground for refusing appointment of curator. (Ibid.) Ordinarily it is expected that the District Judge would clearly state that he is satisfied as regards the requisites for appointing a curator, but an omission to do so would not make the order of appointment illegal. 1931 A.L.J. 974=1931 A. 632 (F.B.). The appointment of a curator does not come to an end when he had not handed over possession of the property, although the summary proceedings have terminated. 133 I.C. 414=1931 A. 423.

Sec. 197.—This clause is taken from S. 23 of the Succession Certificate Act (VII of 1889) but which as it limits the power of the curator appropriately falls in this part of the consolidated Bill.—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Report from Collector where estate includes revenue paying land.

199. (1) Where the estate of the deceased person consists wholly or in part of land paying revenue to Government, in all matters regarding the propriety of summoning the party in possession, of appointing a curator, or of nominating individuals to that appointment, the District Judge shall demand a report from the Collector, and the Collector shall thereupon furnish the same:

Provided that in cases of urgency the Judge may proceed, in the first instance, without such report.

(2) The Judge shall not be obliged to act in conformity with any such report, but, in case of his acting otherwise than according to such report, he shall immediately forward a statement of his reasons to the High Court, and the High Court, if it is dissatisfied with such reasons, shall direct the Judge to proceed conformably to the report of the Collector.

Institution and defence of suits.

200. The curator shall be subject to all orders of the District Judge regarding the institution or the defence of suits, and all suits may be instituted or defended in the name of the curator on behalf of the estate:

Provided than an express authority shall be requisite in the order of the curator's appointment for the collection of debts or rents; but such express authority shall enable the curator to give a full acquittance for any sums of money received by virtue thereof.

Allowances to apparent owners pending custody by curator.

201. Pending the custody of the property by the curator, the District Judge may make such allowances to parties having a prima facie right thereto as upon a summary investigation of the rights and circumstances of the parties interested he considers necessary, and may, at his discretion, take security for the repayment thereof with interest, in the event of the party being found, upon the adjudication of the summary proceeding, not to be entitled thereto.

Accounts to be filed by curator.

202. The curator shall file monthly accounts in abstract, and shall, on the expiry of each period of three months, if his administration lasts so long, and, upon giving up the possession of the property, file a detailed account of his administration to the satisfaction of the District Judge.

Inspection of accounts and right of interested party to keep duplicate.

203. (1) The accounts of the curator shall be open to the inspection of all parties interested; and it shall be competent for any such interested party to appoint a separate person to keep a duplicate account of all receipts and payments by the curator.

(2) If it is found that the accounts of the curator, are in arrear or that they are erroneous or incomplete, or if the curator does not produce them whenever he is ordered to do so by the District Judge, he shall be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees for every such default.

Bar to appointment of second curator for same property.

204. If the Judge of any district has appointed a curator, in respect of the whole of the property of a deceased person, such appointment shall preclude the Judge of any other district within the same province from appointing any other curator, but the appointment of a curator in respect of a portion of the property of the deceased shall not preclude the appointment within the same province of another curator in respect of the residue or any portion thereof:

Provided that no Judge shall appoint a curator or entertain a summary proceeding in respect of property which is the subject of a summary proceeding previously instituted under this part before another Judge:

Provided, further, that if two or more curators are appointed by different Judges for several parts of an estate, the High Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the appointment of one curator of the whole property.

Limitation of time for application for curator.

205. An application under this Part to the District Judge must be made within six months of the death of the proprietor whose property is claimed by right in succession.

Bar to enforcement of Part against public settlement or legal directions by deceased.

206. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to authorize the contravention of any public act of settlement or of any legal directions given by a deceased proprietor of any property for the possession of his property after his decease in the event of minority or otherwise, and, in every such case, as soon as the Judge having jurisdiction over the property of a deceased person is satisfied of the existence of such directions, he shall give effect thereto.

Court of Wards to be made curator in case of minors having property subject to its jurisdiction.

207. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to authorize any disturbance of the possession of a Court of Wards of any property; and in case a minor, or other disqualified person whose property is subject to the Court of Wards, is the party on whose behalf application is made under this Part, the District Judge, if he determines to summon the party in possession and to appoint a curator, shall invest the Court of Wards with the curatorship of the estate pending the proceeding without taking security as aforesaid; and if the minor or other disqualified person, upon the adjudication of the summary proceeding, appears to be entitled to the property, possession shall be delivered to the Court of Wards.

Saving of right to bring suit.

208. Nothing contained in this Part shall be any impediment to the bringing of a suit either by the party whose application may have been rejected before or after the summoning of the party in possession, or by the party who may have been evicted from the possession under this Part.

Effect of decision of summary procceding.

209. The decision of a District Judge in a summary proceeding under this Part shall have no other effect than that of settling the actual possession; but for this purpose it shall be final, and shall not be subject to any appeal or review.

210. The Provincial Government may appoint public curators for any Secs. 205, 206 and 207.—The words "by right in succession" are chosen to describe the point of view of the Judge and not of the interested parties. 11 Bom.L.R. 1308. district or number of districts; and the District Judge having jurisdiction shall nominate such public curators in all cases where the choice of a curator is left discretionary with him under this Part.

PART VIII.

REPRESENTATIVE TITLE TO PROPERTY OF DECEASED ON SUCCESSION.

Character and property of executor or administrator as such.

211. (1) The executor or administrator, as the case may be, of a deceased person is his legal representative for all purposes, and all the property of the deceased person vests in him as such.

(2) When the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, nothing herein contained shall vest in an executor or administrator any property of the deceased person which would otherwise have passed by survivorship to some other person.

NOTES.

Sec. 211.—Reproduces S. 179 of Act X of 1865 subject to the proviso in the case of survivorship for those classes of persons who are provided for by S. 4 of Act V of 1881—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "All the property of the deceased," meaning of. See 7 Pat.L.T. 188=5 P. 80. See also 37 Bom.L.R. 300. So far as vesting and representation are concerned, there is no difference between executor and administrator. 10 C.W.N. 422. Executor represents estate even before probate is taken out. 31 B. 418. See also 1942 O. W. N. 480. In an application for letters of administration the Court has only to see that the person properly entitled to represent the estate of the deceased according to the Succession Act has come to Court, and is given the grant. It is no part of the duty of the Testamentary Judge to consider the question of title to property or to determine whether the property for which letters of administration are asked for was the property of the deceased or not or was the joint property belonging to the deceased and some one else during his lifetime. A caveat cannot be sustained on the mere ground that the property in respect of which letters of administration are asked for is joint family estate. The eaveator is in no way prejudiced, because he has the right to file a suit to establish his title to the property and, if proper grounds are made out, to obtain the appointment of a receiver or an injunction against the administrator. 42 Bom.L.R. 1063=1941 Bom. 60. A decree obtained against a person, who is not the legal representative, is invalid. 5 R. 742=1928 R. 83. An executor of a deceased lessee is liable to the lessor to the extent of any assets of the testator which may have come into his hands, although he may not ever have entered into possession of the leasehold premises. But an executor who enters into possession is liable not only to the extent of the assets, but also personally liable for the rent. 165 I.C. 121=40 C. W.N. 390. The validity of a decree against an executor is not affected by the subsequent revocation of the probate. It is binding on the estate and on all subsequent representatives of the State. 9 R. 360=133 I.C. 494=1931 R. 283. The position of the executor of a Hindu is now the same as that of an English executor. 29 B. 96. What passes by survivorship cannot vest in executor. 27 B. 140; 54 I.C. 807; 38 M. 369=25 M.L.J. 363. As regards nature of an executor's estate, see 2 B. 388; 8 B.L.R. 208; 22 I.A. 114; 30 C. 839; (1908) 1 Ch. 123; 1933 L. 740. The preambles of the Succession Certificate Act (1889) and the Succession Act (1925) both talk of "legal representatives" and "successors," terms which are not strictly applicable to the case of the survivors of a joint Hindu family. Accordingly, when a creditor, who holds a debt, as a member of a joint Hindu family, dies, and the debt passes by survivorship to the remaining members, the survivors cannot be compelled to take out a succession certificate in order to obtain a decree in a suit for recovery of the debt. The claimants may very well say, that they represent the deceased person's estate and on that right they should be allowed to collect the debts with the help of a certificate. 1930 A.L.J. 280=1930 A. 99. Property of joint Hindu family does not vest in executor or administrator. 1930 A 82. As to effect of vesting, see 4 C. 455; 21 B. 646; 27 B. 281; 33 M.L.J. 195; 38 M. 500. As to time of vesting, see 46 M. 190=43 M.L.J. 486; 24 I.C. 852=37 M. 175. As to effect of adoption by Hindu widow on executor's powers, see 1927 M. 782; 1933 O. 555. Secs. 211 and 216: INTESTATE SUCCESSION —GRANT OF ADMINISTRATION—EFFECT OF.— S. 211 merely provides that the estate of a deceased person vests in his executor or administrator as such: these words "as such" are important, and show that the vesting is not of the beneficial interest in the property, but only for purposes of representation. In a case of intestate succession it does not admit of any doubt that the beneficial interest vests in the heir-at-law, and there is nothing in the Succession Act which limits the power of disposal of the heir-at-law over such estate, merely because a grant of administration has been made. Nor does the Transfer of Property Act make the interest of the heir-at-law in the estate property which may not be transferred. S. 216 and other provisions of the Succession Act only provide for representation of the deceased's estate for purposes of administration, and are not intended to cut down the rights of the beneficiaries. Secs. 211 and 307.—1933 L. 740=146 I.C. 515. An administrator has no authority in law to mortgage the estate under his administration even for what is called legal necessity. It is clear that to validate a mortgage by an administrator it must be proved that the mortgage was executed in the due course of administration; it must also be shown that he was entitled to mortgage the general estate as distinct from the business for which legal necessity is alleged. Further an executor (unless expressly authorised by the will) or an administrator is not entitled to continue the business of the deceased at all except for the purposes of winding it up. If he does continue it for any other purpose than winding up, it is deemed to be continued at his own risk. 43 Bom.L.R. 981.=1942 Bom. 54.

Sec. 212: PART VI.—This is an important portion which deals with title of the property of the deceased. It is only by separating these provisions of the law that a clear view can be obtained of the requirements of the Indian Law as to grants by the Court in the case of the estate of a deceased person. By separating the law in this matter, the consolidation of those provisions of the law relating to probate and grant of administration which are now contained in the Indian Succession Act (IX of 1865), and the Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881), are rendered possible. This reproduces the important S. 190 of Act X of 1865 which requires that no right to any part of the property of a person who has died intestate can be established in any Court without letters of administration. The very important qualification which excludes the operation of this section in the case of the intestacy of Hindus, Muhammadans, Buddhists, Sikhs, Jainas and Indian Christians is based on S. 331 of Act X of 1865 and S. 3 of Act VII of 1901. —(Statement of Objects and Reasons.) See also 1940 Rang. 178. Karen Christians are governed by the Succession Act (1865). But Act VII of 1901 exempts them from the operation of this section (old S. 190). 88 I.C. 609=1925 R. 233. See 13 C.W.N. 1190; 4 A. 192; 19 B. 828; 10 C. 554; 22 C. 788. The principle equally applies to the case where the grant of probate is revoked on application of the person applying for probate, for withdrawal of his application for granting probate. The will remains an unprobated will. 1937 C. 252. Sec. 213.—S. 213 is not limited in its operation only to cases where the plaintiff brings a suit as executor or legatee or even to cases where the defendant claims as executor or legatee, extends to all cases where it becomes necessary in the suit to decide that under the will the right as an executor or legatee accrued. It equally debars a person who is required to establish the legatee's right merely as a jus tertii for the purposes of his defence. The prohibition, however, does not extend beyond the question of establishment of the right as executor or legatee. The will can be looked into for all other purposes. 46 C.W.N. 317. A claim or title of a plaintiff to any property by inheritance cannot be defeated by an unprobated will left by the person from whom the plaintiff claims to have inherited. In this country intestacy is the general rule and unless a valid disposition of the property in suit is proved, the plaintiff is entitled to succeed by inheritance. The defendant, therefore, should prove the will in order to defeat the plaintiff's claim; this he cannot do under the terms of S. 213. 46 C.W.N. 317. S. 213 does not permit a will to be proved unless probate is taken out where the will is made by a Hindu in territories which in 1870 were under Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. As in 1870 Ajmer-Merwara was in the North-West Provinces and was under the administration of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, a will cannot be proved in the province unless probate is taken out. 1941 A. M.L.J. 105.

Secs. 213 and 214.—The probate of a will is operative only as the authenticated evidence of the executor's title and not as the foundation thereof, for he derives his title from the will itself and the property of the deceased vests in him from the moment the testator dies. The executor before he proves the will can do all acts which are incidental to his office, except those relating to suits in connection with the estate. 35 Bom.L.R. 700=146 I.C. 621.

Sec. 214.—The provisions of Ss. 214 and 381 are not applicable when the property vests in the Crown by reason of escheat. 54 A. 226=136 I.C. 565=1932 A. 220, nor to cases of survivorship in a joint Hindu family. See 63 Cal. 15. The effect of the Succession Act is to make it obligatory on the Court to receive certain evidence in the form of a succession certificate before a decree has been granted; but failure to produce the necessary evidence does not make the decree void. And the execution Court has no right to reopen the decree and see if it had been passed after taking the necessary evidence, though the decree may have been passed ex parte, and though a succession certificate should have been produced. 16 Pat.L.T. 99. S. 214 in effect requires the Judge to insist upon certain evidence in support of the plaintiff's claim before passing a decree, but the omission to obtain such evidence (succession certificate) cannot affect the jurisdiction of the Court to try the suit. The omission to obtain a succession certificate is a good ground of appeal, but if a decree has been passed and is not appealed from, it remains a valid decree and cannot be regarded as a nullity for want of a succession certificate. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 514=42 Bom.L.R. 521=1940 Bom. 285. S. 214 (1) (b) of the Act applies only if the application for execution against the debtor of the deceased is for obtaining an order for the payment of his debt. If the personal remedy under the mortgage-deed has become barred by time and the mortgagee is simply entitled to a decree for sale of the mortgaged property, it is difficult to hold that the application for the execution of the mortgage decree for realisation of the amount by sale of the mortgaged property is an application to obtain an order for the "payment" of his debt. No succession certificate is, therefore, necessary in such a case. 158 I.C. 885=1935 A. 897. S. 214 applies not only to a suit brought by the legal representative of a creditor after the latter's death, but also to a suit originally instituted by a creditor and continued after his death by his legal representative who is substituted in the deceased creditor's place. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 514=42 Bom.L.R. 521=1940 Bom. 285. By virtue of S. 211 of the Succession Act a holder of letters of administration is legal representative of the deceased person for all purposes, except in relation to property of the deceased which has passed by survivorship. He is, therefore, competent to maintain a suit for the recovery of a debt due to the deceased's estate. The mere fact that he is not an heir of the deceased does not make the grant invalid, even assuming that the Court before which the claim for the debt is made can investigate the question of the validity of the grant. 43 C.W.N. 1218=1940 Cal. 24. Per Rankin, C.J.—"S. 214 of the Succession Act is a restrictive section and must be carefully and accurately construed. I demur strongly to a contention that arrears of rent accruing due in respect of premises comprised in the deceased's estate in respect of a period subsequent to his death cannot be recovered without a succession certificate". 33 C.W.N. 1177=1929 C. 661 (F.B.). Where a decree-holder dies during the pendency of his execution application, and his heir or legal representative applies for substitution of his name for that of the deceased decree-holder, the Court cannot, on that application, proceed with the execution unless a succession certificate is produced, for such an application falls within the words of S. 214 (1) (b). An application on the part of the successful party in appeal in the appellate Court for restitution from the unsuccessful party, if that is expressed in terms of runees, is one for the recovery of a debt. Hence the heir of an original party cannot obtain such restitution without providing himself with the necessary succession certificate. (1942) 1 M.L.J. 467. A suit should not be dismissed for non-production of probate or succession certificate, as the case may be, but the Court should grant reasonable time to enable the party to produce it. 27 N.L.R. 162. The effect of S. 214 is merely that the Court cannot pass a final decree in the absence of a certificate. The mere fact of the institution of the suit without the certificate will not debar the plaintiff from producing it before the decree is passed. The Court can give time to the plaintiff to produce the certificate and defer passing a decree pending the production of the certificate. I. L. R. (1939) Bom. 232=41 Bom.L.R. 249=1939 Bom. 188. MEANING OF DEBT.—"Debt", meaning of. See 60 C. 1135=37 C.W.N. 769=1933 C. 841 (Right of legatee of share of residue not debt—No certificate necessary). Debt is what is due from debtor and does not cover a claim against a person who has wrongfully collected a debt. 43 A. 440=60 I.C. 744; means the whole of the debt due from debtor and not a part. 33 A. 327=9 I.C. 127. Arrears of rent due is debt. 41 I.C. 84. But see 75 I.C. 237=1924 R. 139. See also 172 I.C. 166=1937 Pat. 617. The plaintiff who sues for redemption of a mortgage is trying to pay a debt and not to recover it and therefore it is not necessary for him to produce a succession certificate. 119 I.C. 96=1929 A. 896. S. 214 has reference only to suits to enforce payment of simple debts. Suits to bring mortgaged property to sale are not within its purview, because a mortgage suit is really a suit to realize an interest in immovable property. Therefore the heirs of a deceased Chinese Buddhist, who dies intestate, cannot be compelled to obtain a grant of letters of administration or a succession certificate before asking the Court to grant them a mortgage-decree. 12 R. 690=1934 R. 369. JOINT HINDU FAMILY.—The words "on succession" occurring in S. 214 did not occur in the old Act. Their addition in the present section has a restrictive and not a widening effect and the old decisions are still apposite. 63 C. 15. Succession certificate is imperative in a divided family, 13 I.C. 363; not necessary in case of a claim by survivors in a joint family: 24 I.C. 93; 1922 C. 149; 13 I.C. 148; 31 I.C. 904; 28 I.C. 688=28 M.L.J. 372; 47 I.C. 649; 63 C. 15. the section is an heir of the deceased or not. The status and qualifications of the persons so entitled are not to be found in an interpretation of the word 'succession", but in the other provisions of the Succession Act itself, or the other Acts referred to in S. 214 under which the grants are made. The purpose of S. 214 is merely to make clear that no debt to a deceased person can be recovered through Court except by a holder of one of the documents specified, the only exceptions being either where the claim is made on survivorship, or where it relates to rent, revenue or profits payable in respect of land used for agricultural purposes. 43 C.W.N. 1218=1940 Cal. 24. Succession to impartible raj governed by the rule of primogeniture is decided by the rule of survivorship, and a successor to an impartible estate takes it on the death of the previous holder by survivorship and not by succession. The succeeding holder can therefore execute a decree for costs obtained by the deceased holder in a suit for possession without producing a succession certificate. The decree for costs is only a part of the estate. 19 Pat.L.T. 342=1938 Pat. 390. Succession to an impartible estate is dependent and is to be determined upon the footing of survivorship, and no succession certificate need be produced when a decree for costs obtained by a previous holder of an impartible estate is sought to be executed by the succeeding holder, the decree for costs forming part of the impartible estate. 19 Pat.L.T. 424=1938 P.W.N. 449=1938 Pat. 401. Quaere.—If it is necessary in the case of an impartible estate holder: 30 M. 454; 38 C. 182; a surviving partner need not produce. 17 M. 108; 20 A. 365; 13 C.W.N. 509.

It is doubtful if S. 216 of the Succession Act may be regarded as lending any countenance to the proposition—Once an administrator, always an administrator. The moment administration is completed, the purpose of the grant will have been fulfilled, and the administrator would virtually become functus officio. It seems only reasonable to hold that thereupon the grant would stand revoked in effect, if not by a formal order of Court. PART IX.

PROBATE, LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION AND ADMINISTRATION OF ASSETS OF DECEASED.

Application of Part.

217. Save as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, all grants of probate and letters of administration with the will annexed and the administration of the assets of the deceased in cases of intestate succession shall be made or carried out, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of this Part.

CHAPTER I.

OF GRANT OF PROBATE AND LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION.

To whom administration may be granted, where deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or exempted person.

218. (1) If the deceased has died intestate and was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, administration of his estate may be granted to any person who, according to the rules for the distribution of the estate, applicable in the case of such deceased, would be entitled to the whole or any part of such deceased's estate.

(2) When several such persons apply for such administration, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to grant it to any one or more of them.

(3) When no such person applies, it may be granted to a creditor of the deceased.

NOTES.

Sec. 217.—See 36 M. 575=23 M.L.J. 306. Applications for probate or for Letters of Administration with the will annexed are not governed by the law of limitation. Long delay in making such applications is, no doubt, a circumstance which may be properly taken into account in determining the question of the genuineness of the will, but that is about the only purpose for which it is relevant in such a proceeding. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 75=41 C.W.N. 1204 =1937 Cal. 595. Although in the case of intestate succession, it is the duty of the Court in granting letters of administration to consider whether there is any estate left to administer, the principle does not apply to an application for probate or Letters of Administration with a copy of the will annexed. Even if it were assumed that the principle would apply in the case of testamentary succession, it would have to be shown that the administration of the estate had been in accordance with the provisions of the will. The question of a family arrangement superseding the will would be wholly irrelevant in a proceeding for grant of administration. Further, an application cannot be rejected on the ground that it is a devise to secure from the Probate Court a decision upon a contested question of title which might be of use to the parties in some other litigation, or on the ground that rights had been in the meantime created in the estate in whole or in part in favour of third parties. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 75= 41 C.W.N. 1204=1937 Cal. 595.

Sec. 218.—It is discretionary with the judge to grant letters of administration. 42 I.C. 737=96 P.L.R. 1917. Although it is within the discretion of the Court to refuse to grant an application for letters of administration, no such discretion is given in regard to an application for probate. (20 A. 189, Foll.) 121 I.C. 173=1930 S. 91. Where in an application for grant of letters of administration, the applicant's own case carries certain elements of suspicion, the Court should in such circumstances insist on a very strict standard of proof and ought not to make a grant unless it is satisfied that the suspicion has been removed. 69 C.L.J. 347=1939 Cal. 595. In Bombay, letters of administration are always granted in respect of undivided property of a coparcener of a joint Hindu family. 163 I. C. 129=38 Bom.L.R. 257=1936 B. 191. Joint grant of letters. 31 Bom.L.R. 999= 1929 B. 397. A member of a joint undivided Hindu family therefore is not as such a person entitled under S. 218 to an administration of the estate of a deceased member of the family. 7 R. 39=115 I.C. 905=1929 R. 99. Where there are rival applicants for letters and the status of one of them is disputed, while the other is entitled to a portion of the estate, the proper procedure is to ignore the question of status and grant letters to the other, who is entitled to a part of the estate. 56 I.C. 764. See also 54 I.C. 807=5 Pat.L.J. 107; 9 L. B.R. 174=45 I.C. 935; 163 I.C. 677 (2)= 1936 R. 239. A Mahomedan will can be admitted to probate although it purports to deal with more than the share over which the testator has disposing power. If the deceased has died intestate and was not a person belonging to any of the classes referred to in section 218, those who are connected with him, either by marriage or by consanguinity, are entitled to obtain letters of administration of his estate and effects in the order and according to the rules hereinafter stated, namely:—

Where deceased is not a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina, or exempted person.

(a) If the deceased has left a widow, administration shall be granted to the widow, unless the Court sees cause to exclude her, either on the ground of some personal disqualification, or because she has no interest in the estate of the deceased.

regard to the excess will be different in kind from what it would be if the testator had power to dispose of the whole. The Court of probate has no jurisdiction to determine any such question or any other question of title. 175 I. C. 987=1938 Nag. 173. Questions whether the testator is Mahomedan or Christian, his relationship and his disposing power over the subject-matter of the will are irrelevant in probate proceedings. If in fact on such a contest, the Court proceeds on the assumption that the testator was either Mahomedan or Christian, or that he was in a particular relationship to one of the parties, such assumption do not in any slight degree raise any presumption thereafter that the assumptions are correct. 175 I.C. 897=1938 Nag. 173. A contest between the full sister and an adopted daughter whose adoption is in dispute in applying for letters of administration would justify the Court in enquiring into the factum and validity of the adoption. 9 L.B.R. 163=45 I.C. 737. If on the status of the respondents in proceedings for letters of administration being proved they would be the only people entitled to inherit the estate of the deceased, the Court is perfectly justified in going into the question of adoption of the respondents. (5 R. 159 and 9 L.B.R. 163, Rel. on.) 1934 R. 205. The Court may not enter into questions of adoption in such proceedings if the decisions would not be final or operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit. 44 I.C. 138=10 Bur.L.T. 184. See also 33 I.C. 659=U.B.R. On this section, see also 17 C.L.J. 65=16 I.C. 588; 16 I.C. 453=16 C.W.N. 798. Where there are a number of rival claimants for the grant of letters of administration, and the claim of one of the rivals is admitted by the other claimants, and the applicant whose claim is admitted is a fit and proper person to be granted letters, letters of administration, would, in the normal course, be granted to him, and it is then unnecessary to consider the status of the other rival claimants. But where, as between the rival claimants inter se, the claim of none of them is admitted by the others, it is incumbent on the Court to determine the status of the applicant before letters are issued to him. The husband of the deceased is prima facie entitled to the grant of letters of administration to the estate of his wife. But when his status as husband and his fitness to administer the estate are disputed, the Court is bound to determine both his status and his fitness. 12 R. 629.

(c) If there is no widow, or if the Court sees cause to exclude the widow, it shall commit the administration to the person or persons who would be beneficially entitled to the estate according to the rules for the distribution of an intestate's estate:

Provided that, when the mother of the deceased is one of the class of persons so entitled, she shall be solely entitled to administration.

(d) Those who stand in equal degree of kindred to the deceased are equally entitled to administration.

(e) The husband surviving his wife has the same right of administration of her estate as the widow has in respect of the estate of her husband.

(f) When there is no person connected with the deceased by marriage or consanguinity who is entitled to letters of administration and willing to act, they may be granted to a creditor.

(g) Where the deceased has left property in British India, letters of administration shall be granted according to the foregoing rules, notwithstanding that he had his domicile in a country in which the law relating to testate and intestate succession differs from the law of British India.

Effect of letters of administration.

220. Letters of administration entitle the administrator to all rights belonging to the intestate as effectually as if the administration had been granted at the moment after his death.

Acts not validated by administration.

221. Letters of administration do not render valid any intermediate acts of the administrator tending to the diminution or damage of the intestate's estate.

SEC. 219 (f). APPLICATION UNDER, BY Creditor-Allegations and proof-Evidence. —Under S. 219 (f) it is not enough for a creditor-applicant for letters of administration to merely allege that the deceased left no relatives or persons connected with him by marriage or consanguinity who were entitled to letters of administration and willing to act, but it is also necessary, as in the case of a civil suit to adduce evidence in support of the allegation in the application. Evidence merely to the effect that the deceased had no wife or children and was not married would not be enough. The applicant must produce evidence that enquiries have been made in the place where the deceased's parents originally lived which would show whether the deceased had any relative still living. 150 I.C. 748 (1)=1934 A. 885.

SEC. 222.—Under S. 222 no person who has not been named in the will either expressly or by necessary implication can be granted probate of the will. 152 I.C. 124=1934 A.L.J. 1089=1934 A. 1053. A person who has been directed by the will to perform one or more of the duties involving the functions of an executor, is an executor appointed by necessary implication under s. 222. Such a person though not expressly appointed is an executor according to the tenor, and can apply for probate. But a person who is given the right to manage the property or to appoint a manager is not an executor. Such appointment may not even make him an executor according to the tenor. But the latter person has sufficient interest in the estate of the deceased for him to sustain a caveat. A caveat can be entered by any person having or asserting an interest in the estate of the deceased person; but he must show that he has that interest by inheritance or otherwise. A title adverse to that of the testator or to his estate or any portion thereof is not sufficient to sustain the interest. If in a petition for probate by the executor according to the tenor, the grant of probate will displace any interest to which the caveator is otherwise entitled, the latter has an interest; otherwise, he has not. 39 Bom.L.R. 490=1937 Bom. 397. The distinction between the right to obtain a probate of the will and the right to apply for letters of administration, is, that the former is a personal right confined to the executor and cannot devolve upon the heir of the executor. But s. 233 makes it clear that in certain cases at least the heir of a residuary legatee had the same right to administer after the death of the legatee as the legatee himself. 9 P. 698=128 I.C. 128=1930 P. 618. As to what is authenticated copy of will, see 44 I.C. 166=22 C.W.N. 713. A creditor who acquires an interest in the estate of the deceased after the latter's death by purchasing or taking a mortgage of a part of the estate is only entitled to a general citation under s. 283 and not to any special citation as provided for in ss. 228 and 235. 41 C.W.N. 120. The word "proved" used in s. 228 was not necessarily intended to be the equivalent of "admitted to probate," but to mean authoritatively established as being valid according to the law of the place where it was made. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 507=1939 Cal. 237.

SECS. 228 AND 241.—Where probate of a will of an English testator has been obtained in England and the executor who is unable to come to India to take out letters of administration grants a power-of-attorney to another to enable him to apply as his agent, letters of administration ought to be issued to the applicant under s. 241 without security and not under s. 228. It could not have been the intention of the legislator to compel an executor living abroad to come to this country to take out letters of administration personally when he has obtained probate of the will in his own country. S. 241 has been read as covering an application for letters of administration with a copy of the will annexed when the original cannot be produced because it is held abroad as the result of that Court having granted probate. S. 241 cannot be read as applying only to the case of an executor temporarily absent from the province. To read S. 241 as applying to an application for letters of administration with the original will annexed is to disregard the scheme of the Act. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 820=1940 Mad. 680=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 264.

SEC. 229.—S. 229 refers to the grant of letters of administration and not the grant of probate. 121 I.C. 173=1930 s. 91. Citation to executor is compulsory. 13 Bom.L.R. 58; 47 C. 838=60 I.C. 974. He is compellable to accept or renounce. 40 B. 666. Mere failure of an executor to appear in Court in pursuance of citation issued to him does not amount to his renunciation of the executorship. If he fails to appear his conduct may amount to renunciation in England, but not in India. 1928 L. 470. But see also 18 B. 123. A renunciation made by an executor by a writing in the absence of the Judge need not be addressed to the Court. All that is required by s. 230 is that the writing containing the renunciation must bear the signature of the renouncing executor. A statement expressly declaring refusal to accept the responsibility of executor, which is recorded by the Court and signed by the executor is valid to effect a renunciation. 133 I.C. 286=1931 L. 746.

SS. 229 AND 230.—EFFECT OF—It is implied by ss. 229 and 230 that an executor who disputes the validity of a will appointing him as such, must accept or renounce the executorship under s. 229 before the validity of the will is adjudicated upon on an application for letters of administration by another person. 16 Luck. 454=1941 O.W.N. 653=1941 Oudh 293 (F.B.). Where in an application by one of the executors the chief executors mentioned in the will is not cited, Ss. 229 and 230 are likely to make the application infructuous. When such chief executor is not prepared to renounce his or her duties, the application without such a person is not in order. 1942 A.M.L.J. 27.

SEC. 230.—"Judge" referred to in the Written renunciation need not be made in Court. 1928 M. 797. Intermeddling with the estate by an executor does not amount to acceptance of office. 1928 L. 470. Non-appearance is equivalent to renunciation if process has been served; so also declining to take out probate. 18 B. 123. See also 1928 L. 470. The renunciation must be in the presence of Judge. 35 C. 156. As to effect of intermeddling, see 51 C. 745. See also 27 C. W. N. 285=1923 C. 444. Renunciaton can be made without issue of citation and it cannot be retracted. 51 C. 745. After grant is made, renunciation cannot be withdrawn. 27 C.W. N. 285. Under s. 230 once the renunciation is validly made, it cannot be retracted and the renouncing executor is thereby prevented from applying for probate of the will appointing him executor. 133 I.C. 286=1931 L. 746. One of two executors challenging genuineness of will does not amount to renunciation of office. 94 I.C. 73=1926 M. 605. On this section, see also 32 C. W. N. 729.

Sec. 232.—The words "so much thereof as may be unadministered" in the final part of s. 232 apply only to cl. (c) of the section and not to the preceding cls. (a) and (b); and "administration" under the section means administration under the authority of a Court. 30 S.L.R. 201=165 I.C. 202=1936 s. 150. An application for grant of letters of administration under s. 232 should be of the whole estate. A petitioner has no right to apply for the administration of a part only or of just so much of the property as suits his purpose. Limited grants should be only those which fall within the special provisions contained in Chapter II of Part IX of the Act. S. 232, like all the relevant sections of the Act, is governed by s. 19-I and other relevant provisions of the Court-Fees Act. The application must be in respect of the whole estate and Court-fee must be paid on all the property. 1936 s. 150. The term "will" refers to the disposition and not to the original document. 18 C. W. N. 527. Universal legatee entitled only to letters of administration: 19 C. 582; 6 C. W. N. 787. Where an universal legacy is left to more than one person, there will be shares in that legacy and their shares in the legacy might well be specified in the will. Where the share of one is confined to the movable property and a life interest in all the immovable property except two houses in which that person has full estate and the interest of the other legatee is the reversionary interest in all the rest which will vest in him after the death of the former, these do not amount to particular legacies or to one particular legacy with a residuary. It is an universal legacy of all the property to two persons and any one of them would be a universal legatee. 1942 O.W.N. 452. Heir of residuary legatee is not entitled to letters. 51 I.C. 76=45 C. 862. Administrator of the executor is not a derivative executor. 27 I.C. 849=17 M.L.T. 61. Where a will is in favour of a religious institution and the property is to be managed by the Mahant in charge, on the death of such Mahant his successor is entitled to claim letters of administration with respect to the will. 146 I. C. 547=1933 L. 265. See also 1941 A.M.L. J. 42. On this section, see also 39 C.W.N. 390=1935 C. 154.

SECS 232 AND 233.—The probate Court is competent to construe the will and to consider on the construction whether an applicant for letters of administration is entitled to the letters as the residuary legatee or universal legatee. 39 C.W.N. 390=1935 C. 154. An application for letters of administration by the sole legatee under the will was rejected by the District Court. She filed an appeal but immediately afterwards died. Her daughter applied to be substituted in the place of the appellant. Held, the heir could be permitted to continue the proceedings. 9 P. 698=128 I.C. 128=1930 P. 618. The right to obtain a probate of the will and the right to apply for letters of administration are distinct. The former is a personal right to the executour and cannot devolve upon his heir. But s. 233 makes it clear that in certain cases at least the heir of a residuary legatee had the same right to administer after the death of the legatee as the legatee himself. 9 P. 698=128 I. C. 128=1930 P. 618.

Ss. 232-234.—The sole beneficiaries under a will might very well be regarded as residuary legatees, though not named as such,

(a) the deceased has made a will, but has not appointed an executor, or

(b) the deceased has appointed an executor who is legally incapable or refuses to act, or who has died before the testator or before he has proved the will, or

(c) the executor dies after having proved the will, but before he has administered all the estate of the deceased, an universal or a residuary legatee may be admitted to prove the will, and letters of administration with the will annexed may be granted to him of the whole estate, or of so much thereof as may be unadministered.

Right to administration of representative of deceased residuary legatee.

233. When a residuary legatee who has a beneficial interest survives the testator but dies before the estate has been fully administered, his representative has the same right to administration with the will annexed as such residuary legatee.

Grant of administration where no executor, nor residuary legatee nor representative of such legatee.

234. When there is no executor and no residuary legatee or representative of a residuary legatee, or he declines or is incapable to act, or cannot be found, the person or persons who would be entitled to the administration of the estate of the deceased if he had died intestate, or any other legatee having a beneficial interest, or a creditor, may be admitted to prove the will, and letters of administration may be granted to him or them accordingly.

NOTES.

and a representative of one of them is, therefore, entitled to apply for letters of administration. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 75=41 C.W.N. 1204=1937 Cal. 595.

SEC. 233.—Probate cannot be granted to a minor under this section where minor is sole executor; proper course is to grant not probate, but letters of administration with copy of will annexed according to s. 244 to his legal guardian until the minor attains majority when probate can be granted to him. 131 I.C. 339=1931 L. 229. See 51 I. C. 76=45 C. 862.

SECS. 233 AND 234.—The word "representative" appearing in ss. 233 and 234 should not at least in the case of a Hindu be restricted to a "legal representative". The only heir of a residuary legatee, who died after obtaining probate but without having fully administered the estate of the testator, is entitled to obtain a grant of administration with a copy of the will annexed (without obtaining representation according to the law of residuary legatee.) (45 C. 862, Foll.) 138 I.C. 712=34 Bom.L.R. 606=1932 B. 270.

SEC. 234.—In an application for the grant of letters of administration with a copy of the will annexed, the mere fact that in the pleas taken by an objector there is no categorical denial of the execution of the will by the alleged testator is no sufficient ground for dispensing with the formal proof of the will as required by law; nor is the fact that the document is a registered one. A will is a formal document and before a Court of justice can take notice of it, it must be duly and formally proved. 164 I.C. 778=38 P.L. R. 930=1937 Lah. 69. Where a will is put forward to defraud creditors, one of them can intervene in probate proceedings. 15 C. W.N. 350; 30 I.C. 538. Grant is discretionary. 1 B.L.R. 3 (19). Residuary legatee does not include universal legatee. 94 I.C. 750= 1926 P. 356. As to rights of stranger, see 1901 P. 42; (1908) 1 K.B. 151. In the case of a gift to a priest and the residue to the idol, the shebait must apply. 50 C. 233. A minor legatee cannot be granted letters of administration. 5 Bur.L.T. 235=18 I.C. 187. Where there are also others than minor legatees, the mother of the minor cannot be granted letters on behalf of the minor legatee. (Ibid.) S. 234 only deals with cases where no executor has been appointed or if an executor has been appointed, he declines to act. The section is not applicable when the executor appointed by the will is a minor. The appropriate procedure in such a case is that prescribed by s. 244. 54 M. 266=1931 M. 343 =60 M.L.J. 254. Under s. 234 if a person declines to accept letters of administration and any other person is admitted to prove the will, the former cannot thereafter turn round and contend that after the will is proved that he would accept letters of administration. 1942 O.W.N. 452. On this section see also 17 C.L.J. 66; 40 C. 74; 27 C.W.N. 411=50 C. 233=1925 C. 160.

235. Letters of administration with the will annexed shall not be granted to any legatee other than an universal or a residuary legatee, until a citation has been issued and published in the manner hereinafter mentioned, calling on the next-of-kin to accept or refuse letters of administration.

Citation before grant of administration to legatee other than universal or residuary.

To whom administration may not be granted.

236. Letters of administration cannot be granted to any person who is a minor or is of unsound mind, [1][* * *] [2][nor to any association of individuals unless it is a company which satisfies the conditions prescribed by rules to be made by the [3](Provincial Government) in this behalf.]

CHAPTER II.

OF LIMITED GRANTS.

Grants limited in duration.

237. When a will has been lost or mislaid since the testator's death, or has been destroyed by wrong or accident and not by any act of the testator, and a copy or the draft of the will has been preserved, probate may be granted of such copy or draft, limited until the original or a properly authenticated copy of it is produced.

Probate of copy or draft of lost will.

Probate of contents of lost or destroyed will.

238. When a will has been lost or destroyed and no copy has been made nor the draft preserved, probate may be granted of its contents if they can be established by evidence.

LEG.REF.

1 Omitted by Act XVIII of 1927.

2 Added by Act XVII of 1931.

3 Substituted for "Governor-General in Council" by Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

NOTES.

Sec. 235.—See 41 C.W.N. 120 noted under s. 228, supra, "Next-of-kin" in s. 235 means a person, or set of persons, standing nearest in blood relationship to another person. It means, in fact, the natural heir or heirs. 1942 O.W.N. 452. The issue of notices to the next of kin to show cause why letters of administration should not be granted to an applicant is a sufficient compliance with the requirements of s. 235. Where the next-of-kin deny the validity of the will it amounts to refusal to accept letters of administration. 1942 O.W.N. 452.

SEC. 236.—This section is merely intended to protect the possible right of the next-of-kin to effect the administration of the estate where no executor has been appointed and where the application is made by a mere specific legatee, and it does not relieve an applicant for letters of administration, even though he be a universal or residuary legatee from the obligation to call upon reversioners and to give them an opportunity of protecting their vested interests in the reversion. 1929 P. 385. The Court of Wards is not a person and cannot be appointed administrator. 25 C. 795; 10 C.W.N. 241; 5 Pat.L.J. 347=57 I.C. 583. Minors and lunatics are excluded. 50 I.C. 324; 21 C. 211; 1908 A.W.N. 257; 57 I.C. 383; 86 I.C. 92=6 P.L.T. 584; 44 I.C. 138=10 Bur.L.T. 184. Where there is a conflict of unequal interest between the applicants for letters of administration it should be granted to the applicants having the greatest interest. 46 I.C. 875.

SEC. 237.—The words "since the testator's death" qualify "mislaid" and have no reference to "lost". 18 C.W.N. 527. Probate may be granted of nuncupative will. 24 B. 8; 1 P. and D. 154. A person who asks for probate of the draft of a will must prove that the will has been lost or mislaid since the testator's death. 55 C. 482=1928 C. 307.

SECS. 237 AND 238.—The sections lay down the rule of proof for cases where the original will may have been lost. 26 I.C. 980=20 C. L.J. 148.

SEC. 238.—Presumption of revocation. (1900) A.C. 604; 3 C.W.N. 617; 13 M.L.J. 135. As to proving the contents of a lost will, see Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards, 1 P. and D. 154; (1903) P. 131; probate can be granted of portion of will, when the rest is lost or destroyed. 1 C.L.J. 109. Probate may be granted if a part of a will is lost but

239. When the will is in the possession of a person residing out of the province in which application for probate is made, who has refused or neglected to deliver it up, but a copy has been transmitted to the executor, and it is necessary for the interests of the estate that probate should be granted without waiting for the arrival of the original, probate may be granted of the copy so transmitted, limited until the will or an authenticated copy of it is produced.

Probate of copy where original exists.

240. Where no will of the deceased is forthcoming, but there is reason to believe that there is a will in existence, letters of administration may be granted, limited until the will or an authenticated copy of it is produced.

Administration until will produced.

Grants for the use and benefit of others having right.

241. When any executor is absent from the province in which application is made, and there is no executor within the province willing to act, letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be granted to the attorney or agent of the absent executor, for the use and benefit of his principal, limited until he shall obtain probate or letters of administration granted to himself.

Administration, with will annexed, to attorney of absent executor.

242. When any person to whom, if present, letters of administration, with the will annexed, might be granted, is absent from the province, letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be granted to his attorney or agent, limited as mentioned in section 241.

Administration, with will annexed, to attorney of absent person who, if present, would be entitled to administer.

243. When a person entitled to administration in case of intestacy is absent from the province and no person equally entitled is willing to act, letters of administration may be granted to the attorney or agent of the absent person, limited as mentioned in section 241.

Administration to attorney of absent person entitled to administer in case of intestacy.

244. When a minor is sole executor or sole residuary legatee, letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be granted to the legal guardian of such minor or to such other person as the Court may think fit until the minor has attained his majority at which period, and not before, probate of the will shall be granted to him.

Administration during minority of sole executor or residuary legatee.

the contents are proved. Where, therefore, all but the first page of a will are found to be genuine, and as to the first page the evidence is sufficient to show the contents, probate may be granted of the will. 69 C. L.J. 394=1939 Cal. 674.

SEC. 240.—A Court can order probate of the draft of a will in case where the will itself is not proved, only if it is proved that the draft was prepared under instructions from the testator. 106 I.C. 531=1928 N. 114.

SEC. 241.—Section does not apply where will has been proved beyond the limits of the Province. 1905 A.W.N. 251. Court cannot grant letters to an attorney who is only authorised for a limited purpose. 1893 A.C. 170; 5 M.I.A. 27; 40 C. 74. SEC. 244.—This and the next two sections do not allow a grant to the guardian of a minor who is not executor or residuary legatee. 36 I.C. 266. When a minor executor is appointed then it is open to his legal guardian, or such other person as may seem to the Court fit, to have the letters of administration issued to him. And before letters of administration can be granted to a legal guardian of a minor, the legal guardian must apply to be appointed the minor's guardian for the purpose of enabling him or her to obtain those letters of administration for the use and benefit of the minor. 54 M. 266=60 M.L.J. 264. Where a minor is the sole person who can claim to be an executor to a will and his legal guardian applies for grant of probate, letters of administration with the will annexed con be granted to him. The application for probate by the minor which is unsustainable in law can be allowed to be amended into one for letters of administration even on appeal. 131 I.C. 339 =1931 L. 229. The Court of Wards is not a legal guardian: 25 C. 795; but a nominee of the Court of Wards may be. 10 C.W.N. 241; 1 Pat.L.T. 304. When the administration determines, the administratio durente minori aetote may be called to account. 13 C.W.N. 537. The period of minority applies to all persons whether domiciled or not. 21 C. 911; 34 C. 706.

246. If a sole executor or a sole universal or residuary legatee, or a person who would be solely entitled to the estate of the intestate according to the rule for the distribution of intestate's estates applicable in the case of the deceased is a minor or lunatic, letters of administration, with or without the will annexed, as the case may be, shall be granted to the person to whom the care of his estate has been committed by competent authority, or if there is no such person, to such other person as the Court may think fit to appoint, for the use and benefit of the minor or lunatic until he attains majority or becomes of sound mind, as the case may be.

SECS. 244 TO 246.—None of Ss. 244 to 246 allows a grant of letters to the guardian of a minor when he is neither an executor nor a residuary legatee. If the estate is mainly movable, letters of administration need not be obtained. Proceedings for letters of administration should not be lengthened by entering into questions difficult to determine in such proceedings. 36 I.C. 266=10 Bur.L. T. 107.

SEC. 246.—(See als, notes under Ss. 233 and 244, supra, S. 217 of the Act of 1865) does not deal with the case of minors. S. 33 of the Act of 1881 does. As it appears to be merely causus omissus and the provision is in accordance with actual practice, the language of s. 33 of the Act of 1881 has been adopted.—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.) Under the Act a person who is a minor is not entitled to a grant of administration. An application for administration durente minore aetate by a person as guardian of the minors until the elder of them attains majority can only be made under s. 246. Under that section before a grant can be made, it must be shown that the minor or minors are solely entitled to the estate of the intestate. 31 Bom.L.R. 999=1929 B. 397. The application is to be made in the name of the guardian. 34 C. 706; 5 A.L.J. 736; 1908 A.W.N. 257. Where no such guardian is appointed, a grant to "such other person" does not extend the period of minority to 21 Years. 24 M.L.J. 450. A natural mother is the proper person to administer estate on behalf of her son who has been adopted and is lunatic in the absence of any one else better qualified to do this. 1933 R. 128. Where the curator of a lunatic applied on behalf of the lunatic for letters of administration in respect of joint family property got by the lunatic as the sole surviving member in the joint Hindu family by survivorship, held that the letters of administration can be granted to the applicant. 163 I.C. 129=38 Bom.L.R. 257=1936 B. 191.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—The correct procedure under S. 246 is that there should be two applications. (i) to be appointed as the proper person to represent the lunatic; and (ii) for the grant of letters. But where a person applies only for grant of letters, the defect is only of the procedure and does not affect the merit. 1933 R. 128=144 I.C. 821.

SEC. 247.—The Court must be satisfied of the necessity and will appoint one only if it is just and proper to do so. 13 C.L. J. 34, 47; 2 Bom. L. R. 797. The special ground for such a grant may be that there is no one to hold assets or give discharges. 10 C.L.J. 263; 2 P. and D. 85; the functions

Grants for special purposes.

Probate limited to purpose specified in will.

248. If an executor is appointed for any limited purpose specified in the will, the probate shall be limited to that purpose, and if he should appoint an attorney or agent to take administration on his behalf, the letters of administration, with the will annexed, shall be limited accordingly.

Administration, with will annexed, limited to particular purpose.

249. If an executor appointed generally gives an authority to an attorney or agent to prove a will on his behalf, and the authority is limited to a particular purpose, the letters of administration, with the will annexed, shall be limited accordingly.

Administration limited to property in which person has beneficial interest.

250. Where a person dies, leaving property of which he was the sole or surviving trustee, or in which he had no beneficial interest on his own account, and leaves no general representative, or one who is unable or unwilling to act as such, letters of administration, limited to such property, may be granted to the beneficiary, or to some other person on his behalf.

Administration limited to suit.

If, at the expiration of twelve months from the date of any probate or letters of administration, the executor or administrator to whom the same has been granted is absent from the province within which the Court which has granted the probate or letters of administration exercises jurisdiction, the Court may grant, to any person whom it may think fit, letters of administration limited to the purpose of becoming and being made a party to a suit to be brought against the executor or administrator, and carrying the decree which may be made therein into effect.

Administration limited to collection and preservation of deceased's property.

253. In any case in which it appears necessary for preserving the property of a deceased person, the Court within whose jurisdiction any of the property is situate may grant to any person, whom such Court may think fit, letters of administration limited to the collection and preservation of the property of the deceased and to the giving of discharges for debts due to his estate, subject to the directions of the Court.

Appointment, as administrator, of person other than one who, in ordinary circumstances, would be entitled.

But Court has inherent powers to withdraw order for grant to prevent abuse of process of Court. 7 Lah. 270=94 I. C. 329. The rule followed in England is that if a party is cognisant of the proceedings for probate or letters of administration and chooses to stand by and allow the proceedings to be concluded in his absence, he will not be allowed to come in afterwards and have the grant revoked or the proceedings reopened. The law in India is substantially the same on this point as in England when the situation is not complicated by the existence of an infant or of a pardanashin beneficiary. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 1=45 C.W.N. 739=1942 Cal. 283. Where letters of administration have been wrongly granted the proper course is to apply to the Court which granted the letters to revoke the same. An application for revocation of a grant of letters of administration or probate by a party, who contested the order at the time at which it was made is on an entirely different footing from such an application made by a party, who was a stranger to the proceedings, which led to the making of the order and had no notice of them. In the former case, the matter is prima facie res judicata as between the parties. It is an elementary principle that where a party had an opportunity to put forward a particular just cause and had not chosen to put it forward, he cannot be heard to agitate the same cause later. The real question is whether the party applying for revocation had an opportunity, before the grant was made, of urging the very grounds he now puts forward or whether he urges any new grounds that have arisen since he had that opportunity, which he refused to utilize. The phrase "new ground" does not mean additional evidence on old grounds. It is meant to cover contingencies quite different in character from the mere discovery of evidence, which if it had been available before, might have induced the Court to take a different view. Where there is an allegation of fraud as a ground for vacating the rder, the fraud; proved must be extraneous to eveything which has been already adjudicated upon by the Court. Subject to the rule relating to new grounds, the only other way in which the grant can be attacked by a party who contested the order at the time it was made and who relies on fresh evidence merely, is by bringing his application within the comparatively narrow limits of an application for review. 1939 Rang.L.R. 601=1939 Rang. 215. See also 1939 Cal. 718=43 C.W.N. 1193. A defendant in a mortgage suit died pending that suit. Although the plaintiff in that suit asked the executors of the will of the deceased to get themselves substituted in the suit, they took no steps. Thereafter an application was made in that suit for the appointment of an administrator ad litem and citations were issued on all the executors. They did not appear and an administrator ad litem, was appointed. The executors, then applied for a revocation of this grant of Letters of Administration and also for a grant of probate to them. Held, that no just cause was shown to exist within the meaning of s. 263 for the revocation of the grant of Letters of Administration but that the executors could be given a supplementary grant of probate keeping the grant to the Administrator ad litem in tact in accordance with the English practice. 43 C.W.N. 1193=1939 Cal. 718. See also 45 C.W.N. 739=(1942) C. 283. The person entitled to intervene in a proceeding for revocation of probate need not prove that he had an interest in the estate at the time of the testator's death. An interest acquired subsequently by purchase or mortgage of a part of the estate of the deceased is sufficient. 41 C.W.N. 120. An application for revocation of probate a will made by a mahant of a mutt is not maintainable at the instance of a person claiming to be his spiritual descendant and alleging that the properties disposed of by the deceased mohant belonged to him in his official and not personal capacity and as such could not be disposed of by him. 10 P. 817=1932 P. 95. Non-citation is not by itself sufficient ground for revoking probate. 30 I.C. 12=21 C.L.J. 555. Though s. 276 (unlike s. 278) does not mention that "the family or other relatives of the deceased" should be stated in a petition for probate, s. 263 (Ill. (ii) shows that a grant made without citing parties who ought to have been cited, e.g., the daughters of the testator, is liable to be revoked. 36 C. W. N. 1010. Per Mitter, J.—Illustration (ii) to S. 263 is not confined to compulsory citations which have to be issued under s. 229, 235 or 285 . It extends at least to special citations that may be issued by the Court in its discretion under s. 283 (1) (c). Absence or non-service of special citation on a person who ought to be cited is itself a good ground for revocation at his instance in the absence of other circumstances on which the Court may refuse revocation on account of the discretion vested in it by s. 263. It would be a defect, but the defect would not be of substance, if the non-cited party had knowledge of the probate proceedings. If those special circumstances do not exist, the grant must be revoked. It is not possible or desirable to enumerate exhaustively what those special circumstances may be. Delay in applying for revocation which amounts to waiver or acquiescence, would be one. In the cases where such special circumstances exist, and especially if the will had been proved in solemn form before, revocation would not be made. There is no difference in principle between a special and a general citation issued under s. 283 (3). The object of both is to give notice to persons interested in the estate of the deceased of the proceedings for grant. When the discretion is exercised and a general citation is issued, it is necessary that it should be published as required by s. 283 (3). But the omission to publish the general citation, though a defect, is not a substantial one when there is nothing to show that any one is prejudicially affected thereby. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 33=71 C. L. J. 25 =44 C.W.N. 149=1940 Cal. 296. The onus, under the circumstances, is upon the persons propounding the will. It is for them to prove that the will is a genuine one and not for the other party to prove that the will is a forgery. 14 R. 146=161 I.C. 629=1936 R. 105. An applicat for revocation of a grant of probate takes upon himself the burden of displacing the evidence which there is regarding the execution and attestation of the will could have been executed. In order to give testimony of all the attesting witnesses of a will as to its execution and attestation, the Court should not, instead of applying its mind to a dispassionate consideration of that evidence, start off making all kinds of speculations as to the "circumstances of suspicion" which make it improbable that the will could have been executed. In order to repeal the effect of such positive testimony regarding execution, an improbability must be clear and cogent. It must approach very nearly to, if it does not altogether constitute an impossibility. If a person who takes it upon himself to dispute the genuineness of a will rests his case on suspicion, the suspicion must be a suspicion inherent in the transaction itself which is challenged, and cannot be a suspicion arising out of a mere conflict of testimony. This is the correct method of approach for Courts called upon to deal with testamentary cases. It can never be a safe or sound rule to start speculating as to what might have been the motive which impelled the testator to make an alleged will, provided there is evidence and the Court has every right to call for such evidence and must, in fact, call for it—that the will was in point of fact executed as required by law. The mere fact that a will is not registered is not such a circumstance as must ipso facto tell against the genuineness of the will. Where all the attesting witnesses have been examined, the mere non-examination of the writer by itself is not such a circumstance that one must hold from this alone that the story told by the attesting witnesses is unworthy of credit. A person having a reversionary interest although such interest be inalienable and dependent upon remote contingencies, is nevertheless substantially interested in the protection or devolution of the estate and as such he is entitled to appear and be heard in probate proceeding. SS. 263 AND 268.—An application for revocation of a grant of letters of administration made in favour of opposite party, by a party who contested the order when it was made, which is in substance an application for review and falls under O. 47, r. 1, C. P. Code, when it is not accompanied by a copy of the order or a decree appealed from, is defective and is not maintainable. By S. 268 Succession Act, the proceedings relating to the matter are to be regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure. 1939 Rang. L. R. 601= 1939 Rang. 215.

SS. 263 AND 283.—Revocation of probate —Grounds—Absence of citation. The absence of citations in a case in which they are ordered but did not issue does not by itself constitute just cause for revocation of probate, though it may do so, if the party, claiming that citation should have been ordered and served upon him, can show a prima facie case for revocation which the executor is unable to rebut. In cases where citations have been ordered but not served, the burden of proof is then shifted to the executor to show that there was no defect of substance in the proceedings in which probate was granted. In cases where citations have not been ordered, the party impugning the will on the ground of his non-citation must first show that he ought to have been cited, before the burden of proof is shifted to the executor to show that the defect in the proceedings was not one of such substance and that no just cause for revocation exists. 1938 Rang.L.R. 360=1938 Rang. 261 (F.B.). See also 1940 Cal. 296=44 C.W.N. 149; 17 B. 686. SS. 264 AND 279.—An application for revocation of probate should be made to the Court from which the grant has already been made. Power to appoint Delegate of District Judge to deal with non-contentious cases.

265. (1) The High Court may appoint such judicial officers within any district as it thinks fit to act for the District Judge as Delegates to grant probate and letters of administration in non-contentious cases, within such local limits as it may prescribe:

Provided that, in the case of High Courts not established by Royal Charter, such appointment shall not be without the previous sanction of the Provincial Government.

(2) Persons so appointed shall be called "District Delegates".

District Judge's powers as to grant of probate and administration.

266. The District Judge shall have the like powers and authority in relation to the granting of probate and letters of administration, and all matters connected therewith, as are by law vested in him, in relation to any civil suit or proceeding pending in his Court.

District Judge may order person to produce testamentary papers.

267. (1) The District Judge may order any person to produce and bring into Court any paper or writing, being or purporting to be testamentary which may be shown to be in the possession or under the control of such person.

(2) If it is not shown that any such paper or writing is in the possession or under the control of such person, but there is reason to believe that he has the knowledge of any such paper or writing, the Court may direct such person to attend for the purpose of being examined respecting the same.

(3) Such person shall be bound to answer truly such questions as may be put to him by the Court, and, if so ordered, to produce and bring in such paper or writing, and shall be subject to the like punishment under the Indian Penal Code, in case of default in not attending, or in not answering such questions or not bringing in such paper or writing, as he would have been subject to in case he had been a party to a suit and had made such default.

(4) The costs of the proceeding shall be in the discretion of the Judge.

SECS. 265 AND 286.—A transfer of proceedings under S. 31 of the Oudh Courts Act by a District Judge to a Suboridnate Judge is made to the Subordinate Judge as such and not to the District Delegate. There is nothing in the Succession Act which renders a Subordinate Judge as such, incompetent to dispose of contentious proceedings. The fact that the Subordinate Judge also happens to be a District Delegate will not deprive him of jurisdiction, if the proceeding is transferred to him by order of the District Judge, although as a District Delegate he cannot dispose of a contentious proceedings. 10 Luck. 316=11 O.W.N. 1481=1935 O. 38. Under r. 239 of the Oudh Civil Rules; 1935 O. 415 Subordinate Judges in Oudh have been appointed District Delegates to grant probates and letters of administration in non-contentious case only. When the respondents appear and file objections against the application, the proceedings cease to be non-contentious. Therefore a Subordinate Judge, who proceeds with the case after it becomes contentious, exceeds his jurisdiction. 151 I.C. 843=11 O.W.N. 1301.

Proceedings of District Judge's Court in relation to probate and administration.

268. The proceedings of the Court of the District Judge in relation to the granting of probate and letters of administration shall, save as hereinafter otherwise provided, be regulated, so far as the circumstances of the case permit, by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

When and how District Judge to interfere for protection of property.

269. (1) Until probate is granted of the will of a deceased person, or an administrator of his estate is constituted, the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction any part of the property of the deceased person is situate, is authorized and required to interfere for the protection of such property at the instance of any person claiming to be interested therein, and in all other cases where the Judge considers that the property incurs any risk of loss or damage; and for that purpose, if he thinks fit, to appoint an officer, to take and keep possession of the property.

(2) This section shall not apply when the deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, nor shall it apply to any part of the property of an Indian Christian who has died intestate.

When probate or administration may be granted by District Judge.

270. Probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of a deceased person may be granted by a District Judge under the seal of this Court, if it appears by a petition, verified as hereinafter provided, of the person applying for the same that the testator or intestate, as the case may be, at the time of his decease had a fixed place of abode, or any property, movable or immovable, within the jurisdiction of the Judge.

The High Court on its original side has at least the discretion given by S. 271 to the Judge of a District to refuse an application for grant of probate of a will when the deceased testator was not living within its jurisdiction. It has a right to observe the comity of Courts and avoid any real and even any apparent conflict of jurisdiction between two equally competent tribunals. The Court is not deprived of its discretion under the section because it exercised it on an earlier occasion so as to permit the proceedings to go on. The discretion is exercisable by the Court whenever the Court is placed in the position of having to decide what order is to be made upon the application for probate. Certainly no Judge would exercise it to the contrary effect while the facts remained the same. I. L. R. (1941) 2 Cal. 1=45 C.W.N. 739=1942 Cal. 283; 45 C.W.N. 757.

For this purpose, it is enough that the administrator has given some kind of notice. 151 I.C. 971=1934 r. 291.

SEC. 276.—S. 276 cannot read alone. It has to be read with S. 19-I of the Court-Fees Act; and under S. 19-I of the Court-Fees Act, the appellant must file in Court a valuation of the property in the form set forth in Schedule III, and the Court has to be satisfied that the fee mentioned in Art. 11 of Schedule I of that Act has been paid on such valuation. When the provisions of S. 19-I of the Court-Fees Act are not satisfied, the application under S. 276 is defective and not in proper form. 30 S.L.R. 201=165 I. C. 202=1936 S. 150. An application for the grant of probate of an oral will can be entertained under S. 276; 1931 A.L.J. 711=1931 A. 489 (F.B.). (2) Where the application is to the District Judge and any portion of the assets likely to come to the petitioner's hands is situate in another province, the petition shall further state the amount of such assets in each province and the District Judges within whose jurisdiction such assets are situate.

Addition to statement in petition, etc., for probate or letters of administration in certain cases.

279. (1) Every person applying to any of the Courts mentioned in the proviso to section 273 for probate of a will or letters of administration of an estate intended to have effect throughout British India, shall state in his petition, in addition to the matters respectively required by section 276 and section 278, that to the best of his belief no application has been made to any other Court for a probate of the same will or for letters of administration of the same estate, intended to have such effect as last aforesaid, or, where any such application has been made, the Court to which it was made, the person or persons by whom it was made and the proceedings (if any) had thereon.

(2) The Court to which any such application is made under the proviso to section 273, may, if it thinks fit, reject the same.

Petition for probate, etc., to be signed and verified.

280. The petition for probate or letters of administration shall in all cases be subscribed by the petitioner and his pleader, if any, and shall be certified by the petitioner in the following manner, namely:—

"I, A.B., the petitioner in the above petition, declare that what is stated therein is true to the best of my information and belief."

NOTES.

it passes by survivorship to the other coparceners. He, therefore, has no power to devise it by will, nor is there any question of succession to it. In no part of the coparcenary property has he left an "estate" of his own, in respect of which letters of administration could be granted. This is the general rule. But the position is different where property purchased with the funds of the joint family and belonging to it, stands in the name of the karta or another member of the family in his individual name, so that while the legal estate vests in him, the beneficial interest is in the family. On the death of such person no change takes place so far as the beneficial interest is concerned. It continues to be as it has always been, in the family. The legal estate, however, does not pass by survivorship to the other coparceners and, therefore, letters of administration may be granted to the surviving coparceners as his "heirs" to the legal estate in such property and limited to it alone. 44 P.L.R. 330 = 1942 Lah. 173 (F.B.).

Verification of petition for probate, by one witness to will.

281. Where the application is for probate, the petition shall also be verified by at least one of the witnesses to the will (when procurable) in the manner or to the effect following, namely:—

"I, C.D., one of the witnesses to the last will and testament of the testator mentioned in the above petition, declare that I was present and saw the said testator affix his signature (or mark) thereto (or that the said testator acknowledged the writing annexed to the above petition to be his last will and testament in my presence).

Punishment for false averment in petition or declaration.

282. If any petition or declaration which is hereby required to be verified contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 193 of the Indian Penal Code.

Powers of District Judge.

283. (1) In all cases the District Judge or District Delegate may, if he thinks proper,—

(a) examine the petitioner in person, upon oath;

(b) require further evidence of the due execution of the will or the right of the petitioner to the letters of administration, as the case may be;

(c) issue citations calling upon all persons, claiming to have any interest in the estate of the deceased to come and see the proceedings before the grant of probate or letters of administration.

(2) The citation shall be fixed up in some conspicuous part of the courthouse, and also in the office of the Collector of the district, and otherwise published or made known in such manner as the Judge or District Delegate issuing the same may direct.

an interest in the estate, but a mere creditor who has not even obtained a decree can hardly be said to have an interest in the estate and such a creditor has no right to object to the grant of probate in common form. 1941 P.W.N. 221; 1940 Cal. 296.

Fazl Ali, J.—The interest which entitles a person to object to the grant of probate must be an interest in the estate and not merely an interest in the result of the probate proceedings or "interest" in any remote sense of the term. 1941 P.W.N. 221; 1940 Cal. 296. Any interest, however slight, and even the possibility of an interest, is sufficient to entitle a party to oppose the grant of probate. 59 C. 1308=36 C.W.N. 635=1932 C. 734. A person who claims outside and independently of a will or claims adversely to the testator and disputes his right to deal with the property can in no sense be deemed to claim an interest in the estate of the deceased within the meaning of S. 283 so as to entitle him to oppose the grant of a probate or letters of administration. 193 I.C. 856=1941 Pat. 475=1941 P.W.N. 334.

CITATION—MINOR—APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN ad litem.—It is only where the applicant for the probate is himself a guardian of a minor on whom citation should issue or where the natural guardian of such minor lives under the influence, care and protection of the propounder of the will, that a guardian ad litem should be appointed for the purpose of receiving the citation and on such guardian service of citation should be effected. The fact that the citation was issued on the guardian and he did not appear and contest the proceedings does necessitate the appointment of a guardian ad litem. 35 C.W.N. 387=1931 C. 713. In a probate proceeding, the Court has no concern with the devolution of the property, but only with the point whether the will has been proved to be genuine and duly executed. 46 I.C. 117=3 Pat.L.J. 415. Different considerations arise when the testator is a Hindu and when he is Christian. And hence the law allows a discretion under S. 283 and that which the law expressly allows the Courts ought not by implication to take away. Therefore even where the will alters a devolution of property, it is not in every case that a special citation need be issued. 1933 S. 262. When the citation is discretionary, mere absence of such citation does not invalidate the grant, but is sufficient cause for enquiring into the genuineness of the will. 9 I.C. 354=13 Bom. L.R. 38. The word "interest" cannot cover the case of a mere reversioner; so the sisters of the deceased cannot object to the grant of a probate to the widow and the daughters of the deceased. 20 I.C. 342; 30 I.C. 161=19 C.W.N. 882. A simple creditor of a testator's estate is not a person having an interest in that estate which entitles a person to object the interest which entitles a person to object the the granting of probate of the will. The grant of probate must be an interest in the estate and not merely an interest in the result of the probate proceedings or "interest" in any remote sense of the term. 190 I.C. 362=1941 Pat. 151=22 Pat L.T. 649. Caveats against grant of probate or administration.

284. (1) Caveats against the grant of probate or administration may be lodged with the District Judge or a District Delegate.

(2) Immediately on any caveat being lodged with any District Delegate, he shall send a copy thereof to the District Judge.

(3) Immediately on a caveat being entered with the District Judge, a copy thereof shall be given to the District Delegate, if any, within whose jurisdiction it is alleged the deceased had a fixed place of abode at the time of his death, and to any other Judge or District Delegate to whom it may appear to the District Judge expedient to transmit the same.

Form of caveat.

(4) The caveat shall be made as nearly as circumstances admit in the form set forth in Schedule V.

After entry of caveat, no proceeding taken on petition until after notice to caveator.

285. No proceeding shall be taken on a petition for probate or letters of administration after a caveat against the grant thereof has been entered with the Judge or District Delegate to whom the application has been made or notice has been given of its entry with some other Delegate, until after such notice to the person by whom the same has been entered as the Court may think reasonable.

District Delegate when not to grant probate or administration.

286. A District Delegate shall not grant probate or letters of administration in any case in which there is contention as to the grant, or in which it otherwise appears to him that probate or letters of administration ought not to be granted in his Court.

Explanation.—"Contention" means the appearance of any one in person, or by his recognized agent, or by a pleader duly appointed to act on his behalf, to oppose the proceeding.

REVOCATION OF GRANT.—The grant of probate or letters of administration is a decree of a Court, and where it has been wrongly granted, an application can be made to the same Court which granted it to set it aside and a regular suit is not always necessary unless the grant is sought to be revoked on ground of the invalidity of the will or on the ground of any dispute as to its genuineness. There may therefore be either an application to revoke the grant or a substantive suit, but when the grant is revoked fresh proceedings have to be instituted in order to obtain proper representation to the estate of the deceased and that must be done by a petition under the Act. 35 Bom.L.R. 708=1933 B. 370. See also 1940 Cal. 236; 1938 Rang. 261 (F.B.).

In every case in which there is no contention, but it appears to the District Delegate doubtful whether the probate or letters of administration should or should not be granted, or when any question arises in relation to the grant, or application for the grant, of any probate or letters of administration, the District Delegate may, if he thinks proper, transmit a statement of the matter in question to the District Judge, who may direct the District Delegate to proceed in the matter of the application, according to such instructions as to the Judge may seem necessary, or may forbid any further proceeding by the District Delegate in relation to the matter of such application, leaving the party applying for the grant in question to make application to the Judge.

The Court may, on application made by petition and on being satisfied that the engagement of any such bond has not been kept, and upon such terms as to security or providing that the money received be paid into Court, or otherwise, as the Court may think fit, assign the same to some person, his executors or administrators, who shall thereupon be entitled to sue on the said bond in his or their own name or names as if the same had been originally given to him or them instead of to the Judge of the Court, and shall be entitled to recover thereon, as trustees for all persons interested, the full amount recoverable in respect of any breach thereof.

There is nothing in the Probate and Administration Act (now Succession Act) to suggest that a grant either of probate or letters of administration becomes, on revocation, void ab initio. SEC. 299.—Section is to be read with C.P. Code. 21 C. 539; 20 C. W. N. 472. S. 299 should be read as meaning that every order made by a District Judge by virtue of the powers conferred upon him by the Act is subject to appeal and that the rules of procedure under which the appeal must be brought are those contained in the C.P. Code applicable to appeals. The section cannot be read as limiting the right of appeal to such orders as are made appealable by the C.P. Code. Every order made by a District Judge by virtue of the powers conferred upon him by the Act is subject to an appeal to the High Court. 44 Bom.L.R. 603. Order under the section is appealable. See 33 I. C. 143=20 C.W.N. 28; 14 Pat. L. T. 285. There is no appeal from order assigning administration bond. 39 C. 563=16 C. W. N. 662. An order refusing to implead a person as defendant is not appealable. 2 A. 904; 13 C. 100; 18 C.L.J. 612; 24 C.W.N. 316. When a District Judge exercises his discretion under S. 271 he cannot be said to be making an order under the Act so as to give a right of appeal under S. 299. He is merely deciding to proceed with the application for probate and no formal order is really made by him. In such a case under S. 271, therefore no right of appeal is granted by S. 299. 44 Bom.L.R. 603. What to accompany memorandum of appeal, see 17 I. C. 99=16 C. L. J. 116. An order by a Senior Sub-Judge invested with powers of a District Judge for the grant of letters of administration is covered by S. 299. 38 P. L. R. 803=1936 L. 378. An appeal lies from an order refusing to set aside a dismissal for default of an application for grant of probate. 38 P. L. R. 263=1936 L. 712. See also 1936 Lah. 863. An appeal lies under S. 299 of the Succession Act irrespective of whether the order of the District Judge was passed in the course of interlocutory proceedings or whether it is a final order. 1930 O. 424. The order of a District Judge under S. 299 refusing to assign a bond should not be considered to be of a purely formal or interlocutory nature and as such not open to appeal. The order must be considered to be in some respects similar to one under S. 145, C.P. Code, and an order under that section is appealable; also order under S. 299 is appealable. 1936 L. 684. Under S. 299 an appeal lies from an order directing an executor to furnish fresh security for

SEC. 301.—See 7 Cut. L. T. 77; 29 B. 188. S. 301 deals with the power of a High Court to suspend, remove or discharge any private executor or administrator. Where an application is made by the manager of a temple for the removal of a person who is in the position of a trustee of a permanent trust created for the temple by a will, though styled an executor, it certainly is not a matter which could be agitated by means of a petition under S. 301 of the Act. The proper procedure would be by proceedings under S. 92, C. P. Code. 1938 A.L.J. 124=1938 All. 197. If the removal of an executor is sought and not an indirect restraint on him by merely getting the appointment of a receiver—the only remedy that is open is an application under S. 301 and not a suit. In an application under the section, the Court ought to enquire into the allegations made by the petitioner; it is not open for the Court to dismiss the application without any kind of enquiry. 50 M. 950 =1927 M. 994=53 M.L.J. 644. The power to remove an executor and to provide for a successor to his office is one conferred upon the High Court alone by S. 301, and such relief cannot be sought by regular suit. 37 P.L.R. 77. The expression "High Court" as used in S. 301 is not confined to the appellate side alone but also includes the High Court exercising original jurisdiction. An application for removing or discharging an executor under that section should be presented to the Judge in the original side who exercises testamentary jurisdiction. I. L. R. (1940) 1 Cal. 79=44 C.W.N. 258=1940 Cal. 264.

SEC. 302.—This clause is necessary as the provisions of the Act of 1865 relating to "executors of their own wrong" were not included in the Act of 1881. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) See 7 B. 381; 12 B. 638; 18 M. 443. The section gives ample power to the Court to settle questions arising between the executor and the legatees and between the legatees themselves, and

OF EXECUTORS OF THEIR OWN WRONG.

Executor of his own wrong.

303. A person who intermeddles with the estate of the deceased, or does any other act which belongs to the office of executor while there is no rightful executor or administrator in existence, thereby makes himself an executor of his own wrong.

Exceptions.—(1) Intermeddling with the goods of the deceased for the purpose of preserving them or providing for his funeral or for the immediate necessities of his family or property, does not make an executor of his own wrong.

(2) Dealing in the ordinary course of business with goods of the deceased received from another does not make an executor of his own wrong.

NOTES.

also power to construe a will whenever the Court is asked to do so. This is in accordance with the well-known English practice prevailing in the Court of Chancery. 1928 M. 356. District Court cannot give directions. 44 B. 682=57 I.C. 116=22 Bom.L.R. 396. The Court in exercising jurisdiction under S. 302 is acting in pursuance of the testamentary and intestate jurisdiction with which it is vested under cl. 34 of the Letters Patent. 56 C. 979. The Court would not be competent on an application under S. 302 to determine any disputed question of title, the jurisdiction of the Court under that section being confined to the issue of directions to the executor or administrator relating to the management and administration of the estate. 56 C. 979. The power of giving directions for the summary disposal of certain disputes, which could be the subject of a suit is vested in the High Court, but the exercise of that power is discretionary. Where the matter is complicated and many questions of law and fact will arise in giving any directions to the executor as to the legacy in favour of a legatee, the proper remedy is to bring a suit and not the petition under S. 302. 35 P.L.R. 307= 1934. L. 120. It is doubtful whether the High Court is competent, in an application under S. 302 to determine any disputed question of title inasmuch as the jurisdiction of the Court under the section is confined merely to the issue of directions to the executor or administrator relating to the management and administration of the estate. But assuming that the High Cour is competent to decide even disputed questions of title, it would be exercising its discretion wisely if it refuses to give a direction in favour of a party who does not come before it with a clear title and where the title set up by him can be more appropriately decided in a civil suit. A question whether a deed of surrender executed by a Hindu widow, a pardanashin lady, is valid and should be given effect to, cannot be properly dealt with in a proceeding under S. 302; where the application is in effect a suit for recovery of an estate of which the applicant alleges to have lost possession, in other words, virtually a suit in ejectment, it cannot be decided under S. 302 of the Act. 1940 Pat. 194.

Manohar Lall, J.—In a case where the parties are at variance as poles as under the Court should not embark upon deciding questions of title and fact in such a complicated dispute which can only be settled to the satisfaction of all parties in a properly constituted title suit. 20 Pat. Where the administrator of the estate is alive it is open to the heir of the legatee to apply for directions to the executor being issued by the Court in the matter of the legacy being ascertained. The applicant need not be driven to a fresh suit for that purpose. 37 C.W.N. 769=60 C. 1135=1933 C. 841. An application to recover an annuity payable under a will is maintainable under S. 302. CHAPTER VI.

OF THE POWERS OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR.

305. An executor or administrator has the same power to sue in respect of all causes of action that survive the deceased, and may exercise the same power for the recovery of debts as the deceased had when living.

In respect of causes of action surviving deceased

NOTES.

SECS. 303 AND 304.—Principle of these two sections is applicable also to cases not governed by this Act; 42 C. L. J. 280 (465). A legatee who is in possession of the property of the deceased or at any rate a major portion of it and is holding it adversely to the widow and the other legatee is liable to be sued as an executor de son tort. Ss. 303 and 304 now apply to Hindus as well. 114 I.C. 105=1929 S. 19.

SEC. 304.—Section is not exhaustive; 42 C.L.J. 280 (465). Where one of the heirs of the deceased entered into possession and collected the rents and profits and, when the person who obtained letters of administration sued him for an account, the former admittted having been executor de son tort held, that the suit was maintainable under S. 304; 30 Punj. L. R. 503=1929 L. 753. There is no rule of law that when an executor de son tort has paid his own debts, a creditor who has not been paid is entitled to claim out of the assets which were originally in the hands of executor de son tort a disproportionate payment towards his own debt. To the extent to which an executor de son tort pays lawful or valid debts of the deceased proportionately to the assets available, those payments are made "in due course of administration." To the extent to which he has paid certain creditors including himself more than the rateable share due to them, the payments having regard to the claims of other creditors who have not been paid at all, are clearly not made "in due course of administration", and he can be required to refund the excess. He cannot, however, be required to refund any amount which he has paid towards his own debt which is not in excess of the rateable amount to which he would be entitled. 1939 Mad. 662 =(1939) 1 M.L.J. 742. Mortgage suit for sale—Mortgagor dead at the time of suit—Letters of administration not taken out—Heirs intermeddling with the estate are liable as executors de son tort. 51 B. 771=29 Bom.L.R. 900.

SECS. 304 AND 212.—Relative scope of—S. 304 must qualify S. 212 of the Succession Act and the two provisions of law must be read together. S. 304 is a special provision allowing suits by a creditor against an executor of his own wrong to the extent of the assets which may have come to his hands. S. 212 hits suits to establish a right to a part of the property of intestate person. It begins. "No right to any part..... can be established." It does not say, "No remedy against any part of the property, etc." An unsecured creditor, of course, does not seek to establish any right to the property of the deceased but merely to have his debt paid out of it. The holder of mortgage security stands on the same footing. Therefore a suit by a mortgagee to recover his debt by sale of the mortgaged property in possession of the executor de son tort falls well within the purview of S. 304 and is not barred by S. 212. 1940 Rang.L.R. 485=1940 Rang. 178.

SEC. 305.—See the judgment in 3 M.H.C. R. 384 as to meaning of "cause of action."

306. All demands whatsoever and all rights to prosecute or defend any action or special proceeding existing in favour of or against a person at the time of his decease, survive to and against his executors or administrators; except causes of action for defamation, assault, as defined in the Indian Penal Code, or other personal injuries not causing the death of the party; and except also cases where, after the death of the party, the relief sought could not be enjoyed or granting it would be nugatory.

Demands and rights of action of or against deceased survive to and against executor or administrator.

Illustrations.

(i) A collision takes place on a railway in consequence of some neglect or default of an official, and a passenger is severely hurt, but not so as to cause death. He afterwards dies without having brought any action. The cause of action does not survive.

SEC. 306.—The general rule is that a right to prosecute an action survives and it is for the person claiming exemption from this rule to show that his case falls within the exception. An action against directors for loss caused by breach of their obligation survives. 160 I.C. 759=1936 L. 271. As to what rights and liabilities survive, see 2 B. 67; 36 B. 144. Personal contracts involving personal skill, ability, etc., do not make the executor liable. 17 C. 115; 30 C. 265. The right of a person to sue to set aside a compromise decree passed during his minority on the ground of fraud survives to his executors under the first part of S. 306. 46 C.W.N. 345. The heirs of a deceased party are not included in the expression "executors and administrators" as used (in S. 306. Therefore, under that section a cause of action does not survive to or against his heirs as such. 13 R. 385. See also I.L.R. (1939) All. 6=1938 All. 1=1938 A. L. J. 1002. Re. action in tort, see 37 I.A. 7; 2 L. 27; 44 M. 417; 40 M.L.J. 351; 4 Pat.L.J. 676; 36 A. 217=23 I.C. 143; 52 I.C. 348; 47 B. 716. The expression "personal injuries . . . . death" must be read along with Acts XII and XIII of 1855. 44 M. 357. A suit in tort for personal injury does not survive after the death of the person injured. According to S. 306, an action for personal injury not causing the death of the party does not survive. The word "personal" in S. 306 means all pesonal injuries in the commonly accepted use of the word "personal," and cannot be restricted merely to physical injuries to the person, and on this view the fact that the plaintiff had incurred some pecuniary loss will not cause the right to sue to survive. 130 I.C. 86=1931 N. 9. It does not include injuries of all descriptions caused by tortious acts; but it is used in the sence of bodily injury. 1935 L. 705; The expression means bodily or physical injuries as opposed to injuries to property or reputation and are plainly ejusdem generis with an "assault" and not with "defamation". Accordingly, a cause of action which is in respect of injury to the credit and reputation of the plaintiffs caused by the wrongful acts of the deceased defendant does not fall within the exceptions set out in S. 306, but under that section survives against the executors and administrators of his estate. 13 R. 385. A remedy for a wrongful act, which is not a mere tort but a breach of a quasi-contract, done by a deceased person, can be pursued against his legal representatives where property belonging to another person has been appropriated by the deceased and added to his estate. Such an action is not one excluded by S. 306. (17 C.W.N. 5, Rel. on.) 17 Lah. 262=1936 L. 268. In a suit for malicious prosecution, the plaintiff's right which is a mere right to sue for damages for a personal injury changes its character once it is merged in a decree. It then becomes a matter of record which is a right of higher nature. The rights and liabilities arising under a decree awarding damages for malicious prosecution therefore continue when the plaintiff dies during the pendency of an appeal against the decree, so far as the appeal is concerned, but as regards the cross-objections they abate. 30 N.L.R. 186=1934 N. 119. Where at the time of the death of the defendant, there is an action pending against him for damages for his negligence which resulted in the death of the husband of the plaintiff and it is an action allowed by the Fatal Accidents Act (XIII of 1855), according to the words of S. 306, the action survives against his executors and administrators, and hence the action can be continued against the legal representatives of the defendant. 57 M. 951= 67 M.L.J. 146. See also 53 C. 987=100 I.C. 286=1927 C. 277. The phrase "special proceeding" in S. 306 is an extremely wide one and there is nothing in the section to suggest that it must be a proceeding anologous to a suit. In any way "special proceedings" is wide enough to cover summary proceeding under S. 235 of the Companies Act. LL.R. (1939) A. 6=1938 A. L. J. 1002=1939 A. 1. As to applicability of S. 306 to criminal proceedings, see 1941 Rang.L.R. 224.

(ii) A sues for divorce. A dies. The cause of action does not survive to his representative.

Power of executor or administrator to dispose of property.

307. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), an executor or administrator has power to dispose of the property of the deceased, vested in him under section 211, either wholly or in part, in such manner as he may think fit.

NOTES.

Ss. 307 TO 315.—Scope and effect of.—S. 307 and the succeeding sections of the Succession Act make provisions for the powers of an administrator, and deal with the powers of the administrator as such, and in no way govern the powers of persons with life or absolute estates. It is not correct to hold that a widow having a life-estate under a will has no power to alienate the property but that a daughter having an absolute estate has such powers as given her by the Succession Act. The daughter as an administrator is limited to the powers granted to her under the Act, but her powers as having an absolute estate would be different. The same has to be said of a widow. 19 Pat. L. T. 234=1938 Pat. 301.

Sec. 307.—Sub-section (2) reproduces the provisions of S. 90 of the Act of 1881 which was inserted in that Act by S. 14 of Act VI of 1890. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "All the property of the deceased," meaning of. See 5 P. 80. As to the powers of the executor, see 91 I.C. 663=3 R. 443. S. 307 gives the executor powers at least as extensive as those of an executor in England before 1926. But the transferee who deals with a transferor, who happens to be an executor, not as executor but as owner is not entitled to the protection which the law affords to the transferees from executors acting qua executor. 60 C. 394=1933 C. 429. Duties and powers of executors. 1932 B. 191=34 Bom.L.R. 113; 1932 B. 604=34 Bom.L.R. 1365. It is obviously improper for an executor to utilise the general assets of the estate for the purposes of carrying on a business of the testator. Where a will left by a Mahomedan trader gives the executor power to pledge "the credit" of the business for the purpose of carrying it on, there is express limitation of the power to charge for the purposes of the business to the trade assets. The general assets of the estate cannot form part of the credit of the business unless there is an express power to charge them for the purposes of the business. I. L. R. (1940) Mad. 211=50 L.W. 550=1939 Mad. 922 =(1940) 1 M.L.J. 655 (2). There is no duty on the part of an intending tender to an executor to enquire into facts outside the will as they existed immediately prior to the testator's death. Much of the usefulness of the statutory power conferred by S. 307, on executors in India would be nullified, if such a duty of enquiry was imposed on parties dealing with executors. 67 I.A. 102=44 C.W.N. 289=1940 P.C. 30=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 795 (P.C.).

SCOPE OF SECTION.—He who relies upon a permission necessary under law for the validity of any transaction in his favour must discharge the burden strictly by proving that his case comes within the protection of law and complies with the requirements prescribed by law. An alienation with permission under the section does not operate as an absolute alienation, so as to exclude all enquiries into the question whether the permission was obtained through fraud or misrepresentation, although, no doubt, such enquiry would not be permissible in the absence of distinct allegations of fraud. 98 I.C. 6=1927 N. 57. The previous permission referred to in the section which enables an administrator to mortgage the estate implies that there should be a sanction by the Court of all the essential elements of the mortgage transaction; it follows that a mere bald sanction to mortgage is not sufficient. 98 I.C. 6=1927 N. 57. An alienation with permission of Court obtained by fraud or misrepresentation being voidable only, its avoidance could be done even by setting up a defence to a suit to enforce it, and not necessarily by bringing a suit to have it set aside. 1927 Nag. 57. Where a person who had obtained probate of a will applied for permission for sale of certain immovable property covered by the will and his application was not specifically headed as one under S. 307, the Court should not confine its attention to a consideration of the applicability of that section alone, but it should find out whether it had jurisdiction under any other provision of law to grant the permission sought for. 1935 A. 360.

(ii) The executor in the exercise of his discretion mortgages a part of the immovable estate of the deceased. The mortgage is valid.

(2) If the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, the general power conferred by sub-section (1) shall be subject to the following restrictions and conditions, namely:—

(i) The power of an executor to dispose of immovable property so vested in him is subject to any restriction which may be imposed in this behalf by the will appointing him, unless probate has been granted to him and the Court which granted the probate permits him by an order in writing, notwithstanding the restriction, to dispose of any immovable property specified in the order in a manner permitted by the order.

(ii) An administrator may not, without the previous permission of the Court by which the letters of administration were granted,—

(a) mortgage, charge or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise any immovable property for the time being vested in him under section 211, or

(b) lease any such property for a term exceeding five years.

(iii) A disposal of property by an executor or administrator in contravention of clause (i) or clause (ii), as the case may be, is voidable at the instance of any other person interested in the property.

NOTES.

Sec. 307 (2).—The object of S. 307 (2) (ii) is to enable the District Judge as the Court of testamentary jurisdiction to see that the transfer applied for is necessary in the interest of the administration of the estate. If it is in the interests of the administrator that the property should be converted into money and invested in the Government promissory notes, it may institute a suit under S. 92 (C.P. Code) or take such other steps as they might be advised. But an application to the District Judge in his testamentary jurisdiction for permission to sell the property bequeathed is entirely a wrong method, as the judge has no jurisdiction to pass orders for sale. 53 A. 422 =1931 A. 212. Under S. 307, a Hindu executor is entitled to deal with the property of the testator in the same manner as the owner himself could have dealt with it, unless his powers are restricted or limited by the terms of the will. If his powers are so restricted, he cannot dispose of immovable property unless he obtains permission of the Court; the restriction upon the powers of an executor to deal with immovable property may be either express or implied. 39 Bom.L.R. 1094=1938 Bom. 71. Under S. 307 an executor has, no doubt, the power to dispose of the property for all purposes binding on the estate and even where the executor deals with the property for purposes not strictly binding on the estate, the alienation cannot be questioned so as to defeat the bona fide alienee who has no notice of the fact that the executor was using his powers for purposes not binding upon the estate. But where the alienation is made for purposes not binding upon the estate and the alienee has notice of the fact, the principle does not apply. 128 I.C. 689=1930 M. 956=59 M. L.J. 596. (3) Before any probate or letters of administration is or are granted in such a case, there shall be endorsed thereon or annexed thereto a copy of sub-section (1) and clauses (i) and (iii) of sub-section (2) or of sub-section (1) and clauses (ii) and (iii) of sub-section (2), as the case may be.

(4) A probate or letters of administration shall not be rendered invalid by reason of the endorsement or annexure required by sub-section (3) not having been made thereon or attached thereto, nor shall the absence of such an endorsement or annexure authorise an executor or administrator to act otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this section.

General powers of administration.

308. An executor or administrator may, in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other powers of expenditure lawfully exercisable by him, incur expenditure—

(a) on such acts as may be necessary for the proper care or management of any property belonging to any estate administered by him, and

(b) with the sanction of the High Court, on such religious, charitable and other objects, and on such improvements, as may be reasonable and proper in the case of such property.

NOTES.

P.C. 261=50 M.L.J. 644 (P.C.). Even after the estate has been completely administered, the Probate Court has jurisdiction to grant permission to the administratrix to sell the property. The order may be improper but it is not a nullity and the purchaser at the sale in pursuance of the order is not defeated unless fraud is proved. 36 C.W.N. 744=55 C.L.J. 535=1932 C. 828. Though according to the Mahomedan Law, a Mahomedan cannot dispose of by will more than one-third of the property after payment of his debts and funeral expenses and the remaining two-thirds must go to his heirs; unless the heirs consent to the provisions of the will, the matter is now governed by S. 211 of the Succession Act, under which the property of the testator vests in the executor and can be sold and conveyed by him under S. 307 if there is no restriction by the will on his power of alienation. 33 Bom.L.R. 1056=1931 B. 533. It is a well settled principle that where an unauthorised sale by an executor or administrator is set aside, a bona fide purchaser who is deprived of the property purchased by him is entitled in equity to be reimbursed for any expenditure incurred by him which has the effect of improving the permanent value of the property. If the transferee incurs expenditure out of caprice or mere whim or for luxurious purposes, the ultimate owner is not bound. But if the result of the improvement is to add to the paramount value of the property, then a right arises in equity for restitution or re-imbursement in favour of the transferee in respect of the expenditure incurred by him in that behalf. But the ultimate owner is entitled, in calculating the amount of compensation to be paid to the transferee, to credit against the latter the rents and profits of the property realised by the transferee. 39 Bom. If the party is unable to make such restitution, the only other course for the Court is to allow the mortgagee to enforce his mortgage against the estate. 9 R. 34=1931 R. 277.

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE DUTIES OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR.

316. It is the duty of an executor to provide funds for the performance of the necessary funeral ceremonies of the deceased in a manner suitable to his condition, if he has left property sufficient for the purpose.

As to deceased's funeral.

317. (1) An executor or administrator shall, within six months from the grant of probate or letters of administration, or within such further time as the Court which granted the probate or letters may appoint, exhibit in that Court an inventory containing a full and true estimate of all the property in possession, and all the credits, and also all the debts owing by any person to which the executor or administrator is entitled in that character; and shall in like manner, within one year from the grant or within such further time as the said Court may appoint, exhibit an account of the estate, showing the assets which have come to his hands and the manner in which they have been applied or disposed of.

Inventory and account.

(2) The High Court may prescribe the form in which an inventory or account under this section is to be exhibited.

(3) If an executor or administrator, on being required by the Court to exhibit an inventory or account under this section, intentionally omits to comply with the requisition, he shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 176 of the Indian Penal Code.

Sec. 316.—As to the suitableness of expenditure, see 1 Knapp. 245. On this section, see also 48 I.C. 295=28 C.L.J. 271.

Sec. 317.—The appointment of an auditor for the checking and examination of the accounts and for local inquiries about income and expenditure is beyond the scope of the authority of Court under S. 317. The Court has, however, the right to see that the accounts and inventories filed prima facie comply with the requirements of the section. 7 O.W.N. 616=1930 O. 424. As to what an inventory should contain, see 43 I.A. 236=41 C. 556=26 M.L.J. 56 (P.C.). The term "assets" includes all the property of the deceased. 38 Ch. D. 609; 31 C. 572; 7 M.L.J. 123. The omission to exhibit accounts renders him liable to prosecution. 2 C.W.N. 597; 33 C.L.J. 252. As to duty to render accounts, see also 45 I. C. 333; 31 I.C. 499; 32 I.C. 554; 44 I.C. 58; 35 I.C. 950=9 Bur.L.T. 148. The practice of the Bombay High Court has been to require the executor taking out probate to file an inventory and accounts with the Testamentary Registrar and not with the Commissioner for taking accounts. Such inventory and accounts filed under S. 317 should, so far as the proceedings on the testamentary side are concerned, are final. The protection afforded to parties interested in the will is that if the inventory and the accounts are intentionally false in any particular, the executor or administrator makes himself liable to punishment under the Penal Code, the other remedy open to the interested parties is to file an action against the executor or administrator questioning the correctness of the accounts. 29 Bom.L.R. 683=1927 B. 438. There is no warrant for saying that in every case the account which the executor is to file under S. 317 must be the account for one year. Where the executor did not file accounts within one year from the grant of the probate and did not obtain from Court any extension of time, the probate Court has jurisdiction to direct him to file an account of the estate not for one year only but for the whole period extending from the date of the grant of the probate till the date when it is filed in Court. 43 C.W.N. 754. The Court which is seized of the proceedings under Ss. 301 and 302 in relation to administration has every right to take cognizance of and scrutinize the accounts filed under S. 317 suo motu and particularly so when it is moved by an application under Ss. 301 and 302 in which it is essentially necessary for it to do so in order to see whether the executor has so misconducted himself as to make it necessary for him to be removed. 41 P. L. R. 872=1939 Lah. 463. Under S. 317 an executor paid statutory duties to perform and until he has done that he would not divest himself of the character of executor. Burden of proving whether he had done everything necessary in the administration of the estate is on the executor and he has no excuse for neglecting the elementary precaution of

(4) The exhibition of an intentionally false inventory or account under this section shall be deemed to be an offence under section 193 of that Code.

Inventory to include property in any part of British India in certain cases.

318. In all cases where a grant has been made of probate or letters of administration intended to have effect throughout the whole of British India, the executor or administrator shall include in the inventory of the effects of the deceased all his movable and immovable property situate in British India, and the value of such property situate in each province shall be separately stated in such inventory, and the probate or letters of administration shall be chargeable with a fee corresponding to the entire amount or value of the property affected thereby wheresoever situate within British India.

As to property of, and debts owing to, deceased.

319. The executor or administrator shall collect, with reasonable diligence, the property of the deceased and the debts that were due to him at the time of his death.

Expenses to be paid before all debts.

320. Funeral expenses to a reasonable amount, according to the degree and quality of the deceased, and death-bed charges, including fees for medical attendance, and board and lodging for one month previous to his death, shall be paid before all debts.

Expenses to be paid next after such expenses.

321. The expenses of obtaining probate or letters of administration including the costs incurred for or in respect of any judicial proceedings that may be necessary for administering the estate, shall be paid next after the funeral expenses and death-bed charges.

Wages for certain services to be next paid, and then other debts.

322. Wages due for services rendered to the deceased within three months next preceding his death by any labourer, artisan or domestic servant shall next be paid, and then the other debts of the deceased according to their respective priorities (if any).

Secs. 322 and 323: CROWN DEBTS—PRIORITY.—The Crown is not bound by Ss. 322 and 323 of the Act. It enjoys a prerogative right of preference in payment to all its subjects of debts of equal degree and except in so far as the Legislature has

323. Save as aforesaid, no creditor shall have a right of priority over another; but the executor or administrator shall pay all such debts as he knows of, including his own equally and rateably as far as the assets of the deceased will extend.

Save as aforesaid, all debts to be paid equally and rateably.

Application of movable property to payment of debts where domicile not in British India.

324. (1) If the domicile of the deceased was not in British India, the application of his movable property to the payment of his debts is to be regulated by the law of British India.

(2) No creditor who has received payment of a part of his debt by virtue of sub-section (1) shall be entitled to share in the proceeds of the immovable estate of the deceased unless he brings such payment into account for the benefit of the other creditors.

(3) This section shall not apply where the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

The creditors holding instruments under seal receive half of their debts out of the proceeds of the movable estate. The proceeds of the immovable estate are to be applied in payment of the debts on instruments not under seal until one-half of such debts has been discharged. This will leave 5,000 rupees which are to be distributed rateably amongst all the creditors without distinction, in proportion to the amount which may remain due to them.

thought fit to interfere, this rule is of universal application. The Succession Act does not anywhere touch the prerogative of the Crown, and the scope of the Crown prerogative falls under the definition of "any other law for the time being in force" in S. 217 of the Act. Debts, not trading debts but taxes, due to the Crown fall outside the scope of the Act. An administrator should approach his task with the knowledge that the primary task is laid upon him of discharging the obligations of the deceased in respect to his payment of taxation before he turns to see who are the ordinary creditors and in what order they should be paid. 1939 Rang.L.R. 701=1940 Rang. 36.

Sec. 323.—S. 323 merely lays down a rule of procedure that must be followed by an executor or administrator. It is clearly not applicable when a creditor who has obtained a judgment and decree against the estate of a deceased person applies to execute the decree against the estate in the hands of the legal representative of the deceased. Rateable distribution under S. 323 is allowed only among creditors of whose existence the executor is aware; his liability to distribute the assets pari passu is limited to the debts which he knows of. 38 Bom.L.R. 864=1936 B. 423. Under S. 323 the executor is bound, when the assets are insufficient to pay the debts of the deceased in full, to pay all the creditors equally and rateably and to pay neither more nor less. He has no power to prefer one creditor to another or to mortgage the estate or any part of the assets for making any payment in excess of the rateable and equal payment due to the creditor. A mortgage executed by the executor to one creditor in preference to the rest, will not bind the latter. 37 Bom.L.R. 642=1935 B. 385. As to rights of judgment-creditor, see 12 B.L.R. 287; 22 M. 194; 29 B. 96; 11 Bom. L.R. 250; 18 I.C. 510=6 L.B.R. 158. He is personally liable if he makes improper distribution. 8 B.H.C.R. 20 (O.C.J.) The equal and rateable distribution is to be made out of assets and not income. 25 C. 54; 10 C. 929. Sec. 325: SCOPE OF SECTION.—S. 325 which lays down a rule of priority does not, however, stand in the way, in an admittedly solvent estate, of the executor paying a le-

Executor or administrator not bound to pay legacies without indemnity.

326. If the estate of the deceased is subject to any contingent liabilities, an executor or administrator is not bound to pay any legacy without a sufficient indemnity to meet the liabilities whenever they may become due.

Abatement of general legacies.

327. If the assets, after payment of debts, necessary expenses and specific legacies, are not sufficient to pay all the general legacies in full, the latter shall abate or be diminished in equal proportions, and, in the absence of any direction to the contrary in the will, the executor has no right to pay one legatee in preference to another, or to retain any money on account of a legacy to himself or to any person for whom he is a trustee.

Non-abatement of specific legacy when assets sufficient to pay debts.

328. Where there is a specific legacy, and the assets are sufficient for the payment of debts and necessary expenses, the thing specified must be delivered to the legatee without any abatement.

Right under demonstrative legacy when assets sufficient to pay debts and necessary expenses.

329. Where there is a demonstrative legacy, and the assets are sufficient for the payment of debts and necessary expenses, the legatee has a preferential claim for payment of his legacy out of the fund from which the legacy is directed to be paid until such fund is exhausted, and if, after the fund is exhausted, part of the legacy still remains unpaid, he is entitled to rank for the remainder against the general assets as for a legacy of the amount of such unpaid remainder.

Rateable abatement of specific legacies.

330. If the assets are not sufficient to answer the debts and the specific legacies, an abatement shall be made from the latter rateably in proportion to their respective amounts.

Illustration.

A has bequeathed to B a diamond ring valued at 500 rupees, and to C a horse, valued at 1,000 rupees. It is found necessary to sell all the effects of the testator; and his assets, after payment of debts, are only 1,000 rupees. Of this sum rupees 333-5-4 are to be paid to B, and rupees 666-10-8 to C.

NOTES.

gatee before he has discharged the debts of the deceased. The question has to be considered from the standpoint of the solvency or the insolvency of the estate. As a matter of general principle, it is the duty no doubt of an executor first to ascertain the position of the estate and unless it is clear to him the estate is solvent and there is no risk of creditors being prejudiced, not to pay the legacies before the debts have been discharged. The same principle applies where there has been an administration decree. This rule should not be departed from even were the legatees to furnish security before drawing the amount. 38 C.W.N. 457 =1934 C. 609. Under S. 325, the debts of the deceased take priority over all the legacies. The only persons that are protected are bona fide purchasers for value without notice. 42 P.L.R. 379. Debts even if they ripen into decrees do not create charge. 10 C.W.N. 38. If testator's intention as to legacies is not clear, he can ask for construction of the will. 12 B. 185; 18 B. 1.

Secs. 325 and 361.—Under S. 325 the payment of the debts of the deceased takes precedence over the legacies. A person who has obtained a decree against the deceased can, therefore, proceed against the properties disposed of by the will of the deceased irrespective of the fact whether the other assets of the deceased are or are not sufficient for the payment of the decretal amount. 42 P.L.R. 427=1940 Lah. 348.

Sec. 326.—He can ask for indemnity. 45 Ch. D. 320; 2 M.L.J. 182; 10 Eq. 477. Under S. 328 apart from deductions necessary for debts and expenses, a specific legacy must be delivered to the legatee without any abatement. If the will indicates that another legacy is to be paid out of the funds included in a specific legacy, this may create a charge thereon. It is dubious whether the mere absence of a general fund out of which a general legacy can be paid would be sufficient to warrant the inference that that legacy is to be paid out of the funds earmarked as a specific legacy to others. 52 L. W. 71=1940 Mad. 785= (1940) 1 M.L.J. 913.

Sec. 329.—See 29 M. 155; 19 C. 444; 9 B. 491; 13 Bom.L.R. 319=11 I.C. 350.

331. For the purpose of abatement, a legacy for life, a sum appropriated by the will to produce an annuity, and the value of an annuity when no sum has been appropriated to produce it, shall be treated as general legacies.

Legacies treated as general for purpose of abatement.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF ASSENT TO A LEGACY BY EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR.

332. The assent of the executor or administrator is necessary to complete a legatee's title to his legacy.

Assent necessary to complete legatee's title.

Illustrations.

(i) A by his will bequeaths to B his Government paper which is in deposit with the Imperial Bank of India. The Bank has no authority to deliver the securities, nor B a right to take possession of them, without the assent of the executor.

(ii) A by his will has bequeathed to C his house in Calcutta in the tenancy of B. C is not entitled to receive the rents without the assent of the executor or administrator.

333. (1) The assent of the executor or administrator to a specific bequest shall be sufficient to divest his interest as executor or administrator therein, and to transfer the subject of the bequest of the legatee, unless the nature or the circumstances of the property require that it shall be transferred in a particular way.

Effect of executor's assent to specific legacy.

NOTES.

Sec. 331.—See 11 I.C. 350=13 Bom.L.R. 319.

Sec. 332.—Strict interpretation of section would lead to the absurdity that suit by legatee is unsustainable unless executor gives consent. 37 B. 211. Executor is not bound to pay legacy before he has taken an account of assets and liabilities. 2 M.L.J. 182. In a suit for legacy assent of executor must appear in the face of the plaint. 17 C. 387. As to effect of assent, see 50 C. 171=36 C.L.J. 21=1923 C. 21. After assent, the executor cannot deal further with the property. See 47 I.C. 289=28 C.L.J. 141; 54 I.C. 321=6 O.L.J. 526. Although the assent of the executor is necessary to complete a legatee's title to his legacy, the executor is not entitled to withhold his consent arbitrarily, and if he does so, the legatee is competent to bring a suit to recover the property bequeathed to him by joining the executor with the transferee to whom the property may have been transferred by the executor. 1931 N. 69=134 I.C. 259. No doubt as a protection to the executor, the law ordains that every legatee, whether general or specific, and whether of chattels real or personal, must obtain the executor's assent to the legacy before his title as legatee can be complete and perfect; before such assent, however, the legatee has an inchoate right to the legacy such as is transmissible to his own personal representatives in case of his death before it is paid or delivered. 114 I.C. 105=1929 S. 19. On this section, see also 146 I.C. 633=1933 L. 805, cited under S. 216, supra.

Secs. 332 and 335.—It is well settled that where a legatee under a will mortgages an immovable property devised to him by the testator before obtaining the assent of the executor to the legacy, the property can form the subject-matter of a valid mortgage, and the mortgagee is entitled to cut off the equity of redemption. Although the legatee has no property in the legacy by the devise until the assent of the executor is obtained, he has an interest in it which is capable of being transferred. Whether the executor has assented to the legacy must be decided on the facts and circumstances of each case. Where it is proved that all the outgoings as provided by the testator in his will have been paid off, and there is no proof that any of the specific legacies remains to be paid out, and the executor who is also a residuary legatee under the will mortgages in his individual capacity as a legatee the properties bequeathed to him applying the mortgage-money to his own use, it must be inferred that the executor has assented to the legacy in his own favour on the date of the mortgage by him. The fact that no probate was ever obtained by the executor is no ground for holding that the assent given by him to himself as a residuary legatee is no assent in the eye of the law. The estate of the testator vests in the executor, if he accepts office, from the date of the testator's death, and he has the powers of an executor even though probate has not been obtained; and he is therefore competent to assent to the legacy without obtaining probate. 18 Pat. 828=20 Pat.L.T. 757=1940 Pat. 40.

Sec. 333.—After assent, executor cannot deal with it. 28 C.L.J. 141. See also (1909) 2 Ch. 180. The executor and specific legatee died after fully administering the estate. His assent to his legacy being presumed, his heirs mortgaged the legacy to the plaintiff. Subsequently, in proceedings for revocation, a decree for costs was passed against the estate and, in execution of that decree, the right, title and interest of

Illustrations.

(i) A horse is bequeathed. The executor requests the legatee to dispose of it, or a third party proposes to purchase the horse from the executor, and he directs him to apply to the legatee. Assent to the legacy is implied.

(ii) The interest of a fund is directed by the will to be applied for the maintenance of the legatee during his minority. The executor commences so to apply it. This is an assent to the whole of the bequest.

(iii) A request is made of a fund to A and after him to B. The executor pays the interest of the fund to A. This is an implied assent to the bequest to B.

(iv) Executors die after paying all the debts of the testator, but before satisfaction of specific legacies. Assent to the legacies may be presumed.

(v) A person to whom a specific article has been bequeathed takes possession of it and retains it without any objection on the part of the executor. His assent may be presumed.

Conditional assent.

334. The assent of an executor or administrator to a legacy may be conditional, and if the condition is one which he has a right to enforce, and it is not performed, there is no assent.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B his lands of Sultanpur, which at the date of the will, and at the death of A, were subject to a mortgage for 10,000 rupees. The executor assents to the bequest on condition that B shall within a limited time pay the amount due on the mortgage at the testator's death. The amount is not paid. There is no assent.

(ii) The executor assents to a bequest on condition that the legatee shall pay him a sum of money. The payment is not made. The assent is nevertheless valid.

Assent of executor to his own legacy.

335. (1) When the executor or administrator is a legatee, his assent to his own legacy is necessary to complete his title to it, in the same way as it is required when the bequest is to another person, and his assent may, in like manner, be expressed or implied.

(2) Assent shall be implied if in his manner of administering the property, he does any act which is referable to his character of legatee and is not referable to his character of executor or administrator.

Illustration.

An executor takes the rent of a house or the interest of Government securities bequeathed to him and applies it to his own use. This is assent.

Effect of executor's assent.

336. The assent of the executor or administrator to a legacy gives effect to it from the death of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A legatee sells his legacy before it is assented to by the executor. The executor's subsequent assent operates for the benefit of the purchaser and completes his title to the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B with interest from his death. The executor does not assent to his legacy until the expiration of a year from A's death. B is entitled to interest from the death of A.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE PAYMENT AND APPORTIONMENT OF ANNUITIES.

Commencement of annuity when no time fixed by will.

338. Where an annuity is given by a will, and no time is fixed for its commencement, it shall commence from the testator's death, and the first payment shall be made at the expiration of a year next after that event.

When annuity, to be paid quarterly or monthly, first falls due.

339. Where there is a direction that the annuity shall be paid quarterly or monthly, the first payment shall be due at the end of the first quarter or first month, as the case may be, after the testator's death; and shall, if the executor or administrator thinks fit, be paid when due, but the executor or administrator shall not be bound to pay it till the end of the year.

Dates of successive payments when first payment directed to be made within a given time or on day certain; death of annuitant before date of payment.

340. (1) Where there is a direction that the first payment of an annuity shall be made within one month or any other division of time from the death of the testator, or on a day certain, the successive payments are to be made on the anniversary of the earliest day on which the will authorizes the first payment to be made.

(2) If the annuitant dies in the interval between the times of payment, an apportioned share of the annuity shall be paid to his representative.

CHAPTER X.

OF THE INVESTMENT OF FUNDS TO PROVIDE FOR LEGACIES.

Investment of sum bequeathed where legacy, not specific, given for life.

341. Where a legacy, not being a specific legacy, is given for life, the sum bequeathed shall at the end of the year be invested in such securities as the High Court may, by any general rule, authorize or direct, and the proceeds thereof shall be paid to the legatee as the same shall accrue due.

Investment of general legacy, to be paid at future time; disposal of intermediate interest.

342. (1) Where a general legacy is given to be paid at a future time, the executor or administrator shall invest a sum sufficient to meet it in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341.

(2) The intermediate interest shall form part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Procedure when no fund charged with, or appropriated to, annuity.

343. Where an annuity is given and no fund is charged with its payment or appropriated by the will to answer it, a Government annuity of the specified amount shall be purchased, or, if no such annuity can be obtained, then a sum sufficient to produce the annuity shall be invested for that purpose in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341.

Transfer to residuary legatee of contingent bequest.

344. Where a bequest is contingent, the executor or administrator is not bound to invest the amount of the legacy, but may transfer the whole residue of the estate to the residuary legatee, if any, on his giving sufficient security for the payment of the legacy if it shall become due.

NOTES.

Sec. 340.—See 45 I.C. 664=7 L. W. 513.

Sec. 343.—As to the principle of section, see (1907) 2 Ch. 8; (1909) 1 Ch. 276.

Investment of residue bequeathed for life without direction to invest in particular securities.

345. (1) Where the testator has bequeathed the residue of his estate to a person for life without any direction to invest it in any particular securities, so much thereof as is not at the time of the testator's decease invested in securities of the kind mentioned in section 341 shall be converted into money and invested in such securities.

(2) This section shall not apply if the deceased was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

Investment of residue bequeathed for life with direction to invest in specified securities.

346. Where the testator has bequeathed the residue of his estate to a person for life with a direction that it shall be invested in certain specified securities, so much of the estate as is not at the time of his death invested in securities of the specified kind shall be converted into money and invested in such securities.

Time and manner of conversion and investment.

347. Such conversion and investment as are contemplated by Ss. 345 and 346 shall be made at such times and in such manner as the executor or administrator thinks fit, and, until such conversion and investment are completed, the person who would be for the time being entitled to the income of the fund when so invested shall receive interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum upon the market-value (to be computed as at the date of the testator's death) of such part of the fund as has not been so invested:

Provided that the rate of interest prior to completion of investment shall be six per cent. per annum when the testator was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person.

Procedure where minor entitled to immediate payment or possession of bequest, and no direction to pay to person on his behalf.

348. (1) Where, by the terms of a bequest, the legatee is entitled to the immediate payment or possession of the money or thing bequeathed, but is a minor, and there is no direction in the will to pay it to any person on his behalf, the executor or administrator shall pay or deliver the same into the Court of the District Judge, by whom or by whose District Delegate the probate was, or letters of administration with the will annexed were, granted, to the account of the legatee, unless the legatee is a ward of the Court of Wards.

(2) If the legatee is a ward of the Court of Wards, the legacy shall be paid to the Court of Wards to his account.

(3) Such payment into the Court of the District Judge, or to the Court of Wards, as the case may be, shall be a sufficient discharge for the money so paid.

(4) Money when paid in under this section shall be invested in the purchase of Government securities, which, with the interest thereon, shall be transferred or paid to the person entitled thereto, or otherwise applied for his benefit, as the Judge of the Court of Wards, as the case may be, may direct.

CHAPTER XI.

OF THE PRODUCE AND INTEREST OF LEGACIES.

Legatee's title to produce of specific legacy.

349. The legatee of a specific legacy is entitled to the clear produce thereof, if any, from the testator's death.

NOTES.

Sec. 345.—The section is based on Howe v. Lord Dartmouth, 7 Ves. 137 and is to benefit the legatees. (1907) 1 Ch. 22. Rule does not apply if there is an indication that it is to be enjoyed in specie. 8 Ch.D. 101; (1899) 2 Ch. 336; (1909) 2 Ch. 111.

Sec. 347.—Postponement of conversion is allowed for a reasonable time. (1914) 1 Ch. 192; 36 Ch.D. 42.

Sec. 349.—Interest runs from one year after testator's death or legacies to be Exception.—A specific bequest, contingent in its terms, does not comprise the produce of the legacy between the death of the testator and the vesting of the legacy. The clear produce of it forms part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths his flock of sheep to B. Between the death of A and delivery by his executor the sheep are shorn or some of the ewes produce lambs. The wool and lambs are the property of B.

(ii) A bequeaths his Government securities to B, but postpones the delivery of them till the death of C. The interest which falls due between the death of A and the death of C belongs to B, and must, unless he is a minor, be paid to him as it is received.

(iii) The testator bequeaths all his four per cent. Government promissory notes to A when he shall complete the age of 18. A, if he completes that age, is entitled to receive the notes, but the interest which accrues in respect of them between the testator's death and A's completing 18, form part of the residue.

Residuary legatee's title to produce of residuary fund.

350. The legatee under a general residuary bequest is entitled to the produce of the residuary fund from the testator's death.

Exception.—A general residuary bequest contingent in its terms does not comprise the income which may accrue upon the fund bequeathed between the death of the testator and the vesting of the legacy. Such income goes as undisposed of.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator bequeaths the residue of his property to A, a minor, to be paid to him when he shall complete the age of 18. The income from the testator's death belongs to A.

(ii) The testator bequeaths the residue of his property to A when he shall complete the age of 18. A, if he completes that age, is entitled to receive the residue. The income which has accrued in respect of it since the testator's death goes as undisposed of.

Interest when no time fixed for payment of general legacy.

351. Where no time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from expiration of one year from the testator's death.

Exception.—(1) Where the legacy is bequeathed in satisfaction of a debt, interest runs from the death of the testator.

(2) Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator.

(3) Where a sum is bequeathed to a minor with a direction to pay for his maintenance out of it, interest is payable from the death of the testator.

Interest when time fixed.

352. Where a time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from the time so fixed. The interest up to such time forms part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Exception.—Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee and the legatee is a minor, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator, unless a specific sum is given by the will for maintenance or unless the will contains a direction to the contrary.

Rate of interest.

353. The rate of interest shall be four per cent. per annum in all cases except when the testator was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, in which case it shall be six per cent. per annum.

No interest on arrears of annuity within first year after testator's death.

354. No interest is payable on the arrears of an annuity within the first year from the death of the testator, although a period earlier than the expiration of that year may have been fixed by the will for making the first payment of the annuity.

Interest on sum to be invested to produce annuity.

355. Where a sum of money is directed to be invested to produce an annuity, interest is payable on it from the death of the testator.

CHAPTER XII.

OF THE REFUNDING OF LEGACIES.

Refund of legacy paid under Court's orders.

356. When an executor or administrator has paid a legacy under the order of a Court, he is entitled to call upon the legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

No refund if paid voluntarily.

357. When an executor or administrator has voluntarily paid a legacy, he cannot call upon a legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

Refund when legacy has become due on performance of condition within further time allowed under section 137.

358. When the time prescribed by the will for the performance of a condition has elapsed, without the condition having been performed, and the executor or administrator has thereupon, without fraud, distributed the assets; in such case, if further time has been allowed under section 137 for the performance of the condition, and the condition has been performed accordingly, the legacy cannot be claimed from the executor or administrator, but those to whom he has paid it are liable to refund the amount.

When each legtaee compellable to refund in proportion.

359. When the executor or administrator has paid away the assets in legacies, and he is afterwards obliged to discharge a debt of which he had no previous notice, he is entitled to call upon each legatee to refund in proportion.

Distribution of assets.

360. Where an executor or administrator has given such notices as the High Court may, by any general rule, prescribe or, if no such rule has been made, as the High Court would give in an administration suit, for creditors and others to send in to him their claims against the estate of the deceased, he shall, at the expiration of the time

---

NOTES.

Sec. 353.—There is a statutory right to recover interest under S. 353, and the fact that a claimant waits for several years before he comes to Court is no ground for refusing interest, if his claim is within time. But the question of interest pendente lite and future interest is entirely within the discretion of the Court, and an appellate Court will not interfere with the discretion exercised by the trial Court, on the mere ground that that Court has not given any reason for the award of such interest or the refusal to award the same. 17 Pat. 350=19 Pat.L.T. 202=1938 Pat. 600.

Sec. 355.—See 16 C. 549; 24 C.W.N. 592.

SEC. 360, PROVISO.—The proviso to S. 360 does not create a right, but it saves one if the statute has given it. The expression "follow the assets" is one which is commonly used in cases of trust property. A creditor has got the right to follow the assets in the hands of legatees. But a creditor who has been vigilant and comes forward in an administration and takes dividends under the order of Court cannot be made to suffer in favour of another creditor who has not been vigilant and has not come forward in time to nistration issued to him. And before letters therein named for sending in claims, be at liberty to distribute the assets, or any part thereof, in discharge of such lawful claims as he knows of, and shall not be liable for the assets so distributed to any person of whose claim he shall not have had notice at the time of such distribution:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right of any creditor or claimant to follow the assets, or any part thereof, in the hands of the persons who may have received the same respectively.

Creditor may call upon legatee to refund.

361. A creditor who has not received payment of his debt may call upon a legatee who has received payment of his legacy to refund, whether the assets of the testator's estate were or were not sufficient at the time of his death to pay both debts and legacies; and whether the payment of the legacy by the executor or administrator was voluntary or not.

When legatee, not satisfied or compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one paid in full to refund.

362. If the assets were sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not received payment of his legacy, or who has been compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one who has received payment in full to refund, whether the legacy were paid to him with or without suit, although the assets have subsequently become deficient by the wasting of the executor.

When unsatisfied legatee must first proceed against executor, if solvent.

363. If the assets were not sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not received payment of his legacy must, before he can call on a satisfied legatee to refund, first proceed against the executor or administrator if he is solvent; but if the executor or administrator is insolvent or not liable to pay, the unsatisfied legatee can oblige each satisfied legatee to refund in proportion.

NOTES.

claim his debt. A creditor who has not got his dividend has a remedy to come in under the administration decree itself and claim a rateable distribution at any time, unless he is guilty of gross delay or laches. But he has no right to keep silent and after the distribution of assets sue the other creditors for refund of part of the dividends received by them. The proviso to S. 360 only saves a right, which the legislature gives to the creditor when he finds that the estate has been distributed by the administrator properly and enables the creditor to proceed against the legatees. 38 Bom. L. R. 864= 1936 B. 423. When an executor of an estate, whose assets are not sufficient to pay all the creditors in full, executes a mortgage to one creditor, in discharge of the whole debt due to him, it is a breach of the duty cast on the executor by S. 323. It is open to the other creditors in such a case, even after the mortgagee creditor has obtained a decree on the mortgage, to sue for a declaration that the mortgage and the decree passed thereon are not binding on them and would give the mortgagee no priority over their claims against the estate, and to claim rateable distribution of the proceeds of the estate along with the creditor who has obtained the decree on his mortgage. The executor is not a necessary party to such an action. "Distribution" in S. 360 is not restricted to payment of legacies only; it covers also payments in discharge of the claims of creditors also. The proviso to S. 360 only restricts the effect of the notices to the liability of the executor alone; it leaves the other rights untouched. The right of a creditor to follow or claimant to follow the assets is not prejudiced. 37 Bom.L.R. 642=1935 B. 385.

SEC. 361.—If one executor, who is also a residuary legatee, sells or mortgages one item to a bona fide purchaser for value, it is valid against any unsatisfied creditor. (1896) 1 Ch. 968; 35 I.A. 130. But it is not valid against an unsatisfied legatee. 12 C.W. N. 993. A claim for refund by an unpaid creditor based upon S. 361 cannot be resisted by a specific legatee on the ground that there is property not specifically bequeathed available to satisfy the creditor's claim. The right of a creditor to follow the assets in the hands of a legatee is a right which has to be exercised by a separate suit. But where the executor is himself the specific legatee, the administration decree is in the nature of a decree passed against a legal representative of a deceased person within the meaning of S. 52 (1), C.P. Code, and it can be executed directly by attachment and sale of the property in the hands of the executor specific legatee. The creditor need not be relegated to separate suit. 42 C.W.N. 65.

Limit to refunding of one legatee to another.

364. The refunding of one legatee to another shall not exceed the sum by which the satisfied legacy ought to have been reduced if the estate had been properly administered.

Illustration.

A has bequeathed 240 rupees to B, 480 rupees to C, and 720 rupees to D. The assets are only 1,200 rupees and, if properly administered, would give 200 rupees to B, 400 rupees to C, and 600 rupees to D. C and D have been paid their legacies in full, leaving nothing to B. B can oblige C to refund 80 rupees, and D to refund 120 rupees.

Refunding to be without interest.

365. The refunding shall in all cases be without interest.

Residue after usual payments to be paid to residuary legatee.

366. The surplus or residue of the deceased's property, after payment of debts and legacies, shall be paid to the residuary legatee when any has been appointed by the will.

Transfer of assets from British India to executor or administrator in country of domicile for distribution.

367. Where a person not having his domicile in British India has died leaving assets both in British India, and in the country, in which he had his domicile at the time of his death, and there has been a grant of probate or letters of administration in British India with respect to the assets there and a grant of administration in the country of domicile with respect to the assets in that country, the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in British India, after having given such notices as are mentioned in section 360, and after having discharged, at the expiration of the time therein named, such lawful claims as he knows of, may, instead of himself distributing any surplus or residue of the deceased's property to persons residing out of British India who are entitled thereto, transfer, with the consent of the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in the country of domicile, the surplus or residue to him for distribution to those persons.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF THE LIABILITY OF AN EXECUTOR OR ADMINISTRATOR FOR DEVASTATION.

Liability of executor or administrator for devastation.

368. When an executor or administrator misapplies the estate of the deceased, or subjects it to loss or damage, he is liable to make good the loss or damage so occasioned.

Where pending actual proceedings in the suit for administration, the executors who were also residuary legatees were shown to have helped themselves to the money of the estate and they did not cease doing so even after exhibition had been made of the risky condition of the estate. Held, that the executors were guilty of a breach of trust and that the Court could in interlocutory proceedings order them to bring back into Court the money in their hands or order them to furnish security for that amount. 60 C. 30=1933 C. 268.

(iii) The deceased had a lease of less value than the rent payable for it, but terminable on notice at a particular time. The executor neglects to give the notice. He is liable to make good the loss.

Liability of executor or administrator for neglect to get in any part of property.

369. When an executor or administrator occasions a loss to the estate by neglecting to get in any part of the property of the deceased, he is liable to make good the amount.

(i) The executor absolutely releases a debt due to the deceased from a solvent person or compounds with a debtor who is liable to pay in full. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

(ii) The executor neglects to sue for a debt till the debtor is able to plead that the claim is barred by limitation and the debt is thereby lost to the estate. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

PART X.

SUCCESSION CERTIFICATES.

Restriction on grant of certificates under this part.

370. (1) A succession certificate (hereinafter in this part referred to as a certificate) shall not be granted under this part with respect to any debt or security to which a right is required by section 212 or section 213 to be established by letters of administration or probate:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent the grant of a certificate to any person claiming to be entitled to the effects of a deceased Indian Christian, or to any part thereof, with respect to any debt or security, by reason that a right thereto can be established by letters of administration under this Act.

NOTES.

SECS. 370 TO 390; Scope—Application for certificate--Inquiry into titles of deceased persons property.—An application for the grant of a succession certificate was made by K claiming to be entitled to a certain deposit through her deceased daughter. B and D filed objections to the grant of a certificate to K and claimed the deposit for themselves, B through another person deceased and D through the deceased husband of K's daughter. Held, that it was never contemplated by Part 10 that there could be an inquiry in one proceeding as to which of the three deceased persons was entitled to the deposit. 1935 P. 478.

Part X—Application for certificate under —Court-fee. See 1940 N.L.J. 495.

SEC. 370.—The effect of the section is apparently that succession certificate cannot be granted in a case where the law requires probate or letters of administration to establish a representative title before the Court. In cases where letters of administration or probate are not essential, i.e., cases falling within the Act of 1881, a certificate can apparently be granted. The clause is based on this view of the law. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SCOPE OF.—The Succession Certificate Act of 1925 read with the Amending Act of 1929 gives a High Court power to grant succession certificates. 58 C. 801=35 C.W.N. 122=1931 C. 580. The Succession Certificate Act is partially a fiscal enactment, and it is to be administered as far as possible leniently and must be construed in favour of the subject. 1934 A.L.J. 579=1934 A. 296. Succession certificate can be given only in respect of an estate of a deceased person which goes to the heirs of the deceased person; it cannot be given in respect of the property of the deceased person which is to go out to particular persons who are not necessarily the heirs of the deceased. 23 S.L.R. 359=1929 S. 177. It is sufficient if the heir of a Buddhist gets a succession certificate to sue as representative of a deceased mortgagee. No letters of administration are necessary. 1923 R. 74 (1). Where the deceased person has left a validly executed will, all the estate of that person vests in the executor of the will and no succession certificate can be granted in respect of any part of that estate. The grant of a succession certificate in such a case is barred by S. 370. 20 N.L.J. 272=1938 Nag. 47.

DEBT.—Money due under a policy of life assurance is not debt due to the deceased. 33 I.C. 157. Mortgage, if a security and not debt. 1938 Pat. 68=19 Pat.L.T. 558 cited under S. 38 infra.

(2) For the purposes of this part, "security" means—

(a) any promissory note, debenture, stock or other security of the Central Government or of a Provincial Government;

(b) any bond, debenture, or annuity charged by Act of Parliament on the revenues of India;

(c) any stock or debenture of, or share in, a company or other incorporated institution;

(d) any debenure or other security for money issued by, or on behalf of, a local authority;

(e) any other security which the [1][Provincial Government] may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare to be a security for the purposes of this Part.

Court having jurisdiction to grant certificate.

371. The District Judge within whose jurisdiction the deceased ordinarily resided at the time of his death, or, if at that time he had no fixed place of residence, the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction any part of the property of the deceased may be found, may grant a certificate under this Part.

Application for certificate.

372. (1) Application for such a certificate shall be made to the District Judge by a petition signed and verified by or on behalf of the applicant in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the signing and verification of a plaint by or on behalf of a plaintiff, and setting forth the following particulars namely:—

LEG. REF.

1 Substituted by the A.O., 1937.

NOTES.

AMENDMENT.—Court can amend succession certificate if all that is required is, in reality, merely a correction of a misdescription. 110 I.C. 479=1928 L. 892.

COSTS, TAXATION OF.—See 29 Bom. L. R. 1081.

SEC. 370 (2).—The amount in deposit in a Bank is not security within the meaning of this sub-section. 28 A. 477. Assignment of decree—Non-applicability of section. See 7 Pat.L.T. 27=1925 P. 591. See also 89 I. C. 811. Suit by surviving members of joint Hindu family on pro-note standing in the name of the managing member can be maintained without succession certificate. 22 L. W. 230=90 I.C. 743. See also 40 Bom. L. R. 94. So also by an assignee of a debt. 38 A. 474=34 I.C. 364.

SEC. 371.—By defining a "District Judge" as 'the Judge of the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction," the Amending Act of 1929 now enables the High Court also to issue succession certificates. 9 R. 205. See also 58 C. 801. The District Court has no jurisdiction to grant a succession certificate where the deceased has not ordinarily resided within its jurisdiction, except when at the time of his death the deceased had no fixed place of residence, when the provision in the latter part of the section may be applied. 1923 R. 238. See also 33 I.C. 603.

GRANT OF SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE—JURISDICTION OF ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT—Although "District Judge" is defined as meaning the Judge of the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, an application for grant of a succession certificate cannot in all cases be made to a High Court. A High Court Judge cannot grant a succession certificate unless he is the Judge of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction. A Judge of the Allahabad High Court is not such a Judge, but a District Judge is. An application for grant of the succession certificate cannot therefore be made to that High Court. 1934 A.L.J. 800=1934 A. 958. The words "has no fixed place of residence" in S. 371 mean "has no fixed place of residence in British India." Accordingly, if the deceased has no fixed place of residence in British India but had some property in British India, then an application for succession certificate should be made to the District Judge where the property is situated. 37 P. L.R. 502=1935 L. 646.

SEC. 372: SCOPE OF ENQUIRY.—The enquiry in proceedings for grant of succession certificate are to be summary, and the Court, without determining questions of law or fact, which seem to it to be too intricate and difficult for determination, should grant the certificate to the person who appears to have prima facie the best title thereto. In such cases the Court has not to determine definitely and finally as to who has the best right to the estate. All that it is required to do is to hold a summary enquiry into the right to the certificate, with a view, on the one hand, to facilitate the collection of debts due to the deceased and prevent their being time-barred, owing (for instance) to dispute between the heirs inter se as to their preferen-

(a) the time of the death of the deceased;

(b) the ordinary residence of the deceased at the time of his death and, if such residence was not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Judge to whom the application is made, then the property of the deceased within those limits;

(c) the family or other near relatives of the deceased and their respective residences;

(d) the right in which the petitioner claims;

(e) the absence of any impediment under section 370 or under any other provision of this Act or any other enactment, to the granf of the certificate or to the validity thereof if it were granted; and

(f) the debts and securities in respect of which the certificate is applied for.

(2) If the petition contains any averment which the person verifying it knows or believes to be false, or does not believe to be true, that person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 198 of the Indian Penal Code.

[1][(3) Application for such a certificate may be made in respect of any debt or debts due to the deceased creditor or in respect of portions thereof.]

tial right of succession, and, on the other hand, to afford protection to the debtors by appointing a representative of the deceased and authorizing him to give a valid discharge for the debt. The grant of a certificate to a person does not give him an absolute right to the debt nor does it bar a regular suit for adjustment of the claims of the heirs inter se. If necessary the Court can grant certificate conditional on the grantee furnishing security for indemnifying the person who may be ultimately held entitled to the whole or any part of the debt. 1937 L. 196=39 P. L.R. 448. As the certificate that is to be granted must be in accordance with the petition made under S. 372, it is only proper that the application for certificate should conform strictly to the requirements of that section. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 311=1941 Cal. 663. No doubt where an application is substantially defective no succession certificate should be granted on such an application. But where the petition is defective in that the name of the person whose estate is claimed is not correctly given but the petitioner takes up the correct position by putting in another petition before hearing, the petition should be allowed to be amended and not dismissed by reason of such defect. I. L. R. (1941)- 2 Cal. 311=1941 Cal. 663. Question whether debts specified are due to the deceased or not is irrelevant. 22 I.C. 424=26 M. L.J .365. A successor to the estate can apply for certificate: 2 A.L.J. 226; executor or administrator; 2 B.H.C.R. 375; 21 M.L. J. 116; assignee of debt; 42 A. 549; an assignee of the representative of the deceased; 40 I.C. 96=2 Pat.L.J. 350; 15 M. 419; devisee: 4 C. 645; purchaser at auction-sale; 18 B. 315. A minor cannot apply through next friend. Only his legal guardian can. 10 I.C. 98. See contra 16 I.C. 797. Form of certificate granted to guardian of minor See 35 Bom.L.R. 950=1933 B. 436. As to whether a guardian has to be appointed under the Guardians and Wards Act before he applies, see 28 B. 344; but see contra. 36 M. 214; 5 C.L.J. 517; 20 A. 351. The existence of a will is an impediment. 11 I.C. 261. Applications may be made in respect of any one debt or debts. 18 A. 45; 5 M.L.J. 36; 14 A.L.J. 654. As to portion of a debt, see 21 A.L.J. 122; 43 A. 341; 42 C. 10; 16 C.W. N. 231; 17 M.L.J. 37. In an application for a succession certificate, the Judge has jurisdiction to decide who are the persons to be granted the certificate, to whom the grant of probate or letters of administration should be issued. In determining that point, he may have to consider who are the persons best entilted to call for the administration and who are the heirs. 31 Bom.L.R. 1093=1929 B. 456. A debt is a sum of money which is now payable or will become payable in future by reason of a present obligation. A sum of money which is due on the life assurance policy of the husband and payable to him if he were living on the date of maturity of the policy or to his heirs on his death if earlier, is a debt as described above and the wife is entitled to the succession certificate on her husband's death with respect to that sum. 36 Cal. 936, Rel. on. 41 C.W.N. 985=1937 Cal. 423. The interest on a debt forms part of the debt and a person succeeding to the deceased is bound to take a succession certificate for the interest accrued after the death of the deceased. 1938 Pesh. 1. See also 1937 A.M.L.J. 40.

ISSUE OF NOTICE TO DEBTORS OF DECEASED—PRACTICE.—It is no doubt unusal to issue notices to the debtors of the deceased or implead them as parties to proceedings for grant of a succession certificate. But there is no legal bar to the Court doing so, and the decision in such proceedings cannot be set aside on this ground alone. 1937 L. 196 (2).

to refuse application. 15 C. W. N. 1018. An order of rejection is appealable. 40 I.C. 124; 35 I.C. 718. In 3 C. 616, it was presumed there could be no debts when an application was put in more than 40 years after the death. The debtor himself can apply when he succeeds to creditor, e.g., Karnavan. 5 M. 4. Creditors cannot oppose; 2 C. 308; 28 Bom. 119; (but see 34 M. 605); or strangers. 10 I.A. 80; or legatees; 17 M. 373. An enquiry is necessary though facts are admitted by both sides. 21 I.C. 867. The inquiry is to be summary and rapid; 8 I.C. 730; 33 I.C. 603; 2 L.L.J. 578; but the decision is to be based on legal and prima facie evidence. 27 A. 452; 31 C. 133; 1914 M.W.N. 24; 24 M.L.J. 198. The Court in granting a succession certificate has only to make a prima facie enquiry as to whether the debts mentioned in the schedule did or did not belong to the deceased. The petitioner certainly can demand an enquiry of that sort and the Court will be bound in that case to investigate the point and take such evidence as it considers proper for the purposes of satisfying itself as to whether the debts and securities prima facie belonged to the deceased or not. I. L. R. (1941) 2 Cal. 311= 1941 Cal. 663. District Judge cannot delegate his duty. 16 B. 277. The scope of inquiry relates only to the right to the certificate and not the existence of the debt. 17 M.L.J. 257; 24 M.L.J. 198=18 I.C. 733; 26 M.L.J. 365; 28 B. 111; 24 A.L.J. 122; 38 A. 438; 474; but see contra 25 C. 320. N. 1177=1929 Cal. 661 (F.B.). In proceedings under S. 373, it is not open to the Judge to allow the exact character of the applicant's claim to be litigated. He has only to see if there is ground for entertaining the application. He has to decide in a summary manner the question of right to certificate. (Ibid.) Intricate questions of law or fact need not be decided, but certificate can be granted to one who has prima facie the best title. 7 M. 452; 5 M.L.J. 36; 1917 Pat. H.C.C. 264; 25 B. 523; 1937 L. 136. Joint certificate should not ordinarily be granted, but if all parties consent, it can be done. 35 A. 470; 19 M. 497. 1937 Rang. 366=1937 Rang.L.R. 403. The Court should view with disfavour the granting of separate certificates to one man as regards property A and to another as regards proprerty B. Speaking generally, the main idea of probate or administration is that the grant shall be of all the property to one individual or two or more jointly. Where, however, a separate order was passed and the same was acted upon, held, that the appellate Court need not go to the length of setting aside that order at that stage. 31 Bom.L.R. 1093=1929 B. 456.

SEC. 373 AND 375.—The Court is entitled to grant a succession certificate to a minor on the application by that minor through his mother as next friend. The Court has however no power to require the next friend of the minor to execute a bond required by S. 375; 1936 R. 466.

Sec. 373 (3).—An order to the effect that succession certificate would be granted on the applicant furnishing security is not an order refusing or granting one and is therefore not appealable. 63 I.C. 846=4 N.L.J. 144.

PRODUCTION IN APPEAL. The suit was decreed by the Court of first instance. There was no plea in the Court of first instance that a succession certificate was not produced. The objection was taken for the first time in appeal; the appellate Court accepted the certificate and remanded tht case. Held, that the appellate Court was right in accepting the certificate. 1934 A.L.J. 579=1934 A. 296.

Section 373 (4) is confined to cases where there are more applicants than one for a certificate and it appears to the Judge that more than one of such applicants are interested in the estate of the deceased. The daughter and another claimant both applied for succession certificate. The other claimant was the wife of the deceased. Held, the daughter was not interested in the property at all, as the widow took the estate exclusively for the time being. The case therefore did not fall within sub-S. (4) of S. 373. 163 I.C. 861=1936 P. 430. No doubt the practice of granting joint certificate has been condemned as it is fraught with obvious inconveniences. But there may be cases when the several applicants have the same degree of interest in the estate of the deceased and there are no circumstances present which would enable the Judge to say that one is better qualified than the other. Under such circumstances the granting of joint certificate is not illegal, particularly if the persons to whom the certificate is granted agree to take it in that form. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 311=1941 Cal. 663.

SECS. 373 AND 375: Rival claimants to CERTIFICATE—PROCEDURE.—Where the trial Judge considering that the questions in the case were not too intricate or difficult for his determination in a summary proceeding has not demanded security, it is a matter within his discretion to require or not to require security and hence his discretion will not be interfered with. 1942 Pesh. 42. Where there are rival claimants to a certificate, the Judge should select or appoint the fittest person to whom a single certificate could be granted to collect the whole of the debt on behalf all the persons entitled to receive it and should take security from such person that he would give their dues to all the other persons entitled to share in the distribution of the money. 15 P.L.T. 266=1934 P. 304. The only right which entitles a person to a

(a) to be served on any person to whom, in the opinion of the Judge, special notice of the application should be given, and and upon the day fixed, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, shall proceed to decide in a summary manner the right to the certificate.

(2) When the Judge decides the right thereto to belong to the applicant, the Judge shall make an order for the grant of the certificate to him.

(3) If the Judge cannot decide the right to the certificate without determining questions of law or fact which seem to be too intricate and difficult for determination in a summary proceeding, he may nevertheless grant a certificate to the applicant if he appears to be the person having prima facie the best title thereto.

(4) When there are more applicants than one for a certificate, and it appears to the Judge that more than one of such applicants are interested in the estate of the deceased, the Judge may, in deciding to whom the certificate is to be granted, have regard to the extent of interest and the fitness in other respects of the applicants.

Contents of certificate.

374. When the District Judge grants a certificate, he shall therein specify the debts and securities set forth in the application for the certificate, and may thereby empower the person to whom the certificate is granted—

(a) to receive interest or dividends on, or

(b) to negotiate or transfer, or

(c) both to receive interest or dividends on, and to negotiate or transfer, the securities or any of them.

Requisition of security from grantee of certificate.

375. (1) The District Judge shall in any case in which he proposes to proceed under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) of section 373, and may, in any other case, require, as a condition precedent to the granting of a certificate, that the person to whom he proposes to make the grant shall give to the Judge a bond with one or more surety or sureties, or other sufficient security, for rendering an account of debts and securities received by him and for indemnity of persons who may be entitled to the whole or any part of those debts and securities.

REVISION.—Where a Court rejects an application for assignment of a security bond given by a person to whom succession certificate has been granted, without perusing the security bond, it commits a material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction and its order is liable to be set aside in revision by the High Court. 154 I.C. 816=1935 A.W. (2) The Judge may, on application made by petition and on cause shown to his satisfaction, and upon such terms as to security, or providing that the money received be paid into Court, or otherwise, as he thinks fit, assign the bond or other security to some proper person, and that person shall thereupon be entitled to sue thereon in his own name as if it had been originally given to him instead of to the Judge of the Court, and to recover, as trustee for all persons interested, such amount as may be recoverable thereunder.

Extension of certificate.

376. (1) A District Judge may, on the application of the holder of a certificate under this Part, extend the certificate to any debt or security not originally specified therein, and every such extension shall have the same effect as if the debt or security to which the certificate is extended had been originally specified therein.

(2) Upon the extension of a certificate, powers with respect to the receiving of interest or dividends on, or the negotiation or transfer of, any security to which the certificate has been extended may be conferred, and a bond or further bond or other security for the purposes mentioned in section 375 may, be required, in the same manner as upon the original grant of a certificate.

Forms of certificate and extended certificate.

377. Certificates shall be granted and extensions of certificates shall be made, as nearly as circumstances admit, in the forms set forth in Schedule VIII.

Amendment of certificate in respect of powers as to securities.

378. Where a District Judge has not conferred on the holder of a certificate any power with respect to a security specified in the certificate, or has only empowered him to receive interest or dividends on, or to negotiate or transfer, the security, the Judge may, on application made by petition and on cause shown to his satisfaction, amend the certificate by conferring any of the powers mentioned in section 374 or by substituting any one for any other of those powers.

Mode of collecting court-fees on certificates.

379. (1) Every application for a certificate or for the extension of a certificate shall be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to the fee payable under the Court-Fees Act, 1870, in respect of the certificate or extension applied for.

(2) If the application is allowed, the sum deposited by the applicant shall be expended, under the direction of the Judge, in the purchase of the stamp to be used for denoting the fee payable as aforesaid.

(3) Any sum received under sub-section (1) and not expended under sub-section (2) shall be refunded to the person who deposited it.

Payment to the person really entitled before issue of certificate is good defence to subsequent suit by certificate-holder. 1926 M. 407=50 M.L.J. 432. The grant of a certificate does not confer any title upon the grantee as an heir to the deceased; it only invests him or her with the requisite authority to collect debts due to the deceased and allows the debtors to make payments without any risk. If a certificate is granted to two or more persons jointly, the authority vested in them can be exercised by all of them together and if one of them dies, the remaining certificate holders cannot exercise the powers which could only be exercised by them along with the deceased, and as there is no estate vested in any of the grantees no question of survivorship at all arises. That is, on the death of one of them the certificate becomes wholly inoperative. And before a fresh certificate is granted the existing certificate should be formally revoked. I.L.R. Where the plaintiff brought a suit for the recovery of a sum of money deposited by the deceased with the defendant, alleging a will on the strength of which he had obtained a certificate and the defendant set up an oral will in his favour, but it was found that both the wills were not proved: Held, as the defendant had failed to establish the oral will set up by him, he was bound to pay the amount to the holder of the certificate, whatever rights the heirs of the deceased might have against the plaintiff. All that the defendant was entitled to retain was the amount properly expended by him on the funeral expenses of the deceased. 131 I.C. 192=1931 S. 81. Section 381 has no application to the payment of provident fund money, as such payment is not in respect of a debt or security. 41 C.W.N. 524=65 C.L.J. 259=1937 Cal. 314. A certificate which is valid so long as it is not revoked is a conclusive proof of the right of the holder thereof to recover the amount in respect of which the same has been granted. Hence on a suit brought on the certificate, the question of the rights of other parties to recover the amount from the debtor, in other words, the question of title to the amount concerned, cannot be raised. That matter must be left to be determined in proper proceedings by those who claim a title to the amount in dispute. 148 I.C. 240 =1934 L. 79 (1).

Where therefore a person brought a suit on a mortgage executed in favour of his deceased brother and produced a succession certificate. Held, that the production of a succession certificate was not a sufficient title on which to sue on the mortgage. Held, further, that as the succession certificate was a reason for coming to the conclusion that at least there was the possibility of the plaintiff establishing the fact of his heirship to his brother, the plaintiff should have been allowed to amend his plaint to prove that he was the heir of the brother. 19 Pat.L.T. 558=1938 Pat. 68.

Effect of certificate granted or extended by British representative in Foreign State.

Schedule VIII has been granted to a resident within a Foreign State by the British representative accredited to the State, or where a certificate so granted has been extended in such form by such representative, the certificate shall, when stamped in accordance with the provisions of the Court-Fees Act, 1870, with respect to certificates under this Part, have the same effect in British India as a certificate granted or extended under this part.

Revocation of certificate.

383. A certificate granted under this Part may be revoked for any of the following causes, namely:—

(a) that the proceedings to obtain the certificate were defective in substance;

(b) that the certificate was obtained fraudulently by the making of a false suggestion, or by the concealment from the Court of something material to the case;

(c) that the certificate was obtained by means of an untrue allegation of a fact essential in point of law to justify the grant thereof, though such allegation was made in ignorance or inadvertently;

(d) that the certificate has become useless and inoperative through circumstances;

(e) that a decree or order made by a competent Court in a suit or other proceeding with respect to effects comprising debts or securities specified in the certificate renders it proper that the certificate should be revoked.

Appeal.

384. (1) Subject to the other provisions of this Part, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from an order of a District Judge granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under this Part, and the High Court may, if it thinks fit, by its order on the appeal, declare the person to whom the certificate should be granted and direct the District Judge, on application being made therefor, to grant it accordingly, in supersession of the certificate, if any, already granted.

APPEAL—FORUM.—Where an order granting a succession certificate is passed by a Sub-Judge who had been invested with the powers of a District Judge and who also happened to be an Additional District Judge, and the order is signed by him as Sub-Judge I class, the appeal against such an order lies only to the District Court by virtue of the proviso to S. 388 (2) and not to the High Court under S. 384 (1) of the Act. 1940 N.L.J. 106=1940 Nag. 162.

An appeal filed against the order cannot be transferred. 34 A. 148. It is a principle of construction of statutes that a Proviso merely detracts from the section to which it applies. Where therefore there has been no notification by the Local Government, Proviso to sub-S. (2) of S. 388 does not apply. 183 I.C. 657=1939 Pesh. 30. Only an order granting or refusing a certificate or revoking a certificate is made appealable by S. 384 or S. 388 and an order refusing to revoke a certificate has not been made appealable, specially when the application for revocation does not contain a prayer for a certificate. 1933 L. 56=34 P.L.R. 535. Where the Senior Sub-Judges have been invested with powers to hear applications under the Succession Act, but they have not been so empowered by a Notification of the Local Government published in the local Official Gazette as required by S. 388, the normal course of appeal laid down in the N.-W.F.P. Court as if it were a District Judge:

Provided that an appeal from any such order of an inferior Court as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 384 shall lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court, and that the District Judge may, if he thinks fit, by his order on the appeal, make any such declaration and direction as that sub-section authorizes the High Court to make by its order on an appeal from an order of a District Judge.

(3) An order of a District Judge on an appeal from an order of an inferior Court under the last foregoing sub-section shall, subject to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, be final.

(4) The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings under this Part from an inferior Court and may either himself dispose of them or transfer them to another such Court established within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the District Judge and having authority to dispose of the proceedings.

(5) A notification under sub-section (1) may specify any inferior Court specially or any class of such Courts in any local area.

(6) Any Civil Court which for any of the purposes of any enactment is subordinate to, or subject to the control of, a District Judge shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be a Court inferior in grade to a District Judge.

389. (1) When a certificate under this Part has been superseded or is invalid from any of the causes mentioned in section 386, the holder thereof shall, on the requisition of the Court which granted it, deliver it up to that Court.

Surrender of superseded and invalid certificates.

(2) If he wilfully and without reasonable cause omits so to deliver it up, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with both.

390. Notwithstanding anything in Bombay Regulation No. VIII of 1827, the provisions of section 370, sub-section (2), section 372, sub-section (1), clause (f), and sections 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 381, 383, 384, 387, 388 and 389 with respect to certificates under this Part and applications therefor, and of section 317 with respect to the exhibition of inventories and accounts by executors and administrators, shall so far as they can be made applicable, apply, respectively, to certificates granted under that Regulation, and applications made for certificates thereunder, after the 1st day of May, 1889, and to the exhibition of inventories and accounts by the holders of such certificates so granted.

[11*th February*, 1887.

An Act to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prescribe the mode of valuing certain suits for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of Courts with respect thereto; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Title.

1. This Act may be called THE SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887.

PART I.

SUITS RELATING TO LAND.

Extent and commencement of Part I.

2. This Part shall extend to such local areas, and come into force therein on such dates, as the [2][Provincial Government] by notification in the Official Gazette, directs.

LEG. REF.

[2] Substituted for "Governor-General in Council" by A.O., 1937.

NOTES.

Sec. 1: APPLICABILITY TO—SONTHAL PARGANAS.—It is doubtful if the Act applies to the Sonthal Parganas but the spirit of the Act should nevertheless be applied and the jurisdiction should follow the valuation on which the court-fees are paid. 13 P. 329 =1934 P. 184 (S.B.). Prima facie the valuation by plaintiff determines jurisdiction and that continues whatever the event unless a different principle comes into operation. 51 C. 137; 46 A. 250. Plaintiff not entitled to put a higher valuation for purpose of jurisdiction and a lower valuation for purpose of court-fees. 44 B. 331.

JURISDICTIONAL VALUE—PRINCIPLES APPLICABLE.—(1) Where the valuation of a suit for purpose of jurisdiction is contested the value must be determined by the Court; and

3. (1) The Provincial Government may, [1][*] make rules for determining the value of land for purposes of jurisdiction in the suits mentioned in the Court-Fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d).

Power for Provincial Government to make rules determining value of land for jurisdictional purposes.

(2) The rules may determine the value of any class of land, or of any interest in land, in the whole or any part of a local area and may prescribe different values for different places within the same local area.

4. Where a suit mentioned in the Court-Fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraph iv, or Schedule II, article 17, relates to land or an interest in land of which the value has been determined by rules under the last foregoing section, the amount at which for purposes of jurisdiction the relief sought in the suit is valued shall not exceed the value of the land or interest as determined by those rules.

Valuation of relief in certain suits relating to land not to exceed the value of the land.

NOTES.

(2) where the valuation can be ascertained correctly the plaintiff cannot be allowed to put an arbitrary value upon his claim nor can he be allowed to overvalue or undervalue his claim with a view to choose his forum. 1932 A. L. J. 416=1932 A. 413. See also 1937 Cal. 643. This Act and the Court-Fees Act are purely fiscal enactments and they have no bearing on the question as to which is the proper Court for the institution of the suit having regard to the value of the property. 1932 A.L.J. 416=1922 A. 413. An erroneous payment of court-fee cannot affect jurisdiction. 35 L. W. 64=1932 M. 217. In a suit for redemption of a mortgage and for recovery of surplus profits from the mortgagee the valuation for purposes of jurisdiction is determined by the principal amount of mortgage. 1931 M. 479=60 M.L.J. 698. See also 1933 P. 625. A proceeding under S. 28 may be treated as a suit, but it cannot be said to be the intention of the legislature to enable the plaintiffs in such a case to fix more or less their own value on such proceedings in order to enhance the costs incurred. 11 L. 621=1931 L. 71. See also 39 M. 602. A suit for dissolution of partnership and accounts has to be valued under this Act for purposes of jurisdiction on the same basis as for purposes of Court-fee. 152 I.C. 608=1935 L. 40. The pecuniary jurisdiction of the Civil Court is ordinarily speaking governed by the value stated by the plaintiff in his plaint and if a suit for partnership accounts, having regard to the valuation in the plaint, is within the jurisdiction, such jurisdiction is not ousted by the Court ultimately finding that a decree for a sum exceeding the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction should be given to the plaintiff. 13 P. 344=1934 P. 204 (S.B.).

Secs. 3 and 4.—Power to make rules. 41 M. 721=34 M.L.J. 397. Valuation—Landlord and tenant—Suit by tenant. 54 P.R. 1914=25 I.C. 437. Proper valuation of a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption. 41 M. 721=34 M. L. J. 397. Subject to the maximum value which should be calculated having regard to Ss. 3 and 4, the market value should determine the jurisdiction in a suit for determination of title, and it is not open to the plaintiff to value his relief as he likes. (43 B. 507; 1932 A.L.J. 416 and 56 I.C. 762, Rel. on.) 145 I.C. 942=1933 A. 903. Suit to reduce rate of maintenance awarded by decree—Valuation. See 42 L.W. 42=69 M.L.J. 202. As to declaratory suit by reversioner in respect of alienation of ancestral land in Punjab, see 39 P. L.R. 193=1937 Lah. 677.

Sec. 4.—Under this section a plaintiff is not entitled to put a higher value on the suit than his interest in litigation: 39 M. 602. A Court cannot fix a valuation for the plaintiff, even if plaintiff's valuation is deliberately fictitious. It can compel plaintiff to put a reasonable valuation. 39 A. 723=42 I.C. 891. Under S. 4, the value for purposes of jurisdiction cannot exceed the value as arrived at by applying the rules under the Court-Fees Act. 1930 M.W.N. 509=1931 M. 375. See also 58 C. 281=34 C.W.N. 870=1930 C. 686. Suit for declaration for the purpose of jurisdiction is the value of the property for which the declaration is asked for. 5 Pat.L.J. 397=56 I.C. 762; 81 P.R. 1918=46 I.C. 490. S. 4 gives no room for the idea of a notional value. Where the sole question for decision is whether the title as trustee of certain villages vests in the public or in private persons, that is whether they are the subject of public trust or a private trust, the title to these villages is affected by the relief sought and therefore the valuation for the purposes of jurisdiction is the market-value of the property itself. 17 Luck. 116=1941 Oudh 405. The value of the suit for partition for purposes of jurisdiction is the value of the share claimed. 29 I.C. 766=68 P.W. R. 1915; 24 A. 381; 5 P.L.J. 540; 1938 Nag. 149; 72 I.C. 342; 33 B. 658; (market-value); 43 M. 396=38 M.L.J. 92

Making and enforcement of rules.

5. (1) The Provincial Government shall, before making rules under section 3, consult the High Court with respect thereto.

(2) A rule under that section shall not take effect till the expiration of one month after the rule has been published in the Official Gazette.

Repeal of section 14 of the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873.

6. On and from the date on which rules under section 3 take effect in any part of the territories under the administration of the Governor of Fort St. George in Council to which the Madras Civil Courts Act, 1873, extends, section 14 of that Act shall be repealed as regards that part of those territories.

PART II.

OTHER SUITS.

Extent and commencement of Part II.

7. This Part extends to the whole of British India, and shall come into force on the first day of July, 1887.

Court-fee value and jurisdictional value to be the same in certain suits.

8. Where in suits other than those referred to in the Court-Fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs v, vi and ix, and paragraph x, clause (d), Court-fees are payable ad valorem under the Court-Fees Act, 1870, the value as determinable for the computation of Court-fees and the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall be the same.

NOTES.

(plaintiff's valuation). Suit for declaration that mortgage is unaffected by attachment. 54 I.C. 543=37 M.L.J. 611. Suit under O. 21, R. 62 to cancel attachment of judgment-debtor's property. 39 M. 602=29 M.L.J. 728. Plaintiff sued in redemption of a kanom with the added prayer for Rs. 1,100 by way of damages. Held, that the value of the suit for purpose of jurisdiction is the kanom amount alone and not that amount plus the damages claimed. 138 I.C. 136=1932 M. 217. Where an unsuccessful claimant desires not only that the attachment should be removed, but also that his title should be declared as against the judgment-debtors, in cases in which the value of the property attached is more than the value of the decree, the value of the suit which governs the jurisdiction of the Court to deal with it is the value of the property itself and not merely the value of the decree. 137 I.C. 54=1932 R. 20. See also 1935 O. W.N. 305=1935 O. 271; 68 M.L.J. 231. Where a claimant whose objection to an attachment in executing a decree against a judgment-debtor is dismissed, files a declaratory suit that the property attached is his own and could not be attached, the valuation of the suit, in cases where the value of the property is greater than the amount of the decree, is the amount of the decree. 55 A. 315=1933 A. 249 (F.B.). See also 1937 R. 101. In a suit by a Hindu reversioner for a declaration that the alienations made by the widow of the last male-holder are not binding on the reversionary right and for a permanent injunction restraining the alienees from cutting down certain fruit trees on the properties, the plaintiff need not value the suit according to the market-value of the properties, for purposes of jurisdiction. 1935 M. 262=68 M.L.J. 248. In a suit for a declaration that an adoption is invalid, where the properties comprised in the suit are of the market-value of more than Rs. 10,000, the jurisdictional value has to be determined with reference to the market-value of the properties and not their value as under S. 7 (v) of the Court-Fees Act. 1935 M. 279=68 M.L.J. 329.

Secs. 4 and 8.—In a suit for partition by persons in joint-possession of the land, the value for the purpose of jurisdiction is the actual market value of the property in suit, although court-fee is payable under Art. 17-B of Sch. II of the Court-Fees Act (as amended in Madras). Hence where the value of the plaintiffs' share will not be less than Rs. 10,000, the suit has to be filed in a Subordinate Judge's Court as a District Munsiff's Court has no jurisdiction to entertain it. 54 L.W. 428=1942 M. 103=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 567.

Sec. 8: SCOPE OF SECTION.—Under S. 8 the valuation for purposes of court-fees determines the valuation for purposes of jurisdiction also in a case falling under S. 7: 1922 L. 236; 46 A. 419=22 A.L.J. 349; 47 A. 501=23 A.L.J. 244. The meaning of S. 8 is that the value for purposes of jurisdiction shall follow the value to be given for the purposes of Court-fee. 58 C. 281=34 C.W.N. 870=1930 C. 686. See also 12 R. 335=1934 R. 268; 32 P.L.R. 193=133 I.C. 120=1931 L. 307; 1931 M. 375. Under S. 8 the proper method is to value for the purpose of court-fees first and then to take that value for the purpose of jurisdiction. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 411=42 C.W.N. 667. The value as placed by the plaintiff in the plaint must be looked at, even though the plaintiff claims unnecessary relief. 9 I.C. 574=8 A.L.J. 266. The value of a suit is its value at the date of its institution and not what the value will become on some subsequent date. Nor does the value of a suit depend upon the competency of a Court to pass a decree for a particular claim. The claim may be absolutely untenable, but if a plaintiff claims relief, he has to value it and that value will determine the forum for the institution of the suit or appeal. 16 P.L.T. 103=1935 P. 160. See also 13 P. 344=1934 P. 204. The plaintiff has the right to put his own valuation on his claim for the purpose of court-fees in a suit for a declaration and for an injunction by way of consequential relief; and the same is the value for the purpose of jurisdiction. 44 B. 331=56 I.C. 340. See also 39 Bom.L.R. 138=1937 B. 167; 48 A. 412=24 A.L.J. 478=1926 A. 423. The Court can question the value of the reliefs in a suit coming under S. 7 (iv) (c) of the Court-Fees Act, where the valuation appears on the face of the plaint to be too small, as it is its duty to see that the reliefs claimed are properly valued. 21 I.C. 404 =40 C. 615. Jurisdiction depends on nature of claim and not on defence or result of suit. 1925 N. 183. See also 41 C.W.N. 851=1937 Cal. 430. As to applicability of section to suits under S. 33, U.P. Agricultural Relief Act, see 1940 A.L.J. 689 (F.B.).

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Administration suit —Valuation for Court-fees and jurisdiction. 12 R. 512. Suit under Ss. 44 and 84, Agra Tenancy Act, 1926—Jurisdictional value. 1934 A.L.J. 708=1934 A. 825. See also 21 C.W.N. 310=44 C. 890. J. 202. See also 1935 O.W.N. 522=162 I.C. 750=1936 O. 317 (Suit for declaration that property is not subject to charge for maintenance). In a suit for a declaratory decree and consequential relief, the amount at which the plaintiff values the relief sought for purposes of Court-fees determines the jurisdiction of the suit, including that on appeal. 43 B. 376=46 I.A. 15. (On appeal from 23 I.C. 221=38 B. 272; see also 27 Bom. L.R. 247=87 I.C. 80; 33 C.W.N. 231; 1933 M. 721=65 M.L.J. 420; 57 C.L.J. 465.) A suit for declaration that the plaintiff is the sole shebait and also for injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with his possession falls within S. 8. 40 C. 245. See also 37 Bom. L. R. 138. In a suit for a declaration that property is not liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree, where the value of the property is in excess of the amount claimed in execution of the decree, the determination of the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction must rest upon the construction to be placed on the nature of the suit and the character of the relief claimed, if the suit could not be treated as one under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code, no objection having been filed by the plaintiff under O. 21, R. 58 before he instituted the suit. Where it is clear from the allegations made in the plaint and the relief sought therein that the sole object of the suit is to get a declaration that the property is not liable to attachment and sale in execution of the defendant's decree, and the judgment-debtor is made a pro forma defendant and no relief is claimed against him, the case is, in substance, in no way different from a suit brought under O. 21, R. 63, and the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction is not the value of property but the decretal amount. 1935 O.W. N. 305=1935 O. 271. See also 68 M.L. J. 231; 42 P.L.R. 364. As to suit for declaration and injunction, see 140 I.C. 73=33 P.L.R. 458; 137 I.C. 240=33 P.L.R. 488. See also 1933 M. 721=65 M. L. Suit for declaration and possession —Ad valorem Court-fee payable—Fact that declaration is unnecessary if material. 26 A.L.J. 316. Where the plaintiff valued the suit for a declaration and injunction at Rs. 2,100, so as to give jurisdiction to a Court of a higher grade: Held that the value for purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fee was the same, namely, Rs. 2,100. The only way of avoiding payment of the higher Court-fee is for the plaintiff to bring a suit with a lesser valuation for purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fee. 32 P.L.R. 193 =1931 L. 307. In a suit for accounts the determination of the forum of appeal from the preliminary decree depends upon the valuation of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction, and the fact that the amount ultimately to be found may or may not exceed the valuation cannot disturb the course of appeal. 31 P.L.R. 536=1930 L. 832. See also 41 C.W.N. 851=1937 Cal. 430; 38 Bom.L.R. 754; 34 Bom.L.R. 44=1932 B. 111. A Court in a suit for an account can lawfully pass a decree for a sum which exceeds the pecuniary limit of its jurisdiction. In such a suit it is the plaintiff's valuation in his plaint which fixes the jurisdiction of the Court, and not the amount which may be found and decreed by the Court. (2 R. 408, Overr.) 1937 Rang.L.R. 214=1937 R. 320 (F.B.). See also 41 C.W.N. 851= 1937 C. 430; 56 B. 23=34 Bom.L.R. 42= 137 I.C. 702=1932 B. 111. Suit for rendition of account, value of—Court-fees. 109 I.C. 895=1928 P. 535. Suit for specific performance of a contract of a lease should first be valued for Court-fees under S. 7 (x) (c) of the Court-Fees Act and the value should be adopted under S. 8 of this

NOTES.

Act for jurisdiction. 25 C.W.N. 768=66 I.C. 268. Where a suit is for the recovery of a specific sum of money, the reduction of the amount as a result of the adjudication by the Court or by a compromise between the parties does not alter the original valuation for purposes of appeal. 140 I.C. 223. S. 8 does not cover redemption suits. 51 C. 737=28 C.W.N. 710; 22 L.W. 408=1925 M.W.N. 747; 39 M. 447=29 M.L.J. 142. See also 1933 P. 625 (suit for redemption and surplus profits). In a suit for redemption of a mortgage of immovable property the value for purposes of jurisdiction is the amount of money which is found to be due on the mortgage. The market-value of the property can on no account be ever the value for jurisdiction in a redemption suit. 193 I.C. 871=1941 Pesh. 28. S. 8 does not include cases coming under cl. (ix) of S. 7 of the Court-Fees Act. The valuation of such a suit for purposes of Court-fee and jurisdiction is the same. 63 C. 657; 1936 O.W.N. 522=1936 Oudh 317 (Suit for declaration that property is not subject to any charge). The valuation of a suit for foreclosure for purposes of jurisdiction depends not on the principal but on the total amount claimed. 21 I.C. 918=9 N.L.R. 161. Where the suit is to recover certain mortgage amount together with interest, held, that the valuation both for purposes of Court-fee and for the purpose of jurisdiction was the valuation given in the plaint. 52 C.L.J. 589=1931 C. 159. See also 1933 P. 625. Co-mortgagees—Suit by one for his share only—Valuation—Share of plaintiff or whole mortgage-debt. (1941) 2 M.L.J. 986. In a partition suit, jurisdiction is determined by the value of the whole property and not merely plaintiff's share in it. The fact that plaintiff's title is disputed does not make it any the less a partition suit. 29 C.W.N. 76=1925 C. 320=52 C. 128=85 I.C. 870. The value for purposes of jurisdiction of a suit for partition pure and simple, where the plaintiff is in joint possession, of his share and there is no dispute as to his title or share, is the value of the whole of the property sought to be partitioned. 4 P.L.T. 257. See also 10 O.W.N. 1196=1933 O. 547. In a suit for partition of lands of which the plaintiff is in joint possession, he is entitled to value the suit at his own estimate for purposes of jurisdiction. 11 M.L.T. 155=13 I.C. 803. The value of the share claimed and not the value of the entire property is the value for the purpose of jurisdiction in a suit for partition where the plaintiff claims partition and separate possession of his share. 177 I.C. 684=1938 Nag. 149. In an administration suit, plaintiff's share determines jurisdiction and valuation. Where the parties were Mahomedans and the suit was for a share of inheritance, held, that Court-fees are payable ad valorem, as the suit is not of any of the classes referred to in paragraph 7 of the Court-Fees Act. 7 R. 164=1929 R. 211. In a suit for dissolution of partnership and for accounts, where there is one decree divisible in certain fixed proportions among the plaintiff or the plaintiffs and the defendant or the defendants, the aggregate of the specific amounts will represent the value of the subject-matter of the suit appeal, even though the tentative value fixed by the plaintiff be less or more. 11 L. 359=1930 L. 725. In a suit for winding up of a partnership and for accounts, the value determinable for the computation of Court-fees is the value for the purposes of jurisdiction. 22 I.C. 71=15 Bom.L.R. 1123. In a suit for settlement of partnership accounts, where the plaintiff is allowed to value his claim tentatively for purposes of Court-fee, Court can pass a decree beyond its pecuniary jurisdiction. See 18 S.L.R. 286=89 I.C. 353. See also 13 P. 344=1934 P. 204 (S.B.); 152 I.C. 608=1935 L. 40. An administration suit by a creditor is in fact a suit for an account within S. 7 (iv) (f) of the Court-Fees Act and the plaintiff can place his own valuation on the relief claimed in such a case. 21 C.W.N. 310=44 C. 890. See also 38 Bom.L.R. 754 (Suit for declaring will null and void and for administration of estate). For the purpose of jurisdiction, the value of a suit for declaration that certain house is not liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree against both the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor, is the value of the property whether the judgment-debtor resists the claim or not. 1 Lah. L. J. 87. Appeal value of suit for possession is that of subject-matter as determined by the Court and not that stated in plaint. 1925 L. 1 (F.B.). See also 1933 R. 410. In a suit for recovery of immovable property from a tenant, the valuation for Court-fees is the same as that for jurisdiction. 38 M. 795=26 M. L. J. 573. Where the daughter by a predeceased wife sued the widow of the last male holder for certain declarations in respect of alienations made by her, held, that the suit should be valued for purposes of jurisdiction according to the market-value of the properties and that any rational value set by the plaintiff on his interest could not be taken into account. 1932 M. 671. Semble: there is some force in the argument that in cases where the plaintiff claims a vested right in certain properties, the value of the vested right must be taken to determine the jurisdiction. 139 I.C. 471=1932 M. 671. In a suit for a declaration as to a right of fishery, for damages for trespass and for an injunction against further trespass, the value of the suit for purposes of jurisdiction and for purposes of Court-fee must be the same, as provided by S. 8. 1940 Pat. 247==5 Cut.L.T. 35. S. 8 does not apply to a suit for restitution of conjugal rights. In such a suit therefore the value as determinable for the computation of Court-fees and the value for the purposes of jurisdiction are not necessarily the same. In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights the plaintiff is entitled for the purposes of jurisdiction to put any value he likes on the relief sought and thus determine the Court in which the suit is to be instituted, provided that the valuation is made bona fide and not in order to effect an improper purpose. 1941 Rang. Caste —Ex-communicated member—Suit for declaration of illegality and impropriety of resolution of ex-communication and of plaintiff's right to enjoy caste property in common—Prayer for permanent injunction restraining caste from obstructing enjoyment of caste properties — Valuation—Jurisdiction. See 41 Bom.L.R. 425=1939 Bom. 287.

When the subject-matter of suits of any class, other than suits mentioned in the Court-Fees Act, 1870, section 7, paragraphs v and vi, and paragraph x, clause (d), is such that in the opinion of the High Court it does not admit of being satisfactorily valued, the High Court may, with the previous sanction of the Provincial Government, direct that suits of that class shall, for the purposes of the Court-Fees Act, 1870, and of

VALUATION IN APPEAL.—The general rule is that the value fixed by the plaintiff in his plaint must, prima facie, be the basis for determination of the forum of the suit or appeal arising out of it, though the position is different, it is found that the plaintiff has deliberately under-valued or over-valued his claim, with the object of having the suit tried or the appeal heard by a Court which would not have jurisdiction to try the suit or hear the appeal in case the claim is properly valued. Where the trial Court rejected the plea of the defendant that the plaintiff had under-valued his suit and decreed the plaintiff's claim, and the defendant filed an appeal valuing it at the plaintiff's valuation of the suit, it could hardly lie in the mouth of the plaintiff-respondent to say that he deliberately under-valued his claim in the plaint, even though the defendant repeated in his memorandum of appeal that the suit had been under-valued in the plaint. 154 I.C. 125=1935 O.W.N. 168.

VALUATION IN PLAINT—IF PRECLUDES DIFFERENT VALUATION FOR APPEAL.—A party who has previously made a valuation of his suit or appeal for the purpose of Court-fee is not always precluded from adopting, for his proposed appeal a higher valuation as representing the actual or market-value of the claim made in the suit. But where a plaintiff, having discretion to value his claim in alternative ways, chooses to value his claim in the plaint in a particular way, he is not entitled to set up subsequently that his valuation given in the plaint is not real. 38 C. W.N. 751=59 C.L.J. 448=1934 C. 809. The general rule in appeal is, that when the appeal is against the whole decree, and if the suit has been decreed in full, the value of the appeal is the same as the value of the original plaint. Plaintiff valued her suit for purposes of court-fee and jurisdiction at certain amount to which the defendant did not object. In appealing against the decision, the defendant valued the appeal for purposes of jurisdiction at the same value as in the plaint, but for purposes of court-fee, he valued the subject-matter at a considerably low amount. Held, that the defendant had to put a stamp on the value put for jurisdiction. 1933 R. 410.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Objections to jurisdiction on the ground of wrong valuation should be taken at the earliest possible moment. 43 B. 507=46 I.A. 24=36 M.L. J. 437 (P.C.). (On appeal from 16 I.C. 1005; 36 B. 628). A mere finding of the plaintiffs having put a higher value on the subject-matter of the suit does not per se justify an order for the returning of the plaint. Such an order will be justified only if it is also found that the valuation is not made bona fide and has been made in order to effect an improper purpose. 198 I. C. 673=1942 Rang. 10. See also 1941 Pat. 532. The High Court has power to fix a proper valuation even though the lower Court has properly valued. 39 M. 447=29 M.L.J. 142. Valuation of—Set-off for purposes of jurisdiction. 2 R. 462.

Sec. 9.—Where plaintiff sues for restitution of conjugal rights and for an injunction restraining two persons from preventing the alleged wife from living with the plaintiff, the relief for injunction is merely ancillary. 52 I.C. 101=20 P. L. R. 1919. The terms of S. 9 permit of the re-valuation of the suit of the class contained in Art. 17 (v), Sch. II, Court-Fees Act, and, there can be no question that the valuation of Rs. 10 fixed under that article is an arbitrary one and so it is intra vires for the High Court, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to have laid down the rule contained in Notification No. 1641 of 1911. 123 I.C. 417=1930 N. 73. Per Findlay, J. C., and Kotval, A. J. C. (Khinkhede, A. J. C., contra).—A suit by a reversioner for a declaration that an alleged adoption is invalid as being opposed to law affects title of the adopted son to the property, since if a declaration is granted his title as adopted son to the property will go and so the reversioner has to pay ad valorem court-fee. A suit for the issue of a perpetual injunction to the effect that the defendant be ordered to demolish the wall built by him near plaintiff's ventilator and that he be restrained from this Act and any other enactment for the time being in force, be treated as if their subject-matter were of such value as the High Court thinks fit to specify in this behalf.[1]

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Procedure where objection is taken on appeal or revision that a suit or appeal was not properly valued for jurisdictional purposes.

11. (1) Notwithstanding anything in section 578[2] of the Code of Civil Procedure, an objection that by reason of the over-valuation or under-valuation of suit or appeal a Court of first instance or lower appellate Court which had not jurisdiction with respect to the suit or appeal exercised jurisdiction with respect thereto shall not be entertained by an appellate Court unless—building a second storey on his shop within five feet of the window of the plaintiff's virtually falls under R. 4 framed by the Lahore High Court under S. 9, Suits Valuation Act, and therefore must be valued at a sum exceeding Rs. 100 and not exceeding Rs. 500. A first appeal over such a suit lies only to the District Judge. 155 I. C. 153=1934 L. 796. R. 7 of the Rules under S. 9 of the Act refers to a claim not necessarily to keep one window open but so many windows as are affected by the alleged tortious acts of the defendants. 1938 A.M.L. J. 130.

Sec. 11: SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF SECTION.—56 I.C. 918. Where the valuation given in the plaint is never objected to either in the Court of first instance or in the Court of appeal, and where on the face of the valuation so given an appeal lies to the High Court, and such appeal is entertained and disposed of, it is not competent to the defendant to raise the objection on the scope of over-valuation by a subsequent application for review of judgment on the ground of over-valuation. 168 I.C. 399=1937 A. L.J. 474=1937 All. 628; 1940 O.W.N. 462 =1940 Oudh 164; 15 Luck. 619. S. 11 covers also an erroneous valuation under a mistake of law. 21 I.C. 918=9 N.L.R. 161; 6 L. 105=1925 L. 290 (F.B.). Where the defendant in a suit does not raise any objection to the valuation on the ground of gross under-valuation, though it is open to him, and fails to raise the objection in the appellate Court also which confirms the decree, it is not open to him in execution proceedings to raise that objection and plead that the decree under execution is a nullity on the ground that the same was without jurisdiction. A Court executing a decree may, no doubt, come to the conclusion that the decree is a nullity. But that can be only in cases where the want of jurisdiction of the Court which passed the decree is apparent on the face of the record. When that is not the case, the executing Court cannot hold the decree to be without jurisdiction and therefore a nullity on that ground. S. 11 is a complete answer to the plea of want of jurisdiction when the defendant had not thought fit to raise the objection either in the trial Court or in the appellate Court, but only seeks to raise it in execution proceedings. He cannot be permitted to plead that the decree originally obtained in the suit was a nullity on the ground of want of jurisdiction arising from under-valuation. 22 Pat.L.T. 855=1942 Pat. 152. The mere fact that a suit has been over-valued or under-valued cannot be allowed to affect the decree, unless the disposal of the suit on the merits has been prejudicially affected owing to the over-valuation or under-valuation. (46 M. 631 and 36 A. 58, Ref.) 55 A. 315=1933 A. 249 (F.B.). The language of S. 11 is comprehensive enough to include all cases of erroneous valuation and does not suggest any distinction between cases in which the valuation depends upon rules having the force of law and those in which the valuation is determined otherwise. 13 P. 290=150 I.C. 378=1934 P. 240. S. 11 is limited to cases where by reason of over-valuation or under-valuation of a suit or appeal in the Court of first instance or the lower appellate Court, that Court had no jurisdiction with respect to the suit or appeal but has exercised jurisdiction with respect thereto. It has no application where there has been no under-valuation or over-valuation, but the nature of the suit was wrongly understood as when an unclassed suit was wrongly assumed to be a suit of small cause nature. 1941 Lah. 313=43 P.L.R. 432. Where on an appeal from a decree, the appellate Court finds that the trial Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit, the proper course is not to summarily dispose of the matter by setting aside the decree and remanding the suit for return of the plaint to the plaintiff for presentation to the proper Court. Even in cases where the point as to under-valuation is properly taken, the Court can deal with the appeal, provided S. 11 (2) of the Act is complied with. But it cannot act under S. 11 (2) if it is satisfied that the question of under-valuation has prejudicially affected the disposal of the suit on the merits. If the appellate Court does not address itself to this question, its decision setting aside the trial Court's decree and remanding the suit is wrong and must be set aside. The appellate Court must consider the provisions of S. 11 (2) and (3) of the Act and then proceed to dispose of the appeal. 194 I.C. 385=1941 P.W.N. 547=1941 Pat. 532. The general rule is that the value fixed by the plaintiff in his plaint must prima facie be the basis for determining the forum of the suit or appeal arising out of it. But the position is different if it is found that the plaintiff has deliberately under-valued or over-valued his claim. The position is also the same where the plaintiff has acted recklessly in fixing the valuation of the suit. 7 O.W.N. 1188=1931 O. 58. See also 154 I.C. 125; 38 C.W.N. 751=1934 C. 809. The plaintiff cannot fix an arbitrary valuation and make the suit cognizable by a Court of a particular grade. 29 I.C. 796. But see 10 L.W. 221=1919 M.W.N. 707 contra. Erroneous valuation caused by wrong application of the sections of the Court-Fees Act is included in the term "over-valuation" in S. 11. 62 I.C. 715. Where the defendant did not raise his objection to the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Court either in his written statement or at the time of the settlement of issues, and the trial Court was allowed to enter into matters of fact without any such question being raised, the Court is justified in refusing to entertain such a plea subsequently. 13 P. 329=1934 P. 184 (S.B.). Where a suit is under-valued and the suit is tried by a Court of lower jurisdiction and objection taken, the duty of the appellate Court is to see if the trial has prejudiced the defendant on the appeal. Duty of appellate Court pointed out. 116 I. C. 209. See also 55 A. 315=1933 A. 249 (F. B.); 12 R. 335=1934 R. 268. There is no prejudice within the meaning of S. 11, merely by reason of a trial in a Court not having large enough jurisdiction. 41 P.L.R. 386=1939 Lah. 451. The mere fact that an appeal had to be brought in a Subordinate Court instead of the High Court cannot be held to have prejudicially affected the disposal of the appeal on the merits within the terms of S. 11 of the Act. 1940 O.W.N. 462=1940 Oudh 164. (2) If the objection was taken in the manner mentioned in clause (a) of sub-section (1), but the appellate Court is not satisfied as to both the matters mentioned in clause (b) of that sub-section and has before it the materials necessary for the determination of the other grounds of appeal to itself, it shall dispose of the appeal as if there had been no defect of jurisdiction in the Court of the first instance or lower appellate Court.

(a) the objection was taken in the Court of first instance at or before the hearing at which issues were first framed and recorded, or in the lower appellate Court in the memorandum of appeal to that Court, or

(3) If the objection was taken in that manner and the appellate Court is satisfied as to both those matters and has not those materials before it, it shall proceed to deal with the appeal under the rules applicable to the Court with respect to the hearing of appeals; but if it remands the suit or appeal, or frames and refers issues for trial, or requires additional evidence to be taken, it shall direct its order to a Court competent to entertain the suit or appeal.

(4) The provisions of this section with respect to an appellate Court shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to a Court exercising revisional jurisdiction under section 622[1] of the Code of Civil Procedure or other enactment for the time being in force.

(5) This section extends to the whole of British India, and shall come into force on the first day of July, 1887.

Proceedings pending at commencement of Part I or Part II.

12. Nothing in Part I or Part II shall be construed to affect the jurisdiction of any Court—

(a) with respect to any suit instituted before rules under Part I applicable to the valuation of the suit take effect, or Part II has come into force, as the case may be, or (b) with respect to any appeal arising out of any such suit.

An Act to forbid trading by the officers of the Supreme Courts.

Preamble.

For the better discharge of their duties by the officers of the undermentioned Courts of Justice; It is enacted as follows:—

Prohibition, in case of officers of Supreme Courts, against accepting gifts; holding certain offices; carrying on dealings.

1. No officer of any of the Courts of Judicature established by Royal Charter within the territories subject to the Government of the East India Company, or any Court established for the relief of insolvent debtors within the said territories, shall directly or indirectly by himself, or by any other person or persons on his behalf, accept from any person or persons any gift or reward for any act or behaviour in his office, other than his legal salary and fees and profits of office, or hold any office in any bank or public company, except as hereinafter excepted or carry on or be concerned in any dealings as a banker or trader or as agent, factor or broker either for his own advantage or for the advantage of any other person or persons, except such dealings as it may be part of the duty of any such officer by virtue of his office to carry on.

Exemption of officers who are also advocates, etc.

2. This Act shall not be construed to forbid any officer of any of the said Courts, who is also a practising advocate, attorney, solicitor or proctor in any of the said Courts, from taking the usual fees and emoluments of advocates, attorneys, solicitors, or proctors, nor to apply to any advocate, attorney, solicitor, proctor, sheriff, assignee, receiver or committee, so far as he is held to be in that capacity merely for some purposes an officer of any of the said Courts.

Holding unpaid office in society.

3. This Act shall not be construed to forbid any officer of any of the said Courts from holding any unpaid office in any society for charitable purposes or for the advancement of knowledge, or for the encouragement of science, art or manufactures.

Punishment for contravention of Act.

4. Every officer of any of the said Courts who shall knowingly offend against this Act shall, on conviction thereof, be liable to be punished by deprivation of his office, and also, by the sentence of the Court before which he shall be convicted, may be declared incapable, and in that case shall become incapable, of being appointed to the same or any other office of the same Court, or to serve Her Majesty [1][* * * *] in the territories under the Government of the East India Company, or in such part of the said territories as shall be specified in the sentence, or in the discretion of the Court may be otherwise punished by fine or fine and imprisonment for his misdemeanour as to the Court shall seem fit, regard being had to the nature of his offence.

An Act to consolidate the law relating to customs duties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the law relating to customs duties on goods imported into or exported from British India by sea and to customs duties on goods imported into or exported from British India by land; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN TARIFF ACT, 1934.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India [1][*].

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette appoint in this behalf.

Duties specified in Schedules to be levied.

2. (1) There shall be levied and collected in every port to which this Act applies, the duties specified in the First and Second Schedules.

(2) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette fix, for the purpose of levying the said duties, tariff values of any articles enumerated, either specifically or under general headings, in the said Schedules as chargeable with duty ad valorem and may alter any tariff values for the time being in force.

(3) Different tariff values may be fixed for different classes or descriptions of the same article.

(4) Nothing in this Act shall authorize the levy of customs duties on any article carried from one customs port in British India to another such port except salt, opium, and spirit.

Levy of duty where standard rate and preferential rate are specified.

3. (1) Where in respect of any article a preferential rate of revenue duty is specified in the First Schedule if the article is the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom or of a British Colony, the duty to be levied and collected shall be at the standard rate, unless the article is the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom or of a British Colony and the article is determined, in accordance with rules made under sub-section (2), to be such produce or manufacture.

LEG. REF.

[1] Words 'except the Chief Commissionership of Aden' omitted by A.O., 1937.

(2) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette make rules—

(a) for determining if any article is the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom or a British Colony; and

(b) making provision in cases where at the time of importation proof is not forthcoming where required in accordance with the rules made under clause (a) that any article is the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom or a British Colony—

(i) whereby duty may be levied at the standard rate and a refund given of the extra duty paid, if such proof is produced within a prescribed period, and

(ii) whereby duty may be accepted provisionally at the preferential rate on execution of a bond for the payment of the balance of duty if such proof is not produced within the prescribed period, and for the recovery of any balance due after the expiry of the prescribed period as if such balance were duty short levied within the meaning of section 39 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

(3) For the purposes of this section and of the First Schedule, the expression "United Kingdom" means the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the expression "British Colony" includes a British Protectorate and any of the Mandated Territories of Tanganyika, the Cameroons under British Mandate and Togoland under British Mandate.

Power of Central Government to alter protective duties.

4. (1) Where, in respect of any article chargeable under the First Schedule with a duty characterized in the third column thereof as protective, the Central Government is satisfied, after such inquiry as [it][1] thinks necessary, that such duty has become ineffective or excessive for the purpose of securing the protection intended to be afforded by it to a similar article manufactured in India, [it][1] may, by notification in the Official Gazette increase or reduce such duty to such extent as [it][1] thinks necessary either generally or in respect of such article when imported from or manufactured in any country or countries specified in the notification:

Provided that the duty leviable on any such article shall in no case be less than the duty leviable on a like article of British manufacture.

(2) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette prescribe the conditions subject to which articles shall be deemed to be of British manufacture for the purposes of this section and of the First Schedule.

Duties on imports and exports by land.

5. Where a customs duty at any rate prescribed by or under this Act or any other law for the time being in force is leviable on any article when imported into, or on any article when exported from, a port in British India, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that a duty of customs at the like rate shall be leviable on any such article when imported or exported, as the case may be, by land from or to any territory outside British India, which [it][1] may, by a like notification, declare to be foreign territory for the purposes of this section.

Duty on salt, opium and spirit, when protected by a certificate.

6. (1) Salt, opium and spirit imported from any port in British India and protected by the certificate of any officer empowered in that behalf by the Central Government [2][*] are chargeable with only the amount, if any, by which the duty leviable thereon under the First Schedule exceeds the duty shown by such certificate to have been already paid in respect thereof.

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by A.O., 1937 for 'he'.

[2] Words 'or the Local Government' omitted by A.O., 1937.

(2) The amount, if any, paid to the Government as the price of such salt or opium is not duty within the meaning of this section.

(3) Nothing in this section applies to spirit which is exported under bond for excise duty from one customs-port to another customs-port under the provisions of Chapter XIV of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

7. [Application of certain provisions as to duties and goods.] [Repealed by Act III of 1937.]

Additional import duty on bounty-fed articles.

8. (1) Where any country, dependency or colony pays or bestows, directly or indirectly, any bounty or grant upon the production therein or the exportation therefrom of any article and the article is chargeable with duty under the provisions of this Act, then, upon the importation of any such article into British India, whether the same is imported directly from the country of production or otherwise, and whether it is imported in the same condition as when exported from the country of production or has been changed in condition by manufacture or otherwise, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, impose an additional duty equal to the net amount of such bounty or grant, however the same be paid or bestowed.

(2) The net amount of any such bounty or grant as aforesaid shall be, from time to time, ascertained, determined and declared by the Central Government and the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for the identification of such articles and for the assessment and collection of any additional duty imposed upon the importation thereof under sub-section (1).

Special import duty on sugar in certain cases.

9. (1) Where the rate of duty or other taxation imposed in any country, dependency or colony upon sugar not produced therein exceeds the rate of duty or other taxation imposed upon sugar produced therein by more than the equivalent of six francs per one hundred kilogrammes in the case of refined sugar or five francs and fifty centimes per one hundred kilogrammes in the case of other sugar, then, upon the importation of any sugar from such country, dependency or colony into British India, whether the same is imported directly from the country of production or otherwise, and whether it is imported in the same condition as when exported from the country of production or has been changed in condition by manufacture or otherwise, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette impose,[1] in addition to any other duty or taxation imposed under this Act or any other law for the time being in force, a special duty not exceeding one moiety of such excess.

(2) The Central Government may, from time to time, by general or special order, declare, for the purposes of sub-section (1),—

(a) what articles or substances containing any saccharine matter shall be deemed to be "sugar" and what kinds of sugar shall be deemed to be "refined sugar" or "other sugar", respectively; and

(b) what sums in the currency of British India shall be deemed to be the equivalent of "francs" and "centimes," respectively.

(3) The amount of the excess referred to in sub-section (1) shall be from time to time ascertained, determined and declared by the Central Govern-

INDIAN CUSTOMS TARIFF.

NOTE 1.—In the expression "ad valorem" used in these Schedules the reference is to "real value" as defined in section 30 of the Sea Customs Act 1878 (VIII of 1878), unless an article has a tariff value assigned to it.

NOTE 2.—The tariff value specified in the second column of the First Schedule shall, unless otherwise expressly provided, apply whether the article is assessed to duty under the item specified in the corresponding entry in the first column or under any other item.

NOTE 3.—The description of tariff-valued articles in the second column follows the ordinary trade description and covers all reduced grades and mixtures unless they are specially provided for.

NOTE 4.—In this publication, the expression "standard rate of duty" means, in the case of articles liable to preferential rates of duty, the standard rate of duty as opposed to the preferential rate, and in the case of other articles, the ordinary rate of duty.

NOTE 5.—Postal parcels, packets and letters on whose contents the total duty payable is not more than 12 annas, are exempt from payment of import duty.

NOTE 6.—The expression "Far east" covers China, including Hongkong and Macao, Japa and the Japanese Empire, the Straits Settlements, Malaya, Tailand, French Indo-China, The Netherlands East Indies, Sarawak, British North Bornet, The Philippines, Burma and Ceylon.

THE TRADE DISPUTES ACT (VII OF 1929).

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.
1929	VII	The Trade Disputes Act.	Amended by Acts XIX of 1932; XIII of 1934; XX of 1937; XVII of 1938; XXXIV of 1939 and Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937.

LEG. REF.

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following extracts from the Statement of objects and Reasons indicate the reasons that led up to the passing of the Act:—

"The outbreak of industrial unrest on a large scale was a feature of the period succeeding the close of the War and led the Government of India to explore the possibility of providing some machinery for the settlement of industrial disputes. The inquiries made with this purpose in 1920 led to the conclusion that in the conditions then existing, legislation for this purpose was not likely to be effective.

2. The succeeding years saw a distinct change in the position by reason of the growth of organizations of industrial workers and of the increasing influence exercised by public opinion on the course of disputes. And in 1924 the Government of India prepared a draft Bill 'for enabling the investigation and settlement of trade disputes' and circulated it in order to ascertain the views of those directly interested and of the public generally on the subject. As a result of the inquiries made in 1924-25 and the experience which has become available since that period, the Government of India are satisfied that legislation for the prevention and settlement of trade disputes is likely to prove of considerable value; and the present Bill has been prepared for this purpose.

3. The main part of the Bill falls into three parts. Clauses 3 to 14 relate to the establishment of tribunals for the investigation and settlement of trade disputes. This part of the Bill is based generally on the British Industrial Courts Act, 1919, and its detailed provisions are adapted for the most part from clauses in that Act. The main difference is that, whereas the British Act sets up a Standing Industrial Court, the Conciliation Boards which the Bill proposes to establish are intended to be appointed ad hoc like the Courts of Inquiry, in order to deal with particular disputes. The object of the Courts of Inquiry which will ordinarily be composed of persons having no direct interest in the dispute will be to investigate and report on such questions connected with the dispute as may be referred to them. The object of Boards of Conciliation, which will ordinarily include representatives of the parties to a dispute, will be to secure a settlement of the dispute. Both Courts of Inquiry and Boards of Conciliation will be able to enforce attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, and their reports are to be published. Neither party will be under any obligation to accept the findings of the Court or the advice of the Board; and in cases where the dispute is not brought to an end during the deliberations of the tribunal that has been appointed, reliance is placed on the force of public opinion which will be enabled by the publication of the report of the tribunal to arrive at just conclusions on the merits of the dispute.

4. The second part of the Bill consists of clause (15) which relates to public utility services. 'Public utility services' is defined in clause (2) (f), and it will be observed that, in accordance with this definition, clause (15) is only applicable to such railway services as have been notified by the Governor-General in Council. The clause makes it a penal offence for workers employed on monthly wages in public utility services to strike without previous notice, and also provides heavier penalties for persons abetting such an offence. The clause is based on the principle that persons whose work is vital to the welfare of the community generally should not be entitled to enter into a strike before sufficient time has been given to examine the merits of their grievances and to explore the possibilities of arriving at a peaceful settlement. Provisions of a somewhat similar type already exist in the Indian Post Office Act and in a number of Municipal Acts in India, and the principle is one which is widely accepted in other countries.

5. Clauses (16) to (20) contain certain special provisions relating to illegal strikes and lock-outs. These clauses follow closely the provisions of sections 1, 2 and 7 of the British Trade Disputes and Trade Unions Act, 1927. They are applicable only in the case of strikes and lock-outs which satisfy both of two conditions; in the first place, the strike or lock-out must have other objects than the mere furtherance of a trade dispute within the industry to which the strikers or employers belong, and, in the second place, the strike or lock-out must be designed to coerce Government either directly or by inflicting hardship on the community. If these conditions are satisfied, the strike or lock-out, becomes illegal. Persons furthering the strike or lock-out are liable to punishment and are deprived of the protection granted to them by the Indian Trade Unions Act, while persons refusing to take part in it are protected from trade union disabilities to which they might otherwise be subjected."—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

The following is the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill:—

Clause 1.—We have decided to limit the duration of the Act to five years.

Clause 2.—The slight amendment which we have made in sub-clause (c) is intended to bring out more clearly the fact that the definition of "employer" is not intended to be exhaustive.

In view of the provision which we have made in clause (4) that all the members of a Court of Inquiry shall be persons unconnected with the dispute or with any industry affected thereby, we have considered it desirable to give some definition of what we mean by the expression "an independent person", and have inserted a definition accordingly as clause (d) of this clause.

Sub-clause (f) [now sub-clause (g)].—We are of opinion that a wide power enabling the Government to declare any industry, business or undertaking to be a public utility service is undesirable as well as unnecessary, and we have therefore omitted it. After considerable discussion in regard to the question of specifying certain other industries or undertakings as public utility services, we have reached the conclusion that clauses (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) of this sub-clause as it stands comprise all the services which it is essential to specify in the first place, and, in view of the fact that the general power which the Bill as introduced conferred upon the Government was only exercisable after three months' notice, we think there should be no difficulty in providing for any necessary additions to the clause by an amendment of the Act should occasion arise.

Sub-clause (j) [now sub-clause (k)].—We have amplified the definition of "workman" on the lines of the similar definition in the Canadian Act, and at the same time made it clear that the expression includes clerical workers; and we have added the Royal Indian Marine Service to the Services which the Bill excludes from its scope.

Clause 3.—We have considered various proposals designed to lay upon the Government a definite obligation to convene a Court of Inquiry or a Board of Conciliation in cases where one of the parties so required. We think, however, that, unless both parties are agreed in desiring a reference, it would be useless to fetter the discretion of the Government as to the time at which the matter is ripe for action under this clause. At the same time, we think that no option should be left to the Government to refuse to appoint a Court or Board where the Government is assured that both parties are agreed as to the necessity of a reference, as well as to the form which it should take.

Clause 4.—As already mentioned, we have provided that in every case a Court of Inquiry, whether it consists of one or of more persons, shall not include persons, having an interest in the dispute or in any industry affected by it.

Clause 6.—We have made an amendment to sub-clause (2) to make clear the original intention which was that only persons appointed to a Board to represent the parties should be appointed on the recommendation of the parties; and we have made slight alterations in the proviso to sub-clause (3) in order to bring it into line with the wording of clause (10).

Clauses 7 and 9.—The amendments which we have made to these clauses are of a purely drafting nature.

Clause 10.—In view of the fact that members of Courts and Boards will now invariably be independent persons except in the case where a Board is composed of an independent chairman and an equal number of representatives of each party and that the case of a vacancy in the office of any such representative member is already dealt with in clause (6), clause (10) will now apply to independent members only, and we have amended it accordingly.

Clause 12.—We have amended this clause on the lines of the English Act to make it quite clear that every report of a Court or Board, whether a final or interim report, must be published, and that only the publication of such information or evidence as the appointing authority thinks fit should be left to its discretion.

Clause 14.—We consider it inadvisable to forbid the representation of parties before Courts and Boards by legal practitioners subject only to exceptions. As we have redrafted the clause, such representation will ordinarily be permissible, subject however to such conditions and restrictions as may be provided by rules.

Clause 15.—We have decided to accept the principle of this clause which, however, as originally drafted, was open to certain criticisms. For example, it was pointed out that many persons are actually employed upon a daily wage which is in practice paid monthly; also that the clause would appear to penalise abstention from work on the part of a particular individual; and further that the clause is one-sided and inflicts no penalty upon an employer who locks-out his workmen. The latter point is, we think, one which must certainly be met and as by the nature of his employment a casual or day-to-day labourer must be entitled to cease work at any moment and be similarly liable to dismissal, we agree that he should be excluded altogether from the operation of this clause. We have accordingly adopted a suggestion made by the Bombay Government which makes it clear that the cessation of work must be in the nature of a strike as defined in the Bill, and we have provided that, in order to render it a penal offence, the strike must be in breach of a definite contract between the employer and the workman; we have further made a collateral provision penalising an employer for locking out his workman in breach of any contract.

We have decided to omit sub-clause (2) of the Bill as introduced, which imposed a more severe penalty upon the abettor of an offence under sub-clause (1), as we think such persons can be sufficiently dealt with under the ordinary criminal law of abetment.

As regards sub-clause (3) [now sub-clause (4)], the point was taken that, where the employer is a Government Department, the authority whose sanction would be necessary to enable a prosecution to be instituted would be the Government itself. A suggestion was accordingly made that where a trade union exists in the affected industry, a special resolution of three-fourths of the members, confirmed by a similar resolution at a later period, should be sufficient warrant for the launching of a prosecution. We cannot, however, accept this as a satisfactory solution of what we feel is only a technical difficulty in view of the fact that many classes of prosecutions of Government servants can only be undertaken with the sanction of the Government itself.

Clause 16.—We have adopted this clause, but with some amendments which we think will restrict its scope without materially impairing its effectiveness. Our attention has been particularly directed to the provisions of clause (b) of sub-clause (1), which, as drafted, we consider to be too wide and uncertain in its meaning. It is possible to hold that any strike inflicts a certain degree of hardship upon the community, and it would therefore be possible for a strike which fulfils both the conditions in (a) and (b) to be brought within this clause, although it was in the nature of a demonstration and lasted for no more than one day. The amendments which we suggest, apart from the omission in clause (a) of the words "or in addition to" accordingly make it clear that the strike or lock-out must be designed to cause really severe, general and prolonged hardship to the community for the purpose of compelling Government to take any particular action, whether in connexion with the dispute or otherwise.

In sub-clause (2) we have made it clear that, for the application of money to be illegal, it must not merely tend to further or support the strike, but have the direct effect of so doing. This is intended to exclude a case in which money is spent upon the relief of the dependants or strikers.

In sub-clause (3) we have borrowed a provision from the English Act of 1927 further explaining the circumstances in which a group of workmen should be deemed to be within the same trade or industry.

Clause 17.—We have somewhat modified the penalties provided for the instigation of an illegal strike.

Clause 18.—We have decided to omit this, as the provisions of section 17 of the Indian Trade Unions Act, 1926, will not apply in the case of an agreement to commit an offence, and therefore specific exclusion of the case of an illegal strike is not necessary. As regards section 18 of the Indian Trade Unions Act, this section only applies in the case of acts done in furtherance of a trade dispute, and, if a genuine trade dispute forms part of the ground for any illegal strike, we think that no harm will be done by leaving the provisions of section 18 to operate in the case of registered trade unions.

Clause 20.—We think there is no sufficient justification for giving a power to the Government to apply for injunctions restraining the expenditure of the funds of a trade union in connexion with an illegal strike. Under clause 16 such expenditure has been declared to be illegal and the persons properly interested in seeing that the funds are not mis-spent are the members of the trade union concerned.

Clause 21 (now clause 19).—The only alteration which we have made in this clause is consequential upon the amendment made to clause 14.—[There were a number of Dissenting members.]

THE TRADE DISPUTES ACT (VII OF 1929).

[12*th April*, 1929.

An Act to make provision for the investigation and settlement of trade disputes, and for certain other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the investigation and settlement of trade disputes, and for certain other purposes hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Authority or a railway company operating a Federal Railway], the Central Government may, by order in writing,—

(a) refer any matters appearing to be connected with or relevant to the dispute to a Court of Inquiry to be appointed by the Provincial Government or the Central Government, as the case may be; or

(b) refer the dispute to a Board of Conciliation to be appointed by the Provincial Government or the Central Government, as the case may be, for promoting a settlement thereof:

Provided that, where both parties to the dispute apply, whether separately or conjointly, for a reference to a Court, or where both parties apply, whether separately or conjointly, for a reference to a Board, and the authority having the power to appoint is satisfied that the persons applying represent the majority of each party, a Court or a Board, as the case may be, shall be appointed accordingly.

Courts of Inquiry.

Constitution of Courts.

4. (1) A Court shall consist of an independent chairman and such other independent persons as the appointing authority thinks fit, or may, if such authority thinks fit, consist of one independent person.

[1][(2) A Court, having the prescribed quorum, may act notwithstanding the absence of the chairman or any of its members or any vacancy in its number:

Provided that if the appointing authority notifies the Court that the services of the chairman have ceased to be available the Court shall not act until a new chairman has been appointed.]

Duties of Courts.

5. (1) A Court shall, either in public or in private, at its discretion, inquire into the matters referred to it and report thereon to the authority by which the Court was appointed.

(2) A Court may, if it thinks fit, make interim reports.

Boards of Conciliation.

Constitution of Boards.

6. (1) A Board shall consist of a chairman and two or four other members, as the appointing authority thinks fit, or may, if such authority thinks fit, consist of one independent person.

(2) Where the Board consists of more than one person, the chairman shall be an independent person and the other members shall be either independent persons or persons appointed in equal numbers to represent the parties to the dispute; all persons appointed to represent any party shall be appointed on the recommendation of that party:

Provided that, if any party fails to make the necessary recommendation within the prescribed time, the appointing authority shall select and appoint such persons as it thinks fit to represent that party.

[1][(3) A Board, having the prescribed quorum, may act notwithstanding the absence of the chairman or any of its members or any vacancy in its number:

Provided that if the appointing authority notifies the Board that the services of the chairman or where the Board includes an equal number of persons representing the parties to the dispute the services of any such person have ceased to be available the Board shall not act until a new chairman or member, as the case may be, has been appointed.]

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by Act XVII of 1938.

Duties of Boards.

7. (1) Where a dispute has been referred to a Board under this Act, it shall be the duty of the Board to endeavour to bring about a settlement of the same, and for this purpose the Board shall, in such manner as it thinks fit and without delay, investigate the dispute and all matters affecting the merits thereof and the right settlement thereof, and in so doing may do all such things as it thinks fit for the purpose of inducing the parties to come to a fair and amicable settlement of the dispute, and may adjourn the proceedings for any period sufficient in its opinion to allow the parties to agree upon terms of settlement.

(2) If a settlement of a dispute is arrived at by the parties thereto after it has been referred to a Board and during the course of the investigation thereof, a memorandum of the settlement shall be drawn up by the Board and signed by the parties, and the Board shall send a report of the settlement, together with the memorandum, to the authority by which the Board was appointed.

(3) If no such settlement is arrived at during the course of the investigation, the Board shall, as soon as possible after the close thereof, send a full report regarding the dispute to the authority by which the Board was appointed, setting forth the proceedings and steps taken by the Board for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and circumstances relating to the dispute and of bringing about a settlement thereof, together with a full statement of such facts and circumstances and its findings thereon and the recommendation of the Board for the determination of the dispute.

(4) The recommendation of the Board shall deal with each item of the dispute and shall state in plain language what in the opinion of the Board ought and ought not to be done by the respective parties concerned.

General.

Finality of orders constituting a Court or Board.

8. No order of the Central Government or of a Provincial Government appointing any person as a member of a Court or a Board shall be called in question in any manner.

Procedure and powers.

9. (1) Courts and Boards shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, follow such procedure as may be prescribed.

(2) Courts and Boards shall have the same powers as are vested in Courts under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, when trying a suit in respect of the following matters:—

(a) enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) compelling the production of documents and material objects; and

(c) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses, and shall have such further powers as may be prescribed, and every inquiry or investigation by a Court or Board shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code.

Filling of vacancies.

10. (1) If the services of the chairman or of any other independent member of a Court or Board cease to be available at any time for the purposes of the Court or Board, the appointing authority shall in the case of a chairman, and may, in the case of any other member, appoint another independent person to fill the vacancy, and the proceedings shall be continued before the Court or Board so re-constituted.

(2) Where the Court or Board consists of one person only and his services cease to be available as aforesaid, the appointing authority shall appoint another independent person in his place, and the proceedings shall be continued before the person so appointed.

[1][(3) Where a Board includes an equal number of persons representing the parties to the dispute, and the services of any such person have ceased to be available as aforesaid, the appointing authority shall appoint in the manner specified in sub-section (2) of section 6 another person to take his place, and the proceedings shall be continued before the Board so reconstituted.]

Form of report.

11. The report of a Court or Board shall be in writing and shall be signed by all the members of the Court or Board:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent any member of a Court or Board from recording a minute of dissent from a report or from any recommendation made therein.

Publication of results of inquiry.

12. (1) The final and any interim report of a Court or Board, together with any minute of dissent recorded therewith, shall, as soon as possible after its receipt by the authority by which the Court or Board was appointed, be published by that authority in such manner as it thinks fit.

(2) The said authority may publish or cause to be published from time to time, in such manner as such authority thinks fit, any information obtained, or conclusions arrived at, by the Court or Board as the result or in the course of its inquiry or investigation.

Certain matters to be kept confidential.

13. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in S. 12, there shall not be included in any report or publication made or authorised by a Court or Board or the authority appointing a Court or Board any information obtained by the Court or Board in the course of its inquiry or investigation as to any Trade Union or as to any individual business (whether carried on by a person, firm or company) which is not available otherwise than through evidence given before the Court or Board, [2][if the Trade Union, person, firm or company in question has preferred a request to the Court or Board that such information shall be treated as confidential] nor shall any individual member of the Court or Board or any person concerned in the proceedings before it disclose any such information [2][without the consent in writing of the Secretary of the Trade Union or the person, firm or company in question, as the case may be].

(2) If any member of a Court or Board or any person present at or concerned in the proceedings before a Court or Board [3][wilfully] discloses any information in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), he shall, on complaint made by or under the authority of the Trade Union or individual business affected, be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to the disclosure of any such information for the purposes of a prosecution under section 193 of the Indian Penal Code.

[4][(3) No Criminal Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this section.

(4) No Criminal Court shall take cognizance of any offence under this section except with the previous sanction of the authority appointing such Court or Board; and no Civil Court shall without the like sanction entertain any suit against a member of a Court or Board, or any person present at or concerned in the proceedings before a Court or Board, for any matter arising out of such proceedings.]

Representation of parties.

14. Subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed, any party to a dispute under inquiry or investigation by a Court or Board shall be entitled to be represented before the Court or Board by a legal practitioner.

Special provision regarding Public Utility Services.

Sudden strikes and lock-outs in utility services.

15. (1) Any person who, being employed in a public utility service, goes on strike in breach of contract without having given to his employer, within one month before so striking, not less than fourteen days' previous notice in writing of his intention to go on strike or, having given such notice, goes on strike before the expiry thereof, shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, or with both.

(2) Any employer carrying on any public utility service who locks-out [1][any of his workmen] in breach of contract without having given them, within one month before such lock-out, not less than fourteen days' notice in writing of his intention to lock them out or, having given such notice, locks them out before the expiry thereof, shall be [1][punishable with] imprisonment which may extend to one month, or [1][with fine] which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

[2][(2-A) If on any day an employer receives from any persons employed by him any such notices as are referred to in sub-section (1) or gives to any person employed by him any such notices as are referred to in sub-section (2), he shall within five days report to the Provincial Government or such authority as the Provincial Government may prescribe the number of such notices received or given on that day, and, if he fails to do so, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees];

(3) Where the employer committing an offence [1][under sub-section (2) or sub-section (2-A)] is a corporation, company or other association of persons, any secretary, director or other officer or person concerned with the management thereof shall be punishable as therein provided unless he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge or without his consent.

(4) [3][No Court shall take cognisance of any offence under this section or of the abatement of any such offence save on complaint made by or under authority from the Central Government where the public utility service in question is a railway service connected with a Federal Railway or a postal, telegraph or telephone service and the Provincial Government in other cases.]

(5) No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this section.

[4] After sub-S. (2) the new sub-Ss. (3) and (4) have been inserted by ibid.

Special provision for Illegal Strikes and Lock-outs.

Illegal strikes and lock-outs.

16. (1) A strike or a lock-out shall be illegal which—

(a) has any object other than [1][or in addition to] the furtherance of a trade dispute within the trade or industry in which the strikers or employers locking out are engaged; and

(b) is designed or calculated to inflict severe, [2][and general] hardship upon the community and thereby to compel [3][any Government in British India, the Federal Railway Authority or the Crown Representative] to take or abstain from taking any particular course of action.

(2) It shall be illegal to commence or continue, or to apply any sums in direct furtherance or support of any such illegal strike or lock-out.

(3) For the purposes of this section—

(a) a trade dispute shall not be deemed to be within a trade or industry unless it is a dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen, in that trade or industry, which is connected with the employment or non-employment or the terms of the employment, or with the conditions of labour, of persons in that trade or industry;

(b) without prejudice to the generality of the expression "trade or industry," workmen shall be deemed to be within the same trade or industry if their wages or conditions of employment are determined in accordance with agreements made with the same employer or group of employers.

(4) A strike or a lock-out shall not be deemed to be calculated to compel [3][any Government in British India, the Federal Railway Authority or the Crown Representative] unless such compulsion might reasonably be expected as a consequence thereof.

Penalty.

17. (1) If any person [2][commences, continues], instigates, incites others to take part in, or otherwise acts in furtherance of, a strike or lock-out which is illegal under the provisions of section 16, he shall be punishable with simple imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both:

Provided that no person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under this section by reason only of his having ceased work or refused to continue to work or to accept employment.

(2) No Court shall take cognisance of any offence under this section save on complaint made by, or under authority from, the [4][appropriate Government].

[5][In this sub-section "the appropriate Government" means—

(a) in relation to industries, businesses and undertakings carried on by the Central Government or by the Federal Railway Authority or by a railway company operating a Federal Railway, the Central Government; and

(b) in other cases, the Provincial Government.]

(3) No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this section.

Protection of persons withholding from illegal strike or lock-out.

18. (1) No person refusing to take part, or to continue to take part, in any strike or lock-out which is illegal under the provisions of section 16 shall, by reason of such refusal or by reason of any action taken by him under this section, be subject to expulsion from any trade union or society, or to any fine or penalty, or to deprivation of any right or benefit to which he or his legal representatives would otherwise be entitled, or be liable to be placed in any respect, either directly or indirectly, under any disability or at any disadvantage as compared with other members of the union or society, anything to the contrary in the rules of a trade union or society notwithstanding.

(2) Nothing in the rules of a trade union or society requiring the settlement of disputes in any manner shall apply to any proceeding for enforcing any right or exemption secured by this section, and in any such proceeding the Civil Court may, in lieu of ordering a person who has been expelled from membership of a trade union or society to be restored to membership, order that he be paid out of the funds of the trade union or society such sum by way of compensation or damages as that Court thinks just.

[1][Conciliation Officers.

Amendment of conciliation officers.

18-A. (1) The Central Government, in respect of industries, businesses and undertakings carried on by [1][it] or under [1][its authority [2][or by the Federal Railway Authority or a Railway Company operating a Federal Railway]], and the Provincial Government, in respect of other businesses, industries or undertakings within [2][the] Province, may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint officers, herein referred to as conciliation officers, charged with the duty of mediating in or promoting the settlement of trade disputes.

(2) A conciliation officer may be appointed for a specified area or for specified businesses, industries or undertakings and either permanently or for a limited period.

(3) A conciliation officer, may for the purposes of inquiring into an existing or apprehended trade dispute after giving reasonable notice, enter the premises occupied by any industry, business or undertaking and may call for and inspect any document which he has ground for considering to be relevant to the trade dispute, and for the purposes of any such inquiry shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

(4) If any person supplying information or producing a document to a conciliation officer requests in writing that the information or the document or any part thereof shall be treated as confidential the conciliation officer shall not disclose such information or the contents of such document or part thereof except to—

(a) the authority which appointed him to be a conciliation officer; or

(b) the parties concerned in the dispute for the purpose of mediating therein or promoting the settlement thereof.

(5) If the conciliation officer contravenes the provisions of sub-section (4), he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(6) No Criminal Court shall take cognizance of an offience under this section except with the previous sanction of the authority appointing the conciliation officer; and no Civil Court shall without the like sanction entertain any suit against a conciliation officer in respect of the disclosure of any information or the contents of any document or part thereof of the nature referred to in sub-section (4).]

Rules.

Power to make rules.

19. (1) The Central Government in respect of industries, businesses and undertakings carried on by [2][it] or under [2][its] authority] [1][or by the Federal Railway Authority or a railway company operating a Federal Railway] and the Provincial Governments in respect of other businesses, industries or undertakings within their respective provinces, map make rules for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of this Act.

(1) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely :—

(a) the powers and procedure of Courts and Boards, including rules as to the summoning of witnesses, the production of documents relevant to the subject-matter of an inquiry or investigation and the number of members necessary to form a quorum;

(b) the alllowances admissible to members of Courts and Boards and to witnesses;

(c) the ministerial establishment which may be allotted to a Court or Board and the salaries and allowances payable to members of such establishments;

(d) the conditions and restrictions subject to which persons may be represented by legal practitioners in proceedings under this Act before a Court or Board;

(e) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

(3) All rules made under this section shall be published in the Official Gazette [2][* * * * * * *] and shall, on such publication, have effect as if enacted in this Act.

THE TRADE-MARKS ACT (V OF 1940).

PREFATORY NOTE: TRADE-MARK, WHAT IS.—"A trade-mark may be defined as a name, sign, symbol, or device which is attached to goods offered for sale in the market so as to distinguish them from similar goods, and to identify them with a particular trader, or with his successors, as owners of a particular business, as being made, worked upon, imported, selected, certified, or sold by him or them. It has been aptly described as the commercial substitute for one's own autographic signature, certifying to the genuineness of the goods to which it is affixed.

FUNCTION OF TRADE-MARK.—The sole office or function of a trade-mark is to indicate the origin or ownership of the goods to which it is affixed, and thus to distinguish the goods of one person from those of another. More than one trade-mark may be acquired for the same goods. (See Ame. Cyc.; and Rul., Case Law, Title "Trade-marks".)

PROTECTION OF TRADE-MARK.—The obvious purpose of distinguishing the goods of one person from those of another is to enable one to reap the benefit of the good-will and reputation which he has built up for his goods by means of his honesty, skill, and industry. Good-will is property. The unauthorized use or imitation of another's trade-mark being a means of appropriating the benefit of the latter's good-will, the real basis of the remedy for infringement is the protection of one's property rights in his business and good will. (See 1930 Cal. 678; 1930 Lah. 999).

GOODS SUBJECT TO TRADE-MARK.—Strictly speaking, trade-marks are applicable only to articles of traffic, that is, such articles as are bought and sold in the market. Sometimes, the term is loosely applied to names and marks used in a business, but not in connection with articles of traffic. This use of the term is inaccurate and probably means no more than that such names and marks will be protected under the doctrine of unfair competition. (See 49 All. 92=1927 All. 81.) A valid technical trade-mark may be acquired for use in connection with any lawful vendible commodity, and it is immaterial whether such article be natural or artificial, so long as it is the subject of barter and sale in the market. (See 59 Bom. 373=1935 Bom. 101.)

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted by A.O., 1937.

[2] Repealed by A.O., 1937.

NATURE OF TRADE-MARK RIGHT.—Since the sole function of a trade-mark is to indicate the origin or ownership of vendible commodities, trade-marks cannot exist separate and apart from a business to which they point and of which they are incident. There is no exclusive ownership of names, devices, or marks which constitute a trade-mark apart from the use or application of them. There is no such thing as an abstract right, or right in gross, to any particular name or mark. The property right of the proprietor is in the peculiar and added function of the word or mark as an identification of his goods, and in that alone. Trade-marks confer no exclusive right to represent an idea. ((1937 Lah. 186; 1939 Rang. 343 (F.B.); 66 C.L.J. 210; 1939 Lah. 999.)

RIGHT LIMITED TO PARTICULAR CLASS OF GOODS.—The right to the exclusive use of a trade-mark is further limited to a use on the particular class of goods upon which it has been actually used, and other persons may use even the identical mark or name in connection with a different class of goods. But the right extends to other goods of the same general class as that in which it has been applied. When one has acquired a trade-mark in connection with particular goods, no one else will be permitted to use such trade-mark upon goods which, while different, belong to the same general class. So where a trade-mark has been used on a particular species of goods, it cannot be thereafter appropriated by another as a trade-mark for a class of goods which includes such species. Goods are in the same class when the general and essential characteristics of the goods are the same, so that the general public would be likely to be misled if the same mark were used. The same trade-mark may be applied by the same person to many different classes of goods and is a valid trade-mark for each class. (39 P.L.R. 317=1937 Lah. 186; 1935 Bom. 101=59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165; 35 Bom. 425=13 Bom.L.R. 242.)

The true test to see whether two goods are of the same species is whether the two sets of goods are so commonly dealt in by the same trader that his customers knowing his mark in connection with one set and seeing it upon the other would be likely to suppose that it was used upon them also to indicate that they were his goods. Defendants were using certain mark on their piece goods and plaintiffs used the same for their balls of thread. Subsequently the defendants used the same mark for their yarn whereupon plaintiff sued for injunction, restraining defendants from using the mark for their yarn. Held, that cloth and yarn were goods of the same species and that the defendants were entitled to use their trade-mark on yarn. (39 P.L.R. 317=1937 Lah. 186.)

TERRITORIAL LIMITS.—Notwithstanding expressions to be found in some authorities to the effect that a trade-mark acknowledges no boundaries, and may be infringed anywhere, trade-mark rights are confined to the limits of the country under whose laws they were acquired. One person may own a particular trade-mark in one country, and the same trade-mark may belong to another person in another country, or the trade-mark may be valid in one country and invalid in another. Trade-marks are, however co-extensive with the jurisdiction of the sovereignty granting the right, and it is immaterial that the proprietor has not extended his business to a particular locality. Treaties between various countries have to some extent made provision for the protection of the trade-mark rights of their respective citizens.

WHO MAY ACQUIRE TRADE-MARK RIGHTS.—Only those persons who have some connection or relation to the goods to which the mark is applied can obtain a trade-mark, because the sole function of a trade-mark is to indicate that relation, and show the origin or ownership of the goods. Any persons, including corporations, and aliens, who are connected with particular goods in any of the following capacities, may acquire a trade-mark to indicate that connection, and to secure to them the benefits of their good-will: viz., manufacturers, workmen, dealers, or jobbers who merely select or sell goods manufactured by others, exporters, importers, commission merchants, and other persons bearing a similar relation to the goods. (See 1939 Rang. 381; 50 Cal. 762; 35 Bom. 425—importers.)

ACQUISITION OF RIGHT, MODE OF.—In common law, a trade-mark is acquired by mere adoption and user as such, subject to certain well-established rules as to what may be exclusively appropriated as a trade-mark, and as to what manner of use will constitute the mark used a trade-mark. The mark must be used in this country in order to acquire a trade-mark in this country.

A trade-mark right can be acquired only by actual use of the word or mark in the manner that trade-marks must be used. The goods with the mark must be placed upon the market. Mere adoption with intent to use in the future will not create a trade-mark.

It is not necessary that the word or mark should have been used for any definite or considerable length of time. A single actual use with intent to continue such use eo instanti confers a right to such word or mark as a trade-mark. It is sufficient if the article with the mark upon it has actually become a vendible article in the market, with intent upon the part of the proprietor to continue its production and sale. It is not necessary that the goods should have acquired a reputation for quality under that mark. Actual use under such circumstances as show an intention to adopt and use as a trade-mark is the test rather than the extent or duration of the use. A mere casual, intermittent, or experimental use may be insufficient to show an intention to adopt the mark as a trade-mark for specific article.

AFFIXATION OF MARK TO GOODS.—In order to become a valid trade-mark, the name or mark must be in some way physically attached to the goods, and go with them into the market. Use only as a name or sign upon a place of business, or in advertisements, circulars, and other similar ways, without being actually affixed to the goods is insufficient; however, it would suffice if the mark is affixed either upon the goods themselves, or upon the package or wrapper containing them or in any other way physically attached to the goods. (As to infringment by advertisement, see 37 All. 446=13 A.L.J. 697.)

USE OF TRADE-MARK.—In order to become a trade-mark, the mark must be used as a trade-mark, that is to say, it must be used as a distinguishing mark for the purpose of indicating the origin or ownership of the goods, and not merely their grade, class, or quality.

It is unnecessary, however, to give notice that a particular mark is claimed as a trade-mark; use of it as such is sufficient. A feature adopted merely for ornament is not a trade-mark; but of course an ornamental feature may be adopted and used as a trade-mark.

INFRINGEMENT OF TRADE-MARK.—Infringement of a trade-mark consists in the unauthorized use or colorable imitation of it upon substituted goods of the same class as those for which the mark has been appropriated. Relief is afforded upon the ground that it is a fraud to use another's trade-mark and thus pass off different goods as and for the goods of the proprietor of the mark rather than upon the ground of property in the mark itself. The essence of the wrong consists in the sale of the goods of one manufacturer or dealer as and for those of another by means of such trade-mark. It is only when this false representation is directly or impliedly made that relief will be granted. Use or imitation of a trade-mark at the instance of its owner affords him no cause of action. The doctrine of volenti non fit injuria applies. (As to acquiescence, see 1937 Rang. 490; 1939 Rang. 98.)

When a trade-mark is actually copied and used upon other goods of the same class, there is of course an infringement, and this is true even though other words or accessories are used in connection with it, because, being exclusive, it must not be used at all. But the words of a trade-mark may be lawfully used by another, if used, not as a trade-mark for rival goods, but honestly, in good faith, without any deceptive artifice, as part of a truthful descriptive statement applied to the goods. Unless colour is made an essential element of the trade-mark, it may be infringed by using it in the same or any other color. A trade-mark consisting of a name or word is infringed by use in any form or style of print, either with or without additions.

In order to constitute an infringement, it is not necessary that the trade-mark be exactly or literally copied. Similarly, identity is not the test of infringement of a trade-mark. It is not necessary that every word should be appropriated. The imitation need not amount to a forgery or an entire counterfeit. There is an infringement where the substantial and distinctive part of the trade-mark is copied or imitated, notwithstanding evasive attempts to hide the fact of imitation or the addition of colorable explanations, or the omission of non-essential parts. But the essential feature at least must be copied or imitated. If the words or marks look or sound alike there is an infringement. (See 1926 Cal. 837=43 C.L.J. 405; 1942 P.C. 40; 1935 Bom. 101.)

TEST OF INFRINGEMENT—TENDENCY TO DECEIVE.—Whether or not an imitation which is not an exact copy constitutes an infringement depends upon whether the resemblance is sufficiently close to deceive purchasers and so pass off the goods of one man as being those of another. Where one mark could not reasonably be mistaken for the other, and deception is improbable or impossible, there is no infringement. In applying this test it has been said that all doubts ought to be resolved in favour of the prior trader and against the imitator. Proof of actual deception of purchasers is not necessary to obtain relief. (1926 Cal. 837.) It is the probability of deception which calls for a remedy. Of course actual instances of deception constitute the strongest possible proof of the deceptive character of the imitation. The doctrine of infringement of trade-marks by deceptive imitation is nothing more than an application of the broader doctrine of unfair competition. (59 Bom. 373=1935 Bom. 101=36 Bom.L.R. 1165.)

SIMILARITY—TEST TO DETERMINE WHEN SIMILARITY CONSTITUTES INFRINGEMENT.—In determining whether an alleged infringing trade-mark is sufficiently similar to be deceptive, and therefore an infringement, ordinary purchasers, buying under the usual conditions prevailing in the trade, and giving such attention as such purchasers usually give in buying that class of goods, are the standard. If such a purchaser would probably be deceived into purchasing one article thinking it was the other, there is an infringement, otherwise not. Some cases hold the similarity to be an infringement if sufficient to deceive an "incautious" or "unwary", "unobservant", or "unsuspecting" purchaser, while a few cases refer to deception of a cautious or careful purchaser, or otherwise apparently require a somewhat greater degree of similarity. It has been said that it must appear that the ordinary mass of purchasers, paying that attention which such persons usually do, would probably be deceived. The resemblance need not be sufficient to deceive experts or persons specially familiar with the goods. The ultimate consumer who makes the market not the immediate purchaser, is the one whose deception is the vital fact. If upon the whole there is a deceptive similarity between the marks, it is immaterial that a critical inspection and comparison discloses differences, or that persons seeing the two trade-marks side by side would not be deceived. Ocular comparison of the tout ensemble is the best means of determining the fact of deceptive and infringing imitation. (99 I.C. 727=4 Rang. 381=1927 Rang. 49; 1926 Cal. 837.)

INFRINGEMENT—QUESTION OF FACT.—What similarity between two marks is sufficient to deceive, and hence to constitute an infringement is a question of fact to be determined in each case by its own circumstances.

INTENT TO DECEIVE.—Guilty knowledge or fraudulent intent is not an essential element of infringement of a techical trade-mark. It is well settled that an infringement will be restrained irrespective of the question of intention on the part of defendant. [I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 85=38 Bom.L.R. 894=1936 Bom. 418; 54 M.L.J. 644=1928 Mad. 759].

It is the invasion of plaintiff's property right in his good-will that supports the remedy. Fraudulent intent may be material, however, where an accounting of damages and profits is sought in addition to injunctive relief.

Persistence in the use of an infringing mark after notice constitutes intentional infringement, and is strong evidence of fraud. Fraudulent intent may be inferred from imitation.

REMOVAL AND SUBSTITUTION OF TRADE-MARK BY DEALER.—A dealer may legally remove the trade-marks from articles made by another and purchased by himself, and resell them with his own trade-marks placed thereon.

REFILLING MARKED BOTTLES OR PACKAGES.—It is a plain infringement to take another's bottles or packages marked with his trade-mark, and refill them with spurious goods, and then sell them in the market.

RELATIVE MERITS OF GOODS—NOT MATERIAL.—Upon the question of infringement, it is immaterial whether defendant's goods are of inferior or superior quality to that of plaintiff's. In either case he has no right to sell them under plaintiff's mark, and thereby avail himself of the benefit of the good-will and reputation of plaintiff's goods.

USE OF ONE'S OWN NAME ON GOODS.—The mere fact that an infringer uses his own name in connection with the mark is not sufficient to rebut deception and prevent his use or imitation of the mark from being an infringement. [See 56 I.C. 709; 1931 P.C. 15 (P.C.).]

CONTRIBUTION OF TRADE-MARK.—A trade-mark consisting of a combination of common elements is not infringed unless the combination is used. Where only the common and non-exclusive feature is used there is no infringement.

CONTRIBUTORY INFRINGEMENT.—One who furnishes another with the means of infringement is liable as a contributor infringer.

USE OF MARK ON DIFFERENT CLASS OF GOODS.—The right to the exclusive use of a trade-mark is limited to a use of it upon some particular class of goods. Accordingly, it is not an infringement for another person to use even the same identical trade-mark upon a different class of goods from that to which the prior user applied it. Goods are in the same class, within this rule, whenever the use of a given trade-mark name, or symbol would enable an unscrupulous dealer to palm off on unsuspecting customers spurious goods as being the genuine goods of the proprietor of the trade-mark. [See 67 I.A. 212=44 C.W.N. 737=1940 P.C. 86=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.).]

UNFAIR COMPETITION AND PASSING OFF ACTIONS.—Unfair competition consists in passing off or attempting to pass off, upon the public the goods or business of one person as and for the goods or business of another. It consists essentially in the conduct of a trade or business in such a manner that there is either an express or implied representation, to that effect. And it may be stated broadly that any conduct, the natural and probable tendency and effect of which is to deceive the public so as to pass off the goods or business of one person as and for that of another constitutes actionable unfair competition. The definition is comprehensive enough to reach every possible means of effecting the result. Unfair competition as thus defined is a legal wrong for which the courts afford a remedy. It is a tort and a fraud. The basic principle is that no one has a right to dress up his goods or otherwise represent them in such a manner as to deceive an intending purchaser and induce him to believe he is buying the goods of another. (See 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom. L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101; 1937 M.W.N. 271; 1936 Bom. 418.)

No inflexible rule can be laid down as to what conduct will constitute unfair competition. Each case is, in a measure, a law unto itself. Unfair competition is always a question of fact. The question to be determined in every case is whether or not, as a matter of fact, the name or mark used by defendant has previously come to indicate and designate plaintiff's goods, or, to state it another way, whether defendant, as a matter of fact, is by his conduct passing off his goods as plaintiff's goods, or his business as plaintiff's business. The universal test question is whether the public is likely to be deceived. (1931 Mad. 461.)

Unfair competition involves trading upon another's reputation and good-will, and the injury is the same regardless of the intent with which it is done. An actual fraudulent intent need not be shown. (38 Bom.L.R. 894=1936 Bom. 418; 1928 Mad. 759=54 M.L. J. 644.)

TRADE-MARK CASES DISTINGUISHED.—The infringement of a trade-mark is one means of passing off the goods of one person as and for the goods of another and indeed, the remedy for infringement is based upon this principle. Accordingly the law of trade-marks is merely a specialized branch of the broader doctrine of unfair competition. The doctrine of unfair competition, although not under that name, was recognised at a very early day. (See 157 I.C. 902.)

Protection gainst unfair competition is afforded upon the same general principles upon which technical trade-marks are protected. The principal distinction between infringement of trade-mark and unfair competition is that in the latter class of cases no exclusive proprietary interest in the names or marks used to deceive is necessary to relief, while in trade-mark cases an exclusive right is necessary. In trade-marks cases it is not necessary to prove that the mark or name has acquired a secondary meaning, and come to indicate plaintiff's goods. In unfair competition cases this is necessary, and, in fact, is the very basis of relief. (157 I.C. 902; 46 L.W. 635=1938 Mad. 1=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 651.)

It is the duty of a subsequent trader coming into an established trade not to dress up his goods or market them in such a way as to cause confusion between his goods or business and that of a prior trader. Even conceding that the later trader has an equal abstract right to use particular words, names, or marks, yet if his unexplained use of them will cause confusion and deception, he must accompany such use with affirmative distinguishing features sufficient to render deception improbable. This rule applies to all classes of names including descriptive, generic, personal, and geographical names, which, although primarily publici juris, have acquired a secondary meaning. Where a name has aiquired a secondary meaning, and come to indicate the source of particular articles, the mere use of such a name by another, unaccompanied by adequate distinguishing statements, in itself amounts to an artifice calculated and intended to deceive, and constitutes unfair competition. (1937 M.W.N. 271; 1936 Bom. 418.)

TRADE-NAMES.—Trade names have been frequently confused with trade-marks, and, broadly considered, they do include names which may constitute technical trade-marks. More accurately, however, trade-names are names which are used in trade to designate a particular business of certain individuals considered somewhat as an entity, or the place at which a business is located, or of a class of goods, but which are not technical trade-marks either because not applied or affixed to goods sent into the market, or because not capable of exclusive appropriation by any one as trade-marks. Such trade-names may, or may not, be exclusive. Exclusive trade-names are protected very much upon the same principles as trade-marks, and the same rules that govern trade-marks are applied in determining what may be an exclusive trade-name. Non-exclusive trade-names are names that are publici juris in their primary sense, but which in a secondary sense have come to be understood as indicating the goods or business of a particular trader. Trade-names are acquired by adoption and user, and belong to the one who first used them and gave them a value. Abandonment of trade-names is governed by the same rules as apply to technical trade-marks. Trade-names are protected against use or imitation upon the ground of unfair competition. (1923 Bom. 119.)

REGISTRATION.—Registration under the statute confers no new rights to the mark claimed or any greater rights than already exist at common law without registration. It does, however, facilitate the remedy, which may be obtained and enforced throughout the entire State, and it establishes a record of facts affecting the right to the mark. Registration may also be important under treaty stipulations where international protection is sought for the trade-mark. Registration of matters or features which are publici juris confers no exclusive right therein. Registration does not itself create a trade-mark. The trade-mark exists independently of the registration which merely affords further protection under the statute. Common-law rights are left wholly unaffected. Priority in adoption and use as a common-law trade-mark is superior to priority in registration. (See 188 I.C. 462; 66 M.L.J. 440=1934 Mad. 211.)

A certificate reciting that the rules have been complied with and that the trade-mark has been duly registered is evidence of that fact. Registration is evidence that the name is not descriptive. A certificate from the patent office is evidence that what is shown to have been filed was filed at the time stated. The applicant is concluded as to date of adoption and user by his sworn statement made part of his application. Registered trade-marks are limited by the claim. The exclusive right to use the mark is limited to use upon the class of goods for which it was registered as set forth in the statement filed in the office.

INJUNCTIONS—PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION.—Preliminary injunctions, based upon ex parte affidavits, and in advance of a hearing upon full proofs, are granted much more cautiously than in the case of permanent injunctions upon final hearing. Accordingly all the limitations and qualifications upon the granting of permanent injunctions apply with added force to preliminary injunctions. In trade-mark cases it is not a matter of course to grant preliminary injunctions even where plaintiff's case seems prima facie to be made out. The usual considerations affecting the just discretion of the Court in granting preliminary injunctions are fully applicable. The absence of fraudulent intent, the financial responsibility of defendant, and other like considerations may be taken into account in granting or denying the injunction. Preliminary injunctions rest in the sound discretion of the trial Court. The case must be reasonably strong and free from doubt to justify a preliminary injunction. But where plaintiff's right and defendant's infringement are clearly shown, a preliminary injunction would be granted. Thus where plaintiff's title to a trade-mark is res judicata, or at least established by a prior adjudication and infringement is admitted or clearly shown a preliminary injunction should be granted. (See 1938 Cal. 458; 26 S.L.R. 335=139 I.C. 490; 1933 Lah. 1046.)

The balance of convenience rule is especially applicable upon an application for injunction in trade-mark and unfair competition cases. Terms may be imposed. Thus, it is not unusual to require defendant to keep an account, or to give a bond, as a condition of denying a motion for a preliminary injunction, and plaintiff may also be required to give a bond as a condition of granting a preliminary injunction. (1933 Lah. 1046.)

A preliminary injunction will usually be dissolved upon the coming in of an answer denying the fact and showing cause which such injunction should not have been granted. A mandatory injunction will not generally be granted in advance of the trial or final hearing.

PERMANENT INJUNCTION.—A permanent injunction at final hearing is a matter of course and of right where plaintiff's title to the mark and defendant's infringement of it are clearly shown, and there are no countervailing equities. Actual or threatened infringement or violation of plaintiff's rights must be shown. Cessation of infringement, pendente lite, is no reason for refusing an injunction, and even discontinuance of infringement before commencement of the suit is not necessarily a bar, especially where that fact was unknown to plaintiff and defendant contests the suit, as there may be danger that he will resume the infringement. But an injunction may be denied where the infringement was discontinued in good faith, and there is no reason to believe it will be resumed. An injunction will be granted against threatened infringement, even in advance of any actual loss. Actual deception and damage need not be shown in order to support an injunction against infringement or unfair competition. An injunction may be granted, although the use shown is too slight to warrant an accounting. An injunction may be refused within the sound discretion of the Court. Plaintiff's right or title to the mark or name should be clear, or established at law, before injunction should be granted. Where there is a real controversy between the parties as to whether both were not concerned in the establishment of the business in connection with which the name or mark is used, it is not a case for injunction until the right has been determined in a regular suit or otherwise. (1923 Bom. 119; 4 A.W.R. 1028.)

The injunction must conform to the usual requirements; and it should be framed with a view to the exact nature of the injury, and the causes that mislead the public, in the particular case. The object of the Court in these cases is to see how effectually unfair trade can be put a stop to, not to be astute to see how little the fraudulent business of defendant can be interfered with. The degree of restraint in any particular case is always commensurate with the necessities of the situation. The injunction should be no broader than necessary to prevent deception and protect plaintiff's rights. (As to the form in which an injunction order is passed, see 1930 Cal. 678; 1937 Cal. 528; 61 Cal. 571.)

The injunction should be definite, precise, and particular, so that all who see it may know with certainty what is and what is not permitted. A decree in such general terms as to amount to a sweeping injunction to obey the law is objectionable upon the ground of indefiniteness, and should not be granted. It should enjoin specifically the use of the marks, words, or devices adjudged misleading, or an infringement, and to this specific injunction should be added a general clause to prevent merely colorable evasion. This form of decree will definitely determine that defendant may not continue the particular form of infringement or unfair competition which has been litigated and adjudicated, and it will leave him at liberty to determine for himself what other forms of inscriptions or devices he may safely and properly use. It is not a proper function of a Court of equity, after finding infringement, to indulge in label making, and to give its approval in advance to a changed form proposed to be adopted by defendant to avoid future liability.

DISOBEDIENCE OF INJUNCTION—CONTEMPT OF COURT.—Violation of an injunction may be punished as a contempt of Court. The president of a corporation may be guilty of contempt for violation of an injunction running against the corporation. An injunction restraining the use of certain marks, words, or names is violated by use thereof although in connection with other added matter.

SUCCESSIVE INJUNCTIONS AND RES JUDICATA.—The ordinary rules in respect to the doctrine of res judicata, and the granting of successive injunctions, have full application in this class of cases. But as infringement or unfair competition is a tort, and a continuing wrong, each deceptive "passing off" giving rise to a new and separate cause of action, a prior decree is not an absolute bar to the maintenance of a subsequent suit for a continuance of the infringement or unfair competition, especially where the subsequent acts of defendant are not identically the same as those previously adjudicated. Even if a second injunction is unnecessary, because defendant is violating an injunction already granted by which he is bound, a new suit may be maintained upon the new cause of action; and a fortiori this rule applies where the new acts of infringement are committed in a different district or jurisdiction, where defendant cannot be reached by contempt proceedings, or where they were committed by one not a party to the prior suit and who cannot be punished as for a contempt, even if he could be reached. Where defendant has changed his form of infringement since the prior decree, and there is any substantial question whether the new form is an infringement, that question will not be adjudicated in contempt proceedings brought to punish for violation of the prior injunction, but the plaintiff will have to seek his remedy in fresh proceedings.

ACCOUNTING AND DAMAGES.—The general rule is that upon obtaining an injunction for infringement of a trade-mark, plaintiff is entitled to recover deft.'s profits on the goods sold under that mark, and to a reference to ascertain them. The same rule applies to cases of unfair competition, as in technical trade-marks. In such cases the Court holds the infringer or unfair trader liable as a trustee for the rightful owner to the extent of the profits realized upon the infringing goods or from the unlawful or wrongful business. The accounting is taken upon equitable principles, and any facts rendering the general rule inequitable will bar its application. Thus laches, acquiescence, and delay is a bar to an accounting for profits and a recovery of damages. Where the amount of damages suffered, or of profits realized, is seen to be very small, or the infringing use has been very slight, equity will limit its relief to an injunction and deny an accounting. An accounting will not be directed where the evidence shows that there is no rational rule by which to estimate the profits recoverable. An accounting will also be denied where both parties were found at fault. An accounting of profits or damages will not be ordered where the infringing use of the trade-mark or trade-name was merely accidental or without actual fraudulent intent. The profits obtained by defendant after the filing of the suit are not the result of innocent infringement and may be recovered. Where the infringement or unfair competition is wilful and intentional that is to say, fraudulent, the complainant is entitled to an accounting of damages and profits as a matter of course and of right in the absence of any valid defence. [1937 Cal. 528; 188 I.C. 462; 1932 Rang. 56; 56 M.L.J. 282 (P.C.); 1927 All. 81.]

Defendant must account for all profits made on all goods sold under the infringing mark or name, and not merely for those shown to be due to the infringement. (1939 Bom. 198=41 Bom.L.R. 290.)

If the right to use a trade-mark is common to two or more persons, neither will be allowed to recover full profits against an infringer, but each will be permitted to recover only according to his own interest.

The cost of manufacture and defendant's selling expenses should be deducted in ascertaining profits. Salaries paid to managing officers should ordinarily be allowed as a credit in ascertaining the cost of manufacture and sale.

No allowance can be made for defendant's services in wronging plaintiff by his unfair competition.

INTEREST ON PROFITS.—Interest on profits may be awarded from the time of commencement of the action.

BURDEN OF PROOF AS TO DAMAGES.—The burden of proof is upon plaintiff to show damages and profits if a recovery thereof is sought. (See 1932 Rang. 56.)

PRACTICE—DISCOVERY AND INSPECTION.—Plaintiff is entitled to the usual discovery and inspection from defendant in aid of his claim and upon the accounting.

COSTS.—Costs are governed by the usual rules, and, as in other cases, are largely discretionary, being granted or withheld as the equities of the particular case require. Costs will usually be awarded to a successful complainant upon the granting of an injunction, but may be denied where the infringement was inadvertent, and not persisted in, or where both parties have been found at fault. Costs subsequent to a preliminary injunction entered on defendant's consent may be imposed on plaintiff where he fails to secure any broader decree, Court generally exercises its discretion as to costs with great freedom. (See 52 L.W. 745=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 793=1941 Mad. 31.)

INFRINGEMENT OF TRADE-MARK—PENAL OFFENCE.—Violations of trade-marks have to some extent been made criminal or penal offences. An indictment, or complaint for a trade-mark offence must conform to the usual rules, and state facts showing every element of an offence under the statute. There must be no fatal variance between the facts charged and the facts proved. (See 1938 Lah. 186; 1930 Oudh 360; Indian Penal Code, Ss. 478 to 489.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—"In May, 1879, the Government of India introduced a Bill in the Imperial Legislative Council for the registration of trade-marks in India, but legislation was not proceeded with owing to lack of support from commercial bodies. Since then the question of undertaking legislation has been considered by the Government of India on several occasions. Until 1928, commercial opinion of India was found, either unanimously or on the balance, to be against the proposal. The demand for legislation has, however, strengthened during the last ten years with the growth of industry and trade in India and the increasing realization that without a system of statutory registration trade-marks cannot enjoy adequate protection either at home or abroad.

THE TRADE-MARKS ACT (V OF 1940).

[11th March. 1940.

An Act to provide for the registration and more effective protection of Trade Marks.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the registration and more effective protection of trade marks ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

NOTES.

TRADE-NAME—NATURE OF RIGHT.—The sole right to restrain anybody from using any name that he likes in the course of any business he chooses to carry on is a right in the nature of a trade-mark. 1923 Bom. 119. The principle underlying the use of trade-name is that a person shall not trade under a name so closely resembling that of the plaintiff as to be mistaken for it by the public. In other words a person shall not carry on his business in such a way as to represent that his business was the business of another person. The question to be determined in cases of this description is whether there is such a similarity between the two names as that the one is in the ordinary course of human affairs likely to be confounded with the other. It is not necessary to prove that the defendants in taking the name complained of by the plaintiffs had any fraudulent intent. It is enough if the plaintiffs prove that the act of the defendants in assuming the name complained of, does an injury to the plaintiffs' rights. There is no question in such cases of property or monopoly in the name. There is no property in the word but at the same time it is fraud on a person who has established a trade and carries it on under a given name that some other person assumes the same name with a slight alteration in such a way as to induce persons to deal with him in the belief that they are dealing with the person who has given a reputation to the name. 24 Bom.L.R. 1181=1923 Bom. 119. See also 49 L.W. 556=1939 Mad. 555=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 635; 1940 Lah. 39. There are two distinct classes of rights in respect of the name of business: One only arises when that name or some part of it, whether it be what is known as a fancy word, an ordinary word or a geographical name, has come to mean the goods of, or to connote the skill, probity or excellence of the particular business. The other class of right is to a distinct name, that is the right to prevent others from adopting a name which is likely to lead the public to mistake another new business for the plaintiff's business. This right arises immediately on the user of the name by the first person who uses it, provided that the name used does not infringe the rights of another person. 61 Cal. 571. A name which is substantially and widely established is not on the account any the less entitled to protection. It is difficult to perceive why, on the ground of public policy or otherwise, a reputation, once de facto found to be established, in a word of even universal currency in relation to restricted class of goods should be disentitled to the protection of the Courts. 157 I.C. 902.

TRADE-MARK AND TRADE-NAME—DISTINCTION.—A trade-mark must be some visible concrete device or design affixed to indicate the manufacturer whose property the trade-mark is. Distinction between trade-and trade-name pointed out. 40 Cal. 281=17 C.W.N. 227=18 I.C. 404.

CASES RELATING TO BUSINESS NAME AND TRADE-MARK—PRINCIPLES APPLICABLE—DISTINCTION.—One of the few distinctions between the principles applicable to cases relating to business names and those relating to trade-marks is that the rule as to anything being common to the trade does not apply to the former class, except when it is claimed that the business name or part of it connotes the plaintiff's goods or work. At the same time, any word descriptive or otherwise, which is common to the trade is not sufficiently distinctive to found a title to an exclusive right thereto, although the man, who is the first who uses a business name entirely consisting of words common to the trade, is entitled to restrain the use of a new name which is likely to deceive the public into a belief that a rival business is his. 61 Cal. 571.

TRADE NAME—INFRINGEMENT—QUESTION FOR CONSIDERATION AND DECISION.—Two issues must always arise in a passing off action. First, has the name or description or make up, or whatever it may be, of the wrongful user of which the plaintiff complains, come to be associated in the public mind with the goods, business or works of the plaintiff, secondly, is the defendant so describing or getting up, his goods or whatever it may be, as to be likely to mislead the public into believing that they are acquiring the plaintiff's goods, when in fact they are acquiring the defendant's goods. The foundation of a passing off action is that nobody is entitled to represent his goods as the goods of somebody else. The issues in each case have to be framed with reference to the facts of that case, but the plaintiff has always to succeed substantially on the two issues. 44 Bom.L.R. 505.

TRADE-NAME — FRAUDULENT USE OF—WHAT IS.—If the use by the defendants of their firm name does in fact necessarily result in their goods being taken for the goods of plaintiffs, the continued use by the defendants of that firm name would become fraudulent. 34 L.W. 977=1931 P.C. 15 =61 M.L.J. 334 (P.C.). See also 50 L. W. 872=1940 Mad. 145=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 749. In order to justify the Court at a plaintiff's instance from prohibiting the defendant firm from using its own name in all or any of its business transactions, it is essential for that plaintiff to establish by proper evidence two facts. He must prove that the words in the names of the firms are so alike that the latter will be taken as the same as or equivalent to the former. He must further prove that his firm name has acquired a secondary meaning, i.e., that the word, when applied to goods, means that the goods are the goods of the plaintiff, and of no one else. 34 L.W. 977=1931 P. C. 15=61 M.L.J. 334 (P.C.). There can be no possibility of deception between two things which are essentially different, although the two things may bear the same name or title. Where both parties have, without any intention to deceive, taken the same title for their goods or works neither of them has any right to restrain the other from using the title unless he can show that it has become associated in the minds of the public with his work and nobody else's, and that there was any actual or any likelihood of deception by reason of the identity of the two names or titles. 44 Bom.L.R. 505. The foundation of a passing off action is always deception, or possibility of deception but it is not an action in deceit. It is never the case of the plaintiff in a passing-off action that he has been himself deceived by the action of the defendant. His case is that other people, the public, have been deceived, or are likely to be deceived. But a private individual cannot sue for a wrong decree to the public. The plaintiff must therefore prove that the action of the defendant has infringed some proprietary right of his own. It is not necessary to prove any fraudulent intention on the part of the defendant, though, if a fraudulent intention is proved, that usually assists the plaintiff's case. 44 Bom.L.R. 505.

TRADE-NAME—GOODWILL OF HOTEL BUSINESS.—Ordinarily a hotel connotes the business carried on by a person though sometimes the term is also used with regard to premises but it is only owing to their association with the original business carried on by them. Where a person purchased the materials and gardens in which a hotel had been run, held, that the vendee did not purchase the goodwill of the business or the right to use the name in which the hotel business had been carried on and that the vendee could not continue the business under the original name at some other place. 32 P.L.R. 542=1931 Lah. 650.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE TRADE MARKS ACT, 1940.

NOTES.

TRADING IN OWN NAME, SUCH NAME ALSO BEING ANOTHER'S—SIMILARITY IN GET-UP OF GOODS—IF NECESSARY—PRINCIPLE—FORM OF INJUNCTION.—No man can have the right to represent his goods as the goods of another person; where a man merely uses his own name, there is no prima facie case that he is selling his goods as the goods of another person. The fundamental principle is that no man has any right to represent that his business is the business of another person, but where a man carries on business in his own name which happens to be also the name of another, he does not make any such representation, but represents only what is the 'accurate and exact truth,' namely, that it is his business. This principle cannot, however, be invoked by a person who uses his name in combination with other words as a trade name which, taken as a whole, does not represent the bare truth, and whose conduct otherwise also shows that he deliberately intends to pass off his goods as those of another. Where a name has acquired a secondary signification as exclusively denoting the goods of a particular trader, mere dissimilarity in get-up is immaterial and affords no protection to the person who uses that name, and he is liable to be restrained by an injunction from carrying on his business in such name without taking reasonable precaution to clearly distinguish the business carried on by him and the goods manufactured by him from the business carried on and the goods manufactured by the other person. 50 L. W. 872=1940 Mad. 145=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 749. See also 61 M.L.J. 334 (P.C.).

GOODS, IF TO BE IDENTICAL OR BELONG TO THE SAME CLASS.—Where a particular name has become associated with goods manufactured or sold by the plaintiff, he is entitled to the protection of its name against persons who use that name on goods which are so similar to that of the plaintiff that the purchaser might infer a common origin. It is not necessary that the goods should be identical or belong to the same class. 54 L.W. 207=1941 M.W.N. 1018=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 435.

DAMAGES—METHOD OF ASSESSMENT.—In a suit for damages against the defendant for setting up a similar business in a similar name which was likely to lead the public to mistake the defendant's business for the plaintiff's, the method of assessment is to allow the plaintiff's usual percentage of profits on the difference between the plaintiff's usual gross trade earning before the unfair competition began and his actual earnings thereafter, with a lump sum for expected increase of business. Where, however, the plaintiff's business was affected by trade depression, and the plaintiff cut down his advertising and shifted to cheaper premises, any increase of business is eliminated and something must be deducted for trade depression, change of address and curtailed advertising. 61 Cal. 571.

Sec. 1: N. B.—As this Act was passed only in 1940, cases bearing on the subject decided before the passing of the Act have been cited under the appropriate section.

TRADE-MARK, ACQUISITION OF—LAW PRIOR TO THIS ACT.—Prior to this Act a trade-mark could be acquired or abandoned in the same way. No length of time was required for either. 22 I.C. 372=40 Cal. 814. In a country like India, where there was no statute for registering trade-marks, a right to a trade-mark was acquired by user. 99 I.C. 353=49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 81; 1929 Rang. 322. A registration of the ownership as regards a particular design under the Registration Act was nothing more than the opinion and claim of the declarant. As there was no statute for registering trade-marks in India 'a right to a trade-mark was acquired by user'. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 665=42 C.W.N. 1121=66 C.L.J. 210=1938 Cal. 216.

PROPERTY IN TRADE-MARK, ACQUISITION OF.—Property in a word name or any other trade-mark cannot be acquired until the vendible article is put on the market, for no property can be acquired except through the process of sale, or offering for sale, in the market. Nor can there be property in a trade-mark apart from the goods of which it has become the symbol. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101.

RIGHTS ACQUIRED IN ENGLAND—NO EFFECT ON RIGHTS IN INDIA.—In respect of rights in trade-marks and trade names any rights acquired by the parties in England have no effect on the rights of the parties in India. The rights of industrial property in India are governed by the laws of India and are in no way affected by the laws of England or by the action of parties in England. 50 Bom. 402=28 Bom.L.R. 243=1926 Bom. 200.

DECLARATION OF DESCRIPTION—EVIDENCE OF GENUINENESS.—Although there was no Trade-mark Act in India prior to 1940 a declaration of the description of a trade-mark served the useful purpose of being some evidence of the genuineness of the mark which may be the subject-matter of it. 1930 Cal. 678.

TRADE-MARKK—WHAT IS—A NUMERICAL FIGURE.—A number may be a trade-mark as much as any other design. 41 Bom. 49=

NOTES.

34 I.C. 529=18 Bom.L.R. 206. A combination of numerals, if distinctive, can form a trade-mark. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101.

RIGHT TO TRADE-MARK—HOW ACQUIRED—DISTINCTIVE AND DESCRIPTIVE MARK—DIFFERENCE BETWEEN.—A trader acquires a right of property in a distinctive mark merely by using it upon or in connection with his goods irrespective of the length of such user and of the extent of his trade. Where a mark or phrase merely describes the quality or origin of an article such as "custard Powder," "Malted Milk" or "Gripe Water," it is not capable of distinguishing the goods of one maker from those of others, and the mark is merely descriptive; but a mark is distinctive where it points to the goods of a particular person as for instance in the cases of "Life Buoy" soap, "Wincarnis," or "Three Nuns" tobacco. If the mark be a distinctive one, the trader who adopts it is entitled to protection directly the article having assumed a vendible character is launched upon the market. As between two competitors who are each desirous of adopting a mark which is distinctive in character it is, to use familiar language, entirely a question of who gets there first. 1939 Rang. L.R. 488=1939 Rang. 343 (F.B.). See also 66 C. L. J. 210=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 665=42 C.W. N. 1121.

DESCRIPTIVE AND FANCY NAMES.—Where the articles can be denoted by a proper descriptive name, but the person inventing or discovering it chooses to describe the article by a fancy name, and manufactures and sells the same under that fancy name, no one is allowed to appropriate that name, and manufacture and sell the article under that fancy name. 'Urea Stibamine' is not a descriptive name of the article at all and has no chemical meaning, but it is a fancy name. 95 I.C. 667=43 C.L.J. 405=1926 Cal. 837. For the protection of public it is necessary that a trade-mark should be something beyond a mere adjective describing the quality of the material. If a foreign word or a word in dead language not known to people in general is used that word itself because it is not understood may very reasonably become a trade-mark. Ragget v. Findlater, (1874) 17 Eq. 29, Rel.) (Ford v. Foster, 7 Ch. 611; Braham v. Bustard, 1 H. & M. 447 and Reddaway v. Banham, (1896) A.C. 190, Ref.) 1930 Lah. 999.

PROPERTY—TRADE-MARK—NATURE OF.—In a trade-mark there can be no property in gross, apart from goods of which it has become the symbol. 35 Bom. 425=10 I.C. 805=13 Bom. L. R. 242. In the case of a trade-mark identified with a particular manufactory the rights of the person whose trade-mark it was would not differ substantially from those which would exist if it were strictly speaking his property. (Reddaway v. Banham, (1896), A. C. 199, Ref.) 1930 Cal. 678.

ACQUISITION OF TRADE-MARK RIGHT—CONDITIONS.—Nobody has any exclusive right or ownership in any mark alone, unless that mark is associated by use with a particular description or species of goods imported or manufactured by him. In such a case the person concerned becomes the owner of that trade-mark but only with regard to that description or species of goods. 39 P. L.R. 317=1937 Lah. 186.

RIGHT TO USE OF MARK—IF CONFINED TO ARTICLE BEARING PARTICULAR MARK—ENGLISH LAW.—Unlike as in England where a trade-mark is registered not only for a particular article but for a class of goods under which the article falls, in India the right to use a particular trade-mark is confined to the article to which it is affixed; but a plaintiff may prove, by proper and sufficient evidence, that the trade-mark in question has become so identified and associated with his products that his name would suggest itself to a purchaser on seeing it on any product like the one which is alleged by the plaintiff to be an "allied" product. But the acquisition of an exclusive right to a trade-mark in respect of a particular commercial article cannot confer on the owner thereof a right to prohibit the use by others of such mark in relation to goods of a totally different character. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101. Although in India the exclusive right to use a particular mark is confined to the article to which it is affixed, it is open to a party claiming a right in a particular mark to establish that it has been so identified and associated with his products that his name would suggest itself to a purchaser on seeing it on any other allied product. 39 P.L.R. 317=1937 Lah. 186.

LAW APPLICABLE BEFORE PASSING OF THIS ACT.—Before this Act, in India, the law of trade-marks was not governed by statute. There was no statutory system of registration and the rights and liabilities in connection with trade-marks were determined by reference to the principles of the Common Law of England. (38 Cal. 110, Ref.) 42 Cal. 262=27 I.C. 483=19 C.W.N. 1.

ENGLISH DECISIONS — APPLICABILITY.—In trade-mark cases conditions peculiar to India must be borne in mind in applying any doctrine of English law, and English decisions which turn or partly turn on questions of fact—as do most cases of common law trade-marks and passing off—can only be applied with care and circumspection. 67 I.A. 212=I.L.R. (1940) A. 466=52 L.W. 25=44 C.W.N. 737=1940 P.C. 86=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.). Per Niamatullah, J.—There was no statutory law in India on the subject of trade-marks. Cases of alleged infringement of trade-marks had to be decided according to rules of justice, equity and good conscience. English law on the subject was applied not because it is applicable as such in India, but because it

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) This section and section 85 shall come into force at once ; the remaining provisions of the Act shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint in this behalf. Any notification if issued may be mention in the notes as to commencement.

Definitions.

2. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) " associated trade marks " means trade marks deemed to be, or required to be registered as, associated trade marks under this Act ;

(b) " certification trade mark " means a mark adapted in relation to any goods to distinguish in the course of trade goods certified by any person in respect of origin, material, mode of manufacture, quality, accuracy or other characteristic, from goods not so certified and registrable as such under the provisions of Chapter VIII in respect of those goods in the name, as proprietor of the certification trade mark, of that person ;

(c) " District Court " has the meaning assigned to it in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 ;

(d) " High Court " means a High Court as defined in sub-section (1) of section 219 of the Government of India Act, 1935 ;

(e) " limitations " (with its grammatical variations) means any limitations of the exclusive right to the use of a trade mark given by the registration of a person as proprietor thereof, including limitations of that right as to mode of use, as to use in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in within British India, or as to use in relation to goods to be exported to any market outside British India ;

(f) " mark " includes a device, brand, heading,label, ticket, name, signature, word, letter or numeral or any combination thereof ; embodies rules of justice, equity and good conscience. Conditions peculiar to this country however, necessitated acceptance of the English law with certain modifications. In England there is now the Trade-Marks Act of 1905, under which trade-marks are registered for specified classes of goods. Though the provisions of that enactment are based on decisions given before the Act was passed, the decisions under the Act should be applied with caution, as they are not infrequently based on the terms of the statute rather than on the broad principles of justice, equity and good conscience, which influenced the decisions before the Act. 57 A. 510=1935 A. 7. A decision of a High Court in India based on English law not conflicting with the ordinary principles of jurisprudence with regard to trade-marks and those forbidding the passing-off of goods, will not be disturbed by their Lordships of the Privy Council, although the English Trade-Marks Act is not in force in India. 51 I.A. 269=51 Cal. 892 =29 C.W.N. 81=1924 P.C. 187=47 M. L.J. 69 (P.C.).

RIGHT TO TRADE-MARK — PROTECTION — CONDITIONS FOR GRANT OF.—Protection cannot be granted in respect of a trade-mark unless the plaintiff establishes that the particular mark indicates not merely a certain quality of goods but also that they are the goods of the plaintiff's manufacture. But no claim can be made to a trade-mark in respect of a commodity which is neither manufactured nor sold by the plaintiff at the date of the suit. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101. Before the passing of this Act, there was no protection in this country to a registered trade-mark as such and the owner had to prove by evidence that he had acquired a right thereto in the sense that the trade-mark or the trade-name was associated in the minds of the public with the goods manufactured by him. 151 I.C. 5=38 C.W.N. 265= 1934 Cal. 600.

USE OF FIRM'S NAME.—If the use by the defendants of their firm name does in fact necessarily result in their goods being taken for the goods of plaintiffs, the continued use by the defendants of that firm name would become fraudulent. 1931 P.C. 15 (P.C.). See also 56 I.C. 709.

IMPORTER SELLING GOODS WITH REGISTERED TRADE-MARK — RIGHT TO PROTECTION.— Where goods imported have been sold by the importer with his own registered trade-mark and owing to his care and precaution in selecting goods, advertisement and pushing, the goods have acquired great reputation, the importer is entitled to protection of the Court and can maintain an action against the manufacturer of those goods using mark closely resembling that used by the importer. 187 I.C. 37=1939 Rang. 381. See also 50 Cal. 762=1924 Cal. 216. An importer who by advertising and pushing the sale of goods under a particular mark secures a wide popularity for the mark, is protected by the Court for the (g) "permitted use" means the use of a trade mark by a registered user thereof in relation to goods with which he is connected in the course of trade and in respect of which for the time being the trade mark remains registered and he is registered as a registered user, being use such as to comply with any conditions or restrictions to which his registration is subject ;

(h) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made, in relation to proceedings before a High Court, by such High Court, and in other cases, by the Central Government ;

(i) "registered" (with its grammatical variations) means registered under this Act ;

(j) "registered trade mark" means a trade mark which is actually on the register ;

(k) "registered user" means a person who is for the time being registered as such under section 41 ;

(l) "trade mark" means a mark used or proposed to be used in relation to goods for the purpose of indicating or so as to indicate a connection in the course of trade between the goods and some person having the right, either as proprietor or as registered user, to use the mark whether with or without any indication of the identity of that person ;

(m) "transmission" means transmission by operation of law, devolution on the personal representative of a deceased person and any other mode of transfer, not being assignment ;

(n) "tribunal" means the Registrar, or as the case may be, the Court before which the proceeding concerned is pending.

(2) References in this Act to the use of a mark shall be construed as references to the use of a printed or other visual representation of the mark, and references herein to the use of a mark in relation to goods shall be construed as references to the use thereof upon, or in any other relation whatsoever to, such goods.

Application of other laws not barred.

3. The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, the provisions of any other law for the time being in force.

THE REGISTER AND CONDITIONS FOR REGISTRATION.

The register of trade marks.

4. (1) For the purposes of this Act there shall be established at the Patent Office a [1][Trade Marks Registry], and a record called the Register of Trade Marks (in this Act referred to as the register) shall be kept thereat wherein shall be entered all registered trade marks [2][except those entered in the Bombay register under Chapter IX mark unless he has abandoned it. 35 Bom. 425=10 I.C. 805=13 Bom.L.R. 242.

PROTECTION OF TRADE-MARK—JURISDICTION OF COURTS IN BHOPAL STATE.—Although there is no Trade-Marks Act in Bhopal State, the Courts have jurisdiction to protect a trade-mark and stop its infringement under the existing law. A trader living outside the limits of the Bhopal State is as much entitled to a protection of his trade-mark as any person residing and carrying on business within such limits. A foreigner by using a particular trade-mark and selling his goods in Bhopal acquires in respect of that mark such rights as the Courts here would protect. 188 I.C. 462.

SUSPENSION DURING WAR OF TRADE-MARK RIGHT—REVIVAL ON PEACE.—The right to a trade-mark in whatever way acquired in a British country, is a right of industrial property coming under the Conventions of Paris and Berne. Such a right acquired before the War and suspended during the continuance of hostilities, is revived and restored to him under the Peace Treaty. 50 Bom. 402=28 Bom.L.R. 243=1926 Bom. 200.

Sec. 4.—This section provides for the maintenance of a register of trade-marks at the Patent Office, Calcutta, under the control and management of the Controller of Patents and Designs, who, for the purposes of the Act, will be called the Registrar of Trade-Marks.

REGISTRATION—LAW BEFORE THIS ACT.—In with the names, addresses and descriptions of their proprietors, notifications of assignments and transmissions, the names, addresses and descriptions of registered users, disclaimers, conditions, limitations, and such other matters relating to registered trade marks as may be prescribed, but there shall not be entered in the register any notice of any trust express, implied or constructive, nor shall any such notice be receivable by the Registrar.

(2) Subject to the superintendence and direction of the Central Government, the register shall be kept under the control and management of the Controller of Patents and Designs, who shall for the purposes of this Act be called the Registrar of Trade Marks and is in this Act referred to as the Registrar.

(3) The register shall at all convenient times be open to the inspection of the public, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed.

Registration to be in respect of particular goods.

5. (1) A trade mark may be registered only in respect of particular goods or classes of goods.

NOTES.

India there was no method by which a trade-mark could be registered. 1929 Rang. 322. The Registration Act related to registration of documents alone and had nothing to do with the registration of trade-mark. 49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 81.

PROPERTY IN—HOW ACQUIRED—REGISTRATION—EFFECT OF, BEFORE THIS ACT.—Mere registration of a trade-mark did not confer on anybody a right to use it. It could not go beyond establishing the time a particular trade-mark is being used since. Property in a trade-mark could only be acquired by its use for a considerable time. 188 I.C. 462. See also 66 M.L.J. 440.

DISTINCTION BETWEEN REGISTERED AND UNREGISTERED TRADE-MARK—PROPERTY ACQUIRED BY USER.—The only difference between a suit for infringement of a trade-mark registered under the Act and that of a trade-mark not registered appears to be that a trade-mark, registered under the Act of 1875 in England, gives an immediate property in the registered trade-mark, whether that property has got to be acquired by user in a country where there is no registration. 57 Mad. 600=1934 Mad. 211=66 M. L. J. 440. See also 188 I. C. 462. See now S. 20 of the Act, infra. A registrable trade-mark must contain or consist of at least one of the following essential particulars: (1) The name of a company, individual or firm represented in a special or particular manner; (2) the signature of the applicant for registration or some predecessor in his business; (3) an invented word or invented words; (4) a word or words having no direct reference to the character or quality of the goods and not being according to its ordinary signification, a geographical name or a surname; (5) any other distinctive mark, but a name signature or word or words, other than such as fall within the description in the above paras. (1), (2), (3) and (4) shall not, except by order of the Board of Trade or the Court, be deemed a distinctive mark. When none of these particulars appear there is no trade-mark. 146 I.C. 1084=1933 Nag. 344.

REGISTRATION—WORDS MERELY DESCRIPTIVE OF PATENTED PRODUCT—DESCRIPTIVE WORDS.—Where a name is merely descriptive of the patented product or of the character and quality of the goods in connexion with which it is used, the name, after the patent has expired, cannot be registered as a trade-mark because it would be attempting by registering the name of the patented product to prolong the patent monopoly. It is however clear that such a descriptive word may possibly have acquired a secondary meaning, and have come to mean or indicate that the goods in connexion with which it is used are the goods of a particular manufacturer, in other words that the word in question has in its secondary meaning become indicative of origin. But the onus on the person who attempts to establish this secondary meaning is a heavy one. If in addition to being descriptive of the goods in connexion with which it is used, it is in fact the name of the product of which those goods are composed, then a state of affairs exists which makes it extremely difficult that the word should ever become indicative of origin so as to render it capable of registration as a trade-mark. The difficulty may sometimes be overcome in a case where the alleged trade-mark is in fact a description of the goods, but is not recognised by the trade or the public as being such, and is taken by them as being a fancy name, e.g., where a chemical description not generally known to the public has been adopted, or where an unusual substance unknown to the public is being used in the manufacture. Where, the words are purely descriptive and in common use it is even more difficult to conceive a case in which they could acquire a secondary meaning. In order to ascertain whether words have acquired secondary meaning it is of primary importance to see how the manufacturer used the words, i.e., to see whether he used them as a trade name or common law trade-mark for the purpose of indicating the origin of the goods, or whether they were used by him merely descriptively. 175 I.C. 178=1938 P.C. 143 (P.C.).

Sec. 5.—Under this section a trade-

(2) Any question arising as to the class within which any goods fall shall be determined by the Registrar whose decision in the matter shall be final.

Distinctiveness requisite for registration.

6. (1) A trade mark shall not be registered unless it contains or consists of at least one of the following essential particulars, namely :—

(a) the name of a company, individual, or firm, represented in a special or particular manner ;

(b) the signature of the applicant for registration or some predecessor in his business ;

(c) one or more invented words ;

(d) one or more words having no direct reference to the character or quality of the goods, and not being, according to its ordinary signification, a geographical name or surname or the name of a sect, caste or tribe in India ;

(e) any other distinctive mark, provided that a name, signature, or any word, other than such as fall within the descriptions in the above clauses, shall not be registrable except upon evidence of its distinctiveness.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression "distinctive" means adapted, in relation to the goods in respect of which a trade mark is proposed to be registered, to distinguish goods with which the proprietor of the trade mark is or may be connected in the course of trade from goods in the case of which no such connection subsists, either generally or, where the trade mark is proposed to be registered subject to limitations, in relation to use within the extent of the registration.

(3) In determining whether a trade mark is adapted to distinguish as aforesaid, the tribunal may have regard to the extent to which—

(a) the trade mark is inherently so adapted to distinguish, and

(b) by reason of the use of the trade mark or of any other circumstances, the trade mark is in fact so adapted to distinguish ;

Provided that in the case of a trade mark which has been continuously used (either by the applicant for registration or by some predecessor in his business, and either in its original form or with additions or alterations not substantially affecting its identity) in relation to the same goods as those in relation to which registration is applied for, during a period from a date prior to the 25th day of February, 1937, to the date of application for registration, the Registrar shall not refuse registration by reason only of the fact that the trade mark is not adapted to distinguish as aforesaid, and may accept evidence of acquired distinctiveness as entitling the trade mark to registration.

Limitation as to colour.

7. (1) A trade mark may be limited wholly or in part to one or more specified colours, and any such limitation shall be taken into consideration by any tribunal having to decide on the distinctive character of the trade mark.

(2) So far as a trade mark is registered without limitation of colour it shall be deemed to be registered for all colours.

Prohibition of registration of certain matter.

8. No trade mark nor part of a trade mark shall be registered which consists of, or contains, any scandalous design, or any matter the use of which would—

(a) by reason of its being likely to deceive or to cause confusion or otherwise, be disentitled to protection in a Court of justice : or mark is registered only in respect of particular goods or classes of goods. See 1937 Lah. 186; 35 Bom. 425; 59 Bom. 373.

Sec. 6.—This section forms the pivot of the proposed legislation and lays down the conditions on which a trade-mark will be entitled to registration under the Act.

Sec. 7.—This section provides for the limitation of a trade-mark wholly or in part to one or more specified colours.

Sec. 8.—This section prohibits the registration as trade-mark of certain kinds of matter.

(b) be likely to hurt the religious susceptibilities of any class of his Majesty's subjects ; or (c) be contrary to any law for the time being in force or to morality.

Use of names of chemical elements barred.

9. No word which is the commonly uesd and accepted name of any single chemical element or single chemical compound (as distinguished from a mixture) shall be registered as a trade mark in respect of a chemical substance or preparation, and any such registration shall, notwithstanding anything in section 24, be deemed for the purposes of section 46 to be an entry made in the register without sufficient cause or an entry wrongly remaining on the register, as the circumstances may require :

Provided that this section shall not apply to a word which is used to denote only a brand or make of the element or compound as made by the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark, as distinguished from the element or compound as made by others, and in association with a suitable name or description open to the public use.

Prohibition of registration of identical or similar trade mark.

10. (1) Save as provided in section (2) no trade mark shall be registered in respect of any goods or description of goods which is identical with a trade mark belonging to a different proprietor and already on the register in respect of the same goods or description of goods, or which so nearly resembles such trade mark as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion.

(2) In case of honest concurrent use or of other special circumstances which, in the opinion of the Registrar, make it proper so to do he may permit the registration by more than one proprietor of trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other in respect of the same goods or description of goods, subject to such conditions and limitations, if any, as the Registrar may think fit to impose.

(3) Where separate applications are made by different persons to be registered as proprietors respectively of trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other, in respect of the same goods or description of goods, the Registrar may refuse to register any of them until their rights have been determined by a competent Court.

Registration of parts of trade marks and of trade marks as a series.

11. (1) Where the proprietor of a trade mark claims to be entitled to the exclusive use of any part thereof separately, he may apply to register the whole and the part as separate trade marks.

(2) Each such separate trade mark shall satisfy all the conditions applying to, and have all the incidents of, an independent trade mark.

(3) Where a person claiming to be the proprietor of several trade marks in respect of the same goods or description of goods which, while resembling each other in the material particulars thereof, yet differ in respect of—

(a) statements of the goods in relation to which they are respectively used or proposed to be used ; or

(b) statements of number, price, quality, or names of places ; or

(c) other matter of a non-distinctive character which does not substantially affect the identity of the trade mark ; or

---

NOTES.

Sec. 9.—Under this section the use of the usual names of chemical elements as trade-marks is barred in respect of chemical substances or preparations. (See 1926 Cal. 837.)

Sec. 10.—This section prohibits the registration of identical or similar trade-marks under certain conditions. This restriction will not only protect owners of registered trade-marks but will also safeguard the interests of the public.

Sec. 11.—The registration as a series in one registration of marks which resemble each other in material respects is designed to secure that in the event of the assignment or transmission of such marks there will be no deception or confusion resulting from separate ownership. Such marks are deemed to be associated marks and are assignable or transmissible only as a whole and not separately.

seeks to register those trade marks, they may be registered as a series in one registration.

Associated trade marks.

12. (1) Where a trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in respect of any goods is identical with another trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in the name of the same proprietor in respect of the same goods or description of goods, or so nearly resembles it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion if used by a person other than the proprietor, the Registrar may at any time require that the trade marks shall be entered on the register as associated trade marks.

(2) Where a trade mark and any part thereof are, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 11, registered as separate trade marks in the name of the same proprietor, they shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(3) All trade marks registered in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 11 as a series in one registration shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(4) On application made in the prescribed manner by the registered proprietor of two or more trade marks registered as associated trade marks, the Registrar may dissolve the association as respects any of them if he is satisfied that there would be no likelihood of deception or confusion being caused if that trade mark were used by any other person in relation to any of the goods in respect of which it is registered, and may amend the register accordingly.

Registration subject to disclaimer.

13. If a trade mark contains—

(a) any part not separately registered as a trade mark in the name of the proprietor, or for the separate registration of which no application has been made, or

(b) any matter common to the trade, or otherwise of a non-distinctive character, the tribunal, in deciding whether the trade mark shall be entered or shall remain on the register, may require, as a condition of its being on the register, that the proprietor shall either disclaim any right to the exclusive use of such part or of all or any portion of such matter, as the case may be, to the exclusive use of which the tribunal holds him not to be entitled, or make such other disclaimer as the tribunal may consider necessary for the purpose of defining the rights of the proprietor under the registration :

Provided that no disclaimer shall affect any rights of the proprietor of a trade mark except such as arise out of the registration of the trade mark in respect of which the disclaimer is made.

CHAPTER III.

PROCEDURE FOR, AND DURATION OF, REGISTRATION.

Application for registration.

14. (1) Any person claiming to be the proprietor of a trade mark used or proposed to be used by him who is desirous of registering it shall apply in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner, and subject to the provisions of this Act, the Registrar may refuse the application or may accept it absolutely or subject to such amendments, modifications, conditions or limitations, if any, as he may think fit.

NOTES.

Sec. 12.—This section defines the circumstances in which trade-marks may be entered in the register as associated trade-marks.

Sec. 13.—The object of this section is to prevent the creation of a monopoly in non-distinctive parts of a registered trade-mark.

Secs. 14, 15 and 16.—These sections lay down the procedure for the registration of trade-marks in India.

(2) In the case of a refusal or conditional acceptance the Registrar shall, if required by the applicant, state in writing the grounds of his decision and the materials used by him in arriving thereat.

(3) The tribunal may at any time, whether before or after acceptance, correct any error in or in connection with the application, or may permit the applicant to amend his application upon such terms as it may think fit.

Opposition to registration.

15. (1) When an application for registration of a trade mark has been, accepted, whether absolutely or subject to conditions or limitations, the Registrar shall, as soon as may be after acceptance, cause the application as accepted, together with the conditions and limitations, if any, subject to which it has been accepted, to be advertised in the prescribed manner :

Provided that the Registrar may cause an application to be advertised before acceptance if it relates to a trade mark to which clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 6 applies, or in any other case where it appears to him that it is expedient by reason of any exceptional circumstances so to do, and where an application has been so advertised the Registrar may, if he thinks fit, advertise it again when it has been accepted, but shall not be bound so to do.

(2) Any person may, within the prescribed time from the date of the advertisement of an application, give notice in writing in the prescribed manner to the Registrar of opposition to the registration.

(3) The Registrar shall serve in the prescribed manner a copy of the notice on the applicant and within the prescribed time the applicant shall send to the Registrar, in the prescribed manner, a counter-statement of the grounds on which he relies for his application, and, if he does not do so, he shall be deemed to have abandoned his application.

(4) If the applicant sends such counter-statement, the Registrar shall serve in the prescribed manner a copy thereof on the persons giving notice of opposition, and shall, after hearing the parties, if so required, and considering the evidence, decide whether, and subject to what conditions or limitations, if any, registration is to be permitted.

(5) If a person giving notice of opposition or an applicant sending a counter-statement after receipt of a copy of such notice, or an appellant against any order of the Registrar under section 14 or this section, neither resides nor carries on business in British India, the tribunal may require him to give security for costs of the proceedings before it, and in default of such security being duly given may treat the opposition or application or appeal, as the case may be, as abandoned.

Registration.

16. (1) When an application for registration of a trade mark has been accepted and either has not been opposed and the time for notice of opposition has expired, or having been opposed, has been decided in favour of the applicant, the Registrar shall, unless the application has been accepted in error, or unless the Central Government otherwise directs, register the said trade mark, and the trade mark, when registered, shall be registered as of the date of the making of the said application, and that date shall, subject to any directions made under section 83 applicable to such trade mark, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the date of registration.

(2) On the registration of a trade mark the Registrar shall issue to the applicant a certificate in the prescribed form of the registration thereof sealed with the seal of the Patent office.

(3) Where registraticn of a trade mark is not completed within twelve months from the date of the application by reason of default on the part of the applicant. the Registrar may, after giving notice to the applicant in the prescribed manner, treat the application as abandoned unless it is completed within the time specified in that behalf in teh notice.

17. (1) Save as provided in sub-section (2), nothing in this Act shall authorise

NOTES.

Sec. 17.—This section is designed to safeguard the rights of persons who, though independent traders, are jointly interested in the same mark.

Jointly owned trade marks.

the registration of two or more persons who use a trade mark independently, or propose so to use it, as joint proprietors thereof.

(2) Where the relations between two or more persons interested in a trade mark are such that no one of them is entitled as between himself and the other or others of them to use it except—

(a) on behalf of both or all of them, or

(b) in relation to an article with which both or all of them are connected in the course of trade, those persons may be registered as joint proprietors of the trade mark, and this Act shall have effect in relation to any rights to the use of the trade mark vested in those persons as if those rights had been vested in a single person.

Duration and renewal of registration.

18. (1) The registration of a trade mark shall be for a period of seven years, but may be renewed from time to time in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) The Registrar shall, on application made by the registered proprietor of a trade mark in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed period, renew the registration of the trade mark for a period of fifteen years from the date of expiration of the original registration or of the last renewal of registration, as the case may be (which date is in this section referred to as "the expiration of the last registration").

(3) At the prescribed time before the expiration of the last registration of a trade mark, the Registrar shall send notice in the prescribed manner tothe registered proprietor of the date of expiration and the conditions as to payment of fees and otherwise upon which a renewal of registration may be obtained, and if at the expiration of the time prescribed in that behalf those conditions have not been duly complied with the Registrar may remove the trade mark from the register, subject to such conditions (if any) as to its restoration to the register as may be prescribed.

Effect of removal from register for failure to pay fee for renewal.

19. Where a trade mark has been removed from the register for failure to pay the fee for renewal, it shall nevertheless, for the purpose of any application for the registration of another trade mark during one year next after the date of the removal, be deemed to be a trade mark already on the register, unless the tribunal is satisfied either—

(a) that there has been no bona fide trade use of the trade mark which has been removed during the two years immediately preceding its removal ; or

(b) that no deception or confusion would be likely to arise from the use of the trade mark which is the subject of the application for registration by reason of any previous use of the trade mark which has been removed.

CHAPTER IV.

EFFECT OF REGISTRATION.

No action for infringement of unregistered trade mark.

20. (1) No person shall be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent, or to recover damages for, the infringement of an unregistered trade mark unless such trade mark has been continuously in use since before the 25th day of February, 1937, by such person or by a predecessor in title of his and unless an application for its registration, made within five years from the commencement of this Act, has been refused ; and the Registrar shall, on application in the prescribed manner, grant a certificate that such application has been refused.

NOTES.

Sec. 18.—This section prescribes the duration of the first registration and of its subsequent renewal.

Sec. 19.—This section defines the effect of removal from the register of trade-mark for failure to pay the renewal fee.

Sec. 20.—This section provides in effect that a suit shall lie only for the infringement of a registered trade-mark, but it safeguards the rights of owners of unregistered marks who have failed to secure registration but have continuously used their marks since the 25th February, 1937.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect rights of action against any person for passing off goods as the goods of another person or the remedies in respect thereof.

INFRINGEMENT OF TRADE-MARK—WHAT IS.—A man has no right to put off his goods for sale as the goods of a rival trader and he cannot be allowed to use names, marks, letters or other indicia by which he may induce purchasers to believe that the goods he is selling are manufacture of another person. Whatever be the particular mode adopted by him, if the trade-mark is a work or device never in use before and meaningless, except as indicating by whom the goods in connection with which it is used were made, there can be no conceivable legitimate use of it by another person, his only object in employing it in connection with goods of his manufacture being to deceive. 1930 Cal. 678. See also 41 Bom. 49=18 Bom.L.R. 206. Nobody has any right to represent his goods as the goods of somebody else. A trader cannot be allowed to use names, marks, letters or other indicia by which he may induce purchasers to believe that the goods which he is selling are manufacture of another person. (Perry v. Truefit, (1842) 6 Bead. 66 Rel. on.] 1930 Lah. 999.

INFRINGEMENT—TEST.—The proper test for an injunction to restrain colourable imitation of trade-marks is whether an ordinary purchaser is likely to be misled, i.e., whether there is a reasonable probability of deception. 10 Bur.L.T. 63=36 I.C. 965=8 L.B.R. 561. When an injunction against imitation is asked for points of similarity and not the points of difference constitute the proper test. 20 A.L.J. 537=44 A. 608=1922 A. 178.

INFRINGEMENT—MATTERS FOR CONSIDERATION.—If in an action for an alleged infringement of a registered trade-mark, no evidence of confusion either actual or probable is adduced, the question whether the mark which the defendant uses infringes the plaintiff's registered trade-mark must be answered by the Court, unaided by outside evidence, after a comparison of the defendant's mark as used with the plaintiff's registered mark, not placing them side by side, but by asking itself whether, having due regard to relevant surrounding circumstances, the defendant's mark as used is similar to the plaintiff's registered mark as it would be remembered by persons possessed of an average memory with its usual imperfections. Whether the defendant had acquired the good will of any business, and whether the defendant was properly on the register in respect of a mark which differs slightly from the mark actually in use by the defendant, are matters which are irrelevant to the question for determination. 202 I. C. 203=1942 P.C. 40 (P.C.). Where both the parties deal in the same manufacture the mere fact that the dealers in those manufactures are not deceived by the labels does not conclude the case. It has to be considered what class of people buy the manufactures. 1930 Cal. 678. If the goods of a manufacturer have from the mark he has used become known in the market by a particular name the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which would cause his goods to bear the same name in the market is as much a violation of the rights of the rival as a copy of his device. In such a case the dissimilarity of the rival marks cannot be relied on as a defence. Also in dealing with cases of infringement of trade-mark the Court must look to the ultimate purchasers who in India are not educated or critical. (Case-law discussed.) 99 I. C. 723=4 Rang. 401. Mere damage is insufficient to support an action on the infringement of trade-mark. The damage must be attributable to the passing-off of other goods as plaintiff's goods. There may be damage and yet there may be no passing-off. Thus a suit cannot be entertained if it is brought by a person not entitled to an action to restrain a defendant from passing off goods as the goods of a third party. He can bring the action only when the representation is that the goods are his goods. 1938 Sind 38. See also 1940 Sind 83. A trade-mark may be infringed by an advertisement. See 37 All. 446=29 I.C. 987=13 A.L.J. 697.

INFRINGEMENT—PROBABILITY OF DECEPTION ENOUGH.—In cases of infringement of patents, instances of actual deception need not be proved if the Court is otherwise satisfied of the probability of deception. 95 I.C. 667=43 C.L.J. 405=1926 Cal. 837. In a passing off action it is necessary to find an intentional copying by the defendant of the plaintiff's mark. The relevance of intention is merely that when dishonest intention is present, the Court's task in detecting a probability of deception becomes less burdensome. There is an onus both of commercial honesty and of legal obligation upon traders who adopt marks to avoid with scrupulous care anything tending to confusion with the mark of another. If they do not take pains when making a new trade-mark to make it quite unlike an existing one, they do so at the peril of making evidence against themselves. No man may sell his goods as the goods of another. 157 I.C. 902. To establish a claim to an injunction in an action for infringement of a trade-mark, the plaintiff must show that the particular mark used on his goods is symbolical only of his manufacture and that they have acquired a wide reputation in the market.

NOTES.

It is not necessary to show that the defendant had the intention to deceive or to prove actual instances of deception. 59 Bom. 373=A.L.R. 1935 Bom. 169=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101.

INFRINGEMENT—RIGHT OF ACTION—FRAUD NOT NECESSARY.—In a "passing-off" case it is well-settled that fraud is not a necessary element of the right of action. 1928 Mad. 759=54 M.L.J. 644; 59 Bom. 373=1935 Bom. 101.

RIGHT OF CONCURRENT USER.—In order to establish a concurrent right to use a trade-mark it is essential for the defendant to prove prior user. 1930 Cal. 678.

DEFENDANT USING HIS OWN NAME IN BUSINESS.—None can use a name if it leads the public to believe that the business carried on by him is the business of some other person with whom the name has been associated. The Court should not restrain a man from carrying on business in his own name simply because other people are doing the same and they will be injured by what he is doing. It must appear that the person who is carrying on the business in his own name is doing it in such a way as to pass-off his goods as the goods of somebody else. A person carrying on business in his own name which also happened to be the name of the plaintiff could not be restrained from using his own name. 56 I.C. 709. See also 1931 P.C. 15=61 M.L.J. 334 (P.C.). There is in principle no distinction between a case in which the name of the use of which the complaint is made, is the name of the person carrying on the business and a case in which it is not. In both cases the law is clear that—nobody has any right to represent his goods as the goods of somebody else; (Valentime Meat Juice Co.'s case, (1910) 83 L.T. 259; Reddaway v. Benham, (1896) A.C. 199, Ref.) 1931 Mad. 461=132 I.C. 650.

ACQUIESCENCE IN INFRINGEMENT.—A man may be entitled to the exclusive right to use, as applied to his goods, a particular get-up. But that right once exclusive, may in the course of time become publici juris by virtue of his either submitting to, or allowing, other persons to appropriate it to their use. The test must be whether the use of it by other persons is still calculated to deceive the public, whether it may still have the effect of inducing the public to buy goods not made by the original owner of the trade-mark as if they were his goods. If the mark has come to be so public and in such universal use that nobody can be deceived by the use of it, and can be induced from the use of it to believe that he is buying the goods of the original trader, however hard to some extent it may appear on the trade, yet practically, as the right to a trade-mark is simply a right to prevent the trade from being cheated by the other person's goods being sold as his goods through the fraudulent use to the trade-mark, the right to the trade-mark must be gone. 173 I.C. 224=10 R.R. 323=1937 Rang. 490. (As to the effect of acquiescence, see also 1934 Rang. 297; 1923 Rang. 114; 1930 Cal. 678. In a suit for infringement of trade-mark if the defendants prove that the plaintiff stood by knowingly and let them build up an important trade until it had become necessary to crush it, then the plaintiffs would be estopped by their acquiescence. 1939 Rang. L. R. 18=181 I.C. 792=12 R. R. 489=1939 Rang. 98. Where the owner of a trade-mark stands by and allows a number of different people to copy his mark he loses his right in it by reason of the fact that the mark has become common to the trade, but the owner of a trade-mark cannot be said to have thrown his mark open to the trade generally by acquiescing in one other person or firm using it. 12 Rang. 534=152 I.C. 855=1934 Rang. 297. It is of the essence of acquiescence, as a defence to an action for passing-off, that the party acquiescing should have been aware of the violation of his legal rights and the defendant should either have been ignorant of the plaintiff's rights or deluded by plaintiff's representation into thinking that his wrongful act was assented to by the plaintiff. Where the defendant was aware of the real legal position and yet deliberately put on the market the spurious goods, there is no room for the doctrine of acquiescence to operate in his favour. 10 Rang. 133=1932 Rang. 114. In a case of infringement of trade-mark it is not incumbent on the owner to prosecute every infringer though the latter might be a man of straw and might be willing to give an undertaking not to infringe in future. The mere fact of his omission to prosecute will not deprive him of his right to an injunction at a later date. If the defendant pleads acquiescence he must show that the party acquiesced was aware of and did by words and conduct represent that he assented to the violation of his rights. 1930 Cal. 678.

INFRINGEMENT—WAIVER.—In the case of piracy of a trade-mark the person who is entitled to the mark must be guided by reason and good sense. It may not be worthwhile to spend money on every man of straw who comes in his way and the person might not forthwith prosecute the infringer or might not take any step on the infringer giving an undertaking not to violate the right in future; the mere fact of his omission to prosecute in earlier cases does not in any way deprive the person of his right to an injunction suit. (Rowland v. Michell, 14 R. P. C. 43, Ref.) 1930 Cal. 678.

DEFENCE—DELAY.—Delay is not by itself fatal to an action for passing-off. It can only serve as a basis for an inference of acquiescence which, however, is a question of fact. But where an infringement takes place in Burma of the rights of a firm with its head office at Paris, it is but reasonable that some time should elapse before the local representative can advise the head office about the facts and the latter can instruct him to file a suit. 10 Rang. 133=1932 Rang. 114. See also 132 I.C. 650=1931 Mad. 461. Delay will in itself, quite apart from acquiescence, be a bar to a suit, but only if such delay has caused a change in the subject-matter of the action or brought about a state of things where justice cannot be done. 1939 Rang. L. R. 18=1939 Rang. 98. Mere delay, apart from acquiescence will not disentitle the plaintiff to the grant of an injunction to restrain the defendant from passing-off his goods as those of the plaintiff. (13 Rep. Pat. Cas. 457; (1878) 9 Ch.D. 176, Ref.) 1931 M.W.N. 311=1931 Mad. 461. Delay simpliciter may be no defence to a suit for infringement of a trade-mark or a trade-name, but where a trader allows a rival trader to expend money over a considerable period in building up a business with the aid of a mark similar to his own, he will not be allowed to stop his rival's business. What amounts to acquiescence must depend on the circumstances of each case. 52 L. W. 745=1940 M.W.N. 1157=I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 300=(1940) 2 M. L. J. 793=1941 Mad. 31.

SUIT FOR DECLARATION—EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO MARK.—Every one has the right to use any kind of trade-mark he likes so long as he does not infringe the right of others already acquired. Hence where a plaintiff does not make out a case that the right to the use of a certain trade-mark is the "exclusive right of property" which he has acquired to the exclusion of every one else, a relief to declare that the plaintiff has got the right to use that trade-mark cannot be granted. (6 Rang. 291, Rel.) 55 All. 702 =1933 A.L.J. 1541=1933 All. 495.

INFRINGEMENT—REMEDY—NOT CONFINED TO CIVIL SIDE.—Although the criminal Court has a discretion in view of the peculiar circumstances of a particular case, e.g., if there exists a bona fide dispute as to the right to use a trade-mark, or where there has been undue delay in commencing criminal proceedings, to stay its own hands and direct the complainant to establish his rights in a Civil Court, it is nowhere laid down by the legislature that an aggrieved person should seek his remedy in a Civil Court and not in a Criminal Court. 7 O.W.N. 598=1930 Oudh 360.

BOTH CIVIL AND CRIMINAL.—It is nowhere laid down by the legislature that under no circumstances could a dispute relating to the infringement of a trade-mark be entertained by a Criminal Court and that it should always be adjudicated upon by a Civil Court. The only thing which can be said is that the Criminal Court may, in view of the peculiar circumstances of a particular case, stay its own hands and direct the complainant to establish his right in Civil Court; (32 Cal. 431, Ref. to.) 108 I.C. 607=9 A.I.Cr.R. 406=29 Cr.L.J. 425=9 Lah. 491=29 P.L.R. 610=1928 Lah. 186. Before this Act, as there was no Act giving a right of property in trade-marks by registration, the only right of action a trader or manufacturer had was the common law right of action which entitled him to an injunction restraining the use of a trade-mark belonging to himself if such use was calculated to pass-off the defendant's goods as the goods of the plaintiff. 93 I.C. 857=50 Bom. 402=28 Bom. L. R. 243=1926 Bom. 200.

INFRINGEMENT—STANDARD OF COMPARISON—NOT THAT OF EXPERTS BUT THAT OF THE LAY PUBLIC.—For the purpose of establishing a case of infringement it is not necessary to show that there has been the use of a mark in all respects corresponding with that which another person has acquired an exclusive right to use. But if the resemblance is such as not only to show an intention to deceive but also such as to be likely to make unwary purchasers suppose that they are purchasing the article sold by the party to whom the right to use the trade-mark belongs. Therefore the standard of comparison is not that of the experts, but it is that of the lay public, of the unwary purchaser. (Wortherspoon v. Currie, 1872 L. R. 5 H.L. 508 Rel. on.) 34 C.W.N. 339 =51 C.L.J. 477=1930 Cal. 274.

MISLEADING TO INCAUTIOUS PURCHASERS.—No trader has a right to use a trade-mark so nearly resembling that of another trader as to be calculated to mislead incautious purchasers. The use of such a trade-mark may be restricted by injunction, although no purchaser has actually been misled, for the very life of a trade-mark depends upon the promptitude with which it is vindicated. The Judge has to make up his mind as to whether on the facts before him he thinks it probable that purchasers would be deceived by the similarity of the marks and general get up of the two sets of goods and it is not a matter for witnesses to say. 110 I.C. 312=52 Bom. 228=30 Bom.L.R. 514 =1928 Bom. 227. In a suit for infringement of trade-mark, it is not necessary to prove that any one has been actually deceived. It is enough to prove that he is likely to be deceived. (34 Cal. 495, 24 Cal. 364, Rel.; 65 P.R. 1902, Dist.) The Court has to see whether the device used by the deft. is such a colourable imitation of the plaintiff's mark as would be calculated to deceive incautious, ignorant or unwary purchasers. (34 Cal. 495; 7 Bom. 584, Foll.) 97 P.R. 1913=15 I.C. 116.

SIMILARITY OF MARKS—DIFFERENCES IN GET UP.—It is not an answer to the claim of a trader who established the right to a trade-mark (e.g., a device or a fancy word) to say that, apart from the device or the word, the labels or containers of the rival trade are very different from those of the trade-mark owner. But the differences in get-up are not immaterial for, they must inevitably form an element in considering the question of probability of deception by the use of the mark. 67 I.A. 212=I.L.R. (1940) A. 446=44 C.W.N. 737=1940 P. C. 86=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.).

COMPARISON OF MARKS SIDE BY SIDE—IF PROPER TEST.—The test of comparison of the marks side by side is not a sound one, since a purchaser will seldom have the two marks actually before him when he makes his purchase; the marks with many differences may yet have an element of similarity which will cause deception, more especially if the goods are in practice asked for by a name which denotes the mark or the device on it. 67 I.A. 212=I.L.R. (1940) A. 446=1940 P.C. 86=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.). The defendant company—Oriental Assurance Company could not be called "Oriental" without regard to the other older companies, merely because it was dealing with the Orient. The name of the deft. company was so similar to the name of plaintiff company as to mislead people and there was real danger of the plaintiff suffering irreparable loss. A temporary injunction should therefore be issued. 21 I. C. 258=40 Cal. 570.

PROBABLE EFFECT UPON THE ULTIMATE CONSUMER.—No man is entitled to represent his goods as being the goods of another man; and no man is permitted to use any mark, sign or symbol device or other means whereby, without making a direct false representation himself to a purchaser who purchases from him, he enables such purchaser to tell a lie, or to make a false representation to somebody else who is the ultimate customer. (Singer Manufacturing Co. v. Loog (1888) 18 Ch.D. 412, Rel. on.) 1927 Rang. 49. If the goods of a manufacturer have, from the mark or device he has used, become known in the market by a particular name, the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which will cause his goods to bear the same name in the market, may be as much a violation of the rights of that rival as the actual copy of his device. [Seixo v. Provezende, (1865) 1 Ch. 192, Rel. on; 6 Mad. 108; 9 L.B.R. 31, Ref.] 1927 Rang. 49.

The law relating to this subject may be stated in a few propositions:

(1) It is unlawful for a trader to pass-off his goods as the goods of another.

(2) Even if this is done innocently it will be restrained.

(3) A fortiori, if done designedly, for that is a fraud.

(4) Although the first purchaser is not deceived, nevertheless if the article is so delivered to him as to be calculated to deceive a purchaser from him, that is illegal.

It is the probable effect upon the ultimate customer the lowest buyer on the scale, which must be most closely considered. [Powell v. Birmingham, (1896) 2 Ch. 79, Foll.] It is not necessary to prove actual instances of deception. The fact that the defendants' goods are sold at a lower price than the plaintiffs cannot militate against confusion. On the other hand, it indubitably increases chance of confusion in the districts where persons of the illiterate public who have no actual knowledge of the original ownership of the goods are the largest class of buyers. In a country like Burma it is the pictorial resemblance which confuses more than anything else. If one trader adopts the same symbol as another, even if he multiplies the number of the symbols, as long as he does not qualify them by the addition of another different symbol or symbols, he is bound to confuse. The writing on the label matters not at all to the country people. 99 I.C. 727=4 Rang. 381=1927 Rang. 49. See also 6 Rang. 221=1928 Rang. 210; 1939 Cal. 466; 1938 Sind 38; 1941 Lah. 262.

INTENTION TO DECEIVE—INFERENCE—CLOSE SIMILARITY.—Fraud is to be presumed where the similarity is close and remains unexplained. An intention to deceive may be inferred from the circumstances of the case, though no case of actual deception is proved. 173 I.C. 930=1938 Sind 38.

SIMILARITY—PROVINCE OF JUDGE—POINTS TO BE CONSIDERED.—While the Judge must not surrender his own independent judgment to any witness whatsoever, he must at the same time, in order to arrive at the proper conclusion, not disregard the evidence adduced in the particular case before him. In finding out the amount of resemblance, not only must one look at the distinguishing features, i.e., dissimilarities, but one must look at the whole and not parts and then come to a decision. Each resemblance must not be taken by itself and a conclusion is not to be based thereon. The Court must look not only to the resemblance between the two names but also as to the get-up as a whole, and while not disregarding the parts which are common to the trade must try to find out whether plaintiff has made out a case showing that the defendant's goods are like the plaintiffs by reason of something peculiar to the plaintiff and by reason of the defendant having adopted some mark or devise or label or something of that kind which distinguishes the plaintiff's goods which have, like those goods, the features common to the trade. 84 I. C. 1014=40 C.L.J. 230=1925 Cal. 220.

COLOURABLE VARIATION—WHAT IS—NO GENERAL RULE.—In the case of an infringement of trade-mark no general rule can be laid down as to what is or is not a mere colourable variation. Standards differ and education is one of the factors. All that can be done is to ascertain in every case as it occurs whether there is such a resemblance as to deceive a purchaser using ordinary caution. (11 H.L.C. 523, Foll.) 49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 31. See also 17 Pat.L.T. 667; 1937 Nag. 158; 1939 Rang. 98.

COLOURABLE IMITATION—FACTS TO BE CONSIDERED.—It is a question of fact in every case whether the defendant's mark is or is not a colourable imitation of the plaintiff's mark. The surrounding circumstances of each case will have to be considered. It is not only necessary to look at the difference or at the resemblance between two given marks, but it is necessary to compare the two marks as a whole and then come to a decision. 173 I.C. 930=1938 Sind 38. Plaintiffs were importing matches from Sweden of different brands, viz., "Three Stars," "One Star," "J.W.T. Star" and "Two Stars." The defendants also at the time but a little later tried to introduce in the market matches with label of five red stars. Plaintiffs claimed a monopoly of using a star or stars on matches. Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to the user of "ThreeStar" and "J.W.T. Star" label as would justify restraining any other competitor in Burma from a colourable imitation of either of these marks, but they could not have a right to restrain all and sundry from using design for matches in which any number of stars was a distinctive mark. (English Cases Referred 4 Rang. 381, Reversed.) 6 Rang. 221=1928 Rang. 210.

COLOUR COMBINATION.—It is true that a person is entitled to take from anywhere even from a competitor's wrapper, a combination of colours and form of lettering which would improve the artistic form of his wrapper. But the colour combination and the lettering must be used for an honest purpose and must not be made an instrument whereby persons seeing the colouring and the lettering are led to believe that the imitator's goods are those of the competitor's. 1930 Rang. 326.

INFRINGEMENT—BURDEN OF PROOF.—Where the action for the infringement of trade-mark is in substance a quia timet action, in the absence of evidence of actual confusion, a strong case must be made to justify a conclusion that confusion will result from the appearance of the defendant's goods in the market. 31 L.W. 755=1934 P.C. 167=66 M. L.J. 588 (P.C.). If the accused passes his own inferior goods as superior goods of another by affixing that other's trade-mark to his own goods, the latter must prove the reputation of his goods. But if the accused puts the name of the other on the goods of the accused, the other need not prove the reputation. Mere affixing of name to the goods can be a good trade-mark: a definite amount of time is not necessary to validate a trade-mark. 12 S.L.R. 129=50 I. C. 165=20 Cr.L.J. 277. When the plaintiffs prove that the mark is a colourable imitation the burden of showing how the defendants came to adopt it is on the defendants. 57 Mad. 600=39 L.W. 319=1934 Mad. 211 =66 M.L.J. 440. Where in a suit by a company dealing in cloth against another company, also dealing in cloth, for an injunction restraining the latter from using a particular figure or mark on the goods on the ground that it would be calculated to cause any goods belonging to the defendant company to be taken as plaintiff's goods, no evidence is adduced to prove that any person has been deceived in the manner suggested by the plaintiffs, it being a quia timet action, the burden lies on the plaintiffs to satisfy the Court that an injunction should be granted to them at that stage upon the ground that unwary purchasers of goods who had not seen the figure marked on the plaintiff's goods might be reasonably led to think, when offered goods of the defendants with their figure on it, that they were obtaining the plaintiff's goods. 162 I.C. 765=1936 R. 193.

EVIDENCE OF ACTUAL DECEPTION NOT NECESSARY.—In order to get an injunction it is not necessary to prove that any one had in fact been deceived but that it is enough if the defendant's trade-mark bears such a resemblance to that of the plaintiffs as to be calculated to mislead incautious purchasers. 57 Mad. 600=39 L.W. 319=1934 Mad. 211 =66 M.L.J. 440. In cases of infringement of trade-marks, the plaintiff need not show that defendant's colourable imitation of plaintiff's mark did actually deceive any person or persons. Where it is clear that traders in rosewater used the words 'Ghazipore rose-water," as descriptive merely of a good kind of such water. Held, that people buying such goods do not set any particular value upon their coming from the particular place to which they are ascribed and such misdescriptions not being calculated to deceive any one, does not disentitle the plaintiff to the relief which he might otherwise have obtained. 30 I.C. 633=8 Bur.L.T. 113. A trade-mark or a name may become publici juris but the Court would require very strong evidence, which would show conclusively that the mark had come to be so public that nobody could be deceived by the use of it and could be induced from the use of it to believe that he was buying the goods of the original trader. 50 Bom. 402=28 Bom.L.R. 243=1926 Bom. 200. It does not matter that the infringer's goods are of a different and inferior class. It is not necessary to prove actual deception, only that the act of the defendant is calculated to deceive; and where there is deliberate imitation of a trade-mark the burden of proof is on the imitator. It is sufficient if the plaintiff shows that the defendant has put into the hands of an unscrupulous retailer the means of deceiving the ultimate purchasers. If there is any risk of damages, the plaintiff is entitled to protection at once and need not wait until the position gets worse, and an injunction can at once be granted. 41 Bom.L.R. 182=1939 Bom. 118. When once the intent to deceive is established it is only a short step to proving that the intent has been successful, but still it is a step, even though it be a short step. Whether the get-up of a particular article is calculated to deceive depends upon the circumstances prevailing in respect of the particular article in question. 1930 Rang. 326.

EVIDENCE—SIMILARITY.—In case of infringement of trade-mark it is the function of the Judge to say whether two designs are similar and not for a witness to express an opinion on the point. 49 All. 92=24 A. L.J. 975=1927 All. 81. The Court is justified in acting on its own comparison of exhibits before it. 57 Mad. 600=39 L.W. 319=1934 Mad. 211=66 M.L.J. 440.

EXPERT OPINION — ADMISSIBILITY.—The expert opinion of persons well acquainted with the trade as to whether an alleged resemblance between the contrasted marks is or is not calculated to deceive the unwary, is inadmissible, and in the absence of any direct evidence that the unwarys have been deceived, it is for the Court and the Court alone to decide whether there is a possibility of deception. 43 P.L.R. 269=1941 Lah. 262. In deciding whether one get-up is similar to another or is calculated to deceive purchasers into believing that they are purchasing the article of the other, one must remember the class of persons who are purchasers of the article in question. While the Judge must not surrender his own independent judgment to any witness whatsoever, he must, at the same time, in order to arrive at a proper conclusion, not disregard the evidence adduced in the particular case before him. (1925 Cal. 220, Foll.) 95 I.C. 667=43 C.L.J. 405=1926 Cal. 837.

SUIT FOR—DEFENCE TO — EFFORTS TO GUARD AGAINST DECEPTION.—If the use of a particular name has become associated with the goods of the plaintiff and the same name used by the defendants is calculated to deceive, the plaintiffs are entitled to protection and it is no answer for the defendants to say that special efforts are made to guard against deception in actual fact. 38 C.W.N. 265=1934 Cal. 600.

SUIT FOR INJUNCTION—POINTS TO BE CONSIDERED.—The fundamental principle is that a person shall not trade under a name so closely resembling that of the plaintiff as to be mistaken for it by the public. The question to be determined in cases of this description is whether there is such a similarity between the two names as that the one is in the ordinary course of human affairs likely to be confounded with the other. It is not necessary to prove that the defendants in taking the name complained of by the plaintiffs had any fraudulent intent. It is enough if the plaintiffs prove that the act of defendants in assuming the name complained of, is an injury to the plaintiff's rights. There is no question in such cases as property or monopoly in the name. The principle upon which the cases on this subject proceed is not that there is property in the word, but that it is a fraud on a person who has established a trade and carries it on under a given name, by some other person who assumes the same name or the same name with a slight alteration in such a way as to induce persons to deal with him in the belief that they are dealing with the person who has given reputation to the name. The question in this class of cases is not whether the intelligent section of the public is likely to be deceived but whether the public at large is likely to be deceived. 24 Bom.L.R. 1181=1923 Bom. 119. See also 57 A. 510. The general rule is that the plaintiffs, whose goods have acquired a reputation in the market through a trade-mark or name with which their goods have become associated, have a right to restrain the defendant from using a trade-mark or name which is identical with or similar to that of the plaintiffs, and such right extends not only to the particular goods sold by the plaintiffs, but also to cognate classes of goods, provided the cumulative effect of the similarity of the mark, the commercial connection between the plaintiff's goods and those of the defendant and surrounding circumstances is such as to lead the unwary customers to mistake the defendant's goods for those of the plaintiffs. 57 A. 510=1937 A. 7. It is difficult to define exactly over what area repute of an article should extend before it can be held that the said repute is locally universal. Where it was found that many consumers local and mofussil were likely to be misled. Held, that an injunction should be granted. In this country industry is not fully developed and the art of advertisement is in its infancy so that the repute of any article will not easily be spread over a wide area. 1930 Lah. 99. Mere proof that the trade-mark of one manufacturer has been appropriated by another is enough to entitle the person aggrieved for injunction to restrain its use. 1930 Cal. 678. Where the evidence is quite satisfactory to show that plaintiff's cloth was associated with the name of "lotus" and that any lotus device would lead to cloth being able to be palmed off as their cloth which was the cloth of another manufacturer, injunction should be granted; and the mere fact that if looked properly the defendant's trade-mark was not lotus but a rose would make no difference if the whole get-up of the one was like the whole get-up of the other. 51 All. 182=56 I.A. 1=1929 P.C. 11=56 M.L.J. 282 (P. C.). A man has no right to put up his goods for sale as the goods of a rival trader, and he cannot be allowed to use names, marks, letters or other indicia by which he may induce purchasers to believe that the goods he is selling are the manufacture of another person. Whatever be the particular mode adopted by him, if the trade-mark is a work or device never in use before and meaningless, except as indicating by him the goods in connection with which it is used were made, there can be no conceivable legitimate use of it by another person, his only object in employing it in connexion with goods of his manufacture being to deceive. Mere proof that the trade-mark of one manufacture has been thus appropriated by another is enough to entitle the person aggrieved for injunction to restrain its use. In the case of a trade-mark thus identified with a particular manufactory the rights of the person whose trade-mark it was would not differ substantially from those which would exist if it were strictly speaking his property. [Reddaway v. Barham, (1896) A.C. 190, applied.] 1930 Cal. 678.

FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION NOT NECESSARY.—The parties who were dealing in condensed milk used labels having device of a cow. The plaintiff's label had 'Dan-cow' imprinted on it while the defendant used a similar label with the word 'cow'. They were alike in several respects, though there were minor points of difference also. The plaintiff having sued for an injunction in respect of the trade-mark, held, that an injunction should be issued. A fraudulent misrepresentation is not an essential ingredient for the issue of an injunction. Whether the plaintiff's goods are identified with the device used depends on the evidence. 26 S.L.R. 51=1932 Sind 84. See also 1933 Cal. 466.

INTERLOCUTORY INJUNCTION—GRANT OF.—Where in a suit based on an alleged infringement of a trade-mark on cotton spools, the plaintiffs pray for an interlocutory injunction restraining the defendants from selling cotton spools which are similar in appearance to those sold by the plaintiffs, but there is no evidence of any actual cases in which the defendants' cotton has been sold to persons desiring to purchase the plaintiffs' cotton or of cases where illiterate customers have been misled by the defendants' design into thinking that they were buying plaintiffs' cotton, no interlocutory injunction should be granted simply because the two spools have various features in common. 177 I.C. 473=1938 Cal. 458. The essence of an application for an interlocutory injunction is that it should be made with promptness. Improper delay although it does not amount to acquiescence may deprive a plaintiff of his right to such a remedy. Injunction may be refused on account of delay in a case of infringement of trade-mark. 26 S.L.R. 335=139 I.C. 490. Where in a suit for injunction and other reliefs for infringement of trade-mark by the defendants the plaintiff prays for an injunction the Court has to see on which side the balance of convenience lies assuming that the infringement exists. Where the loss to the defendants by the grant of injunction cannot be remedied if plaintiff fails, but the plaintiff's interest can be otherwise safeguarded, the injunction should be refused. 1933 Lah. 1046.

RIGHT OF SUIT OF MANUFACTURER AND OF IMPORTER.—A manufacturer of goods with a particular mark in England, who imports them to a dealer in India, has no cause of action against an infringer or a person who uses a colourable imitation of the mark, in the absence of any evidence of any reputation in him so far as India is concerned. But the importer may acquire the right to the exclusive use of a trade-mark. A merchant who sells particular goods under particular trade-mark is entitled to protection for that mark if he can show that it is established in the market with the goods which he sells, because the law will not permit a person to pass off his goods as those of another. It matters not whether the merchant has the goods made for him abroad or whether he has them made for him within the country. The fact that the manufacturer or supplier of the goods has also acquired a reputation in connection with it in another country does not affect him. If the manufacturer has never used the mark in India, it is open to the merchant or importer to adopt it for his business in India, and when he does so with the full consent of the manufacturer, he acquires a right to the mark in India. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 466=46 L.W. 635=1938 Mad. 1=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 651. See also 1924 Rang. 333. A manufacturer of goods bearing a particular mark or name, who merely manufactures them in England for a trader in India and sends them on to the trader in India, but who does not himself sell those goods in India cannot be said to acquire any right at all in India in the trade mark or trade name. But the importer of the goods who is associated with them and has sold them for a considerable period with the particular mark, and who has sole rights to the use of the particular mark in India gets proprietary rights in the trade-mark by user and is entitled to sue for injunction against a person infringing the same. 1937 M.W.N. 271. The protection which the law affords to traders using a trade-mark in India would be seriously diminished if immunity from action were secured to rival traders who having brought goods into the market with the same mark were able to prove that in some quarter of the globe some other trader had been in the habit of using the mark for a period longer than that alleged by the plaintiff. (24 Mad. 163; 35 Bom. 425; 13 Cal. 82, Ref.) 2 Rang. 278=1924 Rang. 333.

AGENCY, REPRESENTATION AS TO.—Attempts to deceive unwary purchasers by false representations by the use of devices may be made in different forms and it is a question of fact in each case whether there is a false representation or not. A dealer may not represent contrary to fact that he is an agent for a manufacturer and use the real agent's label or design. (Injunction issued.) 26 S.L.R. 287=1932 Sind. 222.

INJUNCTION DECREE, FORM OF.—In a suit for an injunction for infringement of trade-mark, the injunction was ordered in the following form: "that the defendant, his servnts, and agents be restrained from selling or offering for sale . . . bearing labels . . . . in a form calculated or intended to pass off or to enable others to pass off his goods as and for the goods of the plaintiff. 1930 Cal. 678. See also 1937 Cal. 528.

DAMAGES—MODE OF ASSESSMENT.—If the plaintiff can establish that his sales decreased after the defendant started to use his trade-mark, he is entitled to the loss of profits resulting therefrom. If he can show that the average increase of the trade did not continue after that date he is entitled to the loss of profits on such average increase of sales. 176 I.C. 348=1937 Cal. 528. In suits for infringement of trade-mark, damages would deepnd upon the reduction in the sale of plaintiff's goods and consequent reduction in his profits owing to the defendant's action. A fall in the actual price of the imported goods of the plaintiff can never mean an equal fall in his profits. 188 I.C. 462. In a trade-mark case, the plaintiff is entitled, if he succeeds in getting an injunction, either to claim the damage sustained from the defendant's wrongful act or the profits which the defendant might have made by his wrongful act. The computation in the two cases is not the same. The proper way to approach the question as to how much damage the plaintiff had suffered by reason of the infringement of their mark by the defendants is to ascertain what profit the plaintiffs would have made if the offending articles had not been upon the market and the best evidence in support of such a claim is evidence of any loss of trade that the plaintiffs had suffered during the period in which the defendants were importing goods with the infringing mark on them. [51 A. 182 (P.C.), Ref.] 10 Rang. 85=1932 Rang. 56. There is no cut and dry rule which can be laid down by a Court of law for the estimation of damages in a case of infringement of trade-mark. But instead of making a speculative assumption of sales by defendant by trusting to their own goods without the misleading trade-mark, the safer basis would be to calculate on the falling-off in plaintiff's trade which came in after the pirated mark was introduced on the market. 51 All. 182=31 Bom.L.R. 285=56 I.A. 1=1929 P.C. 11=56 M.L.J. 282 (P.C.). In the case of infringement of a trade-mark the profits made by the defendant cannot always be a true criterion of damages awardable to a plaintiff. (English cases considered.) 49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 81. Damages are in every case proportioned to the injury done. 49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 81. When a registered trade-mark or design is innocently infringed, the owner of the trade-mark or design is not entitled to an account of profits or an inquiry as to profits unless the offender continues to infringe after notice of the owner's rights, though he is entitled to an injuncion against the offender. When the offender himself who has innocently infringed offers to pay the profits made by him by the sale of the offending goods, and the plaintiff is unable to prove any damage sustained by him by reason of the infringement of his rights in the trade-mark or design, he is not entitled at all to an order for inquiry as to the profits made by the defendant by the sale of the goods bearing the plaintiff's trade-mark or design. 182 I.C. 577=41 Bom.L.R. 290=1939 Bom. 198.

Sec. 20 (2): PASSING-OFF ACTION—ESSENTIALS OF.—The gist of a passing-off action is deceit; for "passing off" is one of the ways by which goods of one trader are sold by another in a manner calculated to deceive the purchaser into thinking that they are the goods of the former. There must be a reasonable probability of deception. There can be no such probability when the goods manufactured by the defendant have neither been manufactured nor sold by the plaintiff before. There is no infringement in such a case. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101. If the goods of a manufacturer, from the mark or device he has used, have become known in the market by a particular name the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which will cause his goods to bear the same name in the market may be as much an invasion of right of that rival as the actual copy of his device. (Seixo v. Provezende, L.R. 1 Ch.D. 192, Foll.) 99 I.C. 353=49 All. 92=24 A.L.J. 975=1927 All. 81. In England, the registration of a trade-mark constitutes proof of title, and an action for infringement is only associated with an infringement of a registered trade-mark. A condition precedent to an action for infringement is registration. In this country we have no such system of registration and the remedy of the aggrieved trader lies in a "passing off" action. The basis of a

NOTES.

"passing off" action is a false representation. The plaintiff has to show that the act of the defendant complained of is calculated to lead to the passing off of the defendants' goods for those of the plaintiff, and it does not depend on whether the latter has acquired any right of property in the device under which he sells his goods. 12 Rang. 534=152 I.C. 855=1934 Rang. 297. (Law before the passing of this Act).

PASSING OFF—WHAT CONSTITUTES.—In considering whether defendant's mark is calculated to lead the purchasing public to believe that the goods bearing the defendant's trade-mark are the goods of the plaintiff, one must approach the two marks from a general aspect and see whether the defendants by having their mark upon the goods are representing them as plaintiff's goods. The actual physical resemblance of the two marks is not the sole question for consideration. If the goods of a manufacturer have, from the mark or device he has used, become known in the market by a particular name, the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which will cause his goods to bear the same name in the market may be as much a violation of the rights of that rival as the actual copy of his device. It may be that if they are placed side by side there are obvious differences; but if, one having so seen the plaintiff's mark and separately saw the defendant's mark, gets the general impression that it is the same mark, the defendant's mark must be held to be one which is calculated to deceive the public; and it must be held that goods bearing the defendant's mark are represented by this as being the goods of the plaintiff. 1937 M.W.N. 271. The basis of a passing off action is injurious falsehood or a false representation by the defendant, and it must be proved as a fact that the false representation was made. What the plaintiff has to prove in such a case is that the conduct of the defendant is such as is calculated or likely to pass off the defendant's goods as his. Fraudulent intention is not necessary. It is sufficient to prove that the practice complained of is of such a nature that it is likely in the ordinary course of business to deceive the public. In considering whether deception is probable or not account has to be taken not of expert purchasers but of the ordinary ignorant and unwary members of the public. The question really is whether the defendant has or has not knowingly put into the hands of retail dealers the means of deceiving the ultimate purchasers. If there is anything so characteristic in the get-up or appearance of the defendant's goods that it identifies those goods as the merchandise of the plaintiff, any deceptive adoption or imitation of that get-up or appearance or mark is enough. The Court has to find that the get-up is a colourable imitation on the face of the goods sold by, or belonging to, the defendant, and that, having regard to the surrounding circumstances, it is such a colourable imitation that it is likely to deceive a casual unwary purchaser into the belief that in buying the defendant's goods he is really buying the goods of the plaintiff. It is not necessary in such cases to show that there was any intention to deceive as a matter of fact. It is not necessary to prove that the defendant not only had the intention to deceive but was actually deceiving his customers. There is no reason why the ordinary presumption that a man intends the natural and ordinary consequences of his act cannot apply to passing off actions. If mere comparison is not sufficient, then the plaintiff must prove that what may be apparently innocent is really calculated to deceive. In such cases motive becomes material, and the Court may well assume that if a man is fraudulent, the steps which he himself thought sufficient would be likely to achieve his object. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 85=38 Bom.L.R. 894=1936 Bom. 418. In a suit for injunction in a passing off action relief can only be granted on the ground that the defendant has done something which is calculated to deceive. It is essential in a passing off action to show that there has been a false representation. It is not enough for the plaintiff to claim that he has adopted a device as a trade mark and that the defendant has copied this device or used one so like it that deception is probable. He must show that he has used the mark claimed by him on his goods or in connection with them and that the mark has become associated in the minds of the public with his goods. There must be user of the mark, because without user no reputation can be acquired. A reputation has to be established, but that does not mean that the ultimate purchaser must know the actual name of the owner of the goods. It is sufficient if the ultimate purchaser knows that goods bearing this mark have a reputation and that this mark denotes the goods which he wishes to buy. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 466=46 L.W. 635 =1938 Mad. 1=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 651.

TEST OF UNWARY PURCHASER—ABSOLUTE IDENTITY OF ARTICLES NOT NECESSARY.—It is by no means necessary that there should be absolute identity between the articles of the plaintiff and the defendant, nor is the fact that the two articles when placed side by side appear dissimilar to the European eye of much consequence. The main test is that notwithstanding the dissimilarities between the two articles there is contained in the defendant's article such characteristic features as might reasonably lead an unwary purchaser buying the article to believe that he was buying the plaintiff's article.

NOTES.

For awarding damages to the plaintiff the extent of the sale of the defendant's articles is very material. (The Singer Manufacturing Co. v. Loog. 18 Ch.D. 395; Seixo v. Provizendo, 1 Ch.A. 192, Rel. on.) 34 I.C. 217=1931 Rang. 213. See also 1931 Mad. 461; 1936 Bom. 418.

POINTS OF SIMILARITY AND NOT DIFFERENCE—QUESTION OF EFFICACY IRRELEVANT.—Where the defendant encased a medicine in such a way that it could be readily passed off so as to deceive the ordinary village customer into the belief that he was purchasing the medicine of the plaintiff. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to an injunction to restrain the defendant from selling the medicine in a way by which it could pass off as the medicine of the plaintiff. Whether the defendant's medicine is an imitation of the medicine of the plaintiff is to be decided from the points of similarity between the two and not from the points of difference. If a medicine has not been proved to be harmful and it has a large sale in the market for many days, the mere fact, that it is of an ordinary allopathic nature under a Sanskrit name and does not possess all the properties claimed for it, would not bar the protection of law which should be extended to it. 67 I.C. 353=20 A.L.J. 537=44 All. 608=1922 All. 178. As a matter of law it is not necessary for the plaintiff in a passing-off action to prove that the imitation is so similar and so close that there is hardly any difference noticeable between his goods and those of the defendant. Cases of exact imitation are very very rare. In most of the cases the question which the Court has to consider is whether, having regard to all the surrounding circumstances, the get-up was of such a nature as was likely to deceive people in the ordinary course of business into the belief that they were buying the plaintiff's goods and that in fact the defendant's goods were being passed off to them. Importance should not be attached to the minor characteristics, and little differences do not affect the question which the Court has to decide. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 85=38 Bom.L.R. 894=1936 Bom. 418.

COLOURABLE IMITATION.—The question for decision as to whether an alleged colourable imitation has or has not deceived anybody is to be decided with reference to the ultimate purchaser. In passing off cases, the probability of misleading, not experts or persons who know the real facts, but ordinary or unwary customers, is the mischief to be guarded against. Non-deception of middlemen and vendors is immaterial. 173 I.C. 930=1938 Sind 38. See also I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 131=41 P.L.R. 478=1938 Lah. 803. A colourable imitation is the most common form in which a trade-mark or trade-name is infringed. The test is not whether a person after carefully and intelligently examining or studying the marks is not likely to be misled, but whether by the general impression produced there is a probability of its causing deception. There is no hard and fast rule which can be laid down as regards the amount or degree of resemblance required in such cases. 14 Mys.L.J. 1=41 Mys.H.C.R. 110.

PASSING OFF—USE OF SAME MARK ON OTHER GOODS—PERMISSIBILITY.—There can obviously be no monopoly in the use of the trade-mark. A manufacturer of cigarettes under an undoubted trade-mark such, as an animal, or any other device, cannot legally object to the use of the identical mark on, say, hats or soap, for the simple reason that purchasers of any of the latter kinds of goods could not reasonably suppose, even if they were well acquainted with the mark as used on cigarettes, that its use on hats or soap denoted that these goods were manufactured or marketed by the cigarette manufacturer. 67 I.A. 212=I.L.R. (1940) A. 446=44 C.W.N. 737=1940 P.C. 86=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.).

PASSING OFF ACTION—EVIDENCE.—In an action for passing off an infringement of trade-mark, it is essential for the success of the plaintiffs that they should establish by evidence that their goods are known by some name or description of such nature that the use of the defendant's label will cause people to think that goods bearing that label are the goods of the plaintiff. 134 I.C. 657 =1931 P.C. 272 (P.C.). In a case of infringement of trade-mark, the Court must exercise its own judgment from the impression which it obtains from looking at the two products in question. In a passing off action, proof of actual deception is not necessary. It is quite sufficient if the plaintiff can prove the probability of deception. 176 I.C. 597=1938 Rang. 99. In order to justify the Court at a plaintiff's instance from prohibiting the defendant-firm from using its own name in all or any of its business transactions, it is essential for that plaintiff to establish by proper evidence two facts. He must prove that the words in the names of the firms are so alike that the latter will be taken as the same as or equivalent to the former. He must further prove that his firm name has acquired a secondary meaning, i.e., that the word, when applied to goods, means that the goods are the goods of the plaintiff, and no one else. 1931 P.C. 15 (P.C.). The vital element is the probability of deception. This may depend on a number of matters as well as the question of similarity of the marks or of the get-up. Witnesses can be called to prove the circumstances and the place in which the articles are sold, the classes of persons who buy them, and whether they include persons who are illiterate or ignorant or the reverse, the manner in which the public are accustomed to ask for the articles, and any other matters which will assist the Court to decide whether deception is probable. Evidence of actual deception may be available and if available may be very valuable. There is no such person as an expert in human nature, and a witness cannot be called to say that it is likely that purchasers of the goods will be deceived. This can only be a matter of opinion formed after the dispute has arisen and too often without any judicial consideration of the opposing contentions. 67 I.A. 212=I.L.R. (1940) A. 446=44 C.W.N. 737=52 L.W. 25=42 Bom.L.R. 734=1940 A.L.J. 496=1940 P.C. 86 =(1940) 2 M.L.J. 151 (P.C.). It is difficult where a name is descriptive of patented product to conceive that a manufacturer could be held guilty of passing off, if he manufactured the goods in accordance with the expired patents, and the only similarity between the rival goods lay in the appearance of the goods so manufactured and the application to them of the name by which the patented goods had been known. It is conceivable that in the case of a patent, long ago expired, the evidence might possibly establish that the name had become distinctive of a particular manufacturer rather than descriptive of the goods, with the result that other manufacturers of the goods could be compelled to adopt some means of effectively distinguishing their goods from those of the particular manufacturer. But difficult as such a case is to prove in the case of a descriptive word it must be additionally difficult in the case where a word is the name of goods as well as being descriptive of those goods. 1938 P.C. 143 (P.C.). Before a case of passing off of a book on the similarity of title and get up can be proved, it must be shown that the public connect the title of the book with a particular work written by that author. Again as to get up, it must be shown that a particular style of printing or illustration indicates to the public that the work is that author's. 42 C.W.N. 541=1938 Cal. 594.

PASSING-OFF ACTION—BURDEN OF PROOF. —In actions for passing-off in connection with trade-marks, the plaintiff has to prove that his goods were known to the public by some distinct name, mark, badge, get-up or appearance, and that the defendant's use or imitation of the same is likely to mislead the public into believing that the defendant's goods are those of the plaintiff. Though the actual length of time during which a trade-mark is used or employed is not an important element to be considered, the user or employment must have been long enough to render probable the acquisition in the market of a reputation. 59 Bom. 373 =36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101. In an action for passing off, the plaintiff should in the first instance prove that the goods sold under their label and get-up were goods which had a reputation in the market as being goods manufactured or sold by them, of which the label and get-up was distinctive and well-known in the particular market and that the goods sold by the defendants were a colourable imitation of the label and get-up of the plaintiff's goods. 10 Rang. 133=1932 Rang. 114. A passing off action is, in essence, a suit in defence of the plaintiff's right of property in the particular name make or get-up he claims and in the goodwill attributed thereto. The plaintiff in every case has to establish that he has indeed acquired for himself or as goods a sufficient reputation, under the mark, or under the name by which, in consequence of the use of that mark, his goods have come to be known, to entitle him to treat it as his own, and to be protected. 157 I.C. 902. See also 1939 Rang.L.R. 18=1939 Rang. 98.

PASSING OFF ACTION—INJUNCTION—DAMAGES—INNOCENT AND FRAUDULENT PASSING OFF.—A man has a right of property in the goodwill of his business, which he has either built up or acquired. If any one interferes with that right by passing off his goods as the former's, the remedy is available to him by way of injunction to restrain the passing off even if the person so passing off is entirely innocent and acts in ignorance of the fact that he is interfering with the rights of another. If the passing off is done fraudulently then the owner of the trademark or goodwill can either ask for an account of the profits made by the person passing off his goods in that way or for damages. 14 Mys.L.J. 1=41 Mys.H.C. R. 110.

RIGHT TO INJUNCTION.—In a passing off action the plaintiff is entitled to ask for the issue of an injunction, if the defendant persists in denying that there had been any infringement of plaintiff's rights and does not give any undertaking with regard to the future. 43 P.L.R. 389=1941 Lah. 293. Before a dealer can restrain another from using a name or mark, it is not sufficient to show that the article with that name or mark has acquired a reputation in the market but it must also be shown that the public have grown to associate that particular name or mark with himself as the manufacturer of or dealer in that article. Where there is absolutely no evidence to establish any such association in the public mind between the plaintiff's business and the goods bearing the mark in question, the suit must fail. (33 Mad. 402; 25 Bom. 433 and 12 A.C. 453, Foll.) 43 L.W. 210=1936 Mad. 8. In a passing off action the Court is not justified in refusing an injunction merely because, on a close and critical comparison of one with the other the Court is of opinion that there is no likelihood of deception. An ignorant purchaser probably trusts to his recollection, he has no opportunity for comparison, and if he is likely to take the one for the other, there is a prima facie case for an injunction. Where the Court finds that the defendant's article is comparatively new, it would be a greater inconvenience to allow him to flood the market with his goods and possibly infringe the plaintiffs' rights than to restrain the defendant for a short time and compensate him, if so entitled, for the loss sustained by him in consequence. 38 L.W. 771=65 M.L.J. 617. The Court must consider the ordinary characteristics and the normal sense of discrimination, or the lack of it, not only of those experienced dealers who purchase the goods from the another but also of those small retailers in district towns and villages who purchase from the larger dealers and the "man in the street" who is the ultimate purchaser. The Court can also take into account, in assessing the liability to deceive of a particular mark, the ordinary commercial opportunities for intentional deception by dishonest persons. A trader may deliberately set out to filch his rival's trade by a calculated copy of his trade-mark or get-up, or he may, while astute enough to avoid what he conceives to be a cynically deliberate copy, endeavour or even be content, to get near thereto as is pssible consistently with his remaining outside the reach of the Court's jurisdiction; or he may assume an offensive mark or get-up by carelessness or even inadvertance. But if it results in a reasonable probability of deception, the Court will protect the owner of the infringed mark in all cases, and grant an injunction. 157 I.C. 902. See also 142 I.C. 555. Whether a name originally descriptive has acquired a secondary meaning as denoting exclusively the plaintiff's goods depends on the facts of each particular case. Where the plaintiffs sued for an injunction on the ground that they had acquired an exclusive right to the use of the name "Madras Curry Powder" it appeared however that in the place where the article was sold it was not generally understood that "Madras Curry Powder" was powder exclusively manufactured by the plaintiffs held, that under those circumstances an injunction could not be issued against persons selling similar goods under similar names. 55 Mad. 966=36 L.W. 498=1932 Mad. 705=63 M.L.J. 568. If traders in India have acquired in any language the exclusive right to the use of certain particular marks or words not merely as descriptive of but as distinctive of their goods, they have the right to restrain another trader from copying those marks or words for use in connection with a similar class of goods in any other language in India. A person knowing a number of languages would very likely be deceived if a trader translates into one of the languages which he knows the trade-mark acquired by long user by a trader in another language with which that person is familiar and affixed that trade-mark so translated to a similar class of goods. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the use of the words in another language was an intention to deceive and in fact was likely to deceive, then the Court ought to restrain the use of such words. Where a particular brand of saline known as "fruit salt" had become well-known in trade as belonging exclusively to the plaintiff, and the defendant manufactured and sold a saline with the word "Falaxar" which was the Marathi equivalent of "Fruit Salt": Held, that the defendant had no right to use the words in any language in connection with similar goods as being likely to deceive and ought to be restrained from using the same. 42 Bom.L.R. 924=1941 Bom. 3

MARK WKEN PUBLICI JURIS—TEST.—œhe real test to find whether a mark has become publici juris is whether the use of it by other persons is still calculated to deceive the public, not the long duration of fraudulent user. If their user may still have the effect of inducing the public to buy goods not made by the original owner of the original trade mark as if they were his goods, then the principle of publici juris has no application. 142 I.C. 555.

PASSING OFF—ACTION—DAMAGES—MEASURE OF—Exemplary or penal damages are not usually awarded in a passing off action. The plaintiff can either ask for an account of profits or damages to cover his own losses; but in the latter case, the ordinary rule is to ascertain the actual losses. 43 P.L.R. 389=1941 Lah. 293. See also 134 I.C. 217=1931 Rang. 213. In a passing off action an injunction may be granted and nominal damages awarded merely on proof of an infringement of a trade-mark and reasonable probability of damage to the plaintiff's trade. But the position is different as regards a claim for an account. Substantial damages can only be awarded on proof of actual damage. If it is found that the plaintiff has taken action in time to prevent his trade being materially affected and if the evidence of the plaintiff does not lay the foundation for that form of relief, he is not entitled to an account for the purpose of assessing substantial damages. 41 Bom.L.R. 182=1939 Bom. 118. Where the plaintiff in a suit for infringement of a trade-mark succeeds in the action, he has a right to elect to claim an account of profits and not to ask for

Right conferred by registration.

21. Subject to the provisions of sections 22, 25 and 26, the registration of a person in the register as proprietor of a trade mark in respect of any goods shall, if valid, give to that person the exclusive right to the use of the trade mark in relation to those goods and, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, that right shall be deemed to be infringed by any person who, not being the proprietor of the trade mark or a registered user thereof using by way of the permitted use, uses a mark identical with it or so nearly resembling it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion, in the course of trade, in relation to any goods in respect of which it is registered, and in such manner as to render the use of the mark likely to be taken either—

(a) as being use as a trade mark ; or

(b) to import a reference to some person having the right either as a proprietor or as registered user to use the trade mark or to goods with which such a person as aforesaid is connected in the course of trade.

No infringement in certain circumstances.

22. (1) The right to the use of a trade mark given under section 21 by registration shall be subject to any conditions or limitations entered on the register, and shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid in any mode, in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in, in any place, or in relation to goods to be exported to any market, or in any other circumstances, to which, having regard to any such limitations, the registration does not extend.

(2) The said right to the use of a trade mark shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid by any person—

(a) in relation to goods connected in the course of trade with the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark if, as to those goods or a bulk of which they form part, the proprietor or the registered user conforming to the permitted use has applied the trade mark and has not subsequently removed or obliterated it, or has at any time expressly or impliedly consented to the use of the trade mark ; or

(b) in relation to goods adapted to form part of, or to be accessory to, other goods in relation to which the trade mark has been used without infringement of the right given as aforesaid or might for the time being be so used, if the use of the mark is reasonably necessary in order to indicate that the goods are so adapted and neither the purpose nor the effect of the use of the mark is to indicate otherwise than in accordance with the fact a connection in the course of trade between any person and the goods.

(3) The use of a registered trade mark, being one of two or more registered trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other, in exercise of the right to the use of that trade mark given by registration as aforesaid, shall not be deemed to be an infringement of the right so given to the use of any other of those trade marks.

NOTES.

damages. He is not disentitled to an account of profits if he gives up his claim for damages. 42 Bom.L.R. 924.

RIGHT TO NOMINAL DAMAGES.—In a case of infringement of trade-mark or trade name in the absence of proof of damages, the damages awarded should be really nominal. 43 P.L.R. 269=1941 Lah. 262. See also 41 Bom.L.R. 182=1939 Bom. 118. Where the plaintiff has proved that his right of trade-mark has been infringed but no damages have been proved, then nominal damages can be allowed, even though they are not proved. 57 A. 510=1935 A.L.J. 80.

RIGHT OF IMPORTER TO MAINTAIN ACTION.—Where in the local market a particular brand of goods is associated with the importers and not with their suppliers, the importer is entitled to institute an action for "passing off". (1924 P.C. 187, Rel. on.) 12 Rang. 534=1934 Rang. 297.

Sec. 21.—This section confers on the registered owner of a trade-mark in respect of any goods the exclusive right to use the mark in relation to those goods.

Sec. 22.—This section defines the circumstances in which no infringement of a trade-mark is deemed to have taken place.

23. In all legal proceedings relating to a registered trade mark, the fact that a person is registered as proprietor thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the validity of the original registration of the trade mark and of all subsequent assignments and transmissions thereof.

Registration to be prima facie evidence of validity.

24. In all legal proceedings relating to a registered trade mark, the original registration of the trade mark shall after the expiration of seven years from the date of such original registration be taken to be valid in all respects unless such registration was obtained by fraud, or unless the trade mark offends against the provisions of section 8.

Registration to be conclusive as to validity after seven years.

25. Nothing in this Act shall entitle the proprietor or a registered user of a registered trade mark to interfere with or restrain the use by any person of a trade mark identical with or nearly resembling it in relation to goods in relation to which that person or a predecessor in title of his has continuously used that trade mark from a date prior—

Saving for vested rights.

(a) to the use of the first-mentioned trade mark in relation to those goods by the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his, or

(b) to the registration of the first-mentioned trade mark in respect of those goods in the name of the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his, whichever is the earlier, or to object (on such use being proved) to registration of that identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of those goods under sub-section (2) of section 10.

26. No registration of a trade mark shall interfere with any bona fide use by a person of his own name or that of his place of business, or of the name, or of the name of the place of business, of any of his predecessors in business, or the use by any person of any bona fide description of the character or quality of his goods, not being a description that would be likely to be taken as importing any such reference as is mentioned in clause (b) of section 21 or in clause (b) of section 57.

Saving for use of name, address, or description of goods.

27. (1) The registration of a trade mark shall not be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of any use after the date of the registration of any words which the trade mark contains or of which it consists as the name or description of an article or substance :

Words used as name or description of an article or substance.

Provided that, if it is proved either—

(a) that there is a well-known and established use of the said words as the name or description of the article or substance by a person or persons carrying on a trade therein, not being use in relation to goods connected in the course of trade with the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark or (in the case of a certification trade mark) goods certified by the proprietor ; or

---

NOTES.

Sec. 23.—This section lays down that the registration of a trade-mark constitutes prima facie evidence of its validity.

Sec. 24.—This section is designed to safeguard the position of registered owners by making the registration conclusive as to validity after ten years.

Sec. 25.—This section is designed to safeguard the rights of a prior user.

Sec. 26.—This section provides that registration of a trade mark does not interfere with the right of a person to the bona fide use for the purpose of business of his own name or the name of his place of business or a bona fide description of the character or quality of his goods. (See 1931 P.C. 15 (P.C.), 56 I.C. 709).

Sec. 27.—The provisions of this section are designed to safeguard the legitimate interests of ex-patentees and others without permitting the creation of an exclusive monopoly in words which the trade mark contains or of which it consists as the name or description of an article or substance.

(b) that the article or substance has been manufactured under a patent in force at or granted after the commencement of this section, that a period of two years or more after the cesser of the patent has elapsed, and that the said words are the only practicable name or description of the article or substance,— the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply.

(2) Where the facts mentioned in clause (a) or clause (b) of the proviso to sub-section (1) are proved with respect to any words, then—

(a) for the purposes of any proceedings under section 46—

(i) if the trade mark consists solely of such words, the registration of the trade mark, so far as regards registration in respect of the article or substance in question or of any goods of the same description, shall be deemed to be an entry wrongly remaining on the register ;

(ii) if the trade mark contains such words and other matter, the tribunal, in deciding whether the trade mark shall remain on the register, so far as regards registration in respect of the article or substance in question and of any goods of the same description, may, in case of a decision in favour of its remaining on the register, require as a condition thereof that the proprietor shall disclaim any right to the exclusive use in relation to that article or substance and any goods of the same description, of such words, provided that no disclaimer shall affect any rights of the proprietor of a trade mark except such as arise out of the registration of the trade mark in respect of which the disclaimer is made ;

(b) for the purposes of any other legal proceedings relating to the trade mark,—

(i) if the trade mark consists solely of such words, all rights of the proprietor under this Act or any other law to the exclusive use of the trade mark in relation to the article or substance in question or to any goods of the same description, or

(ii) if the trade mark contains such words and other matter, all such rights of the proprietor to the exclusive use of such words, in such relation as aforesaid, shall be deemed to have ceased on the date at which the use mentioned in clause (a) of the proviso to sub-section (1) first became well-known and established, or at the expiration of the period of two years mentioned in clause (b) of the said proviso.

CHAPTER V.

ASSIGNMENT AND TRANSMISSION.

Power of registered proprietor to assign and give receipts.

28. The person for the time being entered in the register as proprietor of a trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Act and to any rights appearing from the register to be vested in any other person, have power to assign the trade mark, and to give effectual receipts for any consideration for such assignment.

NOTES.

Sec. 28.—Under this section a registered proprietor of a trade mark is empowered to assign the mark to another person and to give receipts for any consideration for such assignment.

ASSIGNMENT OF TRADE-MARK.—MODE OF—WRITING—NECESSITY.—A trade-mak is generally transmitted along with the good-will of a business, and can only be assigned in writing. 59 Bom. 373=36 Bom.L.R. 1165=1935 Bom. 101. It is established that a trade-mark cannot be assigned in gross for it is a mode of representing the origin of goods to which it is attached or their trade association, and the truth of the representation is essential. The representation of a trade-mark may perhaps be true only of its originator, but usage has sanctioned a more general treatment based on the principle of identification by succession, and therefore successors in the business have been allowed to use their predecessor's trade-mark where the representation continues to be substantially true. An originator of a trade-mark of a natural product who certifies to their good quality is entitled to it and has a right to alienate it. A trade-mark can be assigned together with the good-will of the business to which it relates. 27 I.C. 483=19 C.W.N. 1. |See also S. 29, infra).

TRADE-MARK—ASSIGNMENT OF—PERSONAL SKILL INVOLVED—VALADITY.—A trade-mark bearing the name of a person whose personal skill enters much into the value of the product, is impliedly a notice to the public 29. Notwithstanding anything in any other law to the contrary, a registered trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, be assignable and transmissible whether in connection with the goodwill of a business or not, and in respect either of all of the goods in respect of which it is registered or of some only of those goods.

Assignability of registered trade marks.

30. An unregistered trade mark shall be assignable and transmissible whether in connection with the goodwill of a business or not :

Assignability of unregistered trade marks.

Provided that, except in connection with the goodwill of a business, assignment or transmission shall be permissible only if—

(a) at the time of assignment or transmission of the unregistered trade mark it is used in the same business as a registered trade mark, and

(b) the registered trade mark is assigned or transmitted at the same time and to the same person as the unregistered trade mark, and

(c) the unregistered trade mark relates to goods in respect of which the registered trade mark is assigned or transmitted.

NOTES.

that his personal supervision was employed in the manufacture and as such it would be unassignable. But on the other hand, the usage of trade may be such that no such inference would be drawn from the use of a trade-mark which contains a person's name and what all the purchasers would reasonably suppose is that goods bearing a trade-mark belong to a certain standard or quality or are made in a certain manner or after a certain formula, by persons carrying on the same business, that formerly was conducted by the person whose name is in the trade-mark and in such cases the assignment of the trade-mark would not be invalid. 22 I.C. 372=40 Cal. 814.

GOOD WILL, TRANSFER OF.—Good-will is the benefit and advantage of the good name, reputation and connection of a business. It is the attractive force which brings in custom. It is the one thing which distinguishes an old established business from a new business at its first start. A transferee of good will is entitled to use the name in which the business was carried on and to represent himself as carrying on that business. 27 I.C. 483=19 C.W.N. 1. (See also S. 29, infra).

SALE OF BUSINESS BY STATE—PURCHASER —LIMITATIONS.—Appellant, who was a cigar manufacturer, prepared and sold cigars under a particular trade-mark and trade name. On the 6th October, 1917, the United States Trading with the Enemy Act became law. Under this Act the American Alien Property Custodian took possession of the appellant's factory and business in Manila and sold it to the respondent firm, including in the sale all the stock and the good will, trade-name and trade-marks of the appellant's business. At the conclusion of the war the appellant, who had in fact long before become a Belgian national, was cleared of enemy character by the United States Government, and the proceeds of sale of his Manila property and of other property which had been sequestrated, were handed back to him. He then filed an action against respondent on the ground that the assignment by the American Custodian did not affect rights outside the Phillippine Islands and that at the sale of cigars under the names and marks in question would lead the public in China to think that they were purchasing the appellant's goods: Held, that the assignment by the Custodian, although confined, so far as property was concerned, to property within the Phillippine Islands, not the less purported to include the business as a going concern and the goodwill, trade name and trade-marks thereof of the appellant's company doing business in the Phillippine Islands under the name of particular trade. This assignment could not transfer the title to trade-marks or trade names in China but it could enable the respondents, as between themselves and the appellant, to say that they were not passing off goods under a trade name to which they had no title, so long as they abstained from representing the goods as those of the appellant and that, though the respondents may have the right to make use of the names and marks in question, so long as they are descriptive of a kind and quality of cigar, it does not follow that the respondents have any right to represent the cigars as those guaranteed by the appellant or to print his signature as stating this, 107 I.C. 352=47 C.L.J. 263=30 Bom.L.R. 753=1928 P.C. 83 (P.C.).

Sec. 29.—This section permits of the assignment or transmission of a registered trade-mark for the whole or part of the goods.

Sec. 30.—This section provides for the assignment or transmission under certain conditions of unregistered trade-marks used Restrictions on assignment or transmission where multiple exclusive rights would be created.

31. (1) Notwithstanding anything in sections 29 and 30, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist, whether under this Act or any other law, exclusive rights in more than one of the persons concerned to the use, in relation to the same goods or description of goods, of trade marks nearly resembling each other or of identical trade marks, if, having regard to the similarity of the goods and of the trade marks the use of the trade marks in exercise of those rights would be likely to deceive or cause confusion :

Provided that an assignment or transmission shall not be deemed to be invalid under this sub-section if the exclusive rights subsisting as a result thereof in the persons concerned respectively are, having regard to limitations imposed thereon, such as not to be exercisable by two or more of those persons in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, within British India (otherwise than for export therefrom), or in relation to goods to be exported to the same market outside British India.

(2) The proprietor of a registered trade mark who proposes to assign it may submit to the Registrar in the prescribed manner a statement of case setting out the circumstances and the Registrar may issue to him a certificate stating whether, having regard to the similarity of the goods and of the trade marks referred to in the case, the proposed assignment would or would not be invalid under sub-section (1), and a certificate so issued shall, subject to appeal and unless it is shown that the certificate was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be conclusive as to the validity or invalidity under sub-section (1) of the assignment in so far as such validity or invalidity depends upon the facts set out in the case, but, as regards a certificate in favour of validity, only if application for the registration under section 35 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the certificate is issued.

Restrictions on assignment or transmission when exclusive rights would be created in different parts of British India.

32. Notwithstanding anything in sections 29 and 30, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist, whether under this Act or any other law, an exclusive right in one of the persons concerned to the use of the trade mark limited to use in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, in any place in British India and an exclusive right in another of these persons to the use of a trade mark nearly resembling the first-mentioned trade mark or of an identical trade mark in relation to the same goods or description of goods limited to use in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, in any other place in British India :

Provided that in any such case, on application in the prescribed manner by the proprietor of a trade mark who proposes to assign it, or by a person who claims that a registered trade mark has been transmitted to him or to a predecessor in title of his since the commencement of this Act, the Registrar, if he is satisfied that in all the circumstances the use of the trade mark in exercise of the said rights would not be contrary to the public interest, may approve the assignment or transmission, and an assignment or transmission so approved shall not, unless it is shown that the in connexion with a registered mark.

Sec. 31.—Under this section assignments and transmissions which create an exclusive right to use the same mark in relation to the same goods in more than one person are prohibited.

Sec. 32.—This section prohibits assignments or transmissions to more than one person of the same or resembling marks in respect of the same goods in separate parts of British India, unless the Registrar is satisfied that the use of the marks in exercise of those rights would not be contrary to the public interest.

approval was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be deemed to be invalid under this section or section 31 if application for the registration under section 35 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the approval is given or, in the case of a transmission, was made before that date.

Conditions for assignment otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of a business.

33. Where an assignment in respect of any goods of a trade mark which is at the time of the assignment used in a business in those goods, is made after the commencement of this Act otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of that business, the assignment shall not take effect unless the assignee, not later than the expiration of six months from the date on which the assignment is made or within such extended period, if any, as the Registrar may allow, applies to the Registrar for directions with respect to the advertisement of the assignment, and advertises it in such form and manner and within such period as the Registrar may direct.

Conditions for assignment and transmission of certification trade marks and associated trade marks.

34. (1) A certification trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible otherwise than with the consent of the Central Government, for which application shall be made in writing in the prescribed manner through the Registrar.

(2) Associated trade marks shall be assignable and transmissible only as a whole and not separately.

Registration of assignments and transmissions.

35. (1) Where a person becomes entitled by assignment or transmission to a registered trade mark, he shall apply in the prescribed manner to the Registrar to register his title, and the Registrar shall on receipt of the application and on proof of title to his satisfaction, register him as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of the goods in respect of which the assignment or transmission has effect, and shall cause particulars of the assignment or transmission to be entered on the register.

(2) Except for the purposes of an appeal against a decision of the Registrar under sub-section (1) or of an application under section 46, a document or instrument in respect of which no entry has been made in the register in accordance with sub-section (1) shall not be admitted in evidence before any tribunal in proof of the title to a trade mark unless the tribunal otherwise directs.

CHAPTER VI.

USE OF TRADE MARKS AND REGISTERED USERS.

Proposed use of trade mark by company to be formed.

36. (1) No application for the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods shall be refused, nor shall permission for such registration be withheld, on the ground only that it appears that the applicant does not use or propose to use the trade mark, if the Registrar is satisfied that a company is about to be formed and registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and that the applicant intends to assign the trade mark to that company with a view to the use thereof in relation to those goods by the company.

NOTES.

Sec. 33.—This section empowers the Registrar, in cases of assignment otherwise than in connexion with the goodwill of a business to direct the assignee to advertise the assignment so that the fullest publicity may be given to the transfer. (See also 19 C.W.N. 1.)

Sec. 34.—This section requires that the consent of the Central Government shall be obtained to the assignment or transmission of a certification trade-mark, and provides that associated trade-marks are assignable and transmissible only as a whole.

Sec. 35.—This section prescribes the procedure for the registration of the title of a person to the assignments and transmissions of registered trade-marks.

Sec. 36.—The provisions of this section enable trade-mark owners to register their marks for use by a company which is about to be formed.

(2) The tribunal may, in a case to which sub-section (1) applies, require the applicant to give security for the costs of any proceedings relative to any opposition or appeal, and in default of such security being duly given may treat the application as abandoned.

(3) Where in a case to which sub section (1) applies, a trade mark in respect of any goods is registered in the name of an applicant who relies on intention to assign to a company, then, unless within such period as may be prescribed, or within such further period not exceeding six months as the Registrar may, on application being made to him in the prescribed manner, allow, the company has been registered as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of those goods, the registration shall cease to have effect in respect thereof at the expiration of that period, and the Registrar shall amend the register accordingly.

Removal from register and imposition of limitations on ground of non-use.

37. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 38, a registered trade mark may be taken off the register in respect of any of the goods in respect of which it is registered on application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, on the ground either—

(a) that the trade mark was registered without any bona fide intention on the part of the applicant for registration that it should be used in relation to those goods by him, or in a case to which the provisions of section 36 apply, by the company concerned, and that there has in fact been no bona fide use of the trade mark in relation to those goods by any proprietor thereof for the time being up to a date one month before the date of the application; or

(b) that up to a date one month before the date of the application, a continuous period of five years or longer elapsed during which the trade mark was registered and during which there was no bona fide use thereof in relation to those goods by any proprietor thereof for the time being :

Provided that, except where the applicant has been permitted under sub-section (2) of section 10 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in

---

NOTES.

Sec. 37.—This section provides that unused trade-marks may be removed from the Register of Trade-Marks as also the marks which have not been used for five years in a particular area or market in British India.

ABANDONMENT OF TRADE-MARK — LAW BEFORE PASSING OF THIS ACT.—No particular length of time is necessary for abandonment. If a trade drops out of the use of a party and another gains the reputation in the trade for goods made under the particular name, and his name is associated with the mark and the mark associated with his name, so that all who deal in the goods consider that when they see the mark they see the goods made by the plaintiff, then the original position of the competitor using the same mark has practically disappeared. 1939 Rang.L.R. 18=1939 Rang. 98.

FRAUDULENT USER OF ABANDONED TRADE-MARK OF ANOTHER.—Even if an owner of a trade-mark has abandoned or practically abandoned his rights to the trade-mark, it does not give a person any exclusive right thereto simply because he was perhaps the first to rush into the market with an imitation of that trade-mark. Where a person by imitating the trade-mark of others has caused his goods to pass as those of others, be cannot be heard to say that he alone has a monopoly to imitate and deceive people. Even if he succeeds in proving that he was the first in the market with an imitation, and maintains that having established a reputation on that imitation he had a right to prevent others from taking advantage of his exertions, he cannot be given any protection in a Court of law. Even if user be established extending over a considerable period, it does not follow that a title to the trade-mark is made out; for, if the user was fraudulent in its inception and is still calculated to deceive, the user gives no right. 173 I.C. 930 =1938 Sind 38. Before the plaintiff succeeds in his suit for infringement of his trade-mark he must prove a property in the trade-mark. It may be his property because he was the originator of it or because he purchased it or because, though not the originator of the mark, he has property in it, even though he has copied it from another, because that other has abandoned it and he has independently of this fortuitous circumstance, built up a trade and reputation on the merits of his goods. Where the trade-mark is proved a copy of a Japanese mark, the plaintiffs must show that the Japanese owners of the mark have abandoned it. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 380=1940 Sind 83; see also 1938 Sind 38.

respect of the goods in question or where the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, the tribunal may refuse an application made under clause (a) or clause (b) in relation to any goods, if it is shown that there has been, before the relevant date or during the relevant period, as the case may be, bona fide use of the trade mark by any proprietor thereof for the time being in relation to goods of the same description, being goods in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(2) Where in relation to any goods in respect of which a trade mark is registered—

(a) the circumstances referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are shown to exist so far as regards non-use of the trade mark in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, in a particular place in British India (otherwise than for export from British India), or in relation to goods to be exported to a particular market outside British India, and

(b) a person has been permitted under sub-section (2) of section 10 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of those goods under a registration extending to use in relation to goods to be so sold, or otherwise traded in, or in relation to goods to be so exported, or the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, on application by that person in the prescribed manner to a High Court or to the Registrar, the tribunal may impose on the registration of the first-mentioned trade mark such limitations as it thinks proper for securing that that registration shall cease to extend to such use.

(3) An applicant shall not be entitled to rely for the purpose of clause (b) of sub-section (1) or of sub-section (2) on any non-use of a trade mark which is shown to have been due to special circumstances in the trade and not to any intention to abandon or not to use the trade mark in relation to the goods to which the application relates.

Defensive registration of well known trade marks.

38. (1) Where a trade mark consisting of any invented word has become so well-known as respects any goods in relation to which it is registered and has been used, that the use thereof in relation to other goods would be likely to be taken as indicating a connection in the course of trade between those goods and a person entitled to use the trade mark in relation to the first-mentioned goods, then, notwithstanding that the proprietor registered in respect of the first-mentioned goods does not use or propose to use the trade mark in relation to those other goods and notwithstanding anything in section 37, the trade mark may on application in the prescribed manner by such proprietor be registered in his name in respect of those other goods as a defensive trade mark and, while so registered, shall not be liable to be taken off the register in respect of those goods under the said section.

(2) The registered proprietor of a trade mark may apply for the registration thereof in respect of any goods as a defensive trade mark notwithstanding that it is already registered in his name in respect of those goods otherwise than as a defensive trade mark, or may apply for the registration thereof in respect of any goods otherwise than as a defensive trade mark notwithstanding that it is already registered in his name in respect of those goods as a defensive trade mark, in lieu in each case of the existing registration.

(3) A trade mark registered as a defensive trade mark and that trade mark as otherwise registered in the name of the same proprietor shall, notwithstanding that the respective registrations are in respect of different goods, be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(4) On application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, the registration of a trade mark as a defensive trade

NOTES.

Sec. 38.—This section provides for the registration of well-known trade-marks as defensive trade-marks subject to safeguards which are designed to protect the interest of the general body of traders.

mark may be cancelled on the ground that the requirements of sub-section (1) are no longer satisfied in respect of any goods in relation to which the trade mark is registered in the name of the same proprietor otherwise than as a defensive trade mark, or may be cancelled as respects any goods in relation to which it is registered as a defensive trade mark on the ground that there is no longer any likelihood that the use of the trade mark in relation to those goods would be taken as giving the indication mentioned in sub-section (1).

(5) The Registrar may at any time cancel the registration as a defensive trade mark of a trade mark of which there is no longer any registration in the name of the same proprietor otherwise than as a defensive trade mark.

(6) Except as otherwise expressly provided in this section, the provisions of this Act shall apply in respect of the registration of trade marks as defensive trade marks and of trade marks so registered as they apply in other cases.

Registered users.

39. (1) A person other than the proprietor of a trade mark may be registered as a registered user thereof in respect of all or any of the goods in respect of which it is registered (otherwise than as a defensive trade mark) and either with or without conditions or restrictions.

(2) The permitted use of a trade mark shall be deemed to be use by the proprietor thereof, and shall be deemed not to be use by a person other than the proprietor, for any purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

Power of registered user to take proceedings against infringement.

40. (1) Subject to any agreement subsisting between the parties, a registered user of a trade mark shall be entitled to call upon the proprietor thereof to take proceedings to prevent infringement thereof, and if the proprietor refuses or neglects to do so within three months after being so called upon, the registered user may institute proceedings for infringement in his own name as if he were the proprietor, making the proprietor a defendant.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a proprietor so added as defendant shall not be liable for any costs unless he enters an appearance and takes part in the proceedings.

Application for registration as registered user.

41. (1) Where it is proposed that a person should be registered as a registered user of a trade mark, the proprietor and the proposed registered user shall make application in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner accompanied by an affidavit made by the proprietor, or by some person authorised to the satisfaction of the Registrar to act on his behalf,—

(a) giving particulars of the relationship, existing or proposed, between the proprietor and the proposed registered user, including particulars showing the degree of control by the proprietor over the permitted use which their relationship will confer and whether it is a term of their relationship that the proposed registered user shall be the sole registered user or that there shall be any other restriction as to persons for whose registration as registered users application may by made ;

(b) stating the goods in respect of which registration is proposed ;

(c) stating any conditions or restrictions proposed with respect to the characteristics of the goods, to the mode or place of permitted use, or to any other matter ;

(d) stating whether the permitted use is to be for a period or without limit of period, and, if for a period, the duration thereof ;

NOTES.

Sec. 39.—Under this section trade-mark owners who may not wish to assign or transmit their marks may appoint other persons as registered users of their trade-marks.

Sec. 40.—This section empowers a registered user of a trade-mark to institute proceedings for infringement if the proprietor thereof refuses or neglects to do so.

Sec. 41.—This section lays down the procedure for the registration of the registered user of a trade-mark.

and by such further documents, information or evidence as may be required by the Registrar or as may be prescribed.

(2) When the requirements of sub-section (1) have been complied with, if the Registrar is satisfied that in all the circumstances the use of the trade mark in respect of the proposed goods or any of them by the proposed registered user subject to any conditions or restrictions which the Registrar may think proper, would not be contrary to the public interest, the Registrar may register, subject as aforesaid, the proposed registered user as a registered user in respect of the goods as to which he is so satisfied.

(3) The Registrar shall refuse an application under this section if it appears to him that the grant thereof would tend to facilitate trafficking in a trade mark.

(4) The Registrar shall, if so requested by an applicant, take steps for securing that information given for the purposes of an application under this section (other than matter entered in the register) is not disclosed to rivals in trade.

(5) The Registrar shall issue notice in the prescribed manner—

(a) of the registration of a person as a registered user, to any other registered user of the trade mark ;

(b) of an application under section 42, to the registered proprietor, and each registered user, (not being the applicant) of the trade mark.

Power to registrar to vary or cancel registration as registered user.

42. Without prejudice to the provisions of section 46, the registration of a person as a registered user—

(a) may be varied by the Registrar as regards the goods in respect of which, or any conditions or restrictions subject to which, it has effect, on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor of the trade mark ;

(b) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor or of the registered user or of any other registered user of the trade mark ;

(c) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of any person on any of the following grounds, namely :—

(i) that the registered user has used the trade mark otherwise than by way of the permitted use, or in such a way as to cause or to be likely to cause, deception or confusion ;

(ii) that the proprietor or the registered user misrepresented, or failed to disclose, some fact material to the application for the registration, or that the circumstances have materially changed since the date of the registration ;

(iii) that the registration ought not to have been effected having regard to rights vested in the applicant by virtue of a contract in the performance of which he is interested ;

(d) may be cancelled by the Registrar in respect of any goods in relation to which the trade mark is no longer registered.

Registered user not to have right of assignment or transmission.

43. Nothing in this Act shall confer on a registered user of a trade mark any assignable or transmissible right to the use thereof.

44. (1) Where under the provisions of this Act use of a registered trade mark

---

NOTES.

Sec. 42.—This section defines the power of the Registrar of trade-marks in the matter of cancellation of registration or the variation of the conditions on which a person is allowed as a registered user.

Sec. 44.—This section safeguards the interests of traders who for business reasons may have used a trade-mark differing slightly from the trade-mark as registered.

Use of one of associated or substantially identical trade marks equivalent to use of another.

is required to be proved for any purpose, the tribunal may, if and so far as it shall think right, accept use of a registered associated trade mark, or of the trade mark with additions or alterations not substantially affecting its identity, as an equivalent for the use required to be proved.

(2) The use of the whole of a registered trade mark shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be also a use of any trade mark being a part thereof and registered in accordance with sub-section (1) of section 11 in the name of the same proprietor.

Use of trade mark for export trade, and use when form of trade connection changes.

45. (1) The application in British India of a trade mark to goods to be exported from British India, and any other act done in British India in relation to goods to be so exported which, if done in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in within British India would constitute use of a trade mark therein, shall be deemed to constitute use of the trade mark in relation to those goods for any purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

(2) The use of a registered trade mark in relation to goods between which and the person using the mark any form of connection in the course of trade subsists shall not be deemed to be likely to cause deception or confusion on the ground only that the mark has been or is used in relation to goods between which and the person using the mark or any predecessor in his business different form of connection in the course of trade subsisted or subsists.

CHAPTER VII.

RECTIFICATION AND CORRECTION OF THE REGISTER.

Power to cancel or vary registration and to rectify the register.

46. (1) On application in the prescribed manner by any person aggrieved to a High Court or to the Registrar, the tribunal may make such order as it may think fit for cancelling or varying the registration of a trade mark on the ground of any contravention of, or failure to observe a condition entered on the register in relation thereto.

(2) Any person aggrieved by the absence or omission from the register of any entry, or by any entry made in the register without sufficient cause, or by any entry wrongly remaining on the register, or by any error or defect in any entry in the register, may apply in the prescribed manner to a High Court or to the Registrar, and the tribunal may make such order for making, expunging or varying the entry as it may think fit.

(3) The tribunal may in any proceeding under this section decide any question that it may be necessary or expedient to decide in connection with the rectification of the register.

(4) A High Court or the Registrar, of its or his own motion, may, after giving notice in the prescribed manner to the parties concerned and after giving them an opportunity of being heard, make any order referred to in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2).

(5) Any order of the Court rectifying the register shall direct that notice of the rectification shall be served upon the registrar in the prescribed manner who shall upon receipt of such notice rectify the register accordingly.

NOTES.

Sec. 45.—This section permits of the use of a trade-mark acquired in India in relation to goods for export, and protects the use of a trade-mark when the user's form of trade connexion changes.

Sec. 46.—This section empowers the Registrar of a High Court to cancel or vary the registration of a trade-mark under certain circumstances.

Correction of register.

47. (1) The Registrar may, on application made in the prescribed manner by the registered proprietor,—

(a) correct any error in the name, address or description of the registered proprietor of a trade mark ;

(b) enter any change in the name, address or description of the person who is registered as proprietor of a trade mark ;

(c) cancel the entry of a trade mark on the register ;

(d) strike out any goods or classes of goods from those in respect of which a trade mark is registered ;

(e) enter a disclaimer or memorandum relating to a trade mark which does not in any way extend the rights given by the existing registration of the trade mark.

(2) The Registrar may, on application made in the prescribed manner by a registered user of a trade mark, correct any error, or enter any change, in the name, address or description of the registered user.

Alteration of registered trade mark.

48. (1) The registered proprietor of a trade mark may apply in the prescribed manner to the Registrar for leave to add to or alter the trade mark in any manner not substantially affecting the identity thereof, and the Registrar may refuse leave or may grant it on such terms and subject to such limitations as he may think fit.

(2) The Registrar may cause an application under this section to be advertised in the prescribed manner in any case where it appears to him that it is expedient so to do, and where he does so, if within the prescribed time from the date of the advertisement any person gives notice to the Registrar in the prescribed manner of opposition to the application, the Registrar shall, after hearing the parties if so required, decide the matter.

(3) Where leave is granted under this section, the trade mark as altered shall be advertised in the prescribed manner, unless the application has already been advertised under sub-section (2).

Adaptation of entries in register to amended or substituted classification of goods.

49. (1) The Registrar shall not, in exercise of any power conferred on him under clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 84, make any amendment of the register which would have the effect of adding any goods or classes of goods to those in respect of which a trade mark is registered (whether in one or more classes) immediately before the amendment is to be made, or of antedating the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods :

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply when the Registrar is satisfied that compliance therewith would involve undue complexity and that the addition or antedating, as the case may be, would not affect any substantial quantity of goods and would not substantially prejudice the rights of any person.

(2) A proposal so to amend the register shall be notified to the registered proprietor of the trade mark affected and advertised in the prescribed manner, and may be opposed before the Registrar by any person aggrieved on the ground that the proposed amendment contravenes the provisions of sub-section (1).

CHAPTER VIII.

CERTIFICATION TRADE MARKS.

50. Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, the other provisions of this Act

---

NOTES.

Sec. 47.—Under this section the Registrar may at the request of the registered proprietor of a trade-mark make necessary corrections in the Register of Trade-Marks.

Sec. 48.—This section empowers the Registrar to alter a registered trade-mark at the request of a proprietor thereof.

Sec. 49.—This section provides that no amendment is to be made in the Register of Trade-Marks which may have the effect of adding any goods to those in respect of which a trade-mark is registered or of antedating the registration.

except sections 6, 21, 22, 31, 32, 33, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42 and 43 and sub-section (2) of section 45 shall apply to certification trade marks as they apply to trade marks.

Provisions of this Act applicable to certification trade marks.

51. A mark shall not be registrable as a certification trade mark in the name of a person who carries on a trade in goods of the kind certified.

Certification trade mark not to be registered in name of person trading in goods certified thereby.

52. In determining whether a mark is adapted to distinguish in accordance with the provisions of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 2, the tribunal may have regard to the extent to which—

Determination whether a mark is a certification trade mark.

(a) the mark is inherently so adapted to distinguish in relation to the goods in question ; and

(b) by reason of the use of the mark or of any other circumstances, the mark is in fact so adapted to distinguish in relation to the goods in question.

53. (1) An application for the registration of a mark as a certification trade mark shall be made to the Registrar [1][or the Bombay Registrar, as the case may be] in writing in the prescribed manner by the person proposed to be registered as the proprietor thereof, and accompanied by a draft of the regulations to be deposited under section 56.

Application for registration.

(2) The provisions of section 14 shall have effect in relation to an application under this section as they have effect in relation to an application under the said section, except that for references therein to acceptance of an application there shall be substituted references to authorisation to proceed with the application.

(3) In dealing under the said provisions with an application under this section, the tribunal shall have regard to the like considerations, so far as relevant, as if the application were an application under section 14 and to any other considerations (not being matters within the competence of the Central Government under section 54) relevant to applications under this section, including the desirability of securing that a certification trade mark shall comprise some indication that it is a certification trade mark.

54. When authorisation to proceed with an application under section 53 has been given, the Registrar shall forward the application to the Central Government who shall consider the application with regard to the following matters, namely :—

Consideration of application for registration by Central Government.

(a) whether the applicant is competent to certify the goods in respect of which the mark is to be registered ;

(b) whether the draft of the regulations to be deposited under section 56 is satisfactory ;

(c) whether in all the circumstances the registration applied for would be to the public advantage ; and may either—

(i) direct that the application shall not be accepted ; or

LEG. REF.

[1] Inserted by Act XXVII of 1941.

NOTES.

Sec. 51.—This section provides that a certification trade-mark shall not be registered in the name of a person who carries on a trade in goods of the kind certified.

Sec. 52.—Provides criterion in determining whether a mark is a certification trade-mark or not.

Sec. 53.—This section embodies provisions for consideration of an application for the registration of a mark as a certification trade-mark by the Registrar.

Sec. 54.—This section provides for consideration of an application for the registration of a mark as certification trade-mark by the Central Government after permission to proceed with that application under S. 53 has been accorded by the Registrar of Trade-marks.

(ii) direct the Registrar to accept the application and approve the said draft of the regulations either without modification and unconditionally or subject to any conditions or limitations, or to any amendments or modification of the application or of the regulations, which it thinks requisite having regard to any of the said matters ;

but, except in the case of a direction for acceptance and approval without modification and unconditionally, the Central Government shall not decide the matter without giving to the applicant an opportunity of being heard :

Provided that the Central Government may, at the request of the applicant made with the concurrence of the Registrar, consider the application with regard to any of the said matters before authorisation to proceed with the application has been given, so however that the Central Government shall be at liberty, to reconsider any matter on which it has given a decision under this proviso if any amendment or modification is thereafter made in the application or in the draft of the regulations.

Opposition to registration.

55. (1) When an application has been accepted, the Registrar shall, as soon as may be thereafter, cause the application as accepted to be advertised in the prescribed manner, and the provisions of section 15 shall have effect in relation to the registration of the mark as if the application had been an application under section 14 :

Provided that, in deciding under the said provisions the tribunal shall have regard only to the considerations referred to in sub-section (3) of section 53, and a decision under the said provisions in favour of the applicant shall be conditional on the determination in his favour by the Central Government under sub-section (2) of this section of any opposition relating to any of the matters referred to in section 54.

(2) When notice of opposition is given relating to any of the matters referred to in section 54, the Central Government shall, after hearing the parties, if so required, and considering any evidence, decide whether, and subject to what conditions or limitations, or amendments or modifications, if any, of the application or of the regulations to be deposited under section 56, registration is, having regard to those matters, to be permitted.

Deposit of regulations governing the use of a certification trade mark.

56. (1) There shall be deposited at the Patent Office in respect of every mark registered as a certification trade mark regulations approved by the Central Government for governing the use thereof, which shall include provisions as to the cases in which the proprietor is to certify goods and to authorise the use of the certification trade mark, and may contain any other provisions which the Central Government may by general or special order require or permit to be inserted therein (including provisions conferring a right of appeal to the Registrar against any refusal of the proprietor to certify goods or to authorise the use of the certification trade mark in accordance with the regulations) ; and regulations so deposited shall be open to inspection in like manner as the register.

(2) The regulations so deposited may on the application of the registered proprietor be altered by the Registrar with the consent of the Central Government.

(3) The Central Government may cause such application to be advertised in any case where it appears to it expedient so to do, and where it does so, if within the time specified in the advertisement any person gives notice of opposition to the application, the Central Government shall not decide the matter without giving the parties an opportunity of being heard.

NOTES.

Sec. 55.—This section lays down the procedure to be followed after an application for the registration of a mark as certification trade-mark has been accepted by the Central Government.

Sec. 56.—This section requires the deposit of regulations approved by the Central Government for governing the use of each certification trade mark which is registered.

Right conferred by registration.

57. Subject to the provisions of sections 25, 26 and 58, the registration of a person as proprietor of a certification trade mark in respect of any goods shall, if valid, give to that person the exclusive right to the use of the certification trade mark in relation to those goods, and, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, that right shall be deemed to be infringed by any person who, not being the proprietor of the mark or a person authorised by him in that behalf under the regulations deposited under section 56, using it in accordance therewith, uses a mark identical with it or so nearly resembling it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion, in the course of trade, in relation to any goods in respect of which it is registered, and in such manner as to render the use of the mark likely to be taken either—

(a) as being use as a certification trade mark ; or

(b) to import a reference to some person having the right either as proprietor, or by his authorisation under the said regulations, to use the mark, or to goods certified by the proprietor.

No infringement in certain circumstances.

58. (1) The right to the use of a certification trade mark given under section 57 by registration shall be subject to any conditions or limitations entered on the register, and shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid in any mode, in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in any place, in relation to goods to be exported to any market, or in any other circumstances, to which having regard to any such limitations, the registration does not extend.

(2) The said right to the use of a certification trade mark shall not be deemed to be infringed by the use of any such mark as aforesaid by any person—

(a) in relation to goods certified by the proprietor of the mark if, as to those goods or a bulk of which they form part, the proprietor or another in accordance with his authorisation under the relevant regulations has applied the mark and has not subsequently removed or obliterated it, or the proprietor has at any time expressly or impliedly consented to the use of the mark, or

(b) in relation to goods adapted to form part of, or to be accessory to, other goods, in relation to which the mark has been used without infringement of the right given as aforesaid or might for the time being be so used, if the use of the mark is reasonably necessary in order to indicate that the goods are so adapted and neither the purpose nor the effect of the use of the mark is to indicate otherwise than in accordance with the fact that the goods are certified by the proprietor :

Provided that clause (a) shall not apply to the case of use consisting of the application of any such mark as aforesaid to any goods, notwithstanding that they are such goods as are mentioned in that clause if such application is contrary to the said regulations.

(3) Where a certification trade mark is one of two or more registered certification trade marks which are identical or nearly resemble each other, the use of any of those marks in exercise of the right to the use of that mark given by registration, shall not be deemed to be an infringement of the right so given to the use of any other of those marks.

Cancellation or varying of registration.

59. (1) The Central Government may, on the application in the prescribed manner of any person aggrieved or on the recommendation of the Registrar, and after giving the proprietor an opportunity of opposing the application or recom-

---

NOTES.

Secs. 57 and 58.—These sections analogous to Cls. 21 and 22, respectively, define the rights conferred on an owner of a certification trade-mark by registration and lay down the conditions and limitations in which there will be no infringement of a certification trade-mark.

Sec. 59.—Under this section the Central Government is empowered on the report of mendation, make such order as it thinks fit for expunging or varying any entry in the register relating to a certification trade mark, or for varying the deposited regulations, on any of the following grounds, namely :—

(a) that the proprietor is no longer competent, in the case of any of the goods in respect of which the mark is registered, to certify those goods ;

(b) that the proprietor has failed to observe any provision of the deposited regulations to be observed on his part ;

(c) that it is no longer to the public advantage that the mark should be registered ;

(d) that it is requisite for the public advantage that, if the mark remains registered, the regulations should be varied ; and neither a High Court nor the Registrar shall have any jurisdiction to make an order under section 46 on any of those grounds.

(2) The Registrar shall rectify the register and the deposited regulations in such manner as may be requisite for giving effect to an order made under sub-section (1).

Costs not to be awarded in certain cases.

60. The Registrar shall have no power to award costs to or against any party on an appeal to him against a refusal of the proprietor of a certification trade mark to certify goods or to authorise the use of the mark.

Decisions of Central Government to be final.

61. Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Chapter, every decision of the Central Government under this Chapter shall be final.

CHAPTER IX.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR TEXTILE GOODS.

Textile goods.

62. The Central Government shall prescribe classes of goods (in this Chapter referred to as textile goods) to the trade marks used in relation to which the provisions of this Chapter shall apply ; and subject to the said provisions, the other provisions of this Act shall apply to such trade marks as they apply to trade marks used in relation to other classes of goods.

Separate Trade Marks Registry at Bombay.

[1][63. (1) For the purpose of facilitating the registration of trade marks in respect of textile goods there shall be established at Bombay a separate Trade Marks Registry (in this Act referred to as the Bombay Registry) and a separate Register of Trade Marks (in this Act referred to as the Bombay register) shall be kept thereat wherein shall be entered in the manner provided by section 4, all registered trade marks which are under the provisions of this Chapter to be registered by the Bombay Registrar.

(2) Subject to the superintendence and direction of the Central Government, the Bombay register shall be kept under the control and management of an officer appointed by the Central Government who shall be called the Registrar of Textile Trade Marks at Bombay (in this Act referred to as the Bombay Registrar).

(3) In all proceedings under this Act in relation to trade marks, applications for the registration of which lie under the provisions of this Chapter to the Bombay Registrar, the Bombay Registrar shall exercise and discharge the any aggrieved person or on the recommendation of the Registrar to cancel or vary entries in the Register of Trade-Marks relating to certification trade-marks.

Sec. 60.—This section prohibits the Registrar from awarding costs in certain cases on an appeal relating to certification trade-marks.

Sec. 62.—Under this section the Central Government is empowered to specify the classes of textile goods to which the provisions on the subject will be applicable.

Sec. 63.—This section provides for the establishment at Bombay of a Textile Marks Registry Office and the maintenance in that Office of a record of marks falling under textile marks as also a list called the Refused Textile Trade-Marks List.

powers and functions of the Registrar to the exclusion of the Registrar, and, in interpreting the provisions of this Act in relation to any such proceedings or any such trade marks, references, except in sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 4 and this Chapter and section 85, to the Patent Office or the Trade Marks Registry shall be construed as references to the Bombay Registry, and references to the Registrar and to the register shall be construed as references to the Bombay Registrar and the Bombay register, respectively :

Provided that the Central Government may, for the purpose of resolving a conflict or preventing an overlap of jurisdiction between the Registrar and the Bombay Registrar, direct by which of the two any particular matter arising out of this Act or out of any proceeding thereunder shall be disposed of.

Jurisdiction of Bombav Registrar and Registrar in respect of trade marks used in relation to textile goods.

63A. (1) When the applicant for registration of a trade mark used or proposed to be used in relation to textile goods is a person having his principal place of business situated in any one of the following Provinces, namely, Madras Bombay, the Punjab, the Central Provinces and Berar, the North-West Frontier Province or Sind, ahe application shall lie only to the Bombay Registrar.

(2) When once an application for registration of a trade mark used in relation to textile goods has been made to the Registrar or the Bombay Registrar, no subsequent change in the location of the principal place of business of the applicant shall divest the Registrar or the Bombay Registrar, as the case may be, of any of his powers or functions under this Act in relation to such trade mark.]

Restrictions on registration of piece-goods.

64. In respect of textile goods being piece goods—

(a) no mark consisting of a line heading alone shall be registrable as a trade mark ;

(b) a line heading shall not be deemed to be adapted to distinguish ;

(c) the registration of a trade mark shall not give any exclusive right to the use of a line heading ;

(d) the registration of letters or numerals, or any combination thereof, shall be subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed.

Calcutta and Bombay Textile Marks Records and Refused Textile Marks Lists.

[1]['65. (1) The Registrar shall supply a copy of every entry in the register relating to trade marks registered in respect of textile goods to the Bombay Registrar, who shall maintain a permanent record of the copy so received which shall be called the Calcutta Textile Marks Record.

(2) The Bombay Registrar shall supply a copy of every entry in the Bombay register to the Registrar who shall maintain a permanent record of the copy so received which shall be called the Bombay Textile Marks Record.

(3) Trade marks in respect of textile goods of which registration has been refused shall be entered by the Registrar and the Bombay Registrar in separate lists which shall be called the Calcutta Refused Textile Marks Lists, and the Bombay Refused Textile Marks Lists, respectively ; a copy of the Calcutta List shall be kept at the Bombay registry and a copy of the Bombay List at the Trade Marks Registry at the Patent Office as permanent records.

(4) The Textile Marks Records and the Refused Textile Marks Lists shall at all convenient times be open to the inspection of the public, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed.]

one or more Advisory Committees of persons versed in the usages of the textile trade for the purpose of this section.

(2) The Registrar [1][and the Bombay] Registrar shall consult any such Committee with respect to any circumstances peculiar to the textile trade arising on an application to register a trade mark in respect of textile goods.

(3) The place of meeting and the conduct of business of such Committees shall be determined by rules made under this Act.

CHAPTER X.

OFFENCES AND RESTRAINT OF USE OF ROYAL ARMS AND STATE EMBLEMS.

Penalty for falsification of entries in register.

67. If any person makes or causes to be made, a false entry in the register, or a writing falsely purporting to be a copy of an entry in the register, or produces or tenders, or causes to be produced, or tendered, in evidence any such writing, knowing the entry or writing to be false, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

Penalty for falsely representing a trade mark as registered.

68. (1) From such date, not being earlier than one year from the commencement of this Act, as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint in this behalf, no person shall make any representation—

(a) with respect to a mark not being a registered trade mark, to the effect that it is a registered trade mark ; or

(b) with respect to a part of a registered trade mark not being a part separately registered as a trade mark, to the effect that it is separately registered as a trade mark ; or

(c) to the effect that a registered trade mark is registered in respect of any goods in respect of which it is not in fact registered ; or

(d) to the effect that the registration of a trade mark gives an exclusive right to the use thereof in any circumstances in which, having regard to limitations entered in the register, the registration does not in fact give that right.

(2) If any person contravenes any of the provisions of sub-section (1), he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

(3) For the purposes of this section, the use in British India in relation to a trade mark of the word "registered," or of any other expression referring whether expressly or impliedly to registration, shall be deemed to import a reference to registration in the register, except—

(a) where that word or other expression is used in direct association with other words delineated in characters at least as large as those in which that word or other expression is delineated and indicating that the reference to is registration as a trade mark under the law of a country outside British India, being a country under the law of which the registration referred to is in fact in force ; or

(b) where that other expression is of itself such as to indicate that the reference is to such registration as is mentioned in clause (a) ; or

(c) where that word is used in relation to a mark registered as a trade mark under the law of a country outside British India and in relation solely to goods to be exported to that Country.

Restraint of use of Royal Arms and State emblems.

69. If a person, without due authority, uses in connection with any trade, business, calling or profession—

LEG. REF.

NOTES.

Sec. 67.—Under this section penalty is provided for falsification of entries in the register.

Sec. 68.—This section provides for penalty for falsely representing a trademark as regirtered mark.

Sec. 69.—Under this section any person aggrieved may move the Registrar or a Court to restrain a person from using Royal Arms, State Emblems, etc.

(a) the Royal Arms (or arms so closely resembling the same as to be calculated to deceive) in such manner as to be calculated to lead to the belief that he is duly authorised so to use the Royal Arms, or

(b) any device, emblem or title in such manner as to be calculated to lead to the belief that he is employed by, or supplies goods to, or is connected with, His Majesty's Government or the Central Government or any Provincial Government or any department of any such Government, he may, at the suit of any person who is authorised to use such Arms or such device, emblem or title or of the Registrar, [1][or the Bombay Registrar] be restrained by injunction from continuing so to use the same.

CHAPTER XI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Procedure before the Registrar.

70. In all proceedings under this Act before the Registrar—

(a) the Registrar shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purposes of receiving evidence, administering oaths, enforcing the attendance of witnesses, compelling the discovery and production of documents and issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses ;

(b) evidence shall be given by affidavit, provided that the Registrar may, if he thinks fit, take oral evidence in lieu of, or in addition to, such evidence by affidavit ;

(c) the Registrar shall not exercise any power vested in him by this Act or the rules made thereunder adversely to any party duly appearing before him without (if required in writing within the prescribed time so to do) giving such party an opportunity of being heard ;

(d) the Registrar may, save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, and subject to any rules made in this behalf under section 84, make such orders as to costs as he considers reasonable, and any such order shall be executable as a decree of a Civil Court.

Procedure before Central Government.

71. In all proceedings under this Act before the Central Government, evidence shall be given by affidavit, provided that the Central Government may, if it thinks fit, take oral evidence in lieu of, or in addition to, such evidence by affidavit, and shall for that purpose have all the powers of a Civil Court referred to in clause (a) of section 70.

Procedure in certain cases of option to apply to a High Court or the Registrar.

72. Where under this Act an applicant has the option of making an application either to a High Court or to the Registrar,—

(a) if any suit or other proceedings concerning the trade mark in question is pending before a High Court or a District Court, the application shall be made to that High Court or, as the case may be, to the High Court within whose jurisdiction that District Court is situated ;

(b) if in any other case the application is made to the Registrar, the Registrar may, if he thinks fit, refer the application at any stage of the proceedings to a High Court.

Suits for infringement to be instituted before District Court

73. No suit for the infringement of a trade mark or otherwise relating to any right in a trade mark shall be instituted in any Court inferior to a District Court having jurisdiction to try the suit.

Sec. 71.—This section prescribes the procedure in respect of the proceedings under the Act before the Central Government.

Sec. 72.—This section indicates the procedure where an option is allowed to the applicant to make an application either to a High Court or the Registrar.

Sec. 73.—This section lays down that suits relating to rights in a trade-mark

74. (1) In any suit or other legal proceeding in which the relief sought includes alteration or rectification of the register, the Registrar shall have the right to appear and be heard, and shall appear if so directed by the tribunal.

Appearance of Registrar in proceedings involving rectification of register.

(2) Unless the tribunal otherwise directs, the Registrar may, in lieu of appearing, submit a statement in writing signed by him, giving such particulars as he thinks proper of the proceedings before him relating to the matter in issue, or of the grounds of any decision given by him affecting it, or of the practice of the Patent Office in like cases, or of other matters relevant to the issues and within his knowledge as Registrar, and such statement shall be evidence in the suit or other proceeding.

(3) The costs of the Registrar shall be in the discretion of the tribunal, but the Registrar shall not be ordered to pay the costs of any of the parties.

75. (1) A printed or written copy of any entry in the register, purporting to be certified by the Registrar and sealed with the seal of the Patent Office, shall be admitted in evidence in all Courts in British India and in all proceedings without further [1][proof or production] of the original.

Evidence of entries in register and things done by Registrar.

(2) A certificate purporting to be under the hand of the Registrar as to any entry, matter or thing that he is authorised by this Act or the rules to make or do shall be prima facie evidence of the entry having been made, and of the contents thereof, or of the matter or thing having been done or not done.

76. (1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, an appeal shall lie, within the period prescribed by the Central Government, from any decision of the Registrar [1][or the Bombay] Registrar under this Act or the rules made thereunder to the High Court having jurisdiction :

Appeals.

Provided that if any suit or other proceeding concerning the trade mark in question is pending before a High Court or a District Court, the appeal shall be made to that High Court or, as the case may be, to the High Court within whose jurisdiction that District Court is situated.

(2) In an appeal by an applicant for registration against a decision of the Registrar under section 13 or section 14 or section 15, it shall not be open, save with the express permission of the Court, to the Registrar or any party opposing the appeal to advance grounds other than those recorded in the said decision or advanced by the party in the proceedings before the Registrar, as the case may be ; and where any such additional grounds are advanced, the applicant for registration may, on giving notice in the prescribed manner, withdraw his application without being liable to pay the costs of the Registrar or the parties opposing his application.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of rules made thereunder, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall apply to appeals before a High Court under this Act.

77. A High Court may make rules consistent with this Act as to the conduct and procedure of all proceedings under this Act before it.

Power to High Courts to make rules.

Trade usage, etc., to be taken into consideration.

79. In any suit or other proceeding relating to a trade mark, the tribunal shall admit evidence of the usages of the trade concerned and of any relevant trade mark or get up legitimately used by other persons.

Agents.

80. Where by or under this Act any act, other than the making of an affidavits is required to be done by any person, the act may,, subject to prescribed conditions or in special cases with the consent of the Central Government, be done, in lieu of by that person himself, by a duly authorised agent, being either a legal practitioner or a person registered in the prescribed manner as a trade marks agent.

Fees.

81. There shall be paid in respect of applications and registration and other matters under this Act such fees as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

Crown to be bound.

82. The provisions of this Act shall be binding on the Crown.

Power to make reciprocal arrangements with other Governments.

83. If at any time after the expiry of six months from the commencement of this section it is made to appear to the Central Government that any Government outside British India has made satisfactory provision for the protection within its territories of trade marks in respect of which an application for registration has been made in British India, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make provision with regard to trade marks in respect of which an application for registration has been made within the territories of that Government to enable any person who has applied within such territories for registration of a trade mark or his legal representative or assignee to obtain registration of the trade mark in British India under this Act on his making an application for registration in British India within such period as may be fixed in this behalf by the notification as if an application for registration under this Act had been made in respect of that trade mark at the date at which the application for registration was made within the territories of that Government.

Power of Central Government to make rules.

84. (1) The Central Government may, subject to the condition of previous publication by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) prescribe the classification of goods for the purpose of the registration of trade marks, and empower the Registrar to amend the register so far as may be necessary for the purpose of adapting the entries therein to any amended or substituted classification which may be prescribed ;

(b) require the making of duplicates of trade marks and other documents connected therewith ;

(f) prescribe the form of certificates of registration ;

(g) prescribe the conditions under which a trade mark removed from the register may be restored under sub-section (3) of section 18 ;

(h) prescribe the further documents, information or evidence to accompany an application under sub-section (1) of section 41 ;

(i) prescribe classes of goods as textile goods for the purposes of Chapter IX ;

(j) provide for the constitution of Advisory Committees referred to in section 66, and prescribe the places of meeting, and conduct of business at meetings, of such Committees,

(k) regulate the awarding of costs by the Registrar under section 70 ;

(l) prescribe the conditions subject to which an agent referred to in section 80 may act ;

(m) prescribe the fees to be paid under this Act ;

(n) provide for the establishment of branches of the Trade Marks Registry when expedient for facilitating the working of this Act, and authorise the preparation of copies of the register to be kept at such branch offices ;

(o) prescribe the manner in which, in proceedings under this Act before the Central Government or the Registrar, applications shall be made, notices given and matters advertised ;

(p) prescribe times or periods required by this Act to be prescribed ;

(q) provide, generally, for regulating the business of the Trade Marks Registry and of branches established under clause (n) [2][* * *] and for regulating all things by this Act placed under the direction or control of the Central Government or the Registrar.

[3][(r) make such provisions as are neceseary to ensure uniformity of practice between the Registrar and the Bombay Registrar in all matters arising out of registration of trade marks in respect of textile goods.]

Power to Central Government to make provision for applications for registration before the coming into force of the remaining provisions of Act.

85. The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, provide such procedure as it considers expedient to enable intending applicants to deposit trade marks at the Patent Office before the coming into force of the remaining provisions of this Act :

Provided that the deposit of a trade mark under this section shall not affect any right, existing or accruing in the trade mark.

An Act to provide for the registration of Trade Unions and in certain respects to define the law relating to registered Trade Unions in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the registration of Trade Unions and in certain respects to define the law relating to registered Trade Unions in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN TRADE UNIONS ACT, 1926.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette; appoint.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, the [1][appropriate Government] means, in relation to Trade Unions whose objects are not confined to one province, the Central Government, and in relation to other Trade Unions, the Provincial Government, and unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "executive" means the body, by whatever name called, to which the management of the affairs of a Trade Union is entrusted;

(b) "officer," in the case of a Trade Union, includes any member of the executive thereof, but does not include an auditor;

(c) "prescribed" means prescribed by regulations made under this Act;

(d) "registered office" means that office of a Trade Union which is registered under this Act as the head office thereof;

(e) "Registered Trade Union" means a Trade Union registered under this Act;

(f) "Registrar" means a Registrar of Trade Unions appointed by the [2][appropriate Government] under section 3, and "the Registrar", in relation to any Trade Union, means the Registrar appointed for the province in which the head or registered office, as the case may be, of the Trade Union is situated;

(g) "trade dispute" means any dispute between employers and workmen or between workmen and workmen, or between employers and employers which is connected with the employment or non-employment, or the terms of employment or the conditions of labour, of any person, and "workmen" means all persons employed in trade or industry whether or not in the employment of the employer with whom the trade dispute arises; and

(h) "Trade Union" means any combination, whether temporary or permanent, formed primarily for the purpose of regulating the relations between workmen and employers or between workmen and workmen, or between employers and employers, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, and includes any federation of two or more Trade Unions:

NOTES.

Sec. 2 (h): TRADE UNION AND PARTNERSHIP.—When several businessmen by an arrangement form themselves into a combination for the common purpose of enriching themselves by preventing the cutting of prices for which various rules were made, and besides, provision was made for the payment into a common pool and a sharing out of it for arbitration in case of disputes, etc., on a question whether it amounted to a partnership, it was held, that it was simply a case of a combination of various businesses inter se to benefit the members and it was a case of a combination and not a case of a partnership and that it fell within the definition of Trade Union. 190 I.C. 491=1940 N.L.J. 239=1940 Nag. 228.

Provided that this Act shall not affect—

(i) any agreement between partners as to their own business;

(ii) any agreement between an employer and those employed by him as to such employment; or

(iii) any agreement in consideration of the sale of the goodwill of a business or of instruction in any profession, trade or handicraft.

CHAPTER II.

REGISTRATION OF TRADE UNIONS.

Appointment of Registrars.

3. [1][The appropriate Government] shall appoint a person to be the Registrar of Trade Unions for [2][each Province].

Mode of registration.

4. Any seven or more members of a Trade Union may, by subscribing their names to the rules of the Trade Union and by otherwise complying with the provisions of this Act with respect to registration, apply for registration of the Trade Union under this Act.

Application for registration.

5. (1) Every application for registration of a Trade Union shall be made to the Registrar, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the rules of the Trade Union and a statement of the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the names, occupations and addresses of the members making the application;

(b) the name of the Trade Union and the address of its head office; and (c) the titles, names, ages, addresses and occupations of the officers of the Trade Union.

(2) Where a Trade Union has been in existence for more than one year before the making of an application for its registration, there shall be delivered to the Registrar, together with the application, a general statement of the assets and liabilities of the Trade Union prepared in such form and containing such particulars as may be prescribed.

Provisions to be contained in the rules of a Trade Union.

6. A Trade Union shall not be entitled to registration under this Act, unless the executive thereof is constituted in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and the rules thereof provide for the following matters, namely:—

(a) the name of the Trade Union;

(b) the whole of the objects for which the Trade Union has been established;

(c) the whole of the purposes for which the general funds of the Trade Union shall be applicable, all of which purposes shall be purposes to which such funds are lawfully applicable under this Act;

(d) the maintenance of a list of the members of the Trade Union and adequate facilities for the inspection thereof by the officers and members of the Trade Union;

(e) the admission of ordinary members who shall be persons actually engaged or employed in an industry with which the Trade Union is connected, and also the admission of the number of honorary or temporary members as officers required under section 22 to form the executive of the Trade Union;

LEG. REF.

[1] Substituted for 'Each Local Government' by A.O., 1937.

[2] Substituted by A.O., 1937.

(f) the conditions under which any member shall be entitled to any benefit assured by the rules and under which any fine or forfeiture may be imposed on the members;

(g) the manner in which the rules shall be amended, varied or rescinded;

(h) the manner in which the members of the executive and the other officers of the Trade Union shall be appointed and removed;

(i) the safe custody of the funds of the Trade Union, an annual audit, in such manner as may be prescribed, of the accounts thereof, and adequate facilities for the inspection of the account books by the officers and members of the Trade Union; and (j) the manner in which the Trade Union may be dissolved.

Power to call for further particulars and to require alteration of name.

7. (1) The Registrar may call for further information for the purpose of satisfying himself that any application complies with the provisions of section 5, or that the Trade Union is entitled to registration under section 6, and may refuse to register the Trade Union until such information is supplied.

(2) If the name under which a Trade Union is proposed to be registered is identical with that by which any other existing Trade Union has been registered or, in the opinion of the Registrar, so nearly resembles such name as to be likely to deceive the public or the members of either Trade Union, the Registrar shall require the persons applying for registration to alter the name of the Trade Union stated in the application, and shall refuse to register the Union until such alteration has been made.

Registration.

8. The Registrar, on being satisfied that the Trade Union has complied with all the requirements of this Act in regard to registration, shall register the Trade Union by entering in a register, to be maintained in such form as may be prescribed, the particulars relating to the Trade Union contained in the statement accompanying the application for registration.

Certificate of registration.

9. The Registrar, on registering a Trade Union under section 8, shall issue a certificate of registration in the prescribed form which shall be conclusive evidence that the Trade Union has been duly registered under this Act.

Cancellation of registration.

10. A certificate of registration of a Trade Union may be withdrawn or cancelled by the Registrar—

(a) on the application of the Trade Union to be verified in such manner as may be prescribed, or

(b) if the Registrar is satisfied that the certificate has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that the Trade Union has ceased to exist or has wilfully

NOTES.

Sec. 8.—Under section 8, when an application is made for registration of a trade union, the duties of the Registrar of trade unions are to examine the application and to look at the objects for which the union is formed. If those objects are objects set out in the Act, and if those objects do not go outside the objects prescribed by the Act and if all the requirements of the Act and the regulations made thereunder have been complied with, it is his duty to register the union. He can do very little more than satisfy himself that technical requirements of the Act have been complied with. If he finds that the procedure in connection with the application is in order, and if on the face of the application form, he finds that the objects of the Trade Union are apparently lawful, legitimate and intra vires the trade union, and if he further finds that the funds of the Union are only to be used in furtherance of those objects, then he has no option but to register the trade union, no matter what happens to it subsequently if it in fact proceeds counter to law or seeks to carry out its lawful objects in an unlawful way. 63 Cal. 565=40 C.W.N. 97=1936 Cal. 57.

and after notice from the Registrar contravened any provision of this Act or allowed any rule to continue in force which is inconsistent wth any such provision, or has rescinded any rule providing for any matter provision for which is required by section 6:

Provided that not less than two months' previous notice in writing specifying the ground on which it is proposed to withdraw or cancel the certificate shall be given by the Registrar to the Trade Union before the certificate is withdrawn or cancelled otherwise than on the application of the Trade Union.

[1][11. (1) Any person aggrieved by any refusal of the Registrar to register a Trade Union or by the withdrawal or cancellation of a certificate of registration may, within such period as may be prescribed, appeal—

Appeal.

(a) where the head office of the Trade Union is situated within the limits of a Presidency-town [2][* *] to the High Court, or

(b) where the head office is situated in any other area, to such Court, not inferior to the Court of an additional or assistant Judge of a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction, as the [3][appropriate Government] may appoint in this behalf for that area.

(2) The appellate Court may dismiss the appeal, or pass an order directing the Registrar to register the Union and to issue a certificate of registration under the provisions of section 9 or setting aside the order for withdrawal or cancellation of the certificate, as the case may be, and the Registrar shall comply with such order.

(3) For the purpose of an appeal under sub-section (1) an appellate Court shall, so far as may be, follow the same procedure and have the same powers as it follows and has when trying a suit under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and may direct by whom the whole or any part of the costs of the appeal shall be paid, and such costs shall be recovered as if they had been awarded in a suit under the said Code.

(4) In the event of the dismissal of an appeal by any Court appointed under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the person aggrieved shall have a right of appeal to the High Court, and the High Court shall, for the purpose of such appeal, have all the powers of an appellate Court under sub-sections (2) and (3), and the provisions of those sub-sections shall apply accordingly.]

12. All communications and notices to a registered Trade Union may be addressed to its registered office. Notice of any change in the address of the head office shall be given within fourteen days of such change to the Registrar in writing, and the changed address shall be recorded in the register referred to in section 8.

Registered office.

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF REGISTERED TRADE UNIONS.

Objects on which general funds may be spent.

15. The general funds of a registered Trade Union shall not be spent on any other objects than the following, namely:—

(a) the payment of salaries, allowances and expenses to officers of the Trade Union;

(b) the payment of expenses for the administration of the Trade Union, including audit of the accounts of the general funds of the Trade Union;

(c) the prosecution or defence of any legal proceeding to which the Trade Union or any member thereof is a party, when such prosecution or defence is undertaken for the purpose of securing or protecting any rights of the Trade Union as such or any rights arising out of the relations of any member with his employer or with a person whom the member employs;

(d) the conduct of trade disputes on behalf of the Trade Union or any member thereof;

(e) the compensation of members for loss arising out of trade disputes;

(f) allowances to members or their dependants on account of death, old age, sickness, accidents or unemployment of such members;

(g) the issue of, or the undertaking of liability under, policies of assurance on the lives of members or under policies insuring members against sickness, accident or unemployment;

(h) the provision of educational, social or religious benefits for members (including the payment of the expenses of funeral or religious ceremonies for deceased members) or for the dependants of memberss

(i) the upkeep of a periodical published mainly for the purpose of discussing questions affecting employers or workmen as such;

(j) the payment, in furtherance of any of the objects on which the general funds of the Trade Union may be spent, of contributions to any cause intended to benefit workmen in general, provided that the expenditure in respect of such contributions in any financial year shall not at any time during that year be in excess of one-fourth of the combined total of the gross income which has up to that time accrued to the general funds of the Trade Union during that year and of the balance at the credit of those funds at the commencement of that year; and tered, a suit by one member against another not in any representative capacity but as a contracting party to the combination is maintainable and the absence of registration does not affect the question. 1940 N.L.J. 239=1940 Nag. 228=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 702.

(k) subject to any conditions contained in the notification, any other object notified by the [1][appropriate Government] in the Official Gazette.

Constitution of a separate fund for political purposes.

16. (1) A registered Trade Union may constitute a separate fund, from contributions separately levied for or made to that fund, from which payments may be made, for the promotion of the civic and political interests of its members, in furtherance of any of the objects specified in sub-section (2).

(2) The objects referred to in sub-section (1) are:—

(a) the payment of any expenses incurred, either directly or indirectly, by a candidate or prospective candidate for election as a member of any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [2][or the Government of India Act, 1935] or of any local authority, before, during or after the election in connection with his candidature or election; or

(b) the holding of any meeting or the distribution of any literature or documents in support of any such candidate or prospective candidate; or

(c) the maintenance of any person who is a member of any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [2][or the Government of India Act, 1935] or of any local authority; or

(d) the registration of electors or the selection of a candidate for any legislative body constituted under the Government of India Act [[2]or the Government of India Act, 1935] or for any local authority; or (e) the holding of political meetings of any kind, or the distribution of political literature or political documents of any kind.

(3) No member shall be compelled to contribute to the fund constituted under sub-section (1); and a member who does not contribute to the said fund shall not be excluded from any benefits of the Trade Union, or placed in any respect either directly or indirectly under any disability or at any disadvantage as compared with other members of the Trade Union (except in relation to the control or management of the said fund) by reason of his not contributing to the said fund; and contribution to the said fund shall not be made a condition for admission to the Trade Union.

Criminal conspiracy in trade disputes.

17. No officer or member of a registered Trade Union shall be liable to punishment under sub-section (2) of section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code, in respect of any agreement made between the members for the purpose of furthering any such object of the Trade Union as is specified in section 15, unless the agreement is an agreement to commit an offence.

Immunity from civil suit in certain cases.

18. (1) No suit or other legal proceeding shall be maintainable in any Civil Court against any registered Trade Union or any officer or member thereof in respect of any act done in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute to which a member of the Trade Union is a party on the ground only that such act induces some other person to break a contract of employment, or that it is in interference with the trade, business or employment of some other person or with the right of some other person to dispose of his capital or of his labour as he wills.

(2) A registered Trade Union shall not be liable in any suit or other legal proceeding in any Civil Court in respect of any tortious act done in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute by an agent of the Trade Union if

NOTES.

Sec. 18.—S. 18 does not afford immunity to a trade union or to an officer thereof for any act of deliberate traspass. 185 I.C. 57=1939 Sind 256.

it is proved that such person acted without the knowledge of, or contrary to express instructions given by, the executive of the Trade Union.

Enforceability of agreements.

19. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force an agreement between the members of a registered Trade Union shall not be void or voidable merely by reason of the fact that any of the objects of the agreement are in restraint of trade:

Provided that nothing in this section shall enable any Civil Court to entertain any legal proceeding instituted for the express purpose of enforcing or recovering damages for the breach of any agreement concerning the conditions on which any members of a Trade Union shall or shall not sell their goods, transact business, work, employ or be employed.

Right to inspect books of Trade Union.

20. The account books of a registered Trade Union and the list of members thereof shall be open to inspection by an officer or member of the Trade Union at such times as may be provided for in the rules of the Trade Union.

Rights of minors to membership of Trade Unions.

21. Any person who has attained the age of fifteen years may be a member of a registered Trade Union subject to any rules of the Trade Union to the contrary and may, subject as aforesaid, enjoy all the rights of a member and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules:

Provided that no person who has not attained the age of eighteen years shall be an officer of any such Trade Union.

Proportion of officers to be connected with the industry.

22. Not less than one-half of the total number of the officers of every registered Trade Union shall be persons actually engaged or employed in an industry with which the Trade Union is connected:

Provided that the [1][appropriate] Government may, by special or general order, declare that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any Trade Union or class of Trade Unions specified in the order.

Change of name.

23. Any registered Trade Union may, with the consent of not less than two-thirds of the total number of its members and subject to the provisions of section 25, change its name.

Amalgamation of Trade Unions.

24. Any two or more registered Trade Unions may become amalgamated together as one Trade Union with or without dissolution or division of the funds of such Trade Unions or either or any of them, provided that the votes of at least one-half of the members of each or every such Trade Union entitled to vote are recorded, and that at least sixty per cent. of the votes recorded are in favour of the proposal.

Notice of change of name or amalgamation.

25. (1) Notice in writing of every change of name and of every amalgamation, signed, in the case of a change of name, by the Secretary and by seven members of the Trade Union changing its name, and, in the case of an amalgamation, by the Secretary and by seven members of each and every Trade Union which is a party thereto, shall be sent to the Registrar, and where the head office of the amalgamated Trade Union is situated in a different province, to the Registrar of such province.

(2) If the proposed name is identical, with that by which any other existing Trade Union has been registered or, in the opinion of the Registrar, so nearly resembles such name as to be likely to deceive the public or the members of either Trade Union, the Registrar shall refuse to register the change of name.

(3) Save as provided in sub-section (2), the Registrar shall, if he is satisfied that the provisions of this Act in respect of change of name have been complied with, register the change of name in the register referred to in section 8, and the change of name shall have effect from the date of such registration.

(4) The Registrar of the province in which the head office of the amalgamated Trade Union is situated shall, if he is satisfied that the provisions of this Act in respect of amalgamation have been complied with and that the Trade Union formed thereby is entitled to registration under section 6, register the Trade Union in the manner provided in section 8, and the amalgamation shall have effect from the date of such registration.

Effects of change of name and of amalgamation.

26. (1) The change in the name of a registered Trade Union shall not affect any rights or obligations of the Trade Union or render defective any legal proceeding by or against the Trade Union, and any legal proceeding which might have been continued or commenced by or against it by its former name may be continued or commenced by or against it by its new name.

(2) An amalgamation of two or more registered Trade Unions shall not prejudice any right of any of such Trade Unions or any right of a creditor of any of them.

Dissolution.

27. (1) When a registered Trade Union is dissolved, notice of the dissolution signed by seven members and by the Secretary of the Trade Union shall, within fourteen days of the dissolution, be sent to the Registrar, and shall be registered by him if he is satisfied that the dissolution has been effected in accordance with the rules of the Trade Union, and the dissolution shall have effect from the date of such registration.

(2) Where the dissolution of a registered Trade Union has been registered and the rules of the Trade Union do not provide for the distribution of funds of the Trade Union on dissolution, the Registrar shall divide the funds amongst the members in such manner as may be prescribed.

Returns.

28. (1) There shall be sent annually to the Registrar, on or before such date as may be prescribed, a general statement, audited in the prescribed manner, of all receipts and expenditure of every registered Trade Union during the year ending on the 31st day of March next preceding such prescribed date, and of the assets and liabilities of the Trade Union existing on such 31st day of March. The statement shall be prepared in such form and shall comprise such particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) Together with the general statement there shall be sent to the Registrar a statement showing all changes of officers made by the Trade Union during the year to which the general statement refers, together also with a copy of the rules of the Trade Union corrected up to the date of the despatch thereof to the Registrar.

(3) A copy of every alteration made in the rules of a registered Trade Union shall be sent to the Registrar within fifteen days of the making of the alteration.

CHAPTER IV.

REGULATIONS.

Power to make regulations.

29. (1) [1][*] The [2][appropriate] Government may make regulations for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such regulations may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the manner in which Trade Unions and the rules of Trade Unions shall be registered and the fees payable on registration;

(b) the transfer of registration in the case of any registered Trade Union which has changed its head office from one province to another;

(c) the manner in which, and the qualifications of persons by whom, the accounts of registered Trade Unions or of any class of such Unions shall be audited;

(d) the conditions subject to which inspection of documents kept by Registrars shall be allowed and the fees which shall be chargeable in respect of such inspections; and

(e) any matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

Publication of regulations.

30. (1) The power to make regulations conferred by section 29 is subject to the condition of the regulations being made after previous publication.

(2) The date to be specified in accordance with clause (3) of section 23 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, as that after which a draft of regulations proposed to be made will be taken into consideration shall not be less than three months from the date on which the draft of the proposed regulations was published for general information.

(3) Regulations so made shall be published in the Official Gazette, and on such publication shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

CHAPTER V.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

Failure to submit returns.

31. (1) If default is made on the part of any registered Trade Union in giving any notice or sending any statement or other document as required by or under any provision of this Act, every officer or other person bound by the rules of the Trade Union to give or send the same, or, if there is no such officer or person every member of the executive of the Trade Union shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five rupees, and, in the case of a continuing default, with an additional fine which may extend to five rupees for each week after the first during which the default continues:

Provided that the aggregate fine shall not exceed fifty rupees.

(2) Any person who wilfully makes, or causes to be made, any false entry in, or any omission from, the general statement required by section 28, or in or from any copy of rules or of alterations of rules sent to the Registrar under that section, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Supplying false information regarding Trade Unions.

32. Any person who, with intent to deceive, gives to any member of a registered Trade Union or to any person intending or applying to become a member of such Trade Union any document purporting to be a copy of the rules of the Trade Union or of any alterations to the same which he knows, or has reason to believe, is not a correct copy of such rules or alterations as are for the time being in force, or any person who, with the like intent, gives a copy of any rules of an unregistered Trade Union to any person on the pretence that such rules are the rules of a registered Trade Union, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Cognizance of offences.

33. (1) No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence under this Act.

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act, unless complaint thereof has been made by, or with the previous sanction of, the Registrar or, in the case of an offence under section 32, by the person to whom the copy was given, within six months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

THE TRANSFER OF PROPERTY (VALIDATING) ACT (XXVI OF 1917).

[27th September, 1917.

An Act to validate certain transfers of property made prior to the 1st of January, 1915.

WHEREAS it is expedient to validate certain transfers of property made prior to the 1st of January, 1915; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE TRANSFER OF PROPERTY (VALIDATING) ACT, 1917.

(2) It shall extend, in the first instance, to the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, provided that the [1][Provincial Government of any Province] may, by notification in the Official Gazette extend it to [1][the whole or any part of that Province.]

Validation of certain transfers made prior to the 1st of January, 1915.

2. Where a mortgage or gift purports to have been effected by an instrument executed prior to the 1st of January, 1915, and such instrument is required by the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, to be attested, such mortgage or gift shall not be deemed to be invalid by reason only that any person who purported to attest such instrument as a witness did not see the executant sign it, provided that such person before signing his name on the instrument received from the executant a personal acknowledgment of his signature to the same.

Restoration of certain claims.

3. Where a claim under any such instrument executed prior to the 1st of January, 1915, has been wholly or in part dismissed, rejected, or withdrawn, after the 30th day of July, 1912, and before the commencement of this Act, in a Court of first instance or of revision or appeal, by reason only of the fact that some person who purported to attest such instrument as a witness, on having received before signing his name thereon a personal acknowledgment from the executant of his signature to the same, did not see the executant sign it, the case may, if the dismissal, rejection or withdrawal has had the effect of invalidating, in whole or in part, the said instrument as between persons claiming thereunder, be restored on review in accordance with the procedure provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for review of judgments, on application in writing made within six months from the commencement of this Act; and on such restoration, the provisions of section 2 shall apply to such instrument:

Provided nevertheless—

(1) that every Court to whom such an application is made shall have a discretion to refuse the same if it is of opinion that such restoration would prejudice the rights of any transferee for value in good faith under any transfer made subsequent to the said 30th day of July, 1912;

(2) that in the event of a decree being passed upon such application in favour of the applicant or his legal representative interest shall only be allowed under such instrument at the contractual rate up to the date of the original dismissal, rejection or withdrawal of such claim, and for a period of six months therefrom, and at the rate of 6 per cent. thereafter until realization; and

(3) that in the event of the case being so restored the Court shall be bound by the finding of the former Court, by or before whom the case was dismissed, rejected or withdrawn, on any issue of fact which was heard and finally determined by it.

THE SCHEDULE.

[17th February, 1882.

An Act to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties;
It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.
PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882.

NOTES.

APPLICABILITY OF AMENDING ACT OF 1929 TO N.W.F. PROVINCE..—Act XXI of 1929, Transfer of Property (Amendment) Supplementary Act, does not amend, a single provision either of Act XX of 1929 or of the Act of 1882 which Acts are not in force in the N.W.F. Province; but on the contrary it does amend numerous Acts which are in force in that Province. S. 10 thereof amends the Indian Registration Act. The Indian Registration Act is in force in this Province, and hence S. 10 of Act XXI of 1929 is also in force in this Province. 1935 Pesh. 69.

Sec. 1.—The Act has been repealed as to Crown grants by the Crown Grants Act (XV of 1895.)

SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—The Act is to be read in the light of the Contract Act, 1929 A. 394. It is not exhaustive; nor does it cover the whole of law of transfer. 109 I.C. 195=1928 N. 223. It is not exhaustive even on the law of mortgages. 83 I.C. 548 (2)=1924 S. 23; 34 Cal. 223; 14 C.L.J. 530; 23 C.W.N. 284=47 I.C. 428; 2 P.L.J. 293. The Act does not profess to be a complete code. In any case not covered by the Act the Court is entitled to apply rules of English law which are not inconsistent with the Act. Thus the holder of a statutory charge is entitled to a decree for sale. 61 Cal. 1047=38 C.W.N. 917 =1934 Cal. 862. See also 1940 N.L.J. 1=1940 Nag. 163=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 513. Although the Act is not exhaustive, the application of the equitable principles embodied in the Act to cases not specifically provided for is not precluded by the Act. 42 Mad, 589=36 M.L.J. 543=46 I.A. 109 (P.C.); 51 All. 454. The Act does not apply to easements. 34 I.C. 450=20 C.W.N. 1158. The Act applies only to alienations inter vivos and has no application to disposal of property by will. 43 M.L.J. 486=46 M. 190 (F.B.); nor to transfers effected by an award. 45 I.C. 813=34 M. L.J. 184. In the absence of any rules to the contrary the principle of the Act is applicable to mortgages created before the Act came into force, 26 A.L.J. 887=1928 A. 381; and to Commencement.[1] It shall come into force on the first day of July, 1882.

Extent. It extends in the first instance to the whole of British India except the territories respectively administered by the Governor of Bombay in Council [2][and] the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab] [3][* * * * *].

[4][But this Act or any part thereof may by notification in the Official Gazette be extended to the whole or any part of the said territories by the Provincial Government concerned.]

[5][And any Provincial Government may, [5][* * * *] from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt, [6]either retrospectively or prospectively, any part of the territories administered by such Provincial Government from all or any of the following provisions, namely :—

Sections 54, paragraphs 2 and 3, 59, 107 and 123.]

[7][Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing part of this section, sections 54, paragraphs 2 and 3, 59, 107 and 123 shall not extend or be extended to any district or tract of country for the time being excluded from the operation of the Indian Registration Act, [8][1908] under the power conferred by the first section of that Act, or otherwise.]

LEG. REF.

[1]COMMENCEMENT OF THE AMENDING ACT XX OF 1929.—The amending Act XX of 1929 came into force on the 1st April, 1930.

[2]Inserted by A.O., 1937.

[3]Words 'and the Chief Commissioner of British Burma' omitted by ibid.

[4]Substituted by ibid.

[5]This clause was substituted for the original clause by the Transfer of Property Act (1882). Amending Act, 1885 (III of 1885), S. 1 The words "with the previous sanction of the Coverner-Ceneral in council" were omitted by Act XXXVIII of 1920, Sch.

[6]No such exemption has yet been made.

[7]This clause was added by Act III of 1885, S. 2, and is to be deemed to have been added from the date on which Act IV of 1882 came into force.

S. 54, paras. 2 and 3 and Ss. 59, 107 and 123 extend to every cantonment in British India. See The Cantonments Act XIII of 1889, S. 32.

N.B.—"The provision that nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to affect any rule of Hindu or Buddhist Law has been removde by the new amending Act II of 1929. So far, therefore, as the rules of Hindu Law are concerned, the saving clause in S. 2 seems unnecessary and we propose that the word "Hindu" be omitted from that section. We also understand that the Government of Burma as well as the Rangoon High Court have no objection to the omission of the word "Buddhist" from the last paragraph in S. 2. We, therefore, propose to omit that word also. In view of this and the changes proposed to be made in Ss. 15 and 16 of this Act and also Ss. 115 and 116 of the Indian Succession Act, we consider that it is not necessary that the Hindu Disposition of Property Act, 1916, and the Madras Acts of 1914 and 1921, referred to above, need be kept in force. We propose that these Acts be repealed.

Since the rules contained in Chapter II are not in all cases in conformity with the personal law of Muhammadans, we have retained the word "Muhammadans."—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

The amendment of this section by Act XX of 1929 is not to have any retrospective effect. See S. 63 of Act XX of 1929.

PROVISO.—Where the provision in the Act does not offend against any rule of Muhammadan Law, it will apply. 1930 A. 462.

Sec. 3 : IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.—"Property" is a most comprehensive term descriptive of every possible interest in a thing which a party can have or possess. 5 L.J. (Ch.) 90. The "property" of a person is the bundle of rights which he has in it. 27 A.L.J. 620=1929 A. 465 (F.B.). For other definitions of the term, see General Clauses Act, S. 3 (Act X of 1897). Reg. Act, S. 2 ; Trustees Act, (1866), S. 2 ; Succession Act, S. 3. The definition of the term in this Act cannot be imported into other enactments (as) the Land Revenue Sales Act (XI of 1859). 52 C. 862=90 I.C. 901. The term "immovable property" comprehends all that would be real property according to English Law and possibly something more. 13 B.L.R. 254 (P.C.). A debt secured on immovable property does not become identified with it and is not immovable property. 58 I.A. 323=35 C.W.N. 1034=61 M.L.J. 589 (P.C.). It can be transferred apart from security. TREES.—"Timber" means trees fit for building and repairing houses, 24 B. 31 ; 31 B. 181. Karuvela and velvela trees are timber, and the word "timber" cannot be limited to the class of trees the timber of which is used for building purposes alone. 106 I.C. 421=1928 M. 392 ; after severance trees become movables, 24 Bom. 31 ; sugarcane is movable property. 10 A. 20 ; 21 B. 60 ; fruit trees are immovable property, 17 I.C. 910=10 A.L.J. 516 ; mango tree used as fruit tree and not as timber is immovable property. 1927 P. 1=5 Pat. 765. the executant sign or affix his mark to the instrument, or has seen some other person sign the instrument in the presence and by the direction of the executant, or has received from the executant a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person, and each of whom has signed the instrument in the presence of the executant ; but it shall not be necessary that more than one of such witnesses shall have been present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary ;]

and not cut it down as timber, then it is immovable property and can only be conveyed by a registered instrument. 90 I.C. 769=1926 P. 125; 54 A. 437. Palm and date trees are trees the produce of which can be got and therefore are immovable property. (1926 P. 125, Rel. on.) 17 Pat. L.T. 170=1936 P. 66. Grove of Mahua trees is immovable property. 81 I.C. 650=1925 O. 108 (2). A grove consisting of shisham and nim trees, which are only timber trees, is not immovable property as defined by S. 3. 1938 All. 115=174 I.C. 315. A claim for possession of trees is a claim to an interest in immovable property. 63 I.C. 264(1) =3 Pat. L.T. 622.

GROWING CROPS.—Under S. 3 growing crops are not immovable property, and therefore a mortgage of such crops needs no registration. 89 I.C. 410=1926 A. 164. See also 10 A. 20; 9 C.W.N. 376=32 C. 459 ; 31 C. 667; 6 C.W.N. 881.

FIXTURES.—The English law relating to fixtures does not apply in toto in India. If a thing is imbedded in the earth or attached to what is so embedded for the permanent beneficial enjoyment of that to which it is attached, then it is part of the immovable property. If the attachment is merely for the beneficial enjoyment of the chattel itself, then it remains a chattel, even though fixed for the time being so that it may be enjoyed. An engine installed in a factory may be immovable property or may be attached according to the circumstances of the case. Where it appears that the intention of the parties was not that the engine should be permanently attached as an improvement to the premises for the benefit of whoever might be entitled to those premises, it cannot be regarded as immovable property. 51 L.W. 155=1940 Mad. 527.

INSTRUMENT.—Act has no application to testamentary instruments. See 43 M.L.J. 486=46 M. 190=1922 M. 457 (F.B.).

ATTESTATION.—As to requirements of valid attestation, see 52 M. 123=55 M.L.J. 794=1929 M. 1 (F.B.) ; 27 C.W.N. 263=1923 C. 149 ; 13 I.C. 557=1931 A.L.J. 342. If the attestors to a deed of mortgage executed by a gosha lady did not see her sign it, the lady did not acknowledge her signature to it, and the attestors themselves did not sign the instrument in the presence of the lady, the instrument is not properly attested within the meoning of the term 'attested' as defined by the Amending Act of 1926. 54 M. 163=1931 M. 140=60 M.L.J. 56. See also 8 O.W.N. 194=1931 O. 146. Whether an attesting witness signs his name in the presence of the executant is a question of fact depending on the circumstances of each case. Where a document executed by a pardanashin lady is attested by the witnesses while the lady is sitting behind a thin curtain and it is clear enough that, if she had been minded to see the witnesses sign, she could have done so, even if she did not actually see them through the curtain, it amounts to sufficient compliance with the provisions of S. 3. (10 O.W.N. 724= 1933 O. 365=144 I.C. 860, Reversed.) 63 I. A. 326=11 Luck. 346=1936 P.C. 207=71 M. L.J. 151 (P.C.). An attesting witness cannot be presumed, from the mere fact of attestation, to be aware of the contents of the document, much less of a mere recital of boundaries. (A. I.R. 1933 Lah. 551, Rel. on.) 177 I.C. 966= 1938 Lah. 97. It was held previous to the new definition of attestation in S. 3 that an attestation must be by a witness who had actually seen the executant sign the document. 48 C. 61; 35 M. 607 (P.C.); 5 P. 58 ; 42 A. 25; 46 M. 64=43 M.L.J. 745; 45 C. 748 =45 I.A. 94=34 M.L.J. 545 (P.C.); 26 Bom. L.R. 737=83 I.C. 170=1925 P.C. 89 (P.C.); 11 A.L.J. 757; 22 Bom. L.R. 86=44 B. 231; 35 C.L.J. 473; 2 P. 52; 38 C.L.J. 114=1924 C. 415. Now even acknowledgment of signature by executant before attesting witnesses would suffice. See 52 Bom. 219=30 Bom.L.R. 565= 1928 B. 267; 1927 C. 926 ; 28 L.W. 955; 55 M.L.J. 794; 105 I.C. 422; 92 I.C. 948=1926 C. 637; 47 C.L.J. 118=1928 C. 154; 16 I.C. 207. The words "personal acknowledgment" in S. 3 do not mean express acknowledgment. It is not necessary therefore that the acknowledgment of execution should be express or should be made verbally by the executant. An acknowledgement of signature may well be inferred from the conduct of executant at the time when the deed is attested by witnesses, for example, by gestures or by other ways. There is no ground for assuming that the law in India is different from that in England. I.L.R. (1937) All. 723=1937 A.L.J. 710=1937 All. 646. Registering officer or identifying witnesses before Registrar are not attesting witnesses, and so proof of registration is no proof of attestation. 165 I.C. 498=1936 A.L.J. 262=1936 A. 712. The signature of the Registrar or Sub-Registrar on the back of the document registered by him may be treated as a valid attestation: 19 N.L.J. 123=1936 N. 171. But before that can be done evidence is necessary to establish that the registering officer signed the document in the presence of the executant. 58 M. 220=1935 M. 178 (2)=68 M.L.J. 191; 67 C.L.J. 31; 1937 Sind 47; 150 I.C. 762=58 C.L.J. 545; 61 C. 525=38 C.W.N. 753=1934 C. 772 (case of gift deed). 1937 S. 47. It is the instrument that an attesting witness has to sign in order to comply with the terms of the definition of the word "attested." When the Registrar (or Sub-Registrar) appends his signature to the endorsements or to the particular endorsement relating to the admission of execution and when the witnesses append their signatures to the endorsement as to the identification, it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that they are signing the instrument. Therefore the signatures of the Registrar and of the witnesses identifying the executant at registration, made in the manner required by Ss. 58 and 59, Registration Act, are not sufficient attestation of the deed for the purpose of the Transfer of Property Act, even if they signed the deed in the presence of the executant after receiving acknowledgment from him of his signature or mark thereon. 1939 Rang.L.R. 388=1939 Rang. 211. See also 1938 Mad. 959=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 775. 'Attested' means that a person has signed the document by way of testimony of the fact that he saw it executed. In a case where a person places his signature upon a document and at the same time describes himself as the writer thereof. though the inference is that he signs as the writer and nothing else, it can, as a matter of fact, be shown that he signed as a witness as well, of the fact that he saw the document executed or received a personal acknowledgment from the executant that he had executed it. A claim to recover an ascertained amount is an actionable claim and can be validly transferred; but a claim for unliquidated damages for breach of contract after the breach, is not an "actionable claim" and cannot be transferred because of the provisions of cl. (e) of S. 6. 55 A. 814=1933 A. 642. A claim for damages, return or earned money with interest and a part of the purchase price is an actionable claim. "Debt" means an actually existing debt. 1927 S. 78=22 S.L.R. 1. Prima facie a liability to arise in the future on the part of an unknown person out of a relationship, contractual or otherwise, which does not yet exist, cannot, on any ordinary use of language, be described as a "debt", still less can it be described as an "existing" debt. Neither can it be "accruing" or "conditional" and it cannot be "contingent." A contingency is something that may happen in future which affects a present relationship. For instance, a contingent interest such as a contingent life-interest presupposes an existing interest which may or may not develop into interest in possessson. The interest is there all the time. It is even saleable as such. When S. 3 refers to an "existing" debt, it intends therby to exclude a debt which does not yet exist at all. So also S. 130 (1) in its terms points to an immediate interest of some sort passing. While, it is in every way appropriate to an accruing conditional or contingent debt, it cannot be reconciled with a debt which does not exist at all. 175 I.C. 786=1938 Rang. 1. A mortgage assigning by way of security a decree that would be passed in a pending money suit instituted by the mortgagor and containing a stipulation that the mortgagee would be entitled to realise out of the decretal amount a certain sum due to him, is not a transfer of a mere right to sue. What is transferred is the claim to a debt and as such would come within the definition of "actionable claim" as given in S, 3 of the T.P. Act. The mortgage must be deemed to attach itself to the decree as soon as it is passed, and the mortgagee is entitled to execute the decree as an assignee. I.L.R. A claim to recover goods lent or damages for a breach of contract for failure to return them is a mere right to sue within S. 6 (e) and is not transferable. 1923 N. 67. A right to recover arrears of annuity is a debt, and though charged upon immovable property, the claim under it amounts to an actionable claim. 63 C. 1=62 I.A. 265=39 C.W.N. 1191=69 M.L.J. 503 (P.C). See also 1936 P.W.N. 395=1936 Pat. 527. The right of the subscriber or depositor to the Provident Fund money is an actionable claim. 1935 C. 756=63 C. 578. Copyright is no doubt beneficial interest in movable property, but hardly comes within the purview of "actionable claim" as defined in S. 3. I.L.R. (1939) All. 275=1939 A.L.J. 71=1939 All. 305.

EXPL. I—NOTICE WHETHER REGISTRATION CONSTITUTES.—"Notice," as defined in S. 3, includes both actual and constructive notice. There was a conflict of decisions whether the registration of a document under the Indian Registration Act is of itself constructive notice of the transaction effected by the document. The matter has been set at rest by the amending Act of 1929. The Statement of Objects and Reasons for the amendment regarding this matter is as follows:—

"In our opinion, in a country like India, where the system of registration has been generally applied, if registration is to be held as not implying notice, one of the objects for which instruments are required to be registered would be defeated. Moreover, as will be seen person acquiring such property or any part of, or share or interest in, such property shall be deemed to have notice of such instrument as from the date of registration or, [1][where the property is not all situated in one sub-district, or where the registered instrument has been registered under sub-section (2) of S. 30 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908, from the earliest date on which any memorandum of such registered instrument has been filed by any Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district any part of the property which is being acquired or of the property wherein a share or interest is being acquired, is situated :]

Provided that—

(1) the instrument has been registered and its registration completed in the manner prescribed by the Indian Registration Act, 1908, and the rules made thereunder,

(2) the instrument [2][or memorandum] has been duly entered or filed, as the case may be, in books kept under section 51 of that Act, and

(3) the particulars regarding the transaction to which the instrument relates have been correctly entered in the indexes kept under section 55 of that Act.

Explanation II.—Any person acquiring any immovable property or any share or interest in any such property shall be deemed to have notice of the title, if any, of any person who is for the time being in actual possession thereof.

Explanation III.—A person shall be deemed to have had notice of any fact if his agent acquires notice thereof whilst acting on his behalf in the course of business to which that fact is material :

LEG. REF.

[1]These words were substituted for the words "if the instrument has been registered under sub-section (2) of section 30 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908, from the earlist date on which a memorandum thereof has been filed by any Sub-Registrar under S. 66 of that Act" by Act V of 1930.

[2] Added by Act V of 1930.

NOTES.

below, one of the important changes suggested by us is 'compulsory registration.' It is therefore, necessary the express provision should be made in the Act making it clear that registration of an instrument relating to immovable property amounts to notice of the instrument from the date of the registration. For this purpose we propose to add Explanation I to the definition of 'Notice' in S. 3."

The latter portion of Expl. I was further amended by the Amending Act V of 1930, and the reason for the same have been stated as follows:—"The formal amendments contained in this Bill are designed to carry out the intentions of Explanation I contained in S. 4 of of the Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929. The difficulties sought to be met by the latter part of the body of the explanation are not confined to casees where registration is effected under sub-s. (2) of S. 30 of the Indian Registration Act 1908, but they are also encountered when an instrument relating to scattered properties is registered in the ordinary manner. Further, it is possible under the present Examination, that a subsequent transferee may make a genuine search in the offices of all the subdistricts in which the property he seeks to acquire is situated, and find no record of a transfer; but may still find himself saddled with notice of a transfer by reason of a memorandum relating to some other property, included in a previous transfer along with the property he is interested in, having been filed in some distant sub-district. The Bill is intended to remove these anomalies."—Gazette of India, Pt. V, p. 15, dated 25th January, 1930).

EXPL. II—POSSESSION HOW FAR IS NOTICE.—On this point the Statement of Objects and Reasons for the amendment of the section is as follows:—"We propose to add Explanation II to the definition of 'notice,' providing that the person dealing with any immovable property shall be deemed to have notice of the title of any person who, for the time being, is in actual possession thereof. It may be noted that notice in this case is not extended to possession which is merely of a constructive nature. The explanation is in accordance with Illustration 3 to S. 27 (b) of the Specific Relief Act."

EXPL. III—NOTICE TO AGENT—SCOPE AND EFFECT OF AMENDMENT—The Statement of Objects and Reasons for the amendment is as follows:—"The last portion of the existing definition of notice which relates to notice through an agent seems to us to be defective. It provides that a person has notice of the fact when information of the fact is given to or obtained by his agent under circumstances mentioned in S. 229 of the Indian Contract Act. The words 'given to or obtained by his agent' used in the definition suggest that the rule is r stricted to the facts of which the agent has actual knowledge, or, in other words, express notice. The reference to S. 229 of the Indian Contract Act does not extend the scope of the definition. If notice to the agent, whether actual or constructive is not made notice to the principal, it has been said that notice would be avoided in every case by employing agents." "The general rule that the knowledge of the

Provided that, if the agent, fraudulently conceals the fact, the principal shall not be charged with notice thereof as against any person, who was a party to or otherwise cognizant of the fraud.

NOTES.

agent is the knowledge of the principal has no doubt certain limitations. It is necessary that the matter for which the agent was employed should be taken into consideration. It is necessary that the agent should be acting in the course of the particular business for which he was employed. (34 I.A. 179). This general principle is now embodied in S. 199 of the English Property Act, 1925. We propose, therefore, to add Explanation III to the definition." Explanation III which provides that notice to an agent whilst acting in the course of business is notice to his principal was criticised as being too general and vague. The Select Committee therefore added provisions to the effect that the notice must be of a fact which is material to the course of the business in which the agent is engaged, and that the agent must not fraudulendly have concealed the fact from his principal.

NOTICE—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—The Explanations to the definition of 'notice' in S. 3 inserted in the T.P. Act by Act XX of 1929, do not affect the terms or incidents of transfers made before the 1st April, 1930; 1936 O.W.N. 1086= 1937 O. 1. As the T.P. Act is not in force in the Punjab, the question whether registration is or is not notice in that province would depend on the facts of each case. 37 P.L.R. 168. The Transfer of Property Act is not in force in the Punjab and hence S. 3 of that Act as amended in 1929 does not affect that province. Consequently the state of law as existed prior to 1929 according to which registration did not necessarily amount to notice continues to hold good in that Province. 190 I.C. 599=1940 Lah. 269. Though a will is registered, except the executant or his agent, no one else is competent to take inspection or copies, and it will be scarcely justifiable to take registration as sufficient notice for the purposes of limitation. 1935 L. 313. If a mortgagee taking a mortgage in a place where he knows tha mortgages by deposit of title-deeds are legal and usual does not ascertain whether the title-deeds were already pledged, his failure so to ascertain is such abstention from an enquiry which he ought to have made or such negligence as to infer notice in terms of S. 3. 45 M.L.J. 505=51 C. 86=1 R. 637=50 I.A. 283 (P.C.). Registration of a sub-mortgage itself is no notice to the original mortgagor. But as the plaintiff in a mortgage suit is under a duty to Court to implead all parties interested in the property, his omission to search the register amounts to gross negligence, sufficient to fix him with constructive notice. 62 M.L.J. 272=1932 M. 1152. The registration of a sale deed by a judgment-debtor cannot be regarded as giving the decree-holder attaching the property sold constructive knowledge of the sale, because no duty lies on the decree-holder to search the registers. 1936 A.M.L.J. 104. Gross negligence and wilful abstention amounts to notice. 34 I. C. 906=20 M.L.T. 127 ; 6 L. 344=89 I. C. 615=1925 L. 542. See also 5 B. 342 ; 1929 C. 83 ; 15 M. 268. What would be gross negligence in one case would not be so in another. It all depends upon the man's knowledge and the means of information which lay to his hand. Where it is incumbent on a person, who was in possession of certain facts to inspect the registers, and omission to look into entries against the property in question and to look into them carefully, must be construed to be either due to wilful abstention or to gross negligence. A person can be charged with the negligence or bad faith of his agent. 1939 N.L.J. 129=1939 Nag. 132. See also 1937 Oudh 307. The words "wilful abstention from an inquiry or search" in S. 3, must be taken to mean such abstention from inquiry or search as would show want of bona fides, and a mere omission to make inquiries cannot be regarded as sufficient to constitute constructive notice within the meaning of the section. 53 L.W. 744=1941 Mad. 707=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 815. See also 1937 Oudh 301=1937 O.W.N. 438 ; 1940 O.W.N. 122. Purchaser of portion of bhag in possession—Subsequent purchaser of entire bhag—Failure to inquire of the prior purchaser whether amounts to wilful or gross negligence amounting to constructive notice. See 33 Bom.L.R. 499=1931 B. 430. The fact that a customer of a bank was a man of business, well conversant with dealings of banks and bank rates of interest and thus had the means of knowing the rate of compound interest charged on his overdrafts was held to be equivalent to knowledge or reasonable grounds of belief so as to fix him with adoption or ratification of the rate of interest. 59 C. 662 =1932 C. 521. Notice to husband is no notice to wife. 2 O.W.N. 413=1925 O. 613. Notice to agent in the course of business is notice to the principal 97 I.C. 577=1927 S. 24. See also 31 B. 566 (P.C.) Where one person is an officer of two companies, his personal knowledge is not necessarily the knowledge of both the companies. The knowledge which he has acquired as officer of one company will not be imputed to the other company unless he has some duty imposed on him to communicate his knowledge to the company sought to be affected by the notice, and some duty imposed on him by that company to receive that notice. 60 B. 326=37 Bom.L.R. 978. It is seldom possible to form an adequate or correct opinion of the conduct of the transferee without considering whether his good faith extends to his possession of actual or constructive notice with reference to the whole circumstances of the case. 44 M.L.J. 527=46 M. 478= 1923 M. 558.

Sec. 4.—S. 137 is to be taken as part of the Contract Act. 38 B. 255=21 I.C. 943. S. 107 of the T P. Act cannot be taken to have been inserted in S. 17 of the Registration Act and an unregistered lease deed for less than one year is not a document required to be registered under S. 17, and S. 49 of the Act can have no application to it. 39 M.L.J. 639=44 M. 55=59 I.C. 350 (F.B). The only effect of the provision in S. 4, T.P. Act, that S. 107 shall be read as supplemental to the Registration Act, i. e., to S. 17 of the Registration Act, is that the proviso (that leases of immovable property from year to year or for any term exceeding one year or reserving a yearly rent shall be registered) contained in S. 17 of the Registration Act shall be read as amplified by the proviso to S. 107 of the T.P. Act. It has not the effect of requiring the Court to construe the word "lease" in S. 107 of the T.P. Act in the wider sense in which it is defined in the Registration Act. The question whether a contract is to be construed as a lease or merely as an agreement to lease must be gathered from the terms of the whole document, and where a contract operates as an actual demise it must be deemed to be a lease. 1923 O. 237. See also 16 C.W.N. 606; 35 M. 95. On this section, see also 2 Pat. L.J. 168. S. 4 properly read means, so far as it is applicable to the case of mortgages, that if and when a document of mortgage is executed, it must be registered as provided in the Registration Act, but this section does not in any way do away with the effect of S. 59 which expressly provides that in certain areas a mortgage can only be by means of an instrument in writing. 1933 R. 972. The expression "shall be read as supplemental to the Indian Registration Act" in S. 4 cannot be intended to mean that the sections mentioned therein are to be taken as a part of the Registration Act. Those sections cannot, therefore, be governed by the definitions in that Act, but must be governed by the definitions in the Transfer of Property Act. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 70= 1939 Lah. 423.

[1][And Sections 54, paragraphs 2 and 3, 59, 107 and 123 shall be read as supplemental to the Indian Registration Act, (1908)[2]].

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

(A) Transfer of property whether movable or immovable.

"Transfer of property" defined.

5. In the following sections "transfer of property" means an act by which a living person conveys property, in present or in future, to one or more other living persons, or to himself [3][or to himself] and one or more other living persons; and "to transfer property" is to perform such act.

[4][In this section, "living person" includes a company or association or body of individuals, whether incorporated or not, but nothing herein contained shall affect any law for the time being in force relating to transfer of property to or by companies, associations or bodies of individuals.]

What may be transferred.

6. Property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force.

LEG. REF.

[1] This paragraph was added by the Transfer of Property Act (1882) Amendment Act, (III of 1885), S. 3.

[2] The figures "1908" were substituted for the figures "1877" by Act XX of 1929, S. 5.

[3] Inserted by Act XX of 1929, S. 6.

[4] Last para. added by S. 6 of Act XX of 1929.

NOTES.

Sec. 5: EFFECT OF CHANGE.—The Select Committee have amended S. 5 to make it clear that a transfer can be made by a person to himself, as for instance by a person making a settlement or trust in which he constitutes himself a trustee. An explanation has also been added to the section to make it clear that the words "living person" include corporations and other associations of persons.—(Report of Select Committee).

"TRANSFER OF PTOPERTY".—The definition of "transfer of property" given in S. 5 applies suitably to all sections contained in Chap. II. But it seems very doubtful that the definition applies to the term "transfer" used in S. 130. 96 I.C. 1004=1926 N. 469. See also 5 A. 121 (137); 13 A 432. The definition does not apply to transfers contemplated by the Presidency-Towns Insolvency Act. 24 Bom. L.R. 861=1923 B. 107. A person acquiring another's right by transfer must acquire it by a valid transfer from the original owner or by operation of law. 9 N.L.R. 54=19 I.C. 759. Mere delivery of documents of title does not amount to a transfer. 96 I.C. 339=1926 N. 357. The Act is not exhaustive of all modes of transfer. Dedication to a temple is not a "transfer" within the meaning of this section. See 42 M. 440; 1926 N. 469=96 I.C. 1004. A gift to God Almighty is not a gift to a living person and does not require a registered instrument. 128 I.C. 791=1930 P. 610. Where a person entitled to an annuity allowance under a wakf transferred it. Held, that no human being has any interest in the dedicated property and the grantee cannot be said to have an interest in the income from the dedicated property in the hands of the mutawalli as the income cannot be said to be existing property which always, is contemplated in S. 5. 1936 P.W.N. 395=1936 Pat. 527. Where a transaction can only be regarded as a mutual relinquishment and admission of claim by all the parties, it cannot come within any of the class of transfers dealt with by this Act. 33 A. 356; 1923 N. 55 (2); 1930 A. 498 (2). A partition is not transfer. 52 A. 716=125 I.C. 1=1930 A. 687. But see contra 161 I.C. 861=1936 L. 220. A document by which a widow consents to give possession of the property to reversioners because they are reversioners of her deceased husband is not a transfer of property. 89 I.C. 722=1926 O. 69. Minority is no disqualification for acquiring property. 130 I.C. 200=18 O.C. 115. An arrangement, by which on dissolution of a parrnership certain partners are paid off and in return give up or assign their interests in the assets of the partnership is a "transfer of property" as defined by S. 5. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 344=1939 Sind 288.

"LIVING PERSONS" includes juridical persons. 1926 N. 469=96 I.G. 1004.

Sec. 6: SCOPE OF SECTION.—Section does not apply to Punjab. 89 I.C. 792=1926 L. 39; 1933 L. 378. Hence sale of revesionary interest of a Hindu is transferable in the Punjab. 1929 L, 39. Section has no retrospective operation. Hence, where an agreement entered into between expectant heirs in 1868 provided for the division of the property after the succession opened: Held, that the agreement was not hit at by section 6, T.P. Act, or Section 23, Contract Act, and was enforceable. 14 P.L.T. 27=1933 P. 265. If controls S. 43—Duty of Court to reconcile Ss. 6 and 43. See 40 Bom. L. R. 147. The conveyance of an interest in remainder or interest in futuro is according to Sunni school invalid. 24 M. L. J. 258=18 I.C. 185. A Hindu religious endowment cannot be transferred, but its income can be pledged. 6 B. 552(F.B.)

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred.

NOTES.

An assignment of an estate or interest which does not exist at the date of assignment cannot operate according to its tenor. In equity such a transfer may in certain circumstances create equitable rights. 1931 P.C. 203 =134 I.C. 324 (P.C.). Contract to assign property to come into existence in future. The assignment becomes complete when property comes into existence. 97 I.C. 257. The interest of a person's holding on which he has planted a grove is property and is transferable under S. 6 : 1924 A. 795. See also 123 I.C. 767=1930 A. 377. Interest of surety in the property furnished as security can be transferred subject to the charge. See 52 A. 619=125 I.C. 477=1930 A. 225 (F.B.).

CONSTRUCTION.—Decisions under S. 60, C. P. Code, as to what properties can be attached in execution of a decree are not of much assistance in construing this section which deals with voluntary transfers. 25 C. 778. See also 40 M. 302.

CLAUSE (a).—S. 6 (a) construed and reconciled with S. 43, infra. 57 All. 474. But see 145 I.C. 965=38 L.W. 610=1933 M. 795 =65 M.L.J. 588. "Possibility" and of a like nature, meaning and scope of. See 47 I.C. 563. A contract for the future sale of future expectations cannot be enforced. 45 M.L.J. 617=50 I.A. 239=50 C. 929 (P.C.). S. 6 (a) not only forbids the transfer of the expectations of an heir or legatee, but by the words 'of a like nature' prohibits any transfer of a similar kind of possibility. It is not the circumstances connected with a transfer which sanction or forbid its transfer but the inherent qualities of the chance itself. Where the granting of a gratuity to a Municipal employee is entirely in the discretion of the Municipality any transfer by such an employee of his chances of getting the gratuity, at a time when it had not been actually sanctioned, is void as a mere spes under S. 6 (a). The hope of a gratuity differs from a tradesman's book debts, in that the book debts are a necessary incident of every business conducted on a credit basis. A mortgage of such debts operates as an equitable assignment, fastening on the property when it comes into existence 1938 Rang.L.R. 542=1939 Rang. 8. A mortgage of future income to be derived from the work of scavenging to be done is invalid, as the subject of the transfer is an expectancy or a possibility within the meaning of S. 6 (a). 48 L.W. 258=1938 Mad. 881.

WHAT IS NOT MERE POSSIBILITY.—See 34 Bom. L.R. 366. Interest, of a coparcener is a vesting interest. 49 I.C. 907. The interest of a donee subject to life-interest is a vested interest and is transferable. 48 I.C. 396=21 O.C. 312. See also 31 S.L.R. 506=1937 Sind 306 (Life interest in a definite fund). Where, by a settlement, a vested interest is given in the income of a property and also a contingent interest in the corpus on the youngest child attaining the age of 20, the contingent interest is not a mere possibility or a mere right to sue. 8 R. 8=57 I.A 10=58 M.L.J. 83 (P.C.). An adopted son has a vested interest and such interest is not spes successionis. 40 A. 692=47 I.C. 599. Death of occupancy tenant leaving wife and daughter—Rent in respect of future possible lease cannot be assigned. 34 M.L.J. 236=1923 M. 3164 Offerings made at temple—Alienability when disassociated from priestly office. 113 I.C. 242.

WHAT IS "SPES SUCCESSIONIS."—The right of sons to get a share in the mother's estate. 48 C. 1059=25 C.W.N. 990. The interest of a reversioner is a mere spes successionis and is neither transferable nor divisible. See 13 N.L.R. 187=42 I. C. 737 ; 107 I. C. 987 =1928 N. 262 ; 1938 M.W.N. 259 ; 1938 Bom. 121=39 Bom.L.R. 1287 ; 1937 P.W.N. 183= 1937 Pat. 280 ; 1939 All. 689. It is not competent to a person to relinquish his rights in property to which he is the then nearest reversionary heir, expectant upon the death of a widow in possession. His son is, therefore, not estopped from claiming the property by reason of the relinquishment. 1938 O.W.N. 152= 1938 Oudh 94 ; 1930 M.W.N. 1054; 48 A. 637= =96 I.C. 595=1926 A. 715 ; 48 C. 536=25 C. W.N. 496 ; 22 C.W.N. 486 ; 62 I.C. 933=2 Pat. L.T. 471 ; 2 Pat.L.J. 578=41 I.C. 631 ; 86 I. C. 1016 (2)=1925 M. 941 ; 15 O.C. 122=13 I.C. 495. But in the Punjab, where the T. P. Act, is not in force, alienation of reversionary rights is not void. 1933 L. 378. Future offerings of worshippers. 43 C. 28=28 I.C. 675. But see 26 A.L.J. 115 ; 164 I.C. 1111=1936 O. W.N. 144 ; 1928 A. 721. The interest of the adopted son during the lifetime of the widow is not a mere spes successionis. 59 C. 859=55 C. L.J. 205. Under Muhammadan Law the right to succeed is a mere possibility. 41 M. 365= 34 M.L.J. 460 ; 41 I.C. 361 ; 108 I.C. 390. A Hindu daughter cannot bargain away her son's right as reversioner. 44 A. 428=1922 A. 217. A reversioner joining with a limited owner in a transfer is not estopped from claiming them as heir. 46 C. 566=36 M.L.J. 68 (P.C.) : 45 C. 590=45 I.A. 38=34 M.L.J. 298 (P.C.). But this clause does not bar a contract by one not to claim a share in property in the event of his succeeding to it. 27 I.C. 701=13 A.L.J. 110 ; 33 A. 414=8 A.L.J. 199 ; also 29 I.C. 549=29 M.L.J. 214 ; nor an agreement by an expectant heir to divide property in a particular way on the happening of a contingency. 33 A. 457= 9 I.C. 530 ; 1933 P. 165. But see contra 50 I.A. 238=45 M.L.J. 617=50 C. 929 (P.C.). A family arrangement is valid and binding not as an assignment or relinquishment of the rights in expectancy but as a settlement by which parties defined their respective interests to avoid future disputes and hence S. 6 (a) has no application to such an arrangement. 1938 O.W.N. 711= 1938 Oudh 190. The right of a Hindu reversioner is one in regard to which it is impossible to say that it would ever become concrete ; it could only become concrete upon the death of the widow and if the reversioner survived her. The bare transfer of such interest or its relinquishment in favour of another is void under

NOTES.

S. 6 (a). But this is not necessarily so in every case. If the transfer was part and parcel of a family settlement or a compromise in dispute between rival claimants to property it would not necessarily be invalid. I.L.R. (1939) All. 950= 1939 A.L.J. 824=1939 All. 689 (F.B.). An agreement to sell Karnam inam lands when enfranchised cannot be enforced. 1925 M. 885= 48 M.L.J. 598. An agreement among reversioners to divide in particular shares the future estate is inoperative. 49 I.C. 260=35 M.L.J. 684. Family settlement deciding in what proportion several contesting members should inherit when succession opened is valid. 1929 L. 485; 1938 Oudh 190. The Transfer of Property Act does not recognise any distinction between a whole debt and a part of a debt. Both may be transferred under that Act if they come under the category of actionable claims as an actionable claim is "property." The transferee of part of a debt may however find that what is transferred to him is not an actionable claim as under O. 2, R. 2, C. P. Code, a single cause of action cannot be split up into several causes of action. But O. 2, R. 2, C. P. Code being a rule of procedure, does not affect the right of transfer, that is to say it can not make what is transferable non-transferable. It does however, bar the right of suit in certain cases, and it may prevent the transferee of a part of a debt from enforcing his claim, and thereby make the transfer nugatory. 18 Pat. 839=21 Pat.L.T. 928=1940 Pat. 170. Agreement not to claim a share on the death of a living person may be valid. 84 I.C. 208=1924 P. 736. Agreement that on death of one member his share is to pass to survivors is legal. 29 M.L.J. 214= 29 I.C. 549; 33 A. 414=8 A.L.J. 199. Where the daughters who had possession of the property during their mother's lifetime effected a partition of the same, held, that the partition was not a transfer and that S. 6 (a) did not apply. 52 A. 716=1930 A. 687. But see 38 P.L.R. 201=1936 L. 220. On the death of an occupancy tenant leaving a widow and daughter, the property was mutated in favour of the widow for her life or till re-marriage. After about 20 years, the widow applied to have the occupancy rights transferred in the name of her daughter, but the daughter was directed to file a suit to have her right declared. Accordingly, the daughter filed a declaratory suit that she was the legal heir and entitled to the property. The collaterals contended that the suit amounted only to an assertion of a spes successionis and as such was not maintainable. Held, the suit was maintainable, (9 L. 467, Not foll.; 10 L. 58 and 10 L. 489, Foll.) 34 P.L.R. 743=1933 L. 555. A vested remainder is not a mere spes successionis. 17 P.L.T. 876=1937 Pat. 163. However illegal and unenforceable a bare relinquishment or renunciation of the chance of a heir-apparent succeeding to an estate may be, different considerations prevail if that renunciation or relinquishment proceeds on a settlement of conflicting claims or bona fide disputes between the contracting parties. If, therefore, to avoid an adverse decision on the factum of his legitimacy, a plaintiff enters into a compromise with the defendants aud gains an immediate advantage for himself, it cannot be said that he is relinquishing a mere chance of succession. Such a compromise is valid and binding upon him. 44 P.L.R. 87. As to applicability of the rule as to feeding title by estoppel, see 6 O.W.N. 233. Two groves with some other property of the mortgagor were mortgaged for the purpose of purchasing the very two groves from its owner. Held, that the mortgage was enforceable against them on the principle of feeding the grant by estoppel, there being no third party's interest intervening between the execution of the security and the execution of the sale-deed. 131 I. C. 38=1931 A. 275. A contract by a reversioner to sell his expected estate is not specifically enforceable. 39 M. 554=28 M.L.J. 650. See also 132 I.C. 321=1931 A.L.J. 295; 130 I.C. 822 =1931 N. 51. (1928 N. 262 and 1928 O. 185, Diss. from.) See also 59 C. 859=55 C.L.J. 205. So also agreement by one reversioner with another to sell his interest or not to claim estate for certain sum to be paid annually. 1937 P.W. N. 183=1937 P. 280. The section has no application to a bona fide settlement of a right to succeed among rival competitors. 41 A. 611= 17 A.L.J. 822. See also 38 A. 107; 49 M.L.J. 296; 108 I.C. 440; 1929 L. 485. A family arrangement is not a transfer and cannot come under the prohibition. 1930 A. 498 (2). See also other cases cited on the point under S. 5.

RIGHT TO OFFERINGS MADE AT PLACE OF WORSHIP—TRANSFERABILITY.—It cannot be laid down as a broad proposition of law that the right to a share in the offerings made at a place of worship, or in the income of fairs or other functions held in connection therewith, is a mere "possibility" and therefore not alienable on the principle of law embodied in S. 6 (a) of the T. P. Act. Nor can it be said that such a transfer is, in every case, void as being opposed to public policy, as the making of offerings by persons resorting to temples and other places of worship is a matter of volition with them and no one can compel another to make offerings on a particular occasion to him and him alone. The determination of the question depends on a variety of considerations (e.g.) the nature of the institution, the occasion on, and the purpose for which the amount, is paid; the capacity in which it is appropriated by, or divided among, the persons concerned. A distinction must be drawn between cases in which emoluments are attached to a priestly office, and the cases in which the offerings are made to a deity and the persons who receive the same have not to render services of a personal nature as a consideration for the receipt of the offerings. The emoluments of the former kind are not, in the absence of a custom or usage to the contrary, ordinarily transferable. But when the right to receive the offerings made at a temple is independent of an obligation to render services involving qualifications of a personal nature such as officiating at the worship, then the right to receive the offerings, when made, is a valuable right and is property and is, therefore, transferable. 44 P.L.R. 403.

Sec. 6 (a) and (b).—Applicability—Transfer in consideration of release of spes succes-

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage.

(d) An interest in property restricted in its enjoyment to the owner personally cannot be transferred by him.

[1][(dd) A right to future maintenance, in whatsoever manner arising, secured or determined, cannot be transferred.]

LEG. REF.

[1] Sub-cl. (dd) was added by Act X 1929.

NOTES.

sionis—Validity—Void contract—Duty of party receiving benefit to make compensation—Contract Act, S. 65. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 364.

CLAUSE (b).—A transfer of a reversion of a lease carries with it the right to enforce forfeiture of the lease for breach of a condition, even where the breach had accrued prior to the transfer. 43 B. 28=20 Bom.L.R. 767. See also 15 M. 125.

CLAUSE (c).—This clause means that there cannot be an "easement in gross." 34 I.C. 450 =20 C.W.N. 1158 ; 20 A. 200. The clause does not bar waiver or release of rights of one in his own property. 26 I.C. 211=27 M.L.J. 272. Kumaki rights are not rights in gross and this clause applies to them. 15 I.C. 278. So also an assignee of equity of redemption cannot sue for unascertained excess profits. 96 I.C. 339= 1926 N. 357. But an auction-purchaser at a revenue sale can maintain a suit for recovering arrears of rent due by tenants. 91 I.C. 474.

CLAUSE (d).—See 1928 M. 1201. Prima facie proprietary rights are transferable and it is for the contesting party to show that such transfer is not permissible. So, a certain muafi granted by the ruler for the support of Brahmin, was transferable. 151 I.C. 562=1934 A. 973.

PERSONAL RIGHTS—WHAT ARE.—The widow's right to maintenance is a personal right and as such inalienable. But where property has been given to a widow of a Hindu joint family in lieu of maintenance, the transfer of such property by her is valid and effective during her lifetime. 54 A. 366=1932 A. 662. See also 69 M.L.J. 317 (Hindu widow's right of residence). The statutory non-transferability enacted by S. 6 (d) and S. 6 (dd) is based on the impossibility of transfer inherent in the nature of the right sought to be transferred, and not on notions of public policy. Where property has been given to a Hindu widow in lieu of maintenance, the transfer of the property during her life is not a transfer of her rights to maintenance and is valid. S. 6 (d) and (dd) have no application to such a case. (A.I.R. 1932 All. 662, Foll.) 42 C.W.N. 1258=1938 Cal. 405. See also 1936 Pat. 527 ; 1939 Pat. 506. In the absence of any restriction of alienation the grantee may have a right of alienation for the period of the limited interest. 125 I.C 461=1930 A. 593. Where a Hindu widow gifted certain property to her daughter and the widowed daughter-in-law consented to the same, provision for her maintenance having been made in the gift deed, held, S. 6 had no application. 32 Bom.L.R. 705=127 I.C. 332 =1930 B. 373. Where an owner in full right of certain property grants it to a trustee upon trust among other things to pay him an allowance per month for his maintenance, this is not a 'restricted' interest in the sense of Cl. (d) of S. 6 of the T. P. Act, and a hypothecation by such a person of his rights creates a valid charge on the allowance. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 646=42 C.W.N. 565=67 C.L.J. 241= 40 Bom.L.R. 767=1938 P.C. 123=(1938) 1 M. L.J. 597 (P.C.). ADDITION OF NEW SUB-CL. (dd).—"Section 6, which enumerates property of different kinds which cannot be transferred, includes in cl. be charged with it. It is in accordance with public policy that these rights which are generally created for the maintenance or personal enjoyment of a qualified owner, e.g., a Hindu female, ought to be inalienable; but in some cases it has been held that if the amount of maintenance is fixed by an agreement or by a decree, it can be assigned. (5 B. 99; 38 C. 13). Although an agreement or a decree would make such right definite, it is nevertheless a right created for the personal benefit of the qualified owner and should not be alienable. S. 60 of the C. P. Code which protects such right from the process of a Civil Court does not make any exception in the case of maintenance fixed by agreement or decree. The above reasoning, however, does not apply to arrears of maintenance which have accrued due. To make the position clear, we suggest that the following clause should be inserted as cl. (dd), viz., 'a right to future maintenance in whatsoever manner arising or secured or determined cannot be transferred."—(Report of Select Committee.) Right of residence is connected with and is governed by the same rules as apply to a right of maintenance. 1 Punj.L.R. 209 (212, 213). See also 1937 Bom. 358=39 Bom.L.R. 458; 42 C.W.N. 1258=1938 Cal. 405.

ALLOWANCES CONFERRED BY WILL—TRANSFERABILITY.—The right to future maintenance contemplated by S. 6 (dd) means a personal right for the maintenance or personal enjoyment of the grantee. Allowances conferred by a will stand on an entirely different footing and they are transferable. 167 I.C. 52=1937 O.W.N. 188=1937 Oudh 420; 42 Bom.L.R. 165. What is intended by S. 6 (dd) is not a sum which is used as maintenance but which in fact is maintenance. There is nothing in the subsection to prevent an assignment of arrears of maintenance, that is to say, a sum which has already become due. The section deals with a right, under the personal law of the parties concerned, to maintenance. A sum will not come within the section merely because it is used as maintenance. The fact that the maintenance is secured by a deed does not exclude it from coming within the mischief of the section. 1939 Pat. 506=181 I.C. 37. A right to monthly maintenance allowance which has not accrued due already, cannot be assigned by way of mortgage in view of the provisions of S. 6 (dd) of the T. P. Act. These provisions will apply whether or not there was an antecedent obligation on the grantor to maintain the grantee under the personal law of the parties. There is no doubt a distinction between a maintenance allowance and an annuity, and whether an allowance is the one or the other will depend on the facts of each case. 77 C.L.J. 528. See also 1936 Pat. 527; 1938 Cal. 405; (1938) 1 M.L.J. 597=1938 P.C. 123=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 646 (P.C.).

CLAUSE (e)—Right under a contract to sell is not a mere right to sue and is transferable. 1924 L. 709. If along with the land, the right to recover the profits of the land which have already accrued due is sold, it is not a "mere right to sue," but property with an incidental right attached to the property itself, to which the section has no application. 56 B. 403=44 Bom. L.R. 991. See also 1926 C. 428. Where the transfer is of a right to sue for the money which may be found to be in the hands of the agent and is not meant to include a right to sue for damages on account of negligence or in the sense of moneys which ought to have been in his hands if he were diligent, such a transfer cannot be a mere right to sue. 145 I.C. 123 =57 C.L.J. 46=1933 C. 461; nor where a transfer is made of the property which is the subject-matter of the litigation and if the transfer is for good consideration. 143 I.C. 575=37 C.W.N. 706=1933 C. 454. Where after the filing of a suit for damages for wrongful dispossession of premises in breach of an agreement of lease, the plaintiff assigns by way of sale the profit and loss of the suit to another, and on the death of the plaintiff thereafter, the assignee claims to be brought on record and to continue the suit, he cannot be permitted to do so. The right to recover damages whether for tort or contract is a mere right to sue. The assignment of the fruits of a pending action, though valid, gives the assignee no right to interfere in proceedings in the action. The Court has merely to consider the nature of the suit. 58 L.W. 64 =1941 Mad. 389=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 22. Though a right to sue for damages is a mere right to sue and not an actionable claim, and therefore ordinarily not transferable, the bar of S. 6, T. P. Act, cannot apply to a case where a person has transferred to another the whole of his rights in the property, in respect of the acquisition of which damages are claimed by the transferee. 1939 O.W.N. 500=1939 Oudh 196. Where a guardian has sold the minor's property and the minor does not file a suit within 3 years of his becoming a major to set it aside, but later on merely transfers the property to a third person, it is not a transfer of an actionable claim and it could not be a transfer of immovable property because the minor transferor, not having himself sued within time, had ceased to have any rights in the property which he was capable of transferring. The transfer was not one of anything more than a right to sue and therefore without effect in view of the bar of S. 6 (e). 1939 O.W.N. 241=1939 Oudh 122. Sale by guardian—Transfer by minor of the same properties on attaining majority being a mere right to sue, is invalid. 34 Bom.L.R. 1512. Mere right to sue—Bond by guardian to Court under Guardians and Wards Act—Breach—Assignment by Court to new guardian and assignment by latter to ward on becoming major —Validity—Suit by ward to enforce bond is Maintainable. See 1938 M.W.N. 379. As to a case where this clause was held not to apply, see 59 I.A. 41=11 P. 266=36 C.W.N. 280=62 M.L.J. 287 (P.C.).

NOTES.

SCOPE.—What is a right to sue depends on facts of each case. 1925 S. 18. See also 7 P. 584=110 I.C. 526. The income of an estate deposited in Bank drawable by a successful litigant does not properly fall under this clause. 43 M.L.J. 486=46 M. 190. The section is not exhaustive. All contracts capable of specific performance are assignable. 19 M.L.T. 329=33 I.C. 696. Tbe obiect of the clause is to prevent trafficking in litigation. 3 B. 402 ; 12 B. 554. See also 1925 O. 299. Where a person transferred certain properties and all his interest in certain suits relating to the same, it was held that the transferee could maintain a suit to recover mesne profits and that the same was not prohibited by S. 6 (e). 33 C.W.N. 614. Under S. 6 (e) the prohibition is against the transfer of a mere right to sue. The word 'mere' implies that the transferee acquires no interest in the subject of transfer other than the right to sue. Where the party purchased a tank along with a covenant against misfeasance, it was held that what was puchased was not a mere right to sue but a property. 10 Pat.L.T. 191=1929 P. 245. So also where a manager alienates the joint family proper y for himself and his minor brother. the latter has an interest in the property which he is capable of transferring, and hence an alienee from him is entitled to sue. 151 I.C. 1043=36 Bom.L.R. 474=1934 B. 234. What can be assigned is property or right which can be regarded as property capable of being assigned. The right to recover a share of village profits is not a contractual or personal right but a right which arises from ownership of property or ownership of land and is ancillary to the right of property. Whatever doubt there might be as regards the assignment of a mere right to recover past profits no question can arise, when the right is assigned as incidental to the proprietary share itself which is transferred. Such a transferee is entitled to sue for rendition of accounts of the village profits. 1942 N.L.J. 30.

WHAT ARE TRANSFERABLE.—The right to recover moneys found due on taking accounts is transferable. 42 I.C. 390 ; 1925 S. 72: 32 Bom. L.R. 894=1930 B. 409 ; 1926 M. 417=50 M. L.J. 54. Where at the time of the assignment, a liquidated amount had become due to the assignors of the plaintiff, the assignment of a right to recover his debt is more than a mere right to sue for accounts, and it does not therefore offend the provisions of S. 6 (e). 57 M. 1074=1934 M. 461=67 M.L.J. 158. The mere fact that a calculation will have to be made before determining the exact amount does not make that amount any the less a debt due to the assignors validly assignable in law. 57 M. 1074. A right to mesne profits under a decree is assignable. 20 I.C. 685=18 C.W.N. 450; 44 M. 539=40 M. L.J. 204; also 1 Pat.L.J. 427=37 I.C. 998: 113 I.C. 767=1929 A. 63. But see 125 I.C. 468=1930 A. 593. A right to take accounts and to recover such sums as may be found due is not assignable, being a mere right to sue within the meaning of S. 6, Cl. (e), and the assignee is therefore not entitled to maintain a suit for such a purpose. See 1937 Lah. 934. An agent has a right to claim an indemnity from his principal after rendering an account and not before. Consequently, a right to indemnity before rendering an account is a mere right to sue and cannot be assigned. 62 C. 510=39 C.W.N. 606. A right of contribution. 43 M.L.J. 129=1922 M. 397; a right of reconveyance of land 1921 M.W.N. 519. But the assignee of a debt so far as the claim to interest due before the date of assignment is conveyed purchases a mere right to sue which is not transferable. 1934 Oudh 240. A non-permanent tenure created after the passing of the T.P.Act and before the B.T.Act was passed is transferable. 1927 C. 220=103 I.C. 202. Sale by O.A. of properties in the possession of aliences from the insolvent is nothing more than a sale of right to litigate. 1927 P.C. 253=54 M.L.J. 88 (P.C.). Transfer by a beneficiary of his rights under a settlement is not a mere right to sue. 5 R. 145=1927 R. 165. A right of maintenance in a definite sum of money cannot be mere right to sue. It may not be attachable in advance under S. 60 (1) (n), C.P.Code, but that is not sufficient to bring it within S. 6 (e), T.P.Act, for it will, in case of a breach, support a suit for a debt and not for damages. 1936 P.W.N. 395=1936 Pat. 527. See also 1939 Pat. 506; 1938 Cal. 405. Sale of goods sent by Railway which had not reached its destination and about which investigation was proceeding, is not a transfer of a mere right to sue and hence such a sale is not illegal. 1941 A.M.L J. 35.

CASES WHERE THE CLAUSE APPLIES.—A claim to recover an ascertained amount is an actionable claim and can be validly transferred, but a claim for unliquidated damages for breach of contract, after the breach is not an "actionable claim" within the meaning of S. 3 and cannot be transferred because of cl. (e) of S. 6. 1933 A.L.J. 1009=1933 A. 642. A claim for damages for breach of contract after breach cannot be transferred. 86 I.C. 960=1925 L. 548; 106 P.R. 1914=27 I.C. 115; 36 C. 345=13 C.W.N. 384; 1935 N. 135; 1935 N. 2; 36 C. 345; 22 M.L.J. 207; 38 M. 138; 122 I.C. 264=1930 N. 22; also 1925 M. 62=47 M.L.J. 435; 47 B. 719=1923 B. 403; 4 O.L.J. 425=41 I.C. 436; 1935 N. 2. S. 6 (e) is confined in its operation to the transfer of a mere right to sue. Where a vendee was directed by the sale deed to pay part of the consideration to a creditor of the vendor, the relation between the vendor and vendee is that of a debtor and creditor and the money left in the hands of the vendee is a debt which could be transferred. The right to recover this is an actionable claim as defined in S. 3. 1938 A.L.J. 851=1938 All. 544. Where the mortgagor completes his part of the contract by executing a usufructuary mortgage and by putting the mortgage in possession and the mortgagee fails to discharge the consideration, the mortgagor has a transferable claim and his assignee is entitled to sue the mortgagee for the amount. A transfer to a minor is valid. 40 M. 308=31 M.L.J. 575 (F.B.); so also to a person who is not of a sound mind (see Contract Act, S. 11). 44 A. 748=1922 A. 449; also to other persons who are legally disqualified (as) a person whose property is under the Court of Wards, and other disqualified proprietors under special Acts (as) the Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act (1876). 17 C. 223. See also 30 A. "AUTHORIZED TO DISPOSE OF PROPERTY NOT HIS OWN" (as) Guardians under the Guardians and Wards Act; Agents (see 1923 A. 563): Trustees under the Trusts Act and the Trustees and Mortgagees Powers Act: executors and Administrators under the Succession Act; the Administrator-General under the Administrattor-Generals Act; the Official Trustee; Manager of a lunatic's estate; and manager of a joint Hindu family; as to Manager of Malabar Tarwad, see 39 M.L.J. 590. Lease on behalf of minor by his de facto guardians, is not initially void. 1930 L. 772. But see 1931 M. 147=59 M.L.J. 941, holding that a lease by a minor is void and the fact that it is executed by the lessee in favour of the minor lessor and not by the lessor does not cure its invalidity.

Sec. 8.—The object of S 8, is to stabilise title and remove from the region of pure speculation what passed in the mind of the transferor or the transferee at the date of the transfer. Per Mukerji, J.—When S. 8 speaks of transfer of property, it speaks of transfer of some property which may be tangible or intangible but not mere title. But when it speaks of interest it includes title large or small. 27 A.L.J. 620=116 I.C. 1=1929 A. 465 (F.B.). S. 8 is not a canon of construction but a rule relating to the effect of a grant. 1919 M.W.N. 353=52 I.C. 239. As far as po sible, a deed of grant ought to be construed strictly against the grantor. So a mortgage by a person of his rights in the mortgaged property would in the absence of express reservation include all interests of whatever kind possessed by him in the

Where a person conveyed the land as also the past mesne profits to the vendee and the latter did not sue for the profits, the right of action still continues with the transferor and S. 130 is not bar to it. 1927 M. 817=53 M.L.J. 342. On a transfer of the village, all the interests of the transferor in the village, will pass, unless excepted. 1927 O. 240=2 Luck. 43. See also 4 A. 381; 30 C. 556 (1926 O. 358, Rel. on); 1941 O.W.N. 820=1941 Oudh 507; 1941 O.W.N. 618=1941 Oudh 395. TRANSFER TO HINDU WIDOW.—Where a gift deed is executed in favour of a Hindu widow by an adopted son, giving her immovable property belonging to him and in his possession, to be enjoyed by her perpetually and as she liked, the combined operation of S. 122 of the Act, read with S. 8 which would apply to Hindus (after the amendment of the Act in 1929), would give rise to the presumption that the deed confers on the donee the whole of the estate which the donor is capable of transferring. Even in the case of a deed of gift executed before 1929, i.e., before the amendment of the Act, there being no "rule of Hindu law" requiring a transfer in favour of a woman to be treated as a limited transfer, or qualified transfer, the transfer by way of gift must be treated as conferring upon the donee the whole of the interest which the transferor is capable of passing at the date of the deed and hence the donee would take an absolute estate and not merely a qualified or limited estate. 39 Bom.L.R. 1217=1938 Bom. 125

APPLICATION OF THE SECTION.—Under S. 65, C.P.Code, and S. 8, T.P. Act, a purchaser in Court sale is entitled to the property from the date of sale, and not from the date of confirmation thereof. 40 C. 89 (P.C.); 1933 M. 482=145 I.C. 174. The transfer by an executor may be of not only his own interest in the estate but the whole estate. 42 C. 56=41 I.A. 189 =27 M.L.J. 93 (P.C.). See also 40 B. 69=28 I.C. 544. Where immovable property is mortgaged, fixtures as well pass to the mortgagee. 44 I.C. 211=22 C.W.N. 758. As well as all other rights in the land possessed by the mortgagor. 17 I.C. 494=18 C.L.J. 48. The right to the growing crop passes by the sale of the land in the absence of an express provision to the contrary, and in the case of a Court-sale, the right to the possession of the crop accrues from the date of the delivery of possession of the land. [13 M. 15 and 1919 C. 588, Rel. on.] 38 C.W.N. 854=1934 C. 610. A purchaser at an auction-sale is not entitled to crops sown by a stranger before the date of sale. 15 I.C. 619 =16 C.W.N. 1101. Trees and shrubs rooted in the soil will also pass as being attached to the soil. 2 N.W.P. 251; 83 I.C. 479=1924 N. 96; 4 N.L.R. 104. See also 24 A. 294; 13 M. 15; 22 B. 610; also the buildings erected on the land. 2 W.R. 123; 33 C. 556; 44 I.C. 211. On a transfer of land, the property in the bamboo clusters standing on the land also passes to the transferee. 1932 P. 344. The enumeration of words 'locks, keys, bars, etc.,' in S. 8, corresponds to fittings or permanent fixtures to the house. The words 'other things provided, etc.,' do not include a right of access by a staircase when the ownership of the staircase itself is not claimed and the right of way is not an easement of necessity. 1937 N. 179=I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 204. The phrase 'easements annexed thereto' in S. 8 refers to those easements which at and prior to the transfer were existing easements. It does not refer to an easement which first came into existence as a consequence of transfer. 1937 Nag. 179. Doors and windows also pass with the building, they having no separate existence. 11 C. 164. See also 37 C. 815. The English law as to fixtures does not apply to India. Fixture does not include machinery brought into the house for carrying on business. 45 M.L.J. 385=1924 M. 187. Test to determine what are fixtures under the section laid down. See 37 C. 723 (P.C.); 1925 R. 250. As to machinery attached to the soil, see 14 B.L.R. 201; 4 C. 946. Reservation of rights cannot be inferred except from the terms of the document. 37 I.C. 870 (C.); 35 I.C. 262. Not all easements but only those annexed to the property pass with the transfer. 15 A. 270. A mokarari lease by Zamindar does not pass the right to minerals to the tenant. 37 C. 723. See also 33 C. 203 (P.C.). A right of way, not continuous, does not pass: 2 M, 46; unless express words of grant are used. 7 C. 670; 14 C. 797. In August, 1912, one M, a Sunni Mahomedan, executed a deed of sale in respect of two villages in favour of his mother R. He died in September, 1912, and R. made a wakf of both the villages in June, 1913. In December, 1917, by judgment of Court the aforesaid sale was declared to be void with the result that R took nothing by the sale-deed but was entitled as an heir of her son to one-third of the villages. Held, that in determining what passed by the deed of wakf and in order to ascertain R's intention in executing it, the whole transaction had to be looked at and since the sale was declared to be void the waktnama fell with it and was inoperative even to the extent of the third share which R had acquired as her son's heir. Quaere.—Whether S. 8, T.P.Act, had any application to the case. 60 I.A. 116=55 A. 83=64 M.L.J. 514 (P.C.).

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor (except where they are also for other debts or claims not transferred to the transferee), but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer ; and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the transfer takes effect.

Oral transfer.

Condition restraining alienation.

Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property, the condition or limitation is void, except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or

RIGHTS AND COVENANTS RUNNING WITH THE LAND.—A right to build a pucca structure on the land of the Secretary of State for India is a right that will run with the land. 74 I.C. 369 =1923 Oudh 114. A covenant for renewal being a covenant running with the land, where a grantee of land for a term of years transfers his interest, the right of renewal goes with the transfer unless there is an express or implied intention in the document of transfer to the contrary. 9 L.B.R. 263=51 I.C. 360.

Sec. 9.—Before the T. P. Act no written conveyance was necessary. 42 C. 801=42 I. A. 1=28 M.L.J. 548 (P.C.). After the T.P.Act transfer of immovable property cannot be effected in any other manner than that prescribed by this Act. See 24 M. 377. Thus an admission in a petition to the Collector or a mutation of name in the Revenue Register, or delivery of possession cannot operate as a transfer. 21 M. 377. See also 23 A. 175. Admission as to ownership—Whether operates as conveyance. See 12 P. 616=1933 P. 264. As to oral transfer, see 120 I.C. 598=1930 L. 9. Grant of usufruct and not corpus requires no writing. 21 O.C. 360=49 I.C. 406. A surrender of lease need not be in writing, nor registered. 46 I.C. 100=28 C.L.J. 220; 19 I.C. 124; also a surrender of relinquishment by a ryotwari tenant of his holding under the Government. 13 L.W. 230=61 I.C. 852; also partition of joint Hindu family property. 10 C.L.J. 503=25 I.C. 498; 18 I.C. 524; so also a gift of the mere usufruct of land to be enjoyed for life, 49 I.C. 406; a grant for maintenance by husband to wife. 45 M. 612; a transfer effected under a compromise decree. 13 M.L.J. 500. Whether registration is necessary in a case where a deed of gift is executed in lieu of prior services and the donee has been let into possession, see 30 Bom.L.R, 451. There is nothing in the T.P. Act which prohibits a family arrangement from being made by oral agreement; this is clear from the provisions of S. 9, 1935 R. 355.

solute restriction in perpetuity on every sort of alienation for any purpose by a donee of land should not be recognized and enforced. 1924 L. 674; 1935 S. 182. Restraints on alienation imposed by the Legislature are binding on all parties. 13 I.C. 163. See also 15 O.C. 67. Where a deed of transfer at first absolutely transfers property to another, but by a subsequent clause makes the clause subject to a condition restraining the transferee from parting with or disposing of that interest to any person other than the transferor, the condition amounts to an absolute restriction on the right of transfer and so is void. 27 A.L.J. 515=1929 A. 381. The word "absolutely" in S. 10 should be construed in a reasonable manner. Where under a family arrangement a Hindu father in the Punjab governed by the Mitakshara law gave some property to his son stipulating that in respect of a portion of it, the son should not make any transfer during his father's lifetime. Held, that the condition which was sought to be imposed was not absolute, as it extended only to the lifetime of the father after which the son would be free to dispose of the property in any manner he liked and that, therefore it was binding on the son. 155 I.C. 699=1935 L. 503. Restraint on alienation generally or except to a particular person or a special class is void. 27 O.C. 350=1925 O. 125. Gift subject to condition that alienation should be with the donor's consent if valid. 7 R. 306. See also 64 I. C. 408; 63 I.C. 196; 1929 A. 381; 1939 All. 221. A provision in partition deed, by which properties are allotted absolutely to the respective sharees. prohibiting alienation, including mortgage, of the properties allotted in absolute interest to each sharer, except with the consent of the other share, is repugnant and is therefore invalid. 154 I.C. 587=40 L. W. 908=1935 M. 33. Where in a partition deed between the father and his sons in a Hindu family it is provided that certain houses (which had been used as the family residence) should be held by the members of the family as tenants in common, that no member should have the right to dispose of his share to a stranger, that if any of the sons chose not to live in the houses mentioned, "he shall not be at liberty in any manner to let or lease, etc., his undivided share to a stranger to the family but shall do so only to any of his brothers or his heirs for a sum not exeeeding Rs. 1,000" and it is found that the price of Rs. 1,000 fixed is far below the real price of the share and that there is no corresponding obligation on the part of the other members to buy the share of the member wishing to sell, the restriction against the alienation is void. The estate created is a tenancy in common, and the restriction against alienation amounts to an absolute restraint on alienation within the meaning of S. 10, T.P. Act, and therefore must be disregarded as void; the sons take the property as tenants in common without fetter. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 954=1939 Mad. 769=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 345 (F.B.). A condition directing the enjoyment of the usufruct of a gifted property by a third person for life is valid. 11 I.C. 702. See contra 9 I.C. 951=13 Bom.L.R. 141. A general restriction on assignment does not apply to an assignment by operation of law taking effect in invitum, as a sale under an execution. 1924 N. 222; or a sale under the provisions of the insolvency law, 78 I.C. 802=1925 C. 471; or other involuntary alienations, (Ibid.); or compulsory sale by creditors. 17 C.W.N. 662=17 I C. 284. Where a compromise decree said that a party thereto and his heirs shall have no power to alienate or encumber the property by gift, mortgage or sale, held, that there was no provision in the compromise restraining sale in execution of a decree and there was nothing to prevent the property from being attached and sold. 99 I.C. 972=1926 S. 143 (1). See also 1924 L. 729; 3 A.L.J. 621; 25 O.C. 189=1922 O. 236; 47 B. 597; 24 Bom.L.R. 449=1922 B. 84. A compromise in a suit provided that B was to hold a certain property for his life and had no right to transfer it except for necessity and if his other property proved insufficient. There was also a provision that if B died without leaving any heirs of his body or legal widow, then the plaintiff would become owner and the other heirs of B would have no right to succeed. Held, (1) that it was the principle of English law that where an estate was created for life, for a man and afterwards to the heirs of his body then that would give him an absolute estate, and that there was nothing in the T. P. Act, which recognised that there could be any remainder left over after the creation of such an estate, and that, therefore, the estate which the compromise purported to set up was not an estate in which the plaintiff could claim to have any interest to restrain alienation; (2) and that the restraint on alienation by B would fail as it offended against S. 10 and amounted to an absolute restraint. 1937 A.L.J. 84=1937 A. 235 =168 I.C. 142.

APPLICABILITY TO CASES UNDER MAHOMEDAN LAW.—S. 10 does not apply to cases under the Mahomedan Law nor does it apply to family settlements which are not transfers. Where the Act itself is inapplicable the Court cannot apply the principles underlying the Act except in so far as they are general principles of law. 6 O.W.N. 169=1929 O. 193.

GIFT UNDER MAHOMEDAN LAW.—Where a gift is made subject to a condition restraining transfer, the condition is invalid and the donee takes an absolute estate under the Mahomedan law. 20 A.L.J. 466=44 A. 633=1922 A. 205. See also 85 I.C. 945=1925 M. 997; 6 M.H.C.R. 248. By an ante-nuptial agreement, the husband gave certain immovable properties to the wife as malik mustaqil (i.e., as permanent proprietor), but with the condition superadded that she "shall not have power to transfer this property to a stranger; but the ownership thereof as family property shall devolve on her legal heirs, from generation to generation". Held, that on the construction of the document, the wife took only a life-estate and that the partial restriction imposed by it against alienations outside the family was not void for repugnancy. 7 Luck. 257 =59 I.A. 236=1932 P.C. 158=63 M.L.J. 180 (P.C.).

MALABAR LAW.—Section applies to properties allotted to Tavazhis in a Malabar Tarwad and restraint on their alienation is void. 86 I.

those claiming under him : Provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindu Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

11. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed by him in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

HINDU LAW.—There is no rule of Hindu Law that alienatiens may be prevented in the case of grants for maintenance and under S. 10 of the Act a restraint on alienation in the case of such grants is void. 38 M. 867=29 M.L.J. 617. See also 6 M.H.C.R. 248. A life interest is just as much preperty as an absolute interest and any condition absolutely restraining the transferee of property for life in lieu of maintenance from disposing of that property is void. 29 I.C. 251 (C).

RESTRAINT ON ALIENATION IN MORTGAGE DEEDS.—Restraint upon alienation in mortgage bonds does not prevent alienation subject to mortgagee's rights. 40 I.C 865 (C.).

RESTRAINT ON ALIENATION IN SALE DEEDS.—Where a deed of sale absolutely transferred property to another but by an agreement to recover forming part of the same transaction, the purchaser was restrained from alienating the same, the restriction on alienation is void, under the principle of S. 10, although the Act itself was not in force at the time of the contract, 33 Bom.L.R. 1296=1931 B. 578.

CASES OF LEASE.—There may be a restraint on alienation in a lease-deed which is for the benefit of the lessor. See 6 M. 159; 7 B. 256; 34 C. 516; 28 I.C. 904. A stipulation in a darpatni lease restraining the creation of a subordinate right is valid. 45 C. 940=46 I.C. 129. A condition in a lease-deed for pre-emption and pre-surrender is valid under S. 10 and can be enforced against transferee with notice. 9 M L.T. 484=9 I.C. 171. Condition that the lessee should not transfer the leased property, without a letter from the lessor, is not void. 36 C. 745=10 C.L.J. 49=2 I.C. 416. See also 6 M. 159; 34 I.C. 516; 17 C. 826. Partial restraint on alienation qualified as to time, place etc., may be valid and binding. 11 I.C. 301=14 C.L.J. 303. See also 45 C. 940. The vendee of a house covenanted to live in the house himself, not to sell it piecemeal and if he wanted to sell it to give the option of first refusal to the vendor and his heirs at a certain fixed price. Held, the covenant was not void for remoteness or as a restraint on alienation. 80 I.C. 962=17 S.L.R. 1. A condition against transfer to a stranger by way of mortgage, sale or transfer otherwise would be invalid. 46 C. 163. See also 27 O.C. 350=80 I.C. 918=1925 O. 125; 64 I.C. 408=19 A.L.J. 848; 1929 A. 381=27 A.L.J. 515; 1935 A.L.J. 410=1935 A. 493. Secs. 10 and 126: IF RECONCILABLE.—Where by a deed of gift the donor removes himself from proprietary possession of property and puts the donee in possession, he confers full proprietary title upon the donee in respect of the property transferred. Where the donor reserves to himself and his heirs the power to revoke the gift in case of alienation by the donee it is a condition repugnant to the estate created by him. Though under S. 126 of the Act the donor is permitted to impose a condition and entitling him to revoke the gift, yet it could be only a condition and subject to the law of conditions in regard to the transfer of property contained in Ch. II of the T.P.Act. As such, if it restricts the donee's right of alienation it is invalid by reason of S. 10 of the T. P. Act. There is no difficulty in reconciling Ss. 10 and 126 of the Act. S. 10 embodies the general principle and it applies to all transfers including gifts. S. 126 of the T.P.Act, could not be contended to be an absolute exception to S. 10. I.L.R. 1939 All. 298=1939 A.L.J. 77=1939 All. 221.

Sec. 11. CHANGE IN THE PRESENT SECTION AND REASON FOR THE CHANGE.—"Ss. 11 and 40 of the Act refer to affirmative and negative covenants in a transfer. S. 11 refers to rights as between a transferor and transferee, while S. 40 relates to the rights of third parties against transferees. The words 'to compel its enjoyment', used in the second paragraph of S. 11 and in the first paragraph of S. 40, indicate that affirmative covenants for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of the property of which the other piece has been transferred can in all cases be enforced. This paragraph seems to have been based on the observations of Lord Cottenham in 2 Ph. 774, a case decided in 1848. But in later English decisions such as 8 Q.B.D. 403, the observations in Tulk's case were not approved, and it is now settled that except in certain special cases affirmative covenants cannot be specifically enforced. Thus, in (1885) 29 Ch. D. 750, a covenant to spend money on the land was held as not binding on the purchaser of the land, although he had notice of the same. Indian Courts have followed the same principle. 27 Bom.L.R. 73. We propose that the second paragraph of S. 11 and the first paragraph of S. 40 should be so amended as to make it clear that, although an affirmative covenant is not by itself invalid as between a transferor and transferee (S. 11), negative or restrictive covenants only can be specifically enforced against a third person (S. 40)".—(Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CASE-LAW.—The principle of this section applies as much to mortgages and leases as to gifts or sale. 8 A. 452. See also 24 C. 44. Such absolute restraints even in decrees of Settlement Courts are not given effect to. 25 I.C. 743. In a transfer where a condition may be given effect to without interfering with its immediate completeness, the condition is valid. 45 I.C. 307. Obligation arising out of restrictive covenant may be enforced against transferee with notice. 1929 P. 349. The principle of this section is recognized in Hindu as well as Mahomedan Law. 4 Bom. L.R. 555 (Hindu Law); 9 A.L.J. 798; 27 C.L.J. 512 (Mahomedan Law). Where an absolute estate is conferred on the grantee, a condition requiring the grantee to reside at a particular place is of no binding effect. 58 I.A. 270=61 M.L.J. 501=35 C.W.N. 903 (P.C.). A partial restraint on alienation also is void as repugnant to the absolute estate created. 61 M.L.J. 501 (P.C.). Where a grant which conferred an absolute estate on the grantee contained a condition that the property should not in any case pass to the heirs of the daughters of the grantee, held, it was an attempt to alter the legal course of succession to an absolute estate and was therefore void. 61 M.L.J. 501 (P.C.).

PARTITION AGREEMENTS.—An agreement among members of a joint family that they are only to enjoy the income does not estop them from claiming a partition. 27 I.C. 3. See also 6 C. 106; 1 C. 104; 28 A. 185; 31 A. 3 (right of a co-sharer for partition is an inseparable incident of co-ownership; and an agreement against partition is absolutely void); 7 B. 538. A partition agreement that in the event of one of the brothers dying issueless, his share is to go to the others is not void. 29 M.L.J. 214=29 I.C. 549. The rule laid down in S. 11 embodies principles of universal application which are not peculiar to those provinces only in which that statute is in force. Against parties not actually covenanting, such as the descendants or assigns of original contracting parties, a restriction against partition is void and unenforceable though it may be competent to the original parties to agreement to contract themselves out of their right to partition for their lifetime.—(Per Tekchand, J.). 1929 L. 648.

GIFTS.—Where in an absolute gift of a house the donee was not to abandon the house and go to another place, the restriction was void. 56 I.C. 364=44 B. 304. In Mahomedan Law a gift is valid though an invalid condition is attached to it. 22 C.W.N. 512=27 C.L.J. 502. Conditions imposed in a sale of a site of certain shops restricting the making of alterations in the shops by the vendee are void being in contravention of the provisions of S. 11. 40 P.L.R. 209=1938 L. 479. While the Court construing a document must examine the entire instrument in order to see what its effect is, the examination must be carried out in the light of S. 11, T. P. Act, when the instrument is one transferring immovable property. If the examination discloses that the transferor has used words creating an absolute interest, those words must be given effect to, notwithstanding that later words are used which restrict the right of full ownership. 49 L.W. 591=1939 M. 509=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 579. Where a portion of the arrears of maintenance due under a decree providing for payment of a certain amount every month and charging immovable properties for payment of the said amount is transferred by the holder of the decree in favour of another, the transferor is entitled to safeguard his rights in regard to the realisation of the rest of the arrears still due to him, and to stipulate that the assignee should not have the right to bring the charged property to sale. Such a restriction can be validly imposed, and would be covered by the proviso to S. 11. 49 L.W. 172=1939 M. 431. Absolute sale of land—Deed containing a stipulation that the vendee should pay the vendor and his heirs a certain amount as rent non-enforceability of the term. 13 Luck. 662=1938 O. 17=1937 O.W.N. 1138.

Sec. 12.—There is nothing contrary to the provisions of S. 12 in the rules of the Bombay N. S. and S. B. Association providing that, as and upon the declaration of default, the defaulting member's right and interest in the Association (whether in respect of his card of membership or otherwise) shall be extinguished and come to an end. 59 I.A. 318=56 B. 374=34 Bom.L.R. 1178. There would be no forfeiture of lease for involuntary alienation, unless that too was specifically provided for in the lease. 7 any interest therein, reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person, to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Transfer for benefit of unborn person.

13. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B, in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and, after the death of the survivor, for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for A's second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Rule against perpetuity.

14. No transfer of property can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the lifetime of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Sec. 14: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—Section applies both to immovable and movable property. 20 B. 511. The rule against perpetuities is applicable only to future interest in land which may possibly vest beyond the legal limit of perpetuity. 36 C. 675=1 I.C. 626. Where the settlor directed that after the death of the tenant for life and after making provision out of the trust fund for the payment of a monthly allowance to the widow for life the trustee was to hold the rest of the trust estate for the use and benefit of his son or sons to be made over to him or them on the attainment of 21 years. Held, that the language of the deed pointed to an immediate vesting of the interest disposed of. Held further, that if the disposition was not covered by S. 19 it was contingent and the vesting in interest being postponed to a period longer than that permitted under S. 14, it was invalid. 58 C. 768=134 I.C. 436. A person cannot change the rule of succession under the colour of fictitious endowment. 1 O.L.J. 204=24 I.C. 72. As to creating a series of life estates in favour of persons unborn, see 6 O.W.N. 549. One S gave away property to R for life, and after her death if there be any male descendants, whether born of son or daughter to them absolutely. If R would have only daughters they were to have no power of transfer. In the absence of any issue whether male or female, living at the time of her death, the gifted property was not in any way to devolve upon her husband or his family, but it was to go to D, father of R. Held, that the gift in favour of D was dependent upon the failure of the prior interest in favour of the daughters and the result was that the gift in favour of D also failed. (16 B. 492, Dist.) 9 Luck. 329=1934 O. 35 (F.B.). A gift over on indefinite failure of male issue in the line of donor is void at its inception. 38 C. 603=15 C.W.N. 693=21 M.L.J. 1119 (P.C.). A grant executed by a Rajah in favour of his daughter conferred an absolute estate on her and contained a defeasance clause which provided that if the heirs of the grantee, that is, her sons, their male descendants and her daughters ceased to exist, the property should revert to the Rajah and his heirs. Held, the event referred to was an indefinite failure of the male issue of the grantee and the attempted gift over, was therefore void. 58 I.A. 270=61 M.L.J. 501=35 C.W.N. 903. children. S. 14 of the T. P. Act has no application. If the creation of the charge was a transfer of property; that transfer took place when the partition deed was executed. The charge was immediately created then and was to be inherited by his widow and children. Even if it be regarded as a transfer for life to that person followed by a transfer to his wife and children the latter would obviously be alive at his death or within a few months thereafter. 1942 A.W.R. (H.C.) 170. The rule applies even to Muhammadans. 73 I.C. 99; 26 B. 319; but not to a gift to a Malabar Tarwad. 39 M. 317=29 M.L.J. 481. The mortgagor's right of redemption is exempt from the operation of the rule against perpetuities. 17 C.W.N. 1053=21 I.C. 90. When the intention of the parties is to create a liability in perpetuity not capable of being redeemed absolutely at any time, the transaction cannot possibly be a mortgage. An agreement to pay maintenance allowance to a person and to continue to pay to his descendants from generation to generation making it a charge over property, creates a charge and not a mortgage. The rule against perpetuity would not apply to a charge of this kind which does not amount to a transfer of interest within the meaning of Ss. 13 and 14. [19 I.C. 661 and 42 M. 581 (P.C.) Rel. on] 1933 A. 934.

APPLICATION OF THE RULE.—The test whether a covenant violates the rule against perpetuities, one must look to all possible contingencies. 63 I.C. 196=25 C.W.N. 901; 9 Pat. L.T. 747=1928 P. 637; 1926 A. 283. Application of the rule against perpetuities in the creation of an annuity to daughter and to her unborn son. See 50 C. 266=1923 C. 27. A covenant to grant land free of cost for building purposes at some future uncertain date is not a covenant running with the land and offends the rule against perpetuities and is not enforceable against the covenantor or his assignees. 48 I.A. 376=61 I.C. 702=25 C.W.N. 770 (P.C.); also 1 Pat L.J. 238=34 I.C. 482.

APPLICATION OF THE RULE AGAINST PERPETUITIES: (1) TO SALES.—An agreement to sell or re-convey land is an agreement merely personal not creating an interest in land. Such an agreement does not offend the rule. 39 M. 462=28 M.L.J. 471. See also 18 M.L.T. 83=29 I.C. 435; 1935 C. 779. An agreement to re-convey land sold to the vendor after a certain number of years on payment of a certain amount does not offend the rule. 49 M. 387=51 M.L.J. 229. See 1928 B. 477; 28 Bom. L.R. 954=50 B. 566=1926 B. 497. See also 1934 M. 703=67 M.L.J. 635. Vendor can reserve inalienable interest for himself and his descendants reverting to vendee in the absence of vendor's descendants. 82 I.C. 326=1925 A. 65. See contra 92 I.C. 401=1926 A. 283. Transfer to vendee to take effect after extinction of the descendants of the vendor not valid. 1926 A. 283=92 I.C. 401.

(2) TO PRE-EMPTION CLAUSES IN SALE-DEEDS.—Contract of pre-emption does not offend against rule against perpetuities, no transfer of property being effected by such a contract. 49 A. 527=25 A.L.J. 289=1927 A. 170 (F.B.). See also 46 A. 333=1924 A. 400; 39 C.W.N. 710; 9 Pat. The rule against perpetuities applies to covenant for pre-emption. Such a covenant in a deed of exchange made binding upon the heirs and legal representatives of a party offends the rule against perpetuities and is not enforceable in law. 46 C.W.N. 147. When no time is fixed for the performance of an agreement to convey, a contract for pre-emption cannot be enforced against the heirs of the covenantor, as being obnoxious to the rule against perpetuities. 33 M. 114=24 M.L.J. 84.

(3) LEASES.—A clause entitling the lessor to terminate the lease at any time contained in a lease which is described as permanant, does not offend against the rule. 48 M.L.J. 463=1925 M. 732. See also 98 I.C. 46=1927 C. 41; 18 M.L.T. 83=29 I.C. 435. A covenant for renewal in a mining lease does not offend the rule against perpetuity. 12 L.W. 670=60 I.C. 591. See also 44 M. 230. A clause in a lease providing that the lease should be forfeited in certain circumstances is not against the rule of perpetuities. 7 I.C. 346 (C). A covenant to renew a lease from time to time at the lessee's option, is one running with the land and is not subject to any rule against perpetuity. 41 M.L.J. 94=44 M. 230=60 I.C. 591. A covenant by a permanent lessee that in case of transfer of his interest it would be made only to lessor for a proper price, and to third parties only with the lessor's permission, and that any transfer in violation of this covenant should be invalid, would be invalid under this section. 26 C.W.N. 874=1922 C. 474.

Secs. 14. 16, 17 and 18.—Applicability—Invalidity of part of gifts under, not fatal to the other valid dispositions. See 64 I.A. 5=1937 P.C. 4=(1) 1937 1 M.L.J. 166 (P.C.)=I.L.R. (1937) All. 3.

Sec. 15: CHANGE IN THE PRESENT SECTION AND REASON FOR THE CHANGE.—(See Statement o Objects and Reasons.) S. 15 deals with a gift to a class. It reproduces with slight verbal alterations the provisions of S. 102 of the Indian Succession Act, 1865 (now S. 115 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925), which was enacted on the principle of the decision in (1817) 2 Mer. 363. See 38 C. 468=38 I.A. 54=21 M.L.J. 387 (P.C.) See also 6 C. 267. Sec. 17: CHANGE IN THE PRESENT SECTIONS AND REASON FOR THE CHANGE.—(See Statement of Objects and Reasons and Report of Select Committee.)

CASE-LAW.—Hindu law does not discountenance directions to accumulate. 6 M.I.A. 526; 25 C. 162; 24 C. 589; 34 C. 5. If a charitable gift is unconditional, a direction for accumulation is invalid. 33 I.C. 102=23 C.L.J. 241. But the only result is that the income is immediately distributed in charity, and the heirs or next of-kin are not let in. 33 I.C. 102 (105)= 23 C.L.J. 241.

(N.B.—But see now S. 18, infra.) Where under a contingency not contemplated by the transferor, there would be an acoumulation without any definite object, the transfer is contrary to the section. The following directions for accumulation are not invalid under this section;—Direction in Hindu will to accumulate income until a boy to be adopted attains 16 years of age or majority. 4 Bom. L.R. 893; a direction to accumulate surplus income until it amounts to a certain sum and then spend it is charity or feeding the poor; 34 C. 5; a testamentary direction to accumulate a fund for marriage of the testator's daughter or son. 15 C.W.N. 66. A direction to accumulate for all time, or for 99 years or until a huge sum is accumulated is bad. 4 B.L.R. (O.C.) 231; 2 B.L.R. (O.C.) 11. Where a widow was given a life-estate over some property and was also directed to accumulate the surplus income, to go with the estate to her sons after her, the direction is not invalid. 56 I.C. 373=47 C. 76. 19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that, if a particular event shall happen, the interest shall pass to another person.

With regard to S. 19 the burden of proving the contrary intention is on those who assert it and the weight of the burden is aggravated by the elimination in the explanation of circumstances which might apart from the explanation, be thought sufficient to discharge it. In a suit by the reversioners disputing the genuineness of a will whereby the properties of the last male owner were bequeathed to his widow, mother, etc., a compromise was arrived at whereby some of the properties were to be taken by the plaintiffs on the death of the mother, the rights secured to the two reversioners by the compromise became a vested interest and it did not pass from one to the other by survivorship but was heritable and divisible between the two donees. 8 L.W. 140=47 I.C. 723. Where by a compromise between two brothers the elder was given a life-estate and the younger was given the remainder if he survived the former, the estate taken by the latter is a vested and not a contingent interest. 20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

When unborn person acquires vested interest on transfer for his benefit.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified undertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where, under a transfer of property, a person becomes entitled to an interest therein upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

property and died during the life-time of the widow. The reversioner brought a suit for possession of the property. Held, that the case really came within the principle of S. 24 and not S. 19, and that the interest in favour of B was contingent and not vested and came to an end on his death during the lifetime of the widow. The sale made by him during the widow's life-time therefore would not affect the reversioner's right over the property after the death of the widow. 1937 P. 247=168 I.C. 605.

It is doubtful if it would still be good law in view of the new amendment of S. 2 (last para.), supra, in which the exceptions contained in the old section in favour of the rules of Hindu and Buddhist laws have been removed.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property, and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy.

(b) A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter. C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c) A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

(d) A transfers Rs. 500 to his niece C if she will desert her husband. The transfer is void.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a trasnsfer of property impose a condition to be fulfiled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled ir it has been substantially complied with.

(b) A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior disposition.

27. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction, an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another, if the prior disposition under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

But, where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

To determine the true construction of a deed of settlement, regard must be had to the object and the whole scope of the instrument and the deed must be viewed, if necessary, by reference to surrounding circumstances. 32 C.L.J. 453.

IMMORALITY.—A gift for an immoral consideration is void. 47 A. 619=1925 A. 437 ; but a gift to which an immoral condition is subsequently attached is good. The gift is valid and the condition void. 88 I.C. 411=1925 A. 437 =47 A. 612 ; 6 A. 313.

IMPOSSIBILITY.—Mere difficulty in the performance of the condition is not to be deemed an impossibility under this section. (Shep. & Brown, T. P. Act.)

(b) A transfers property to his wife; but, in case she should die in his lifetime, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest therein may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen such interest shall pass to another person, or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections 10, 12, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 27.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

The failure contemplated by S. 27 of the Transfer of Property Act and S. 129 of the Succession Act is the failure of a valid gift. Where the gift is ab initio void the subsequent gifts must also fail as provided by S. 16, T. P. Act, and S. 116, Succession Act. 44 Bom.L.R. 256. Sec. 28: N.B.—Cf. S. 131, Succession Act, 1925.

CONSTRUCTION OF SECTION—"INTEREST"—MEANING OF.—The word "interest" in S. 28, T. P. Act, has the same meaning as the "thing bequeathed" in S. 131 of the Succession Act. 156 I.C. 33=16 Pat.L.T. 245. It is a well-settled principle of law which has now been embodied in Ss. 28 and 30 of the Act that, in the case of a condition subsequent "if the ulterior disposition is not valid the prior disposition is not affected by it". 55 I.A. 180=50 A. 375=55 M.L.J. 42 (P.C.). For form of contingent limitation, see 4 C. 304. There is no forfeiture of interest if the condition cannot be fulfilled because of duress. 20 C. 15. On this section, see also 39 M.L.J. 498=60 I.C. 802. Gift of absolute estate by Hindu widow to daughters—Malik—Later provision that on death of any daughter issueless others should take—Effect of—Construction of gift deed. 156 I.C. 33=16 Pat.L.T. 245. The principle that an estate once vested cannot be divested is not recognized as a general rule even in the Hindu Law of Succession. Hence a clause of defeasance in a deed of partition among the Hindus, that if a particular event shall happen the interest of a particular person shall pass to another is not repugnant to any principle of Hindu Law. (N.B.—The question discussed in this case is not now of much practical importance in view of the recent amendment of S. 2 by Act XX of 1929).

Secs. 23 and 31: RELATIVE SCOPE AND EFFECT OF.—S. 28 deals with a case in which on the happening of a specified uncertain event the property transferred is to pass to a second donee, whereas S. 31 refers to a mere cesser of the first donee's interest on the happening of a specified uncertain event, in which case the property will in ordinary cases revert to the donor. 156 I.C. 33=16 Pat.L.T. 245.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of sections 12, on a transfer of property, an interest therein may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a) A transfers a farm to B, for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b) A transfers a farm to B provided that if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. B does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Such condition must not be invalid.

32. In order that a condition that an interest shall cease to exist may be valid, it is necessary that the event to which it relates be one which could legally constitute the condition of the creation of an interest.

Transfer conditional on performance of act no time being specified for performance.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, au interest therein is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the act.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

34. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer of property is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall, as against him, be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But, if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then, if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall , as against him, be deemed to have been uflfilled.

Election.

Election when necessary.

35. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and, as part of the same transaction, confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer, or to dissent from it; and in the latter

Sec. 31.—Cf. S. 134, Succession Act, 1925. A condition subsequent by way of defeasance that any interest created shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, can be valid. It does not follow that because the law allows such a condition being imposed, the Court is bound to enforce it in every case. 1933 O. 291=10 O.W.N. 759.

GIFT OVER.—In Indian law, the gift over corresponds with the terms of S. 31 of the T. P. Act and the condition superadded to a transfer of property that the interest should cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen or in a case a certain specified event shall not happen. Where there has been no defeasance, the gift over cannot come into operation and there can be no defeasance unless some event arises which makes it impossible for the absolute title to continue. 109 I.C. 835=1928 O. 67. See also 39 M.L.J. 498=60 I.C. 802; 24 C. 646.

The farm of Sultanpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift, professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1 000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

A person who, in his own capacity, takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

607 (P.C.). A debtor executed a settlemen- conveying his property to a trustee with direct tions as to payment of debts, maintenance, etc. A suit by a creditor attacking this deed of settlement was compromised and the trustee executed two mortgages to the creditor in respect of his pre-settlement debts and certain other loans. An heir of the settlor brought a suit to set aside these mortgages as being invalid against settled estate. It was decreed. Thereupon the creditor brought the suit on the original bonds and it was held that no question of election could arise as between these securities even on the footing that the later mortgages were valid, as by express agreement, the original hypothecation bonds and the invalid mortgages were to be cumulative and independent securities. Still less can it arise after the mortgages had been set aside. I.L.R. (1938) M. 646=42 C.W.N. 565= 47 L.W. 618=1938 P.C. 123=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 597 (P.C.). The doctrine of election is based on the principle of compensation and not of forfeiture. The quantum of compensation is not what the Court looks to. It only sees that a party deprived of a right vesting in him is recompensed by the gift of another property, whatever may be its nature or duration of enjoyment. He who accepts a benefit under a deed or a will must adopt the whole contents of the instrument conforming to all its provisions and renouncing every right inconsistent with it. The rule enunciated in S. 35 applies to Hindus. 36 M.L.J. 507=49 I.C. 527. See also 12 M.I.A. 186; 10 M.I.A. 340; 20 B. 316; 25 M. 361; 14 B. 438. such owner claim the property, he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

36. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

NOTES.

Sec. 36: APPORTIONMENT OF RENT—PRINCIPLE OF.—The general principle of apportionment which is one of equity is that all rents, annuities, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall be deemed to accrue from day to day. This principle underlies the provision of S. 36. 101 I.C. 91=1927 Oudh 605. See also 1928 R. 26; 28 C.W.N. 1039=1924 C. 1069. In a suit by the plaintiffs as heirs of a deceased holder of an impartible estate against an executor de son tort, the plaintiffs are entitled to such rents and royalties due up to the date of the death of the deceased holder. S. 36 of the T. P. Act embodies a rule of equity and that principle should be applied to a case of this nature even though the section in its terms be not applicable having regard to S. 2, sub-S. (d). 61 C. 711. See also 1937 M. 219=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 77. The section applies to transfers by act of parties and not by operation of law as execution sales. 21 C. 386; 33 C. 786. See also 41 M. 370=33 M. L.J. 618; 39 M. 283. But see 26 M. 540 (contra); also 4 M. 370. Nor to compromise decrees. 16 P. 184=18 Pat. L.T. 162=1937 P. 237. Where there are equities in favour of a bona fide purchaser the principle of this section regarding apportionment of rent should be applied. 105 I.C. 487=6 Bur. L.J. 207.

Agricultural rents are not apportionable, for they accrue once and for all at the time the crops are reaped and do not accrue from day to day. 5 R. 803=1928 R. 67 (2). See also 21 C. 383; 64 I.C. 178. The section does not apply to landlord and tenant. It applies only between a transferor and transferee. 24 W. R. 219. The principle of S. 36 would also apply to the case of an assignee of a lessee claiming apportionment of rent. If the assignment be of a portion only of the premises included in a lease, the assignee is not liable for more than the proportionate rent due on what is comprised in his assignment. Where the principle of apportionment has become an incident of the tenancy by the course of dealing for a long period, an assignee is entitled to ask for apportionment of rent. 50 L.W. 608=1940 Mad. 21. See also 16 Pat. 184=1937 Pat. 237=18 Pat. L.T. 162. Transferee is entitled to rent from the date of his purchase to the date when the rent falls due. 102 I.C. 144. An assignee of a lease is liable only for the rent accruing after the assignment. 38 M. 86=23 M.L.J. 695. Section if applies to execution sales of lease. 41 M. 370=33 M.L.J. 618. See also 39 M. 283; 33 C. 786; 21 C. 383.

Apportionment of benefit of obligation on severance.

37. When, in consequence of a transfer, property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed, and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation ; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose :

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Nothing in this section applies to leases for agricultural purposes unless and until the Provincial Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, so directs.

Where any person, authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immovable property, transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Sec. 39: CHANGE IN THE PRESENT SECTION AND REASON FOR THE CHANGE.—This is explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons as follows:—"S. 39 is intended to protect persons who are entitled to receive maintenance or for whom provision is made for advancement or marriage from the profits of any immovable preperty. The section provides that such a right can be enforced against a transferee of the property, if the transfer has been made with the intention of defeating the right and the transferee has notice of the intention. The Courts have, therefore, always required proof of the intention on the part of the transferor and also of notice of the intention to the transferee. 22 A. 326; 24 A. 160. The illustration to the section is not consistent with the section itself and does not make any reference to the intention of the transferor. In actual practice it is impossible to adduce proof of mere intention. As stated in 12 Bom.L.R. 1075 at pp. 1077 and 1078, in order to enable such proof to be adduced, a transferor must have announced his fraudulent intention of defeating the rights of persons entitled to maintenance and the transferee must have heard him doing so. As it is desirable to protect persons entitled to maintenance or for whom provision for advancement has been made from improvident holders of the property, it is necessary that the reference to the transferor's intention should be omitted from the section, and the section should be amended accordingly." 53 L.W. 744 =1941 Mad. 707=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 815 (within S. 39 as amended has retrospective effect).

The Select Committee said : "We have thought it desirable to omit the Illustration to S. 39 instead of amending it." S. 39 does not in terms apply to the case of a charge created or declared by a decree of Court in a suit for maintenance. Such a charge created by a decree binds and is enforceable a subsequent transferee even though he may be a bona fide transferee for value without notice. 160 I.C. 169=19 N.L.J. 254.

Secs. 39 and 100: DISTINCTION BETWEEN.—S. 39 of the Transfer of Property Act does not deal with a charge but with a right which falls short of it, while S. 100 deals with charge itself. In the former case the charge does not arise until it is fixed by a decree or by agreement or operation of law. 1940 N.L.J. 1=1940 Nag. 163=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 513.

Secs. 39 and 40 : SCOPE.—A transferee claiming under a transfer before 1929, cannot by reason of the amendment of the T. P. Act, in 1929, be required to do more than he was required to do by the law as it stood when the property was transferred to him. Nor can a mere omission to make inquiries be regarded as sufficient to constitute "notice" within the meaning of Ss. 3 and 39, T. P. Act. The abstention from inquiry must be designed, and due to a desire to avoid an inquiry which would lead one to ultimate knowledge before the omission to make inquiry can be said to constitute constructive notice. 53 L.W. 744=1941 M. 707=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 815. Ss. 39 and 40 have no application where under an award, immovable property is charged for payment of religious expenses and maintenance. They deal with personal rights which do not arise out of a specific charge. 5 Luck. 172=1929 O. 316. See 9 C. 335 ; 27 M. 268 ; 6 O.W.N. 493 ; 2 B. 494 ; 22 A. 326. The right of maintenance of the wife is not a charge on the husband's estate. Where property is transferred with the intention of defeating her right the case is governed by S. 38. 8 O.W.N. 1291. Where a Hindu husband who was on cordial terms with his wife, made a gift of his property to his wife in order to provide for her maintenance, held, that the wife was not a creditor and that the transfer in her favour could not take effect as against the claims of the husband's creditors. (Ibid.) Junior members in an impartible estate are not entitled to a charge for maintenance against a transferee. 48 I.C. 613=3 P.L.J. 648. BONA FIDE PURCHASER.—In order to affect a bona fide purchaser for value with notice, he must have notice not only of the existence of the right of maintenance but also of the existence of a charge actually created and binding on the estate. 26 S.L.R. 269. See also 40 L.W. 678. Where the plaintiff was only entitled to a right to receive part of his maintenance from the profits of a village by a contract with the owner which, being unregistered, created no charge for the same, the right cannot be enforced against a subsequent transferee for value without notice. 9 O.W.N. 1037. S. 39 does not in terms apply to the case of a charge created or declared by a decree of Court in a suit for maintenance. Such a charge created by a decree binds and is enforceable against a subsequent transferee even though he may be a bona fide transferee for value without notice. 19 N.L.J. 254. The holder of a decree for arrears of maintenance charged upon certain properties is entitled to enforce the same against the transferee of the properties for value with notice of the charge, even though the transferee purchased only a part of the estate. If he is obliged to satisfy the full amount of the charge, his only remedy is a suit for contribution against the owners of the remaining portion of the estate. 9 O.W.N. 900=1932 O. 336.

Sec. 40 : SCOPE.—On the section, see also notes under S. 11, supra. See also 5 Luck. 172, cited under S. 39. This section deals with what are known in English law as restrictive covenants. 11 M.L.J. 135. See also 46 A. 333. A person in whom there is a reversion in property leased after the expiration of the term of 499 years is said to possess his own immovable property and where for the more beneficial enjoyment of the reversion a negative stipulation is made, the principle of S. 40 should be applied. 64 C.L.J. 308=1936 C. 727=41 C.W.N. 203. A covenant running with the land is a restrictive covenant as the same restricts the use of the land. 1927 C. 41=44 C.L.J. 220. Enforcement of a contract of pre-emption against transferee with notice. 48 A. 12=1926 A. 72. The section does not apply where the benefit or obligation arising out of contract or annexed to ownership of immovable property amounts to an easement. 39 I.C. 778=48 P.W.R. 1917 ; 129 I.C. 717=1931 A. 207. (See para. 2 of the section) ; nor to a mere personal obligation to pay. 133 I.C. 543 =1931 A.L.J. 429. Covenant as to rent runs with the land. 62 C. 346=1935 C. 368. Where an ekrarnama provided that in the event of the executant not paying the allowance fixed for maintenance, the obligee was to have liberty to proceed against the properties relinquished by her and in case she was unable to realise the arrears from those properties, she might have recourse to the other properties of the obligor, no particular or specific property having been mentioned as liable for the claim, the deed cannot be construed as creating a charge, but only an obligation arising out of a contract annexed to the ownership of immovable property which, however, cannot be enforced against a bona fide purchaser without notice. 138 I.C. 24=36 C. W.N. 153. Vague references to antecedent contracts, in judicial sales, could not affect the purchaser's rights. 1922 P.C. 393. The right of reconveyance of a right of easement granted in perpetuity is a positive covenant arising out of contract and can be completely dissociated from the land itself as a right of reconveyance in respect of land sold. There is nothing which can fasten this condition on the land itself so as to make it a covenant running with the land ; it is a personal covenant independent of the land. Hence a vendee from the grantor cannot without an assignment of the right to sue for specific performance of the condition of repurchase. 1942 N.L.J. 392.

EXECUTION SALE.—"Transferee" means not only a private purchaser but also one in execution. 38 I.C. 107=5 L.W. 234. See also 6 O. W.N. 493 ; 45 M.L.J. 790=1922 P.C. 393 (P. C.). Subsequent attachment does not affect the right of vendee under a prior agreement of sale. 41 L.W. 739=1935 M. 193=68 M L.J. 67.

REVENUE SALE.—A revenue sale held on the footing that the defendant was bound to pay assessment would be invalid if it is found that he was, in fact, entitled to hold the lands free of assessment. The purchaser in such a sale would not get a good title except by adverse possession. The doctrine of a purchaser for value without notice, does not apply to sale held by Revenue Courts. 45 B. 45=59 I.C. 118 ; 38 I.C. 107=5 L.W. 224. See also 6 O.W.N. 493. CHARGES.—A transferee with knowledge of a charge on the property is bound by the charge. 41 B. 372=39 I.C. 96=19 Bom.L.R. 97. See also 1926 A. 70; 2 A. 162. See also 33 A. 163= 43 I.A. 43=20 C.W.N. 425 (P.C.); 2 A. 162; 36 M.L.J. 618 (623). Agreement in favour of wife hypothecating a property for securing a payment of a monthly allowance to her was held to be a bogus one and would not affect the purchaser for value without notice of agreement. 130 I.C. 299 (2)=1931 A. 338. COVENANT RUNNING WITH THE LAND.—The test to find out whether a covenant runs with the land is to see whether, at its inception, it binds the land and secondly whether the covenant agrees with the nature, quality or value of the land. 36 C. 675=9 C.L.J. 523. Where one of two innocent persons has to suffer by the act of a third person, the person who has enabled the third person to occasion the loss must sustain it. 1942 M. 28=54 L.W. 426=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 601.

Sec. 41 and Evidence Act, S. 115.—Respective scope—Right to benefit of estoppel—Duty to make enquiries. 11 O.W.N. 1097.

CONDITIONS FOR APPLICABILITY.—S. 41 requires the following conditions for its application: (1) that it was by consent, express or implied, of the person claiming title that another person is held out as the ostensible owner of such property, (2) that such ostensible owner transfers it for valuable consideration, and (3) that the transferee has acted in good faith and has taken reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer. 48 C.L.J. 374. See also 11 B.L.R. 46 (P.C.); 35 I.C. 893; 1925 C. 993; 33 C.W.N. 526=1929 C. 83; 52 A. 248=1930 A. 847; 1933 L. 258=146 I.C. 210; 65 C.L.J. 347=41 C.W.N. 797; 1941 C. 318; 39 Bom.L.R. 1217=1938 Bom. 125. For the application of S. 41 of the T. P. Act, two things must concur (1) the ostensible owner who has no real title must be clothed with the insignia of ownership with the consent, express or implied, of the real owner, and (2) the person purchasing for value from the ostensible owner should take reasonable care to ascertain that his transferor has authority to make the transfer. A person purchasing from a person who is not the real owner can only protect himself by showing that he acted as a prudent man. If he makes no enquiry into title, such as a prudent purchaser would make, or avoids prosecuting such an enquiry he cannot claim protection and the principle that a man cannot give what he has not must apply. 65 C.L.J. 347=41 C.W.N. 797. For the operation of S. 41 it must be shown that the person who transfers the property was the ostensible owner with the consent express or implied of the person interested in the property. In a case where there is no evidence of tacit consent, the mere fact that an entry was made in the survey register showing the property as belonging to the transferor cannot be relied on as such consent. 1939 M. 299=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 74. In order that S. 41 may apply it is not necessary that the real owner should have consented. It is sufficient if the transferor is the ostensible owner to the knowledge of the real owner. The test is that the transferee should show that he acted like a reasonable man of business and with ordinary produce. 150 I.C. 81=1934 A.L.J. 554=1934 A. 193. If any one of the essential elements mentioned in S. 41 be wanting, the transferee is not entitled to the protection provided by that section. 85 I.C. 540=1925 C. 993; 5 P.L.J. 521=57 I.C. 353. The consent of the person interested is a consent to another person being the ostensible owner of the property and not a consent to the transfer of the property. 1937 Pesh. 58; 1936 L. 816; 1941 Pesh. 59. S. 41 does not in terms apply either to voluntary transfers by the ostensible owner or to the rights of the successors-in-interest of the real owner or to the rights of subsequent purchasers from volunteers or from first transferees for consideration from the ostensible owner. The rights of such successors-in-interest or subsequent transferees are to be determined on general equitable principles. If the first transferee from the benamidar is a bona fide purchaser for value without notice. he acquires good title and any transferee from him with or without notice of the real title would in equity acquire a good title. If the first transferee be either a volunteer or a transferee for value but with notice, a bona fide transferee from him for value without notice would in equity be still protected on the principle. 44 C.W.N. 813=71 C.L.J. 520=1940 Cal. 565; 1940 N. 7.

SCOPE OF SECTION.—The condition of the section must be strictly complied with. The section does not apply to transfer in invitum by order of Court. 102 I.C 64=1927 B. 368; 21 A.L.J. 488=1924 A. 63; 1939 N.L.J. 496=1940 Nag. 7. See also 118 I.C. 718=1929 A. 800; 45 A. 520=21 A.L.J. 424=1923 A. 983. Where the plaintiff did not claim under the person with whose consent the seller was the ostensible owner of the property. See 1930 A. L.J. 686=1930 A. 374. See also 1940 Sind 212=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 403; 38 P.L.R. 90. S. 41 cannot be invoked by the purchaser of the equity of redemption on the ground that he purchased from the mortgagor as ostensible owner without notice of the mortgage. 27 N. L.R. 144. Mortgaged property standing in name of mortgagor—Mother of mortgagor present at time of negotiations finally inducing mortgagee to advance money—Mother, if can avoid mortgage. 1937 L. 272. See also 1940 Lah. 252. The section affords protection to bona fide transferees, though the real owner himself be innocent. 53 I.C. 970=22 O.C. 243. But the real owner must induce belief in the transferee that his transferor had power to transfer, and mere mutation of names is not sufficient as it does not create title. 97 I.C. 988=1927 N. 41. The section is not confined to purchasers from the ostensible owner alone. It extends also to subsequent purchasers. 43 C. L.J. 452=1926 C. 916. S. 41 does not apply to auction-purchasers. The "transfer" spoken of in the section must be voluntary transfer effected by an act of the ostensible owner. Consequently auction-purchasers are not entitled to the protection afforded by S. 41 or by any principle on which that section is based. 4 A. W.R. 492; 149 I.C. 357=11 O.W.N. 702=1934 O. 233. S. 41 of the T.P. Act applies only to voluntary sales and has no application to Court sales. 1939 N.L.J. 496=1940 Nag. 7 See also 1940 A.L.J. 166 ; 1940 Cal. 565. S. 41 is inapplicable, to a case where the plaintiff was at all material times a minor and incapable of consenting to his father holding himself out as the owner of the property. (36 B. 446; 34 A. 22 and 26 B. 433, Ref.) 12 R. 55=1934 R. 90. The question of priority between a mortgagee and a subsequent purchaser of the same immovable property is governed by S. 48. The purchaser is not protected by the provisions of S. 41, when there is no proof of negligence on the part of mortgagee. But even if the mortgagee be regarded as a person interested in the property, it cannot be said that with his consent, express or implied, the owner was the ostensible owner of the property. Quaere S. 41 makes no express reference to negligence. Therefore it is doubtful whether negligence can be a plea under S. 41: 150 I.C. 145=1934 O. 283. This section like S. 115 of the Evidence Act applies to a case where the person sought to be estopped has acted under a mistake of fact. 18 N.L.R. 27=1922 N. 79. See also 85 I. C. 540=1925 C. 993. Where the real owner himself is estopped under this section to question an alienation, a successor in interest of the real owner is also estopped 65 I.C. 245=26 C.W. N. 436. The principle of the section does not apply to execution creditors even though the judgment-debtor himself may be estopped by certain considerations. 43 M. 135=37 M.L.J. 442. See also 34 I.C. 494. S. 41 does not apply to tenancies. 1935 R.D. 62. The Transfer of Property Act does not apply to the N.-W. Frontier Province but the principles underlying its sections are used by the Courts there as principles of equity, justice and good conscience under S. 23, Frontier Law and Justice Regulation. 1942 Pesh. 68.

RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS are protected from the operation of the section as the idol is the shrine itself and no particular being can give consent express or implied. 73 I.C. 711. Applicability of section to trust property. Held, purchaser from a Mohant not protected because of negligence to make enquiry. 1930 A..L.J. 964. Where the mortgagors who were trustees of a religious institution mortgaged the trust properties and the mortgagee took the mortgage knowing of their character as trustees and without making sufficient inquiry; Held, that the mortgagee could not rely on S. 41. 35 Bom. L. R. 1091=1934 B.1. The appellant claimed to be trustee of certain temple property under a certain will and a decree, but did nothing to secure that the proper entries relating to this trust property were made in the Property Register. The appellant allowed M to hold himself out as the owner in a sale of the trust property. He stood by and did not even act with reasonable promptitude when the purchaser was building upon the land. There was nothing which would have put the purchaser on enquiry to ascertain the real title of the appellant. In a suit by the appellant to set aside the sale, held, that the sale could not be set aside as the provisions of S. 41 were attracted in the purchaser's favour. 1937 S. 177= 31 S.L.R. 197. Idols though for certain purposes can be spoken of as minors, cannot be given the special privilgees which are applicable only to flesh and blood minors who will come of age later on. The Sarbarakar acts for the idol and hence a plea under S. 41, of estoppel would be available against an idol. 1942 N.L.J. 405.

OSTENSIBLE OWNER.—45 A. 520=21 A.L.J. 424. See also 118 I.C. 718=1929 A. 800; 33 C. W.N. 994; 63 I.C. 125. As to who is an ostensible owner, see 27 Bom. L.R. 434=87 I.C. 951 =1925 B. 343. A person disclaiming title cannot afterwards set it up to the prejudice of third parties purchasing from the ostensible owner in good faith and for value. 5 O.L.J. 49 =45 I.C. 307; 22 C.L.J. 574=29 I.C. 84, See also 45 A. 520=21 A.L.J. 424=1923 A. 983. Person against whose property a charge is created by a decree is not ostensible owner. 27 Bom. L.R. 434=87 I.C. 951=1925 B. 343; so also guardians, 34 A. 22; 29 A. 292; agents, 4 Bur. L.T. 74; 1 I.C. 525. So also a permissive possessor is not an ostensible owner. 41 C.L.J. 374=1925 C. 1034. Possession by manager of property during owner's absence and transfer of registry in his name in Municipal book does not make him an ostensible owner. 44 A. 674=1922 A. 392; 19 C.W.N. 1055; also 36 A. 308=25 I.C. 158. As to pardanashin ladies, see 40 C. 378=25 M.L.J. 55 (P.C.). A house was owned by one H, who gifted it orally to his daughter-in-law in lieu of dower. The title-deed of the house was left in possession of her husband. The house was subsequently mortgaged by him and the title-deed was handed over to the mortgagee. The mortgagee attached and tried to sell the mortgaged property. The daughter-in-law objected. Held, that when she allowed her husband to retain possession of the title-deed, she impliedly consented to his holding himself out as the owner of the property and hence the mortgagee was protected by S. 41. Even the usual practice among the pardanashin ladies of allowing their husbands to manage their property could not get over the obvious fact. (1936 L. 816, Rel. on.) 1937 Pesh. 58. Where a vendor alienates property which stands in his name in revenue entries as sole owner, the vendee is protected, though others may be interested in the property actually. 1927 L. 666; 1936 L. 405. Where property belonging to the wife was mutated in favour of the husband and the wife not only did not attempt to challenge the mutation but also allowed the husband to remain in possession, she, having allowed him to act as the ostensible owner of the property, is estopped from challenging the title of the mortgagee from the husband, where the mortgage is made in good faith and for valuable consideration. 38 P.L.R. 90. But where the entry in the mutation register relied on by the transferee shows that other persons claimed ownership, the transfer is not by the ostensible owner. 8 O.W.N. 237=1931 O. 253. A person cannot be said to be an ostensible owner with the consent of the true owner on the basis of an entry in the revenue papers when the ostensible owner's name was entered in the revenue papers in the face of the opposition of true owner and was only entered as he was in possession at the time. 28 N.L.R. 227. Possession by servant in lieu of rendering services does not make him ostensible owner. 41 C.L.J. 374=1925 C. 1034. A minor who has an interest in property cannot by reason of the disability of infancy give his consent, and therefore, a transferee of such property from an adult brother of the minor cannot claim the protection of S. 41 as against the minor. 37 P.L.R. 112. Where some alone of several co-sharers are entered in the revenue records as owners, and on the basis of that a mortgagee entered into a mortgage with them, his title is protected under S. 41. 79 I.C. 174=46 A. 377. A sale by such co-sharers and the vendee stands in the position of the vendors and any defence available to them is open to him as regards the title to the property. 1933 L. 262=34 P.L.R. 714. Though a bequest by the widow of property inherited from her husband is invalid, yet where the next reversioners consented not only to the will but to the getting of the legatee's name entered in the record-of-rights and a third person has on the faith thereof advanced a loan to the ostensible owner, i.e., the legatee, the reversioners are estopped from asserting their own title to the prejudice of the stranger. 27 N.L.R. 283. Having regard to the provisions of the Madras Estates Land Act, a patta granted by a landholder in respect of a ryot's holding is strong prima facie evidence of title, and is practically a title deed to the ryot in respect of his holding, so as to enable a transferee from the pattadar to claim the protection of S. 41. 51 L.W. 351= 1940 Mad. 523=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 791. Where a person purchases property at an auction-sale under circumstances which do not lead him to an enjuiry, S. 41 does not apply. 21 A.L.J. 498 =1924 A. 63 ; 28 N.L.R. 227. As to how far dealings by or with benamidar bind the real owner, see 26 C.W.N. 436 ; 19 W.R. 292 (P.C.). All that S. 41 requires is that the alienors should act as "ostensible owners" with the consent express or implied of the "persons interested." The trustees of a property come under the latter category. 37 P.L.R. 168. A gift once, legally made is irrevocable, and the donor cannot be heard to say as against the donee that it was never intended to be acted upon. As against the donor the donee acquires a good title from the date of the gift. Even when the donee happens to be only an ostensible owner, the right of third parties dealing in good faith with the donee are protected by S. 41, T. P. Act, much more so when the donee has acquired not only an ostensible but a real title. 1936 A.M.L.J. 118.

LIMITED OWNER.—When a Hindu lady cannot without legal necessity transfer a part of the estate in her possession so as to bind the reversioners, much less can she by orally transferring possession and putting such person in possession destroy the rights of the reversioners in case such person transfers the property. In such a case the transferee from such a person cannot plead estoppel under S. 41, for that section refers to personal estoppels arising out of the conduct of the plaintiffs or persons through whom they are claiming, and the mere fact that the Hindu widow's estate is vested in the limited owner for the time being cannot create an estoppel against the reversioners by virtue of the consent obtained from the limited owner. 55 A. 554=1933 A.L.J. 1185=1933 A. 493. See also 13 Mys.L.J. 61=39 Mys.H.C.R. 1119. Where a Hindu widow who had been unchaste and had not been living with her husband was allowed to succeed in the presence of the daughter living and enter into his property, it will hardly avail the reversioners to impeach a transaction of sale entered into by her on the ground that she was by reason of previous unchastity not lawfully entitled to succeed. If this is so, S. 41 may be of assistance to the purchaser from the widow to this extent; that the daughter by her conduct led the purchaser to believe that the widow was the person entitled to present possession of the property during her lifetime. 1937 P. 353. It is not open to the alienees from a Hindu widow to rely on S. 41 of the T. P. Act as a defence to a suit by reversioners. The section is not applicable to cases of adverse possession and the consent of the limited owner can be operative only so far as she is concerned. It cannot bind the reversioners so long as the limited owner remains in possession. 1942 A.L.W. 161=1942 A.W.R. (H.C.) 84 (2).

BURDEN OF PROOF.—The burden of proof is always on the transferee to show that he acted in good faith and that his transferor was the ostensible owner with the express or implied consent of the real owner. 1934 O. 165=150 I.C. 922. Existence of circumstances calling for inquiry is not necessary. Where he fails to look into papers to see whether vendor has power to sell property, he is not entitled to benefit of S. 41 and the mere fact that the vendor's name appears in Register D is not sufficient. 1934 P. 67. But see 1934 R. 313. It is not sufficient to establish merely that he made an enquiry. The vendee may have made a reasonably careful enquiry and may have ascertained the true fact, but chosen to ignore them. A finding of the absence of negligence is not therefore the same thing as a finding of good faith. A person may act without neglience but at the same time without honesty. 148 I.C. 742=1934 L. 658.

ATTESTATION.—Real owner cannot question an alienation by the benamidar when he himself has allowed and attested the same. 46 I. C. 102 ; 90 I.C. 547 ; 1926 O. 131 ; 126 P.W. R. 1918 ; 20 I.C. 291.

NOTICE.—A bona fide transferee is always protected. 9 I.C. 504=9 M.L.T. 365 ; 48 I.C. 936; 1919 P.H.C.C. 404 ; 21 A.L.J. 498; 29 I.C. 841=22 C.L.J. 574 ; 104 I.C. 394 ; 1928 N. 308 ; 1929 R. 112. Under this section notice may be either actual or constructive notice. See 33 C.W.N. 525=114 I.C. 142=1929 C. 83; 48 C.L.J. 374 ; 6 O.W.N. 169=1929 O. 193. A person knowing about the infirmity of title of his transferor cannot claim the benefit of this section. 22 I.C. 673 ; also 47 M.L.J. 622; 1929 A. 737. See also 44 C.W.N. 813=71 C. A Burmese husband lowed his wife and children to hold themselves out as the sole owners of the properties and to deal with them as if they were such owners. REASONABLE CARE.—What amounts to. 43 C.L.J. 452 ; 27 I.C. 14=1 L.W. 649 ; 1923 N. 15 ; 1926 C. 916 ; 100 I.C. 665=1927 M.W.N. 114 ; 99 I.C. 1=1927 A. 158 ; 1928 M. 778 ; 113 I.C. 373=1929 N. 28 ; 3 O.L.J. 224=34 I.C. 773 ; 6 R. 643. The expression 'reasonable care' means such care as an ordinary man of business or a person of ordinary prudence would take. 33 C.W.N. 526. See also 1937 A.L.J. 1356 =1938 All.64. 'Reasonable care' would require the purchaser to inspect title-deeds under which the vendor cliams title and to ascertain if the vendor has power to transfer under the deeds. 111 I.C. 539=1928 M. 778; 11 C.L.J. 197=5 I.C. 334. He must also establish that he made reasonable inquiries ; an entry in the revenue papers in itself is not sufficient to constitute the basis of enquiries. I.L.R. (1936) N.177=1936 N. 214. What would be reasonable care is a question of fact. 36 A 308; 5 P.L.J. 521 ; 48 C. L.J. 374; 1929 C. 83; 1927 M. 1138=37 P.L.R. 168. Each case must be decided upon its own particular circumstances. 100 I.C. 665=1927 M. 1138 (Failure to inspect title-deeds is not conclusive). Where the purchaser made casual inquiries of persons who were not conversant with the vendor's affairs, held, that the purchaser had not taken reasonable care. 52 C.L.J. 492= 1931 C. 144. Where there is no evidence to prove that the mortgagee took the mortgage from the ostensible owner after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer and that he (mortgagee) had acted in good faith. he cannot claim protection of S. 41. 8 O.W.N. 237=1931 O. 253.

ENQUIRY.—In order to support a plea under S. 41 there must be proof that the party made due enquiry. 10 P.L.T. 254=116 I.C. 779= 1929 P. 305. See also 1930 A. 422; 11 L.L.J. 219; 49 C.L.J. 532; 7 R. 276; 1929 R. 17; 6 O.W.N. 133=1929 O. 160; 1927 M. 1138; 1933 O. 166=10 O.W.N. 58. It is necessary under S. 41 to prove not merely consideration but also good faith and due enquiry. 33 Bom.L.R. 356=1931 B. 227=1934 R. 139. S. 41 of the Act protects a person who has acquired title from an ostensible owner. Neither this statutory provision nor equity can protect a transferee unless the transferee has taken reasonable care to ascertain that the transferee had power to make the transfer. A purchaser cannot be said to have acted like a reasonable man if he has taken no steps whatever to look at the registers and does not in any way ask or seek to obtain the production of the documents of title at least before the completion of sale. 1942 N.L.J. 353. If he makes no enquiry into title, such as a prudent purchaser would make, or avoids prosecuting such an enquiry, he cannot claim protection and the principle that a man cannot give what he has not must apply. 65 C.L.J. 347=41 C.W.N. 797. The enquiry need not extend to whether the seller's wife is enceinte. 26 I.C. 61=27 M.L.J. 580. Where a vendor claims title under an invalid document, title by prescription ought to be enquired into. 27 I.C. 777=8 Bur.L.T. 85. Full and proper enquiry ought to be made in the Registration Office records. 7 R. 118=1929 R. 117. A mere inspection of the khewat should not suffice as a sufficiently good inquiry, especially where the vendor or the judgment-debtor is a Mahomedan. 124 I.C. 757=1930 A. 521. Where, had the transferee made inquiries in the village, he would have come to know that the property had long ago been sold by the transferor and that he had no interest left in the property at all which he could transfer, transferee gets no title to the land. Mere inspection of the revenue papers by the transferee is not enough. 11 O.W.N. 421=1934 O. 165. A transferee consulting khasra paimash of the municipality or police records of levy of punitive tax, cannot be considered to have satisfied the requirements of S. 41. Such records have not been framed with a view to settle the ownership of properties, but only for the purpose of realisation of taxes. 1934 L. 885. See also 1933 A.L.J. 1036=1933 A. 917. Where it is found that the mortgagee had not made any enquiries he is not protected and is not entitled to benefits conferred by S. 41. The fact that the mortgagors' names were entered in the khewat is not sufficient enquiry nor the fact that the Court of Wards was in possession of the property. 1942 O.W.N. 127=1942 A.W.R. (C.C.) 95. Where a transferee takes a transfer from an heir to a deceased who is in possession of the property without making inquiries as to whether there are other co-heirs, he is not entitled to the protection under S. 41. 1934 A.L.J. 544= 1934 A. 193. It is not enough to assert generally that enquiries should be made or that a prudent man should have made further enquiries, but some specific circumstances should be pointed out as the starting point of an enquiry which might be expected to lead to some result. 1937 P. 353. It is not enough for the purchaser to say that an enquiry as regards the possession of the property had been made through a servant. The transferee should place before the Court the evidence showing what enquiries had been made by the servant, so that the Court might be in a position to judge for itself whether these enquiries which the servant made could be considered to be reasonable or not. 11 O.W.N. 702=1934 O. 233. Where a mother sold the share of her son in the estate of his father to her sister and it was not disputed that the transferor and the transferee lived in the same house together and that the transferee used to write the accounts in connection with the estate for the transferor, the only reasonable presumption that could be drawn from the Transfer by person having authority to revoke former transfer.

42. Where a person transfers any immovable property, reserving power to revoke the transfer, and subsequently transfers the property for consideration to another transferee, such transfer operates in favour of such transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the power) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the power.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B, and reserves power to revoke the lease if, in the opinion of a specified surveyor, B should make use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveryor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

Transfer by unauthorised person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

43. Where a person [1][fraudulently or] erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immovable property and professes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

circumstances is that the transferee purchased the share of the son in his father's estate knowing that his share had not been paid to him. 151 I.C. 314(2). Enquiry ought to be made as to collaterals before taking a transfer from the sister's son of the last full owner. 43 A. 263=19 A.L.J. 11=64 I.C. 14. (See now Act II of 1929). As regards non-enquiry regarding coparceners, see 86 I.C. 633=21 L.W. 295. Where the vendee is himself a co-sharer in the property and believes himself to be fully aware of the circumstances relating to the title of the vendors, and the vendors have been acting as ostensible owners for years and nothing has happened to put him on any further inquiry as to title. S. 41 is applicable to the circumstances of the case although the vendee does not make any inquiry as to title. 37 P.L.R. 168. As between members of a joint Hindu family the fact that the name of one member rather than that of another or of all the members is used in acquisition of property, does not amount to holding out that member as the ostensible owner, and a person dealing with one member of a Hindu family can hardly say that he was misled unless he proves that he made full inquiries and could not ascertain his title. 1937 P. 353=1937 P.W.N. 144. Dealing with the joint Hindu family property by one of the members as his own does not render the purchaser from such owner an ostensible owner. 1928 M. 635=110 I.C. 548. Alienee from a manager of joint family is not ostensible owner. 35 C.W.N. 693=1931 P.C. 118. Of two innocent transferees the one who renders it possible for the owner to deal with the property a second time, must suffer for his negligence. 53 I.C. 397. As to transferee from Hindu widow, see 13 R.D. 280. In the Punjab transfers may be oral and frequently are so. For this reason more importance is attached to the revenue records in the Punjab than in the other provinces, as there the transfers must usually be by means of registered deed. The searching of the registration records therefere in the case of agricultural land is not a practice commonly done. What is looked at is the entry in the revenue records. So where a mortgage does not get his mortgage entered in the revenue records and thus allows the mortgagor to remain ostensible owner, such mortgagee cannot question the alienation made by the mortgagor to others who from the revenue records found the property free from encumbrance. The mortgagee in such a case is estopped by his own negligent conduct is not getting his mortgage entered in the revenue records. 38 P.L.R. 1097=1936 L. 405.

"VOIDABLE".—There is no reason to accept the contention that the expression "voidable" in S. 41 must be construed as voidable in its entirely and that the section is not applicable to cases where the whole transaction is not so voidable. 111 I.C. 539=1928 M. 778.

Sec. 43: CHANGE IN THE PRESENT SECTION AND REASON FOR THE CHANGE.—This is explained as follows in the Statement of Objects and Reasons.—S. 43 refers to a person making an erroneous representation that he is authorized to transfer certain immovable property. The underlying Principle is also applicable to a case when the representation is fraudulent. The expression "erroneously" has, in fact, been construed to include all representations whether tainted or untainted with fraud. 7. A. 864; 20 C. 296. It is, however, desirable to make the meaning clear by using the word "fraudulently" along with the word "erroneously."

PRINCIPLE OF SECTION.—S. 43 is only an embodiment of the principle of estoppel. It is expressed variously, sometimes, as feeding the grant by estoppel, at another time, no person is allowed to derogate from his own grant, and yet again by the principle that equity considers that done which ought to be done. But under the guise of S. 43 the Court cannot uphold a transfer of property forbidden by law. 110 I.C. 357=1928 O. 344; 148 I.C. 721=1934 R. 51;

But See 20 O.C. 72=39 I.C. 186, holding that it is not necessary that the transferee should have believed in and acted upon the erroneous representation. A Hindu who lends money on a mortgage by a Hindu widow must be deemed to be aware of the elementary principles of Hindu Law as to the limited interest of a widow inheriting the property of her deceased husband; and such a transferee cannot claim the benefit of S. 43, T.P. Act. 151 I.C. 561=1934 A. 969. An abandonment of a claim to property in a suit is not a transfer contemplated by S. 43: 1936 A.M.L.J. 124. S. 43 presupposes an attempt to transfer property which is transferable by law and does not extend to cases of transfers of property which cannot be transferred under S. 6 (a) of the Act. There is a distinction between a transfer which is professedly one of mere right. e.g., a right of reversion or expectancy and a transfer of specific property which the transferor erroneously represents he is authorised to transfer, though he may have, for the time being, merely a reversionary right therein. Transfers of the former class would obviously fall within the purview of S. 6 (a) and would be void ab initio while those of the latter class would be governed by S. 43; 130 I. C. 821=1931 N. 51. See also 4 A.W.R. 1121. It is not necessary that the option under the section should be exercised immediatly after the right to do so is attained. 20 O.C. 72=39 I.C. 186.

Where in the case of a sale an erroneous representation is made by the transferor that he is the full owner of the estate sold (though in fact he merely has spes successionis), then if the transferor happens later to obtain the real interest, the previous transfer can operate on that interest. It is the duty of the courts to reconcile S. 43 with S. 6, if possible, and the operation of S. 6 must be confined to cases in which the transfer purports to be that of spes successionis, or where transferee knows that the transferor has no more to give. And if the husband transfers the property to his wife by a deed of relinquishment, the transaction is bona fide and for consideration and cannot be challenged as being fraudulent by a creditor of the husband who subsequently attaches the property belonging to the husband; it cannot be attached and sold in execution of a decree obtained against the husband. Two groves with some other property of the mortgagor were mortgaged for the purpose of purchasing the very two groves from its owner. Held, that the mortgage was enforceable against the groves on the principle of feeding the grant by estoppel, there being no third party's interest intervening between the execution of the security and the execution of sale-deed. 1931 A.L.J. 72=1931 A. 275. On the date of the mortgage in favour of the plaintiff, the defendant was an undischarged insolvent. At the time of the suit by the mortgagee, the insolvent had been discharged and the mortgaged property revested in the defendant. Held, that an alienation by an undischarged insolvent of property belonging to him was not void, but only voidable at the option of the Court or the receiver and that the mortgagee was, under the circumstances, entitled to enforce the mortgage by sale of the mortgaged property. 55 A. 503=1933 A.L.J. 475=1933 A. 449. A contract mortgaging a spes successionis in the Punjab, where the Act is not in force can be enforced as an agreement to convey the estate when it falls into possession. Where a person mortgages a certain land as his own property without purporting to mortgage his reversionary rights therein, the mortgage is not void ab initio and in any event the case is fully covered by the principles underlying S. 43 of the T. P. Act. 35 P.L.R. 732=1934 L. 996. So also where a Hindu coparcener executes a mortgage of certain property reciting in the mortgage deed that he is separate from the other members of the family, and subsequently on a partition the mortgagor gets properties allotted to him, the mortgage lien is transferred to the property which he gets on such partition. 16 P. 230. S. 43 is not applicable to cases of transfers of property which by law was not transferable. Where a father in joint Hindu family in Oudh alienates ancestral property without necessity and there is a subsequent division in the family, but the mortgage clearly indicated that there was a possibility of the transaction being assailed, there is neither a fraudulent or erroneous representation, nor a subsisting contract, inasmuch as the mortgage was void ab initio and hence the principles embodied in S. 43, are not applicable to the case. 1940 O.W.N. 982=16 Luck. 484=1941 Oudh. 123. uncle of the last male holder and his son as the presumptive reversioners to the estate brought a suit to set aside the alienation made by the widow and compromised the dispute with the alienee by which the uncle acting on his own behalf and on behalf of his minor son (the plaintiff) executed a sale-deed in respect of half of the property in favour of the alienee and subsequently after the death of the widow and the opening of his succession, the plaintiff brought, a suit to set aside the alienation. Held, (1) that the plaintiff cannot under S. 43 be allowed to set up his title; (2) that he was bound by the act of affirmation of his father in having compromised the dispute with the alienee and having purported to sell one half of the property to him. 1933 M. 856=65 M.L.J. 772. Where the reversioners join in an alienation by the limited owner, they are not estopped from questioning the necessity for the alienation on the death of the limited owner. The doctrine of title feeding the estoppel is inapplicable. 46 C. 566=28 C.W.N. 521; 48 C. 530=25 C.W.N. 496; 41 M. 749=34 M.L.J. 563. See also other cases cited earlier on this point.

EXERCISE OF THE OPTION.—Non-repudiation of a transfer when the misrepresentation of the transaction came to be known is an exercise of an option. 33 I.C. 975. Option need not be exercised immediately after the right to do so is attained. 39 I.C. 186=20 O.C. 72. As to the meaning of the words "during which the contract of transfer subsists." See 18 M. 492.

Sec. 44: SCOPE OF SECTION.—Section does not override the provisions of Hindu Law. 37 I.C. 168=31 M.L.J. 275; 13 M. 275. Section applies to all kinds of transferees, including mortgagees and lessees. 3 A.L.J. 474; 27 M. 361 at 367.

PARTITION.—The section provides for partition as a means of making the possessory right available. 25 I.C. 401. A transferee of the share of a joint owner in a particular property, may sue for partition of that property alone. 33 I.C. 17=23 C.L.J. 231. A stranger purchaser cannot have joint possession of family dwelling-house. 20 C.W.N. 675. When one co-owner transfers his right or interest in joint property, the other co-owners cannot impose on the share transferred any conditions or liabilities not affecting it (i.e.,) not existing at the date of transfer. 1925 N. 68=80 I.C. 920 at p. 923. As a general principle of law it cannot be laid down that a mortgagee of an undivided share of property from a tenant-in-common is not entitled to sue for partition. He is entitled to claim partition provided that it is necessary to give effect to the transfer. Where the mortgage is not a usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee is not entitled to possession of the mortgaged property, he would not be entitled to partition. The fact that the mortgage-deed confers on the mortgagee a right to sue for partition would not entitle him to sue for partition if in law he is not entitled to. 51 L.W. 511=1940 Mad. 491.

REPAIR BY CO-OWNER.—All co-sharers are equally liable for necessary repairs; and when on the failure of other sharers in their duty, one of them does it negligently, he is not exclusively liable for it. 80 I.C. 920=1925 N. 68.

Sec. 44, Para. 2: UNDIVIDED FAMILY—ESSENTIALS.—To constitute an undivided family for the purpose of S. 44, it is unnecessary that the members of the family should have constantly resided in the dwelling-house nor is it necessary that they should be joint in mess. (1929 C. 231, Ref.) 1935 M. 628. Principle of the para. enunciated in 5 B. 499 (504), procedure in such cases indicated. 35 I.C. 294=20 C.W.N. 675. S. 44 does not speak of a family dwelling-house nor does it say that the dwelling-house must be occupied either permanently or even occasionally by the undivided family. The only two requisites laid down in the section are (1) that the house must be a dwelling-house and (2) that it must belong to an undivided family. It does not matter if the house is occupied by tenants. Hence S. 44, would apply to the case of the purchaser of a share of one out of a number of dwelling-houses owned by an undivided family, which they have rented out. Where an undivided family owned dwelling-houses, which they rented out and the purchaser of a share in it claimed mesne profits from the date of purchase to the date of possession. Held, that the proviso to S. 44 applied, even though the members of the family did not reside therein, and that the purchaser was not entitled to mesne profits. (18 C. 10 and 1922 M. 150, Dist.) 1935 M. 628. See also 1929 C. 231 (where there was only occasional residence by members of the joint family, who were not joint in mess); 1940 Rang. 53. The words "undivided family" in para. 2 applies also to Mahomedan undivided family. 37 A. 324 (327)=5 A.L.J. 353 (F.B.), Foll. in 12 C.L.J. 525 (534); 97 I.C. 416. Even if it be assumed that the principle of S. 44 may be applied to a transfer which has been effected by reason of proceedings in execution of a decree for the purpose of pre-

Joint transfer for consideration.

45. Where immovable property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled in the fund ; and, where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interest in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were repsectively entitled , or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

46. Where immovable property is transferred for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property were of equal value, and, where such interests were of equal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

(a) A, owning a moiety, and B and C each a quarter share of mauza Sultanpur, exchange an eighth share of that mausa for a quarter share of mauza Lalpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lalpura' and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b) A, being entitled to a life-interest in mauza Atrali, and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000 . A's life-interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400 A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

47. Where several co-owners of immovable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and, where they were unequal proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Illustration.

A, the owner of an eight-anna share, and B and C, each the owner of a four-anna share, in mauza Sultanpur, transfer a two anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer, one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

NOTES.

venting a stranger to the family from obtaining joint possession of a family dwelling-house, the proper stage for the members of the joint family to apply for an order of this nature would be at the time when a suit is instituted by the purchaser to recover possession of the property. If they allow an ex parte decree to be passed against them in that suit, they will be estopped from asking subsequently for an injunction restraining the purchaser from executing that decree. 46 C.W.N. 407.

Sec. 45: SCOPE.—Section applies to transfers, for consideration; and is not applicable to gifts: see 34 M. 80. There is nothing in S. 45 to suggest that it ought to be limited to voluntary transfers. S. 45 applies to involuntary transfers also. 1941 C. 416=200. In absence of specification of the shares purchased by two persons in the sale-deed it must be held that both purchased in equal shares. 1929 A. 817; 87 I.C. 17=1925 O. 369: 107 I.C. 149; 29 A. 354 (364); 26 C. 281. Where mortgage-money is advanced by two persons and their interests specified, their interests in the mortgaged property will be proportionate to their interests 96 I.C. 134=1926 A. 676. The provisions of S. 45 are not of any assistance in a case where the rights of the parties are determined by the contract of partnership and subsequent agreements as to the payments to be made in regard to the purchase. 1942 O.W.N. 269=1942 O.A. 205. Where a lease is executed in favour of three persons, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the share of each must be presumed to be equal. It is for the person who claims a higher share to show by definite evidence that his share is higher. 1942 R.D. 562. The Court cannot take account of the second para. of S. 45 until there is an absence of evidence. Where evidence is available but is not produced, the presumption under S. 45, para. 2 cannot be made. 87 I.C. 17=1925 O. 369. See also 4 C.W.N. 465.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immovable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later-created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Transferee's right under policy.

49. Where immovable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is, at the date o thef transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Rent bona fide paid to holder under defective title.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immovable property which he has, in good faith, paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Illustration.

A lets a field to B at a rent of Rs. 50 and then transfers the field to C. B, having no, notice of the transfer, in good faith pays the rent to A. B is not chargeable with the rent so paid.

NOTES.

largement of the transferor's share after the date of transfer.)

Sec. 48.—This section is based on the principle that he who is prior in time has the better title in law (i.e.) one who has the advantage of time on his side should also have the advantage in law. See 7 A. 568: 29 B. 42; ibid. 46; 8 A. 409. S. 48 of the T. P. Act must be read subject to S. 48 of the Registration Act and so a subsequent registered mortgage is entitled to priority over an earlier oral charge, not accompanied by delivery of possession, of which the mortgagee had no notice. 36 Bom.L.R. 277=1934 B. 189. "Transfer" in this section means a complete transfer, and does not include a mere contract for sale or an incomplete sale by an unregistered sale-deed where registration is compulsory. 4 B. 126 (F.B.); 8 A. 540. See also 10 C. 250. On the principle of this section when there are conflicting rights they must be treated as relating to different entities. 49 I.C. 39=21 O.C. 317. See also 9 M. 495; 6 B. 193. As between two substituted security rights no question of priority can arise; S. 48 applies only to successive mortgages of the same property. The rights in the substituted security of two rival claimants should be proportionate to the value of the original security as it stood on the date when the property mortgaged ceased to belong to the mortgagor. 48 L.W. 119=1938 Mad. 547. Priority is determined by the dates of the deeds and not by the dates of registration. 6 Bom. L.R. 687 =29 B. 42; 8 B. 182; 29 B. 46 (51). Where two deeds in respect of the same property are executed on the same day, it is a question of fact to be specially proved as to which deed was in fact first executed; and what deed will have priority. 11 C.W.N. 732=6 C.L.J. 74. The auction-purchaser of mortgaged property is bound by mortgage whether he had notice or not. But a purchaser from such person is not affected by the mortgage, if he had no notice. 16 I.C. 625=10 A.L.J. 114. See also on the section. 14 I.C. 585; 79 I.C. 249=1923 R. 41 (1). The vendee of immovable property cannot oust from the possession of the property a tenant for cultivation admitted into the property by the mortgagee with possession. 82 I. C. 203=1925 L. 165. Where a Receiver of property is authorised by the Court to mortgage the property and raise a loan for paying Government revenue and the Court ordered the mortgage to have priority over a pre-existing mortgage and the money is utilised for the payment of revenue and to save the property from sale, the mortgage so sanctioned by the Court has priority over the pre-existing mortgage. 1926 P. 94. In respect of payments made to avert a sale for arreas of revenue, even though it may be subsequent to the final decree on his mortgage, the decree-holder is entitled to a first charge on the sale proceeds in the mortgage suit in priority to the subsequent mortgagee. 35 C.W.N. 1040=1931 P.C. 226 =61 M.L.J. 343=59 C. (463 P.C.)

Sec. 49.—A mortgagee as such has no right against the insurance company which insured the machinery of a mill against fire. 1923 R. 6=11 L.B.R. 234=67 I.C. 777.

Sec. 50.—The language of the section is general, and applies not only to the case of assignment by the lessor of his interest during the tenancy, but also to a case of succession. 33 B. 96 (104); and the person paying the rent to the ostensible or do facto owner is protected under this section (Ibid). The section is intended only to protect a bona fide tenant and not the lessor. 27 C. 87. Bona fides is necessary before the section can apply. 101 I.C. 647=1927 N. 237. See also 27 C. 87 (F.B.); 7 C.W.N. 454; 19 I.C. 865. 51. When the transferee of immovable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof, irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bona fide holders under defective title.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When, under the circumstances aforesaid, the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

Such a payment cannot be pleaded by a tenant in a suit for compensation by the assignee of the property. 9 R. 470=1931 R. 292. But where the mortgagor of certain mortgaged premises let them to a tenant and received rent in advance as a condition precedent to letting, a receiver subsequently appointed in the mortgage suit cannot compel the lessee to pay rent over again. 7 L.B.R. 268=24 I.C. 693. See also 1927 C. 270. Where one of the two joint lessees knows the real owner of property but the other bona fide pays rent to another not the real owner. S. 50 cannot apply because the knowledge of one of them would be deemed to be the knowledge of the other also. 1942 O.A. 442. Where a person who under the law is liable to pay rent to a particular person whose title he has recognised, makes payments without proper inquiry, to a wrong person merely on the ground that the latter sends him a notice stating that he has purchased those lands it cannot be said that the payment is made in good faith within the meaning of S. 50. 1939 Pat. 540. Trnant paying rent to landlord after notice of sale by landlord—Payment relating to period when suit was pending for cancellation of sale-deed—Tenant is protected. 67 C.L.J. 527=42 C.W.N. 378.

Sec. 51: SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY.—A person who has been evicted can claim compensation under S. 51, provided he is (1) a transferee, (2) he has made the improvement, (3) he has made such improvement believing in good faith that he was absolutely entitled, and (4) he was evicted. The section does not provide for these various capacities or qualifications being filled or fulfilled by different persons. It is intended to provide for a right to compensation to an individual who fulfils all the conditions laid down. 60 C. 1388=1934 C. 290. See also 1940 Rang. 172. There is no general equitable principle entitling the person dispossessed to compensation apart from what has been laid down in S. 51. Hence a purchaser of a property at a Court-sale who has been dispossessed cannot claim compensattion for improvements effected by the vendor. The evictee himself must be the improver. 60 C. 1388. The principles underlying S. 51 have been extended in suitable cases on equitable grounds. Where the defendants being relations of the plaintiff were allowed to occupy a house or room many years ago, and where during the interval they had spent considerable sums of money on improving the building, it is suitable case in which the principles of S. 51 should be extended on equitable grounds. 1938 A.L.J. 572=1938 All. 342. The relief given by the section is not any species of property and such a right is neither heritable nor transferable. 60 C. 1388. Although S. 51 may not in terms apply to a particular case, the rule of equity embodied therein will be applied by Courts in proper cases. 27 A.L.J. 105=1929 A. 12. See also 51 A. 454. The principle of S. 51 is an exception to the maxim quicquid plantatur solo solo cedit and unless the equitable grounds mentioned in this section are made out the moment the improvements are made, they belong to the owner of the land by operation of law. 1928 R. 141. Section applies to both Hindus and Mahomedans. 30 M. 197 (199). The section is not applicable to a purchaser at a Court-sale. 36 M. 194=21 M.L.J. 969. See also 12 I.C. 444; 1926 N. 160; 53 A. 334=1931 A. 277 (F. B.). See contra 89 I.C. 18. S. 51 has no application to a case where improvements have been made by a trespasser who is not a transferee. 18 Lah 350=39 P.L.R. 1016; 1937 M. W.N. 533: 1937 Cal. 129. There can be no equities in favour of a trespasser or of a person who is fraudulently in possession. Such a person cannot claim to set off the amount claimed as compensation as against the mesne profits due by him. I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 203=64 C. L.J. 280=1937 Cal. 129. S. 51 does not apply to every person who is in possession of property. It does not apply to a trespasser; it does not apply to a person who claims under a will because S. 5 of the Act relates to conveyances between living persons. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 241=1940 Sind. 77. See also 1937 M.W.N. 533. The section applies only to defective and not to defeasible transfers. 107 I.C. 36 (37). So the transferee who has taken a sale from the father and manager of a joint Hindu family which has not been avoided by the son must be held to have believed himself in good faith to be the owner and bona fide improvements made by him would be protected. 25 A.L.J. 926=107 I.C. 39

NOTES.

=1928 A. 41. See also 118 I.C. 235. Though the case of a lessee holding under a lease for over 99 years may be outside the contemplation of S. 51, the principle contained therein may be applied to lessees who are sought to be ejected. 1935 C. 62. Under S. 51 it is the person who has a better title within the meaning of the section, who has a right to decide whether to pay for improvements made by the transferee or to sell his own interest to the transferee ; and the transferee cannot compel the person having a better title to sell his interest to him. 1932 A.L.J. 54. 1942 A. 210Although the T.P. Act has not been introduced in Marwar, yet the Courts in Marwar can very well take into consideration the general principles embodied in this Act without being bound by its technical provisions. Where, therefore, the value of the property which the plaintiff seeks to obtain in assertion of a right of pre-emption has been enhanced by the vendee spending money over it in a reasonable and bona fide manner and the plaintiff himself has in a way acquiesced in the construction, the vendee should be allowed compensation for such improvements. 1939 Mar.L.R. 1 (Civ.) 'Transferee' within the meaning of S. 51 includes the transferee in a conveyance in the wider sense of the term within the meaning of the definition of S. 5 of the Act, and though a title derived from a will cannot be said to be a 'transfer' within the meaning of S. 5, a transfer of immovable property by oral sale can. The fact that to make such a transfer valid the property of a certain value must be conveyed by a registered instrument in writing does not affect the fact that it is a transfer within the definition of S. 5, a conveyance of property between living persons, so that a person to whom immovable property of the value of Rs. 100 or upwards has been transferred or purported to have been transferred by an oral sale is a transferee within the meaning of S. 51 of the Act and is entitled to the benefit of S. 51 provided he believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to the property in question. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 241=1940 Sind. 77. See also 1938 O.W.N. 281.

WHAT ARE NOT IMPROVEMENTS.—Spending small sums every year in the manuring and levelling of land in the course of prudent cultivation, is not improvement for which tenant would be entitled to compensation. 24 I.C. 879 =1 L.W. 371. So also moneys spent in ordinary repairs of houses and buildings are not improvements. 24 I.C. 918 ; 31 Bom.L.R. 461=1929 B. 230. See also Ben. Ten. Act, S. 76. A lessee spending money in connection with his lease is entitled to be reimbursed when a suit is instituted to avoid the lease. 1927 M. 1023= 106 I.C. 131. See also 1938 P.W.N. 386 ; 1938 M.W.N. 1236 ; 1936 O.W.N. 385=1937 Oudh 75.

RIGHT TO IMPROVEMENTS is largely a question of fact. 111 I.C. 22=1928 M. 349. S. 51 does not entitle a person who has made improvements on another's land in good faith to retain the improvements or accessions or to remove the building materials. Such constructions are deemed to vest in the owner of the land, but he is given a right to claim their value. 53 A. 334 =1931 A. 277 (F.B.) Compensation for improvements—Decree for possession of certain property in favour of plaintiff—Defendant not keeping any accounts of income derived from it —No proof of present value of improvements made by him—Right to compensation for improvements on eviction by plaintiff. 39 P.L. R. 729=1937 Lah. 500.

GOOD FAITH means only honest belief and may be even negligent belief. 1 L.W. 369. See also 36 M. 194 ; 32 M. 530=4 I.C. 18=19 M.L.J. 284 ; 26 A.L.J. 887=1928 A. 381. It is true that absence of proper inquiry condemns bargain as one not made in good faith. But any and every negligence does not show want of good faith. Good faith within S. 51 is not necessarily precluded by facts showing negligence in investigating the title. (1930 P.C. 297, Rel. on.) 1935 C. 625. Improvement made by a person who does not bona fide believe that that he is entitled to make it does not entitle him to receive compensation. 33 A. 752 ; 23 I.C. 520; 1 L.W. 410 ; 1932 A.L.J. 54 ; 34 Bom.L.R. 164; 33 C. 1119 ; 1930 P. 20. So also improvements made by a transferee from the executor of a will, the transfer in whose favour is vitiated by want of good faith will not entitle him to claim compensation from the legatee to whom the said property was bequeathed. 134 I.C. 259=1938 N. 69. The definition of 'good faith' in the General Clauses Act as 'honestly' does not apply to the Act passed before 1897. See 25 A.L.J. 926=107 I.C. 36 (37). Bona fides is not incompatible with ignorance of law or even with a certain degree of negligence. 23 L.W. 496= 1926 M. 609 ; 32 M. 530 ; 51 B. 1140=1927 B. 611 ; 24 I.C. 940; 95 I.C. 789=1926 M. 921; 96 I.C. 483=51 M.L.J. 313. See also 26 A.L.J. 887=1928 A. 381. The question whether or not a transferee believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to the property cannot be subject of any hard and fast rule but should be decided on the merits according to the circumstances of each case. 1938 O.W.N. 281. See also 1940 Sind 77. A mortgagee from the certificated guardian of a minor without the permission of the District Judge is not entitled to compensation for improvements made by him on the mortgage being set aside, because he could not have believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled thereto. 52 A. 831=1931 A. 201. ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—A person, who buys, from a person who could convey good title only under certain circumstances, in the absence of such circumstances, is not a bona fide purchaser for value and is not entitled to the value of the improvements under S. 51. 21 L.W. 115 =86 I.C. 195=1925 M. 670. Where the grantee of land under an order of the Tahsildar paid the assessment in respect of the land and spent money in putting the land to good use without knowing that there was an appeal decreed against him, held, that the grantee effected his improvements bona fide within S. 51 and was therefore entitled to the value thereof. 48 M.L.J. 682=1925 M. 963. Two persons exchanged lands and on application for mutation owing to the absence of one of the parties, mutation was refused to be effected in his name. Such person believed in good faith to be the owner of the land and erected a building thereon. When mutation was refused, the opposite party who had given the land in exchange executed a sale-deed in favour of the person who had built on it. Thereupon a collateral of the vendor applied for pre-emption. Held, that he was entitled to do so only on the payment of the full sale value of the land and costs of the building erected thereon and that S. 51 applied to the case. 1933 L. 540=146 I.C. 36. If a man enters upon land as a stranger purchaser in execution sale and effects improvements thereon, he is entitled to compensation therefor upon a reversal of the sale irrespective of any question of bona fides. In any event even if good faith is required, an honest belief by him in the validity of his title is enough. 89 I C. 18=1926 N. 164.

KNOWLEDGE —The real owner may claim land with the benefit of all improvements when they were made by a stranger with full knowledge of the title of the claimant. 35 B. 182 ; 45 I.C. 242 ; 59 I.C. 813 ; 42 I.C. 428 ; 33 A. 752. The section does not apply to improvements by a trespasser in law though made in good faith. 40 I.C. 464 ; 95 I.C. 789=1926 M. 921; 18 L. 350; I.L.R. (1937) 1 C. 203=64 C.L.J. 280=1937 C. 129. Purchasers of property who have knowledge of prior contract of sale of the property cannot claim compensation for improvements. 41 C. 852=19 C.W.N. 89. For improvements made on land before a dharkast was granted compensation cannot be claimed when it was revoked. 28 I.C. 51=1915 M.W.N. 148. If the improvements were made after grant of dharkast, compensation may be recovered. 1925 M. 963 =48 M.L.J. 682.

ESTOPPEL.—A real owner, who knowing that money is bona fide spent on improvements by persons who honestly believed they had good title, nevertheless stood by and allowed the improvements to proceed, would not be allowed to eject such persons or occupants without indemnifying them for their improvements. 29 C. 871 ; 18 B. 66. (See also Evidence Act, S. 115.) 20 M. 124 ; 29 B. 580 ; 33 C. 1119 (1129) ; 91 I.C. 1=1926 M. 314. INVALID TRANSFER.—A lessee holding under an inalid lease cannot claim compensation of improvements before eviction under S. 51 or under S. 2 of the Mesne Profits Improvements Act 10 L.W. 137=52 IC.. 517. But see 40 M. 1134 and 161 I.C. 834=1936 O.W.N. 385= 1937 Oudh 75. The word "transferee" in S. 51 includes a transferee under an invalid transfer and the words "the person causing the eviction" include a transferor under an invalid transfer. 40 M. 1134=43 M.L.J. 252=43 I.C. 138. See also 51 B. 1040=109 I.C. 722=1927 B. 611 ; 26 A.L.J. 887. It includes a perpetual lessee, under an invalid lease. 161 I.C. 834=1936 O.W.N. 315=1937 Oudh 75. Persons in possession of trust property under void trust deed cannot retain possession of the property on the ground that they spent money on the property with the consent of the executant of the deed. 12 O.C. 236=3 I.C. 549.

PURCHASER FROM HINDU WIDOW.—The principle of S. 51 applies to a purchase from a Hindu widow where the purchaser in good faith believing himself to have acquired a good title to the property effects improvements on it. 48 I.C. 859 (M.) See also 31 Bom.L.R. 453=1929 B. 246 ; 96 I.C. 483=1926 M. 609=51 M.L.J. 313. An alienee from a Hindu widow has to make enquiries as to whether there was any necessity for the alienation and in the absence of same cannot be taken to have believed in good faith that he was absolutely entitled to the property in order to claim compensations for improvements under S. 51. 44 A 665=20 A.L.J 524 =1922 A. 194. See also 39 A. 463 ; 36 A. 387 ; 47 A. 430 ; 25 A.L.J. 926 ; 86 I.C. 195=1925 M. 670 ; 95 I.C. 265=1926 A. 384 ; 10 Mys.L. J. 65. Where a Hindu widow grants a permanent lease and the lessee makes improvements on the land although believing that she has a right to grant a permanent lease, he is not entitled to be compensated for the improvements when he is evicted by the reversioners on the widow's death. 47 A. 430=1925 A. 261. A partition between two co-widows operated only during their lives and on the death of one, the whole property passes to the other. Where one of the widows sold her share in her husband's house and on her death her co-widow brought a suit for possession, the purchaser was not entitled to the money expended by him for improvements. 32 A. 463=40 I.C. 71.

IMPROVEMENTS BY MORTGAGEE.—A mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged property under a usufructuary mortgage effected improvement in the property knowing full well that he was the mortgagee and not the owner. Held, the mortgagee was not entitled to compensation for the improvements in a suit for redemption by the mortgagor. 1937 N. 54. A mortgagee who believes he is the absolute owner of the property is entitled to compensation for improvements. 33 M.L.J. 316=42 I.C.438; 37A. 81; but not when the value of the improvements far exceeds the mortgage amount. 52 B. 307= 30 Bom.L.R. 427. Under S. 51 a mortgagor is entitled to exercise the option whether he will pay the value of the estimated improvement on the one hand or on the other hand "sell his interest to the transferee at the then market value irrespective of the value of the improvement." 28 Bom.L.R. 993=97 I.C. 700.

IMPROVEMENTS BY TENANTS.—See also 1937 O. 75; 1938 M.W.N. 1236; 1938 P.435. A permanent lessee is not entitled to claim the benefit of S. 51. So long as a transfer is subject to payment of rent or to any other condition, the transferee cannot believe that he is "absolutely entitled" to the property. 13 Luck. 450= 1937 O. 446. Tenants are not entitled to compensation for permanent structures erected without the permission of the landlord. 43 I.C. 643=35 M.L.J. 281; 41 I.C. 788=33 M.L.J. 84; 28 I.C. 840; 48 I.C. 354. See also 38 M. 710=25 M.L.J. 625. He can remove them before he quits the premises and has no right to demand compensation from the landlord for buildings though erected with his consent. 38

Sec. 52: AMENDMENT OF SECTION AND REASON FOR IT.—In view of the difficulties created by the use of the words "active prosecution" and "contentious," it is proposed to substitute the word "pendency" for the words "active prosecution," and to omit the word "contentious," and to add an explanation to make it clear when the pendency of a suit or proceeding shall be deemed to commence and when it shall be deemed to end. We also propose to insert in the section the words "which is not collusive", for a collusive suit is no real suit at all, but merely a pretence. 6 B. 703; 11 B. 708; 49 C. 220; 14 C.W.N. 322. Further, to attract the doctrine of lis pendens, the suit must be pending in a Court of competent jurisdiction, and this has been made clear in the explanation. We have not thought it proper to include in the explanation cases where an order is passed against an intervenor in execution proceedings, as the proper remedy in such cases is a suit under O. 21, R. 63 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. We have also excluded cases of review. It has been suggested that to avoid the difficulties that may arise by the application of the doctrine of lis pendens, the system of registration of suits prevailing in England should be adopted in this country at least in the Presidency-towns. This is really a question of administration and is beyond the scope of our reference."—Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

The Select Committee said:—"In the Explanation which prescribed the period during which lis pendens is to operate, we have provided for the case of the discharge of a decree by the relinquishment by a decree-holder of his decretal rights."—(Report of the Select Committee.)

The amended section has no retrospective effect in its operation. 1931 N. 138.

PRINCIPLE OF SECTION.—1926 C. 204 (211)=29 C.W.N. 953; 84 I.C. 490=40 C.L.J. 383. The doctrine of lis pendens rests upon this foundation, that it would plainly be impossible that any action or suit could be brought to a successful termination if alienations pendente lite were permitted. The correct mode of stating the doctrine is that pendente lite neither party to the litigation can alienate the property in dispute so as to affect his opponent. 40 C.L.J. 393=84 I.C. 490; 44 I.C. 726. The right treated by S. 52 is a statutory right, and the mere fact that one has made certain admission against his own interest, would not deprive him of the right which the statute gives him. 44 C.W.N. 783.

NATURE AND SCOPE OF THE DOCTRINE OF LIS PENDENS.—'Lis pendens' applies only to alienations inconsistent with the right which may be established by the decree in the suit. 40 M. 955=32 M.L.J. 374; 49 M.L.J. 68=1926 M. 50. See also 10 L.B.R. 43=52 I.C. 624; 8 O.W.N. 179=1931 O. 157. S. 52 only applies to rights of the other "party" involved in and arising out of the property which is the subject-matter of the suit. 64 C.L.J. 406=1938 C. 1. Where there was not a transfer but a dealing with property, and the object was prohibited by S. 52. Held, that the transaction could be avoided. 11 O.W.N. 390. A defendant will not be at liberty to erect buildings on a piece of land which forms the subject-matter of the litigation and thus compel the plaintiff to file another suit for the removal of the obstructions

[1] [Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, the pendency of a suit or proceeding shall be deemed to commence from the date of the presentation of the plaint or the institution of the proceeding in a Court of competent jurisdiction, and to continue until the suit or proceeding has been disposed of by a final decree or order and complete satisfaction or discharge of such decree or order has been obtained, or has become unobtainable by reason of the expiration of any period of limitation prescribed for the execution thereof by any law for the time being in force.]

which came into existence after the suit had been filed. To such a case S. 52 applies. 1934 L. 978. Lis pendens applies even if the pending suit ends in a consent decree on compromise, but the compromise must be honest and not collusive. 151 I.C. 70=1934 P. 270. S. 52 does not debar a transferee from one party to a suit during the pendency of the suit from impeaching the decree on the ground of fraud subsequent to the transfer. 22 O.C. 171=53 I.C. 572. For the doctrine of lis pendens to apply under S. 52, it is immaterial whether the subsequent purchaser against whom the doctrine is pleaded was a party to the pending suit or not. 8 B.R. 819. S. 52, though it is in general terms, limits its own operation. In order that the doctrine of lis pendens may operate, the suit must be a suit in which the rights to immovable property are in issue, the "order" must be an order relating to rights in such property, and the transaction which will give place, or be made subject, to the order of the Court must be one which derogates from the other party's rights to the property in suit. Any "order" which may be made therein is subject to this limitation, that is, the order of the Court must relate to rights which the parties claim or which they might have claimed in the property involved in the suit. The Court cannot create in a party proprietary rights on grounds distinct from the property itself. The doctrine does not extend to the case of any order whatsoever. It can only apply to orders appropriate to the suit having regard to the nature of the property involved and the nature of the proceedings. 64 C.L.J. 406=1938 Cal. 1. The words "any other party thereto" in S. 52, cannot be construed as meaning only any opposite party or any party who has opposing interest. The words are unconditional. 19 Pat.L.T. 35=1938 Pat. 487.

"PENDENCY."—This word is substituted for the words "active prosecution" occurring in the old section; and consequently the question discussed in the several rulings as to when a suit or proceeding begins to be actively prosecuted, and when it ends [see for instance. 42 A. 319=18 A.L.J 303; 4 Bur.L.T. 140=12 I.C. 849; 14 C.W.N. 322=5 I.C. 691; 40 I.C. 826 (M.); 57 I.C. 952 (N.)] does not arise under the present section. In the case of a mortgage suit, the lis continues after the decree nisi and the doctrine of lis pendens is applicable to proceedings to realise the mortgage after the decree for sale. The explanation added by the amendment Act XX of 1929 does not alter the law but only emphasises that the correct view of it is that taken by the Calcutta High Court in 2 C.L.J. 288; 10 P. 234=1931 P. 64. See also 130 I.C. 666=1931 M. 120: 7 O.W.N. 676=1930 Oudh 362; 1932 A.L.J. 54. But if the decree holder took no active steps to execute his decree for specific performance of an agreement to execute a mortgage for nearly two years, the doctrine cannot be brought into operation. 34 Bom.L.R. 117. As to the meaning of the word "contentious" in the old section, see 1930 A.L.J. 1286=1931 A. 45; 1930 M.W.N. 572; I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 452=1937 Nag. 400. Suit does not cease to be contentious, simply because it ends in compromise or ex parte decree. 122 I.C. 887=1930 A. 354. A foreclosure suit is a contentious one where the mortgaged property was directly and specifically in question and a ususfructuary mortgage executed by the mortgagee in favour of a third person pending the passing of the final decree with the permission of the Court comes within the old section. 55 A. 225=1933 A. 201.

PENDENCY OF SUIT IN WRONG COURT.—The doctrine of lis pendens cannot apply where the suit concerned was pending in a Court which had no jurisdiction to entertain it at all. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 895=39 Bom.L.R. 1287=1938 Bom. 121. Where during the Pendency of a suit by a minor for partition instituted in a wrong Court, the father executes a mortgage of the family property and subsequently the plaint is returned, for presentation to the proper Court and it is so presented after an interval of time and ultimately a decree for partition is passed, the mortgage is not effected by lis pendens. The suit that culminated in a decree for partition must be deemed to have been instituted only when the plaint was filed in the proper Court. 1940 N.L.J. 20=1940 Nag. 185.

"IMMOVABLE PROPERTY."—It is more than doubtful whether the principle of lis pendens applies to movable property, such as, in the particular case, money. 62 I.C. 900 (Pat.). See also 36 B. 189=14 Bom.L.R. 9=13 I.C. 849; 51 C. 1033. In 122 I.C. 189=1930 A. 380 it was held that the principle would be applicable to the transfer of a decree. The prinple of S. 52 may be applied to cases where the alienee of movables pendente lite has notice of the 'lis.' 1 L.W. 587=25 I.C. 133. Hut is immovable property. 9 I.C. 1 (C.). A mere claim for rent is not a right to immovable property within the provisions of S. 52. 90 I.C. 431=1926 C. 191. See also 1928 C. 441=55 C. 701=32 C.W.N. 268; 63 C. 1117=40 C.W.N. 683=1936 C. 279. A transfer of mortgage debt during a partition suit is a transfer of immovable property. 11 I.C. 492 (A.). See also 13 O.C. 50=5 I.C. 800.

MISDESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—It is a settled principle of law, that in order to attract the doctrine of lis pendens, the property in suit must be described with sufficient precision. If there is such misdescription of the property that its identity cannot be established, the doctrine of lis pendens cannot apply. What description will be sufficient in a particular case, would of course, depend largely on the facts of that case. 44 C.W.N. 783. See also 49 M.L.J. 68. One of the conditions laid down by S. 52, as creating lis pendens is that in a suit a right to immovable property must be directly and specifically in question. Since under the rules of procedure, immovable property in question in suit, has to be specifically described in the plaint, as far as possible, a misdescription of the property in the pleadings will prevent the operation of the doctrine of lis pendens. But if in spite of the misdescription the property is sufficiently identified, the doctrine will apply, and an alienee who is aware of the identity of the property will be affected by lis pendens in in spite of the misdescription. A mere mistake in describing the situation of the property or a mis-spelling of the name of the property would not affect the doctrine of lis pendens. 1937 Bom. 244. An error in the description cannot be of any materiality so long as the Court and the parties understand which property is in question. Fraud or collusion might alter the situation, but subject to such considerations, the description of the property is for the Court and for the parties concerned. 39 Bom.L.R 224=1937 Bom. 244.

"IS DIRECTLY AND SPECIFICALLY IN QUESTION."—In a suit to recover money borrowed by the deceased by sale of jewellery pledged and if necessary by sale of property of deceased in the hands of heirs, the property does not come specifically in question within S. 52 till an order is passed for sale of the property for the balance, and therefore the plaintiff cannot claim priority over mortgages created on the property by the sons before the passing of the order. 51 C. 1033 =84 I.C. 880. A plaint in a simple money suit with a prayer added to it that the decree which may be passed be declared to be a charge upon the shares of the defendants of that suit cannot be said to be a plaint involving a claim against immovable property. 165 I.C. 567= 1936 P. 571. A proceeding under O. 34, R. 6, C. P. Code, in which a simple money decree is passed is not a proceeding in which any right to immovable property is directly and therefore a transfer made during the pendency of such proceeding is not hit at by S. 52, T. P. Act. 7 O.W.N. 122=1930 O. 93.

The Registrar of Co-operative Societies acting under R. 14 (5-b) of the rules framed under the Co-operative Societies Act is a "Court" and a purchase of properties from the owner pending an application by a Co-operative Society to obtain an award from the Assistant Registrar on default of the mortgagor is one made pendente lite. 57 M. 426= 66 M.L.J. 90. See also 54 L.W. 435= (1941) 2 M.L.J. 588=1942 Mad. 24. In any case, when once the award has been put before a competent Civil Court in execution and the Court directs the sale of the mortgaged property, any purchase made during such proceedings is made pendente lite and affected by the doctrine of lis pendens. 57 M. 426. The principle is applicable to Punjab. 11 L. 258=1930 L. 356 (F.B.). Section is applicable to transfer by Muhammadans also. 124 I.C. 722=1930 A. 462.
